NAVY REVEALS HEAVY LOSSES TO KAMIKAZES

More Than 20 Ships Recently Sunk

BY HANSON W. BALDWIN
[New York Times Military Analyst]

New York, Aug. 11—Japanese suicide weapons in the last months of the war sank at least 20 naval vessels and damaged at least 30 and possibly scores of others. The Kamikazes caused more loss, damage, and personnel casualties to the American navy between the Leyte invasion last October and the present than in any previous period in its history.

Japanese suicide attacks probably were experienced by some ships one or two years ago. But they were not undertaken on a large scale until the Leyte invasion. The Japanese naval air force then commenced what it called "body ramming" tactics with "special attack" units.

The Japanese army air force then undertook the organization of suicide squadrons, and the semi-fanatical cult spread until a number of other suicide weapons were developed.

Okinawa Sees Peak

The Okinawa campaign witnessed the peak of the suicide attacks. That campaign was a great land struggle, but it also was the greatest sea-air battle ever fought, a decisive three-month day and night action, sometimes continuous for hour after hour, in which the navy suffered more casualties in ships and in personnel than in any previous war. But as the magnificent picture of the Okinawa campaign just released by the navy—"the fleet that came to stay"—shows, it was a battle won by the navy despite the Kamikazes. But the cost was high.

Since last October the number of naval vessels sunk or damaged by Kamikazes has been extremely high. No major units of the fleet were sunk, but many were damaged. Two or three battleships, and at times several big carriers were out of action because of damage from suicide planes.

Lighter Ships Suffer

The loss and damage to our light ships, such as destroyers and destroyer tenders, was specially severe. These ships have less antiaircraft gun power than larger vessels, and since they have no armor are vulnerable to attack. But a major reason why the Japanese concentrated against them is that these little craft bore the brunt of the burden of protecting the fleet and the transport and amphibious area.

Stationed sometimes as much as 60 miles from the heavy ships and our beachhead, destroyers, destroyer escorts, submarine chasers, and similar types, usually working in pairs, maintained a double screen and constant patrol around the fleet to protect it against air, surface, and subsurface attack. The light ships also provide a picket guard and picked up the approach-

Report Army Plans to Free 4 Million Men

SLASH NAVAL BUILDING

The government yesterday halted construction work on 95 naval vessels as a step in war material cutback program that is expected to total more than 12 billion dollars. Story on Page 11.

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11—Army discharges will soar to an estimated half a million a month soon after the official end of the war, informed military quarters predicted today.

The army is known to have a comprehensive V-J day plan for the accelerated release of millions of GIs to civilian life, but its official announcement has been withheld until victory becomes a fact.

According to authoritative estimates, however, the army's present force of more than 7 million men will be cut by at least 4 million, and perhaps 5 millions, during the first year of peace.

Navy to Be Slower

Discharges from the navy are expected to be at a slower rate, but heavy deductions in this service were likewise predicted within a few months after victory.

The navy, including the coast guard and marines, has about 4 million personnel, including 300,000 officers. Vice Adm. Horne, vice chief of naval operations, recently told congress the post-war fleet would need about 500,000 men and 50,000 officers, apparently exclusive of the marines and coast guard.

Navy Lacks Points System

Because the full fleet strength has been needed in the Pacific war, the navy has not invoked any discharge plan comparable to the army's point release system. Mustering out of sailors is thus expected to be slower than of soldiers in the next few months.

It was predicted that army discharges will be continued for some months, at least, on the basis of the point system, whereby 250,000 soldiers have been released since V-E day. The present score of 85 points for discharge eligibility will necessarily be greatly reduced to speed releases to the maximum number that can be brought home and mustered out.

Reliable estimates indicate that the increase in troop carrying ship and plane capacity resulting from the war's end will make possible the return to this country of at least 500,000 men a month from overseas duty.

400,000 Back This Month

Since V-E day, the return of soldiers from Europe has averaged 250,000 men monthly, and it is estimated the total for this month will reach nearly 400,000. Altho many of these have been retained in the service for Pacific duty, the victory over Japan would mean prompt discharge of virtually all men returning from Europe, plus additional releases of soldiers coming home from the Pacific.

At the same time, war department sources indicated the army plans to continue the drafting of young men for some months after V-J day. If this is permitted, new draftees would be used largely to replace men meriting discharge for length of service, age, or dependents.

Need Men for Occupation

Congress will have the ultimate say as to the size of both the post-war army and navy, but both units may be kept somewhat higher than normal peace time requirements dictate for several years after the war.

The army in early post-war years will be swelled by occupation duties in Germany and probably Japan.

Assuming a substantial American police force on Jap soil, estimates of the immediate post-war Pacific force indicate a total of more than 1 million men garrisoned from Tokyo back across the Pacific chain of island bases. To this must be added the German policing force, outlying units in the Canal Zone, Alaska, and other territories, and a home army of perhaps 500,000 to 1 million men. On the basis of unofficial estimates, the immediate post-war army would thus total 2½ to 3 million men, in the opinion of informed members of congress.

Congress Due to Meet Sept. 4; Program Hazy

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11—Congress will shortly be called back into session, probably on Sept. 4, to attempt the staggering task of restoring the nation's economy to the people after a war in which free enterprise has almost disappeared in the regimentation of burocratic rule.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.], hurrying back from an interrupted vacation, announced after a conference with President Truman today that Sept. 4 will be the date if pending legislation can be prepared for consideration by that time.

House Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] had already assured Mr. Truman of coöperation in any plan made by the President and Barkley for calling congress back before Oct. 8, when its recess had been scheduled to expire.

Program May Not Be Ready

While the impending end of the war with Japan has brought the nation up against problems unprecedented in history, some members of congress who have remained in the capital privately expressed the belief that the haste in reconvening congress will do little toward solving those problems.

They said the Democratic leadership has no concrete program to present, and attributed much of the pressure for congress' return to radio commentators who fear that the super New Dealers will fail to realize their dreams of continuing their planned economy if the nation demonstrates that it can return to a peace time footing without them.

In the capital hysteria attending the end of the war, Barkley offered five proposals for immediate legislation. Two of these concerned social welfare and a third the continuation of war time agencies.

One was a full employment bill intended to provide jobs thru federal works and other government sponsored programs in the face of the Republican insistence that American industry will furnish jobs for all who wish to work if freed from government interference.

Another was legislation for government subsidization of states to enable them to raise unemployment insurance payments to $25 a week.

Surplus Control a Topic

High on Barkley's program was legislation to control the disposition of surplus war material amounting to 100 billion dollars—enough, experts say, to upset the country's return to normal economy if not judiciously managed. Barkley would replace the present three man surplus property board with a single administrator. The possibilities for mismanagement are so great in the case of surpluses that even Democrats of congress have warned the administration it may face a scandal dwarfing that of Teapot Dome unless steps are taken at once to protect the taxpayers' interests.

Barkley said the bill to reorganize the executive branch of the government would also be considered in the emergency period, but indicated there would be no hurry about cutting taxes.

Barkley told reporters that he and the President are agreed that there is "no use" calling congress back until there is legislation ready for consideration. The majority leader said he would call on senate committees to speed work on legislation they are now studying, and indicated that McCormack would take similar action in the house.

ENGLAND IS FINISHED, RECTOR WARNS; URGES MIGRATION TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Aug. 11—Taking a very dim view of the election of a Labor government and the dumping of Winston Churchill, the Rev. W. J. Allan Price, rector of Bromborough, Cheshire, today charged thru his parish magazine that "England has passed its zenith as a nation. We have lost our soul, have no perception of spiritual values, and are rolling down the precipitous incline of self-indulgence, pleasure, and irresponsibility."

"We are going headlong to perdition and oblivion; as a nation we are finished," he warned.

"Any young man or woman under 30 who has any finer feelings of the spirit of enterprise, love for freedom and liberty, a sense of ambition, thrift, prudence, or responsibility, any hatred for equating every one with the wastrel, would do well to emigrate to America or South Africa," he said.

SUGAR INCREASE WILL BE SMALL IF THERE IS ONE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Ending of the war with Japan would give civilians "at best, only a slight increase in sugar for some time," a spokesman for the agriculture department said today.

"If the war folds soon and the army is reduced rather rapidly, it is conceivably possible the sugar allowance for civilians will be increased a small amount," he told reporters.

In 1944, civilians were allotted 24 pounds per person while industrial use was set at 80 per cent of the 1941 use. In 1945, successive cuts have brought the civilian allowance to a rate of 15 pounds and industrial use to 50 per cent of 1941. Home canning allowances also have been slashed.

'Peace' News Brings Death, Injury to GIs

MARSEILLE, France, Aug. 11 (AP)—U. S. soldiers awaiting redeployment to the Pacific cut loose today in wild, premature peace celebrations in two of three mammoth staging areas. The demonstrations sent at least 14 to the hospitals with gun shot wounds.

The Delta base provost marshal's office said that on one staging area equipped to handle 70,000 men, a demonstration broke out shortly after midnight as hundreds of soldiers left an open air movie theater. They saw "Japs quit" headlined in an extra edition of the area newspaper. Forbidden guns and ammunition appeared from nowhere, shots echoed, flares were set off and the soldiers milled around shooting, the officer said.

Bullets Enter Tent

Military police, moving in fast, were unable to restore order for more than an hour and a half, it added, and several soldiers were found suffering minor gunshot wounds. One had his shoulder grazed by a spent bullet as he sat reading in his tent. Another was shot while he lay on his cot.

A similar outbreak took place at Arles staging area, which is equipped to handle 100,000 men and is situated 70 miles from Marseille, hub of United States redeployment activities in southern France.

Prisoners Wounded

Six men were wounded here—four of them Americans and two German prisoners of war. The provost marshal's office did not indicate how the Germans were wounded. More than 100 of them are used as laborers near the huge dock area.

Tonight the only soldiers on the streets were those with special passes, altho general orders usually permit five per cent of the camp's personnel to visit the city each night.

Six Killed on Okinawa

OKINAWA, Aug. 11 (AP)—At least six men were killed and 30 were injured by falling anti-aircraft shell fragments and bullets in last night's spectacular display of rockets, ack-ack, and flares celebrating Japan's surrender offer, a survey disclosed today. The half hour demonstration by forces on Okinawa was quelled only when island commanders ordered the air raid alert sounded, and then warned the men over the radio to cease firing because of the danger to lives.

ACCEPTANCE IS CONSIDERED CERTAIN; AMERICAN TO BE OCCUPATION CHIEF

Big Four's Answer Sent to Tokyo by Bern Envoy

BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 11 (AP)—Japanese Minister Shunichi Kase received the allied reply to Japan's peace bid from the Swiss political (state) department today and said it was transmitted to Tokyo at 11:15 p. m. (4:15 p. m. Chicago time).

Kase and the chief of the political department's foreign division, Dr. Walter Stucki, conferred for about 30 minutes before Kase left the parliament building.

Stucki had called him there after announcing that the political department had received the communication from Washington, D. C., and decoded it.

Jap Declines Comment

The reply was received here at 9:05 p. m. and delivered to Kase at 9:25 p. m.

Kase declined to comment. "I'm in a hurry," he said, dashing to his automobile, which was parked in front of the parliament building.

It was Kase who delivered to Switzerland yesterday the Japanese plea for transmission to the United States and Chinese governments.

Switzerland acts in Japan for the United States and Chinese governments while Sweden is the neutral protecting power in Japan for Britain and the soviet union.

London Has No Statement

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Britain withheld official comment tonight on the Washington, D. C., announcement of the four big powers' reply to Japan's surrender offer, which said that the authority of the emperor would have to be subject to allied powers.

The announcement reached London too late for regular editions of afternoon newspapers, and the latest developments were disseminated by radio and word of mouth to Londoners, recovering from yesterday's celebration.

Prime Minister Attlee left his office during the afternoon, presumably for his country home at Chequers. Both his office and the foreign ministry said no statement on the Washington announcement was in sight.

Expect Answer in Day

Diplomatic circles here advanced two opinions why the reply came from Washington. One was that the United States had been given the privilege of making the announcement because America has pulled by far the biggest oar in the Pacific.

The second was that the final telegraphic agreement between the four powers was completed in Washington and consequently was announced from there.

While official quarters declined to speculate on whether Japan would accept the united nations' offer, it was generally expected that Japan would give her answer within 24 hours.

Britons waited tonight for official announcement of the surrender before plunging into a V-J day celebration, but jubilant

BULLETINS

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Japanese Domei news agency said in a broadcast Tokyo dispatch dated Sunday, Aug. 12, that Foreign Minister Togo was received in audience today by Emperor Hirohito and "was understood to have reported to the throne" on matters under his jurisdiction.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Tokyo newspaper Asahi in an article in its Sunday, Aug. 12, edition called upon all Japanese "to do his or her part as his majesty's subjects in fullest obedience of the august wish of his majesty" and to maintain national unity "if worst comes to worst." The Domei agency reported this tonight in a wireless dispatch recorded by the FCC.

LONDON, Aug. 12 (Sunday)—(Reuters)—Singapore radio is broadcasting a proclamation by Japanese War Minister Gen. Anami "reaffirming grim determination of the imperial army to fight the sacred war to the bitter end."

LONDON, Aug. 12 (Sunday)—(AP)—Reuters news agency quoted the Chungking radio today as saying the Tokyo radio had reported that all military operations had been canceled.

JAP SURRENDER WOULD RELEASE 16,700 AMERICANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Surrender of Japan would mean liberation for approximately 16,700 Americans interned in the home islands or in enemy occupied territory, records of the war, navy, and state departments disclosed today.

These and other allied nation internees would be transported by Japan to "places of safety, as directed, where they can quickly be placed aboard allied transports," under terms of today's reply to the Jap surrender proposal.

American figures on interned nationals are incomplete because representatives of the International Red Cross or neutral powers have been unable to visit some Japanese occupied areas, the state department said. Japan has 13,330 American war prisoners—9,605 army, 2,036 navy, and 1,689 marine corps.

There are 3,339 American civilian internees in Jap held territory, with 176 in Japan proper. Among the 3,339 are 689 women, according to war department statistics.

BRITISH WARNED DEMOBILIZATION WON'T BE FAST

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Labor ministry said today that people who anticipate an immediate speed-up in British demobilization in the days directly following Japan's surrender may be disappointed.

"Until the war in the far east is definitely over and until the government have had an opportunity of reviewing the whole man power situation and requirements of fighting services, it is impossible to announce whether any changes [in the demobilization rate] can be made," the ministry said.

MacArthur Likely to Be Chosen as Military Boss

ATOM BOMB PICTURES

The first pictures of the atom bombing of the Japanese city of Hiroshima, taken from army air force reconnaissance planes, appear on pages 4 and 5.

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11—President Truman was confidently expected to proclaim tomorrow as the day of victory over Japan and to designate it a day of prayer as the nation tonight awaited the conclusion of peace.

The end of the war—after three years, 35 weeks, and four days—became almost a certainty when the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China agreed to accept the Japanese surrender with Emperor Hirohito kept on the throne but completely subject to the authority of the allied powers.

Four Allies Agree

The insistence that Hirohito be shorn of authority was sent to Tokyo thru Switzerland on behalf of the allies after consultation of the four powers brought agreement on acceptance of the abject surrender.

Japan's acquiescence was expected momentarily. This would bring an order to "cease firing" and the call for thanksgiving, which Mr. Truman probably will sound in a radio address to the nation.

The White House said an American would be named allied supreme commander to accept Japan's surrender and to organize the occupation of the enemy homeland.

MacArthur Likely Choice

There was no indication who would be designated to this post, but it was generally believed that the honor would go to Gen. MacArthur.

He is known to have advocated dealing with the emperor in order to guarantee complete surrender and to guard against chaotic piecemeal surrender thruout Japan and territory held by the Japanese, which would cost thousands of American lives.

Gen. Marshall also was considered a possibility for the nomination as supreme commander. His appointment would constitute recognition of his work as army chief of staff.

Nimitz Mentioned

Fleet Adm. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, also was mentioned as a candidate for the nomination in recognition of the role the navy has played in winning the war in the Pacific. Fleet Adm. Leahy, chief of staff to the President, likewise was mentioned as a possible entry.

Except for the provision to name a supreme commander, the winding up of the war with Japan would be civil rather than military in character, in contrast to the surrender of Germany.

Victory in Europe was not proclaimed until after military representatives had signed a surrender May 7 in a little red schoolhouse at Reims. Gen Eisenhower, allied supreme commander, did not sign the document. It was signed by Lt. Gen. Walter Bedel Smith, Eisenhower's chief of staff; Gen. Ivan Susloparov of the Russian army; Gen. Francois Seves of the French army, and Gen Alfred Jodl of the German army.

The allied reply to Japan insisted that the emperor's future be determined at a free election "by the freely expressed will of the Japanese people" and that the emperor carry out in person every phase of surrender as dictated by allied commanders. It also insisted that prisoners of war and civilian internees be removed immediately to places of safety.

Byrnes Signs Reply

The allied reply was signed by State Secretary Byrnes. It was delivered to Max Grassli, charge d' affaires of the Swiss legation here, for transmittal to the Japanese government via Switzerland.

Before the note was drawn Byrnes conferred with President Truman, who worked on surrender developments until midnight and returned to his desk at 5:45 a. m. Chicago time. The White House reported that the chief executive had not been in communication with other allied leaders by telephone but had conducted the negotiations thru regular diplomatic channels. Nonetheless, he played a major role in the consultations of the four powers.

The allied reply was composed in the early morning and was made public at the state department almost on the stroke of 10 a. m. Chicago time. It had been delivered to the Swiss charge d'affaires half an hour earlier.

The note was taken to the rambling chalet type structure which houses Swiss officials here by Woodruff Wallner, 36, a foreign service officer, who is assigned to the Swiss desk at the state department.

He stepped out of a state department automobile, entered the legation shortly before 9:30, and handed the note to the Swiss official almost immediately.

Message Sent to Bern

Grassli dispatched the message to the Swiss foreign office in Bern for transmittal to the Japanese minister there. The Jap minister yesterday presented his government's offer of surrender to the Swiss foreign office for relay to the United States and to China. The offer to Britain and Russia was transmitted by way of Sweden.

Altho the Japanese government possibly did not receive the official text for hours, the four power decision was made available to Jap officials as soon as it was released to the American public.

So that enemy leaders could formulate an early reply and so that the machinery of surrender could move more quickly, the allied note was broadcast over short wave stations beamed at Japan in San Francisco, Honolulu, and on Saipan.

Service Outposts Get Text

The text was aimed at Japan by both short and medium wave government broadcasting stations. Medium wave broadcasts are received in Japan for the most part on home receiving sets and short waves are largely restricted so that they can be received only by government officials.

The text was cabled to army and navy outposts in the Pacific against the possibility that a decision might be made to bombard Jap territory with pamphlets containing the allied agreement.

After the note had been started for Japan, the White House and the state department leaned back to await the reply. No hitch was expected, and officials were confident the Japs would acquiesce readily.

Considered Matter of Hours

The rapid allied agreement to accept surrender with retention of Hirohito as a figurehead gave the nation notice that final surrender was considered to be a matter of hours rather than of days. It had been felt that disagreement among the allies on retention of the emperor might delay the end of the war for several days.

The French government asked Byrnes to be associated with the United States, Russia, Britain, and China in the signing of any act of surrender with Japan. Henri Bonnet, French ambassador, delivered the request orally in a visit to the state department.

It was learned steady progress was made in the allied exchange of views on the surrender and that the diagreement expected in some quarters did not materialize, as it was recognized that the United States should have the major voice where she had made by far the major contribution to victory.

There were reports in some circles that Moscow and Chungking would insist that the emperor must go. The internationalist bloc in congress was insistent that the war go on until the emperor would be "hung by his toes."

Condemned by Military

The military command was united in condemnation of this position, holding that insistence on the blood of the emperor would take a heavy toll of American lives and prolong the war needlessly for months.

The military counsel prevailed, and it was decided to leave a way open to the Japanese people to keep their emperor if they so decide at a free election. It also was provided that Japan eventually might return to the family of nations with the establishment of a peace loving government.

Political counselors also urged acceptance of the Japanese surrender in advising Mr. Truman that delay in the surrender would bring a wave of protest from the country that the life of the emperor was not worth a single drop of American blood.

It also was said that prolongation of the war would bring immediate attack of the administration on the ground that the delay had been approved in order to give Russia time to advance in Manchuria and Korea in order to strengthen her reported claims to those territories.

Further, it was said, the impromptu jubilant celebrations in Pacific outposts at the news of Japan's acknowledgement of complete defeat and general rejoicing at home constituted evidence that men at the front and the folks at home were overwhelmingly for ending the war without regard to the status of the emperor.

The reports of disagreement fostered in the internationalist and radical circles were completely discredited/ by the American note, which was acclaimed widely as paving the way for speedy end of the war.

OWI Denies Rumors

The office of war information issued the following statement tonight:

"Various rumors that the federal communications commission has recorded a Tokyo broadcast, or a Chungking broadcast quoting Tokyo, to the effect that Japan has rejected allied surrender terms are without foundation. The FCC has recorded no such broadcast.

"Another report, to the effect that the Japanese war minister has called on Japanese forces to continue the fight, appears to be a garbled version of an appeal he issued to the troops yesterday, three hours before Domei transmitted its surrender offer to the United States.

"At that time he called on them to 'fight to the last this holy war for the defense of the divine nation' against Russia. It should be noted that Domei reported last night that the surrender offer had been made by a unanimous vote of the full cabinet, including the war and navy ministers."

Texts of U. S. and Jap Notes in Surrender Negotiations

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Following is the text of the reply of State Secretary Byrnes to Max Grassli, charge d'affaires of the Swiss legation in Washington, relative to the Japanese surrender proposal:

"I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your note of Aug. 10, and in reply to inform you that the President of the United States has directed me to send to you for transmission by your government to the Japanese government the following message on behalf of the governments of the United States, the United Kingdom, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, and China.

U. S. Position Stated

"With reply to the Japanese government's message accepting the terms of the Potsdam proclamation but containing the statement, 'with the understanding that the said declaration does not comprise any demand which prejudices the prerogatives of his majesty as a sovereign ruler,' our position is as follows:

"From the moment of surrender the authority of the emperor and the Japanese government to rule the state shall be subject to the supreme commander of the allied powers, who will take such steps as he deems proper to effectuate the surrender terms.

"The emperor will be required to authorize and ensure the signature by the government of Japan and the Japanese imperial general headquarters of the surrender terms necessary to carry out the provisions of the Potsdam declaration, and shall issue his commands to all the Japanese military, naval, and air authorities and to all of the forces under their control wherever located to cease active operations and to surrender their arms, and to issue such other orders as the supreme commander may require to give effect to the surrender terms.

Prisoner Shift Demanded

"Immediately upon the surrender, the Japanese government shall transport prisoners of war and civilian internees to places of safety, as directed, where they can quickly be placed aboard allied transports.

"The ultimate form of government of Japan shall, in accordance with the Potsdam declaration, be established by the freely expressed will of the Japanese people.

"The armed forces of the allied powers will remain in Japan until the purposes set forth in the Potsdam declaration are achieved."

NOTE FROM SWISS

Following is the note received by the United States from the Swiss government Friday relative to the Japanese surrender proposal. It was addressed to Byrnes and was signed by Grassli.

"I have the honor to inform you that the Japanese minister to Switzerland, upon instructions received from his government, has requested the Swiss political department to advise the government of the United States of America of the following.

Jap Wishes Explained

"'In obedience to the gracious command of his majesty the emperor who, ever anxious to enhance the cause of world peace, desires earnestly to bring about a speedy termination of hostilities with a view to saving mankind from the calamities to be imposed upon them by further continuation of the war, the Japanese government several weeks ago asked the soviet government, with which neutral relations then prevailed, to render good offices in restoring peace vis-a-vis the enemy powers. Unfortunately, these efforts in the interest of peace having failed, the Japanese government in conformity with the august wish of his majesty to restore the general peace and desiring to put an end to the untold sufferings entailed by war as quickly as possible, have decided upon the following:

"'The Japanese government are ready to accept the terms enumerated in the joint declaration which was issued at Potsdam on July 26, 1945, by the heads of the governments of the United States, Great Britain, and China, and later subscribed by the soviet government, with the understanding that the said declaration does not comprise any demand which prejudices the prerogatives of his majesty as a sovereign ruler.

Similar Requests Sent

"'The Japanese government sincerely hope that this understanding is warranted and desire keenly that an explicit indication to that effect will be speedily forthcoming.'

"In transmitting the above message the Japanese minister added that his government begs the government of the United States to forward its answer thru the intermediary of Switzerland. Similar requests are being transmitted to the governments of great Britain and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic thru the intermediary of Sweden, as well as to the government of China thru the intermediary of Switzerland. The Chinese minister at Bern has already been informed of the foregoing thru the channel of the Swiss political department.

"Please be assured that I am at your disposal at any time to accept for and forward to my government the reply of the government of the United States."

JAP DEAL WITH CHINESE WAR LORD CHARGED

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The Communist New China news agency charged last night that the Japanese had made a deal with a Chinese war lord in Shansi province, whereby they hoped to "retain an island of Japanese influence in north China, even in defeat."

The dispatch, transmitted by wireless from the communist capital at Yenan, said Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, former governor of Shansi, had gone over to the Japanese with armies believed to number several hundred thousand men.

Yen had ruled Shansi for 20 years, maintaining only loose ties with the Chinese central government, when the Japanese invaded the province in 1937. He retreated to the Shansi mountains and from an impregnable position was reported to have tried many times, without success, to negotiate with both sides. He had been accused often in recent months of collaborating with the Japanese.

ALLIES' ANSWER SENT TO TOKYO BY BERN ENVOY

Picadilly Circus, war time London's "Little America" where the GI's staged a victory carnival last night, was an island of turbulence.

Two working days following the official declaration will be government-proclaimed holidays. Only transport and other essential public services will operate. Britain's ministries issued directives advising the nation how to "let joy be unconfined" during the celebration. The home office said local councils should arrange to "provide bands, light bonfires, and take other appropriate means of celebrating this historic occasion."

Russians Told of Reply

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Russian people were told tonight by the Moscow radio that the allies had replied to the Japanese peace offer. Opinion was that Japan must accept the allied terms.

Cheer Chiang Kai-shek

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two hundred members of the people's political council, an organization representing millions which recently asked that Emperor Hirohito be branded a war criminal, called upon Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today and gave him a five minute ovation.

The National Herald, organ of the Chinese foreign office, said that Japan's peace bid is "entirely unacceptable" because it stipulates retention of Emperor Hirohito.

Calls Emperor "War Criminal"

The newspaper Ta Kung Pao said "the emperor is a war criminal and should be handed over as such to the allies while the Japanese imperial dynasty, being a fascist institution, should be overthrown."

The army newspaper Sao Tang Pao said the question of whether Hirohito is a war criminal was up to the allies to decide.

Chinese spokesmen for many years have said that Hirohito should be removed and there was nothing to indicate that Japan's peace bid had effected a change of heart.

Australia Celebrates

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 12 [Sunday] (AP)—Japan's peace bid touched off wild rejoicing thruout Australia. shop windows were smashed in celebrations at Melbourne Monday and Tuesday were declared national holidays.

[A Reuters dispatch from Melbourne said the Australian government's attitude toward the peace offer, as expressed in the highest quarters, was that Emperor Hirohito was not entitled to immunity or exemption from his responsibility for the war and for Japanese war crimes. This has been the official Australian attitude for some time].

TOKYO HINTS BOY PRINCE MAY BE NEW EMPEROR

People Not Told Nation Sues for Peace

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 11 (AP)—The Japanese people were kept in ignorance that their leaders were suing for peace, but Tokyo newspapers appeared today to be paving the way for a surrender announcement and Nippon's boy crown prince suddenly was ushered into prominence.

Suggesting the possibility that Hirohito's only son, 11 year old Akihito, is being groomed to succeed his father at some date not too distant, a program of publicity seemed to have been launched in his behalf.

Publish Pictures of Prince

The Tokyo radio announced that Saturday morning newspapers carried pictures of the crown prince and told of his interest—and anxiety over the air raids—in the war.

Endeavoring to picture Akihito as democratic, one broadcast said the boy dressed and carried on the same activities as his classmates at the peers' school.

"His imperial highness even joins in cleaning the classroom," reported Domei agency.

The reported fanfare followed by 24 hours the creation of a special household staff for the young prince, whose birth Dec. 23, 1933, caused rejoicing thru the empire. Hirohito's other three children are girls.

Hirohito named the heir to the throne Tsugu. His court ceremonial name is Akihito.

The broadcast was one of numerous recorded in the United States, but in the daily outpouring, the FCC reported that at no time were the Japanese people informed that their rulers were trying to quit the war.

Shuffle Homefront Policies

The newspaper Yomiuri, in an editorial broadcast to Asia seemed to be preparing the people for surrender when it said "a nation does not have the right to commit suicide."

There was a sharp shuffling up of homefront policies when it was announced that the Japanese cabinet had taken from the army and navy control of the people's volunteer corps, which was set up as a civilian suicide organization to defend the nation against allied invasion.

There was no explanation of the move. A month ago Tokyo boasted that the corps numbered 1,000,000 persons in each of the 46 Japanese prefectures.

AID TO EUROPE MUST BE STEPPED UP, GREW SAYS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special]—Relief shipments to Europe from this country must be increased if famine and chaos are to be averted, Undersecretary of State Grew said tonight in a state department broadcast on foreign policy. Speaking of food, coal and transportation, Grew said:

"The first responsibility lies with our government itself. We must find a way to allocate more of our shipping to getting these relief supplies to Europe. We must also sell them enough coal and raw materials—such as cotton and wool, which we can well spare—to help get their factories running, so they can stand on their own feet. We must do all this not only to prevent famine and chaos on the other side of the Atlantic but in the interests of peace and future prosperity in the United States.

"The whole European economy is starved for coal. Europe needs 30 million tons of coal this winter, not for fuel in their homes. They need it first of all for transportation and industry.

"We're not interested in giving relief to the Germans. They brought this on themselves."

HOSIERY MAKER EXPECTS NYLONS BY NEW YEAR'S

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Nylons by New Year's is the prediction of Roy E. Tilles, president of the Gotham Hosiery company.

Asserting that nylon hosiery would be back in stores about four and a half months after the release of that material by the government, Tilles said in a statement.

"Assuming the government meant what it said when it promised to release nylon immediately after the conclusion of the war, women can expect to be wearing nylon stockings in time to celebrate a victorious new year."

More Woolens Expected

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] told reporters today he expected the war production board to lift restrictions on the manufacture and distribution of woolen textiles early next week.

O'Mahoney made the announcement after conferring with officials of the WPB and the OPA. He said the lifting of the order would permit increased production of woolen mills to enter civilian trade.

THREE KILLED BY ROCK FALL IN IOWA MINE

Fort Dodge, Ia., Aug. 11 (AP)—Three miners were killed today when they were trapped under a fall of rock in the gypsum mine of the Certain-Teed Products corporation two miles southeast of here.

The men are John Pobjecky, Ben Davis, and Leonard Peart.

F. L. Flinn, superintendent of the plant, said the section of the mine was dynamited last night and the three miners went in this morning to move the blasted rock. A part of the mine roof fell in, burying them.

HOW TOKYO GOT ALLIED ANSWER TO PEACE PLEA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The Japanese government probably learned of the allied statement on Tokyo's offer to surrender the minute it was released to the world, but it was anybody's guess when Nippon would be notified officially.

When the enemy has made up his mind, he presumably will answer thru the same channels that were used in making the offer—unless he decides not to reply at all.

Nine distinct steps were required to route the statement from Washington to Tokyo thru diplomatic channels.

How It Was Transacted

This somewhat laborious process, together with lack of knowledge on effectiveness of radio transmission from Switzerland to Japan, made it impossible for American officials to predict when the allied message would be placed formally before the Tokyo government.

Here is how it was transacted:

1. Woodruff Wallner of the American state department Swiss desk went to the Swiss legation by official automobile and delivered the message of Secretary Byrnes at 9:30 a. m., Chicago time.

2. Legation officials transcribed the message into diplomatic code. Presumably this required only a few minutes, because a Swiss official said the message was on its way half an hour after it had been delivered.

Message Sped by Motorcycle

3. Motorcycle messenger boy from the Radio Corporation of America rushed the message to that company's Washington office, where it was transmitted at "urgent" speed to New York.

4. Having diplomatic immunity from American censorhip, the message presumably was radioed at "urgent speed" from New York to Bern, Switzerland. Unless codifying lengthened the 350 word message considerably, it probably reached Bern in little more than a minute, because high speed transmission to that point averages 400 words a minute, RCA officials said.

5. The RCA in Bern then would deliver the message to the Swiss political department, which corresponds to the American state department.

Message Goes to Japs

6. The message then would be decoded and rushed to the Japanese legation.

7. Presumably it then would be transcribed into code again.

8. Radio transmission to Japan would follow.

9. On delivery at the Japanese foreign office, the statement would have to be decoded again before being delivered to the Japanese cabinet.

The enemy apparently wanted to know the answer without waiting to get it thru diplomatic channels.

Since yesterday, government monitors have noted the absence of "jamming" of broadcasts from the American station on Saipan. This led to a belief that Japanese leaders wanted to know as soon as possible the reaction of the Big Four to its surrender offer.

The reply began moving on broadcasts beamed to Japan immediately after the issuance of Byrnes' statement today.

UNITED NATIONS RELIEF TO SHIP FOOD TO CHINA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Plans for the shipment of 800,000 tons of supplies to war ridden China were disclosed tonight by the united nations relief and rehabilitation commission.

These supplies, UNRRA said in a statement, are part of a larger program it has been preparing to aid China after the defeat of Japan.

Acting Director General Roy F. Hendrickson said UNRRA will take over military stocks now in the Pacific theater—food, medical supplies, trucks and other equipment and send experts to Thailand, Burma, and other countries to obtain foodstuffs for famine threatened areas. At least 300 trained UNRRA relief technicians will be sent to the far east, principally China, he said.

"UNRRA will not assist Japan," Hendrickson said, "but it may be necessary to send experts into that country to help in the repatriation of imported slave laborers, of which some estimates indicate there may be more than 1,000,000."

$3,620,000 Value of Fort PW's Work in 7 Months

German prisoners of war at Fort Sheridan performed work valued at approximately $3,620,000 from Jan. 1 thru July 28, Brig. Gen. John T. Pierce, commanding general, said yesterday. Of this amount, about $2,035,000 was paid into the United States treasury by civilian employers who obtained the services of prisoners after the war man power commission certified that civilian labor was not available.

SECOND A-BOMB RENDERS FIRST ONE OBSOLETE!

More Potent and Easier to Construct

GUAM, Aug. 12 [Sunday]—(AP)—Brig. Gen. Thomas F. Farrell, commander of America's atomic bomb operations in the Pacific, said yesterday that the A-bomb which struck Nagasaki packed more punch than the first one dropped on Hiroshima.

Sgt. R. C. Gallagher

Maj. C. W. Sweeney

Farrell said the second bomb not only was more potent, but made obsolete the No. 1 parcel of death, and was less difficult to construct. The Strategic Air Forces announced that 30 per cent of Nagasaki had been destroyed.

Maj. Charles W. Sweeney, pilot of the big Super Fortress which carried out the attack, said:

"The turbulence from the blast at Nagasaki was greater than at Hiroshima."

Bomb Makes Crater

Reconnaissance photographs showed that destruction at Hiroshima was greater, however. Gen. Spaatz' strategic command said 60 per cent of Hiroshima was destroyed. Farrell did not elaborate on the increased potency of the bomb or its manufacture, size, or weight, nor on the comparative destruction handed the two cities.

Post-bombing pictures of Nagasaki showed a great crater where the bomb struck. No crater appeared in the Hiroshima photographs. The Japanese claimed both missiles were dropped by parachute and that the Hiroshima bomb exploded before it struck the ground.

Spaatz suggested that the geography and topography of the two cities would have a bearing on the results of the bombs.

Much of Nagasaki's war facilities—shipping, aircraft and steel industries, rail, naval, and other vital installations—were either completely wrecked or heavily damaged.

Steel Plant Wrecked

The Tokyo radio issued contrasting reports. One said the damage was "slight," the other that damage was extensive, with many lives lost.

Spaatz said the area of destruction in the built up area ranged on both sides of the Urakami river for a distance of two miles, with a maximum width of seven-tenths of a mile. Included was the great Mitsubishi steel plant, which produced 200,000 tons of finished steel products each year and was a source of naval torpedoes, and the Mitsubishi-Urakami ordnance plant, which turned out 4,800 aerial torpedoes annually.

Other destruction percentages included:

Urakami gas works, 90; an engine works, 65; Kyushu gas works, 50; the Nagasaki-Dejima wharves and railroad yards, 25 each; the Nagasaki station and freight yard, 20.

Two other small industrial plants still were burning and smoke-clouded.

"Beyond Imagination"

Scientists who were responsible for the manufacture of the bombs and the crews of the B-29s that dropped them agreed that the feat was almost beyond their imaginations.

"I knew ahead of time—ever since last fall—what I had to do," said Maj. Thomas W. Ferebee of Mocksville, N. C., bombardier in the B-29 which dropped the first bomb. "I felt a tremendous responsibility and I knew I must not fail. Right on the target I let the atomic bomb go, and to say I was very relieved when it was gone is putting it mildly."

Capt. Kermit K. Beahan, Houston, Tex., bombardier in the plane that bombed Nagasaki, said his trip was pretty rough because of bad weather, which forced his plane to abandon the primary target after three runs and to head for Nagasaki as a secondary target.

Scientists Elated

"Even the secondary target was covered by clouds when we approached," Behan said. "But we headed for a small opening over town. In the last few seconds we were able to see the target, and I let go with the bomb."

Scientists were elated at the success of the bombing. Dr. C. P. Baker of Ithaca, N. Y., formerly of the Cornell university staff, said:

"If this means the end of the war it is a wonderful realization of the work we put in on the project."

The scientists who were in charge of the bomb here supervised the loading when the bombs were ready for the flights.

Chicagoan in Crew

The Super Fortress crew that bombed Hiroshima, all decorated for the feat, included Sgt. Wyatt E. Duzenbury, Lansing, Mich. In the plane which bombed Nagasaki was Sgt. Raymond C. Gallagher, 5727 S. Mozart st., Chicago.

Sgt. Gallagher said he put on goggles as instructed and faced inside the plane so as not to be blinded by the flash, but that he looked downward afterward and saw the shock waves coming up toward the ship as tho some one had dropped a pebble into still water. When the waves hit the plane it sounded like flak, he said.

Scientists who worked on the bomb in the Marianas included Bernard Waldman, South Bend, Ind.

ONE OF FIVE BROTHERS

Sgt. Raymond C. Gallagher, 23, Chicagoan who was among the crew which dropped the second atomic bomb on Nagasaki, is one of five brothers in the service, four of whom have seen action. Christine Gallagher, sister of the boys, said at the family home at 5727 S. Mozart st. yesterday that she knew the sergeant had been engaged in highly secret work during his training at Wendover field, Utah. He left there to go overseas six weeks ago, she said. The boys are the sons of John Gallagher, who resides at the Mozart street address with his daughter.

Church Rites, Store Closings, Joys in Reason to Mark V-J

Chicago's plans for V-J day were complete last night. Whenever it comes, today or later, the news of peace in the Pacific will be welcomed with church services and will find business organizations and the city authorities prepared to let the celebration run to reasonable limits.

Should today be the day of victory, regular services in all churches are expected to be devoted to its observance. If it is deferred to a week day, many churches, including the chapels on university campuses, have arranged special services.

To Close Drinking Places

Police Commissioner Allman said that drinking places would be closed for 24 hours after the victory announcement. This was done by authority of a special ordinance for the day of victory in Europe. The council has not passed such a measure for V-J day, but Allman said he would order the bars closed. Anticipating a more tumultuous occasion than the V-E celebration, Allman said 864 policemen would be brought into the loop.

Retail stores plan to close for a day unless a proclamation by the President fixes a longer or shorter period of observance, in which event the stores will conform. Under the schedule of the Chicago Retail Merchants association, the stores will be closed tomorrow if the news comes today. If victory comes on a week day, the stores will close at once for the remainder of the day. If it comes before noon, they will open the following day; if it comes after noon, they will remain closed the next day.

Plant Workers Urged to Stick

The Illinois Bell Telephone company ordered all regular operators to stand by for possible duty today. The heaviest day's business in the company's history was the unofficial V-E day, May 7, when 6,265,346 calls originated in Chicago. On the official day, May 8, there were 5,320,920 calls.

War workers will be expected to stay on the job, said William H. Spencer, regional war man power director. Some plants announced to their employes yesterday that work will go on as usual.

An undercurrent of excitement was noticeable yesterday but there were no signs of premature celebration. Shopping crowds were normal. Newsstands did a brisk business with persons eager to follow developments, and liquor stores reported a heavy trade.

Archbishop Spellman Begins Pacific Trip Today

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—The chancery office of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of New York said tonight that Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York, military vicar of the armed forces, will leave tomorrow for a tour of the Pacific war theater. The archbishop returned to New York tonight from Washington, D. C., where he conferred with President Truman.

LOSES WATCH, $2.50 IN HOLDUP

EVEN G-2 WAS LOCKED OUT OF BOMB PLANTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The army kept such a tight guard on the work of developing the atomic bomb that even FBI agents, who helped guard its secrets, had to get special passes to get into the bomb plants.

The war department disclosed this tonight in telling part of the story of a special intelligence and security organization which protected the war's best kept secret.

Called Hardest Security Job

The organization was so hush-hush that it operated independently of the army G-2, intelligence. It was solely a part of the Manhattan engineer district, the name given to the bomb project, and operated under the direction of Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, boss of that project.

Two hand picked men from the army military intelligence division were given the job of establishing the intelligence and security policies. These were Col. John Lansdale Jr., of Cleveland, O., and Lt. Col. W. A. Consodine of Newark, N. J.

They, in turn, chose the intelligence officers and agents for what the war department calls "the most difficult security job of all time." Men of this detachment were scattered thruout the nation with headquarters at Oak Ridge, Tenn., site of the Clinton engineer works, the chief bomb plant.

"Red tape was cut, short cuts were taken, formalities done away with," the department said. "'Protect the project' became the watchword of the group."

Employes Sifted Carefully

Employes at all installations were carefully screened to eliminate undesirables. All employes made security and secrecy agreements and key men were investigated thoroly.

Elaborate safeguards were established to prevent espionage and sabotage. Information about the bomb was handled in such a manner that each individual got only what he needed to perform his own job. Specially trained military police patroled the plants and the areas in which they were located.

Everybody pitched in to keep the secret—as the army puts it "America itself gave security to its own greatest project."

SHIPS' SEARCHLIGHTS PLAY OVER MANILA AS SOLDIERS CELEBRATE

BY DONALD STARR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 12—Riotous lights mingled with the din of horns as the GIs tonight celebrated the qualified acceptance of Japan's offer of peace. Over Manila bay the searchlights of the ships played against ack-ack fire, brilliant in hilarious celebration.

Tracers, once the harbinger of air attacks, played cometlike trails across the heavens, but the GIs now know it, not as a warning that usually sent them to their foxholes, but a portent of a new lease on life.

All over the city soldiers are celebrating—men who have been over here three and a half years and men who have just arrived. Soldierly exuberance is manifest.

CHINESE BATTLE TO EJECT JAPS FROM KWANGSI

CHUNGKING, China, Aug. 11 (AP)—Fierce fighting southwest of Chuanhsien, an important railroad town about 70 miles northeast of Kweilin and the last barrier to ejection of the enemy from northern Kwangsi province, was reported tonight by the Chinese.

Other Chinese units reportedly scored gains in a drive east of Kweilin, while a bulletin said Chinese in this sector were approaching Lungfukwan on the Kwangsi-Hunan border. Chinese press dispatches also claimed recapture of the former treaty port of Wuchow [Tsangwu] on the Si [West] river 120 miles inland from Canton.

A bulletin from Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer's headquarters indicated that as American flyers continued operations in China, 14th air force P-51 Mustangs damaged four enemy river steamers Friday, destroyed or damaged 17 smaller craft in the Yangtze, and wrecked or damaged 25 enemy occupied buildings south of Kiukiang. Others destroyed or damaged more than 40 boats and 15 trucks and Mustangs also damaged a Jap communications center and attacked two rail bridges.

Coast Guard Rescues Pilot Forced Down at Sea

Ocean City, Md., Aug. 11 (AP)—A navy Corsair pilot, unharmed, was rescued by the coast guard today after his plane went down into the ocean 12 miles off this resort town, Maryland state police reported. Police identified the pilot as Lt. [j. g.] Norman W. Spurgeron from the Chincoteague, Va., naval air station.

REVEAL FINDING NEW SUBSTANCE TO BLAST ATOM

'Plutonium' Is Derived from Uranium

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Scientists produced two new elements in making the atomic bomb and gambled on their knowledge of less than a milligram of one of them to help make the missile an enemy city smashing success.

The two new elements are neptunium, No. 93, and plutonium, No. 94, which have been added to the previously known 92 elements of varieties of matter. The two are derived from uranium.

Production of the new elements was disclosed today in a scientific review, released by the war department, of experiments leading up to final production of the atomic bombs loosed on Japan. Many of the details still are clouded in military secrecy.

Stockpile Being Built

The report disclosed:

1. That the army is building up an atomic bomb stockpile.

2. That if it becomes possible to convert some common material into energy, "civilization would have the means to commit suicide at will."

3. That there is no immediate prospects of lighting homes or running automobiles with the new power unleashed by science.

4. That possibly within 10 years nuclear power can be developed for some special uses, and a plentiful supply of radioactive materials may aid tremendously in the treatment of certain diseases.

The report gave the army's reasons for putting out some of the technical facts. In effect it said:

Here is the atomic bomb. It's up to you, as citizens of America, to make up your minds what should be done with it. This report is to help you decide.

Or as the report specifically puts it: "In a free country like ours, such questions should be debated by the people and decisions must be made by the people thru their representatives. . . . The people of the country must be informed."

Plutonium Explodes Bomb

The element plutonium is so rare that at the end of 1942 only 500 micrograms of pure plutonium salts had been produced. And that is just a little less, the army estimated, than would be needed to make the head of a pin. [A milligram is one-thousandth of a gram and a microgram is one-millionth.]

And it was on the knowledge of plutonium "gleaned from less than a milligram" of it that the government decided to go ahead with a plant in Washington state for the production and separation on a large scale of the metal which can be used to explode the atomic bomb.

Both plutonium and U-235, another uranium product, can be utilized to effect the explosion.

Altho the army, in its 160 page single spaced typewritten report, didn't exactly explain what makes the bomb work, plutonium provides one of the keys that unlock the most powerful force ever released.

And it was to make this potent stuff that one of the world's greatest plants was built at Hanford, Wash.

U-235 Ideal Substance, But—

Scientists knew that U-235 is unstable enough to make an ideal atomic bomb. But by weight it's less than 1 per cent of uranium, which in itself is difficult to obtain, hence its mass production is an insuperable task.

But it was suggested that the new wonder element, plutonium, might be just as good as the pure U-235. It was—and it can now be obtained in appreciable amounts.

Greatly simplified, here is the way the new element is obtained.

A chain reaction is started, involving natural uranium. In the fission, or breaking down of U-235, neutrons are given off. Some of these are absorbed by U-238. This becomes U-239 [that's still uranium].

U-239 emits a beta particle, and neptunium results. Neptunium, in turn, emits another beta particle, and becomes plutonium.

A Fairly Stable Element

If left to its own devices, it would slowly give off an alpha particle and turn again into U-235. But this is so slow that in effect plutonium is a stable element.

All this was wrapped up in a maze of technical data and chemical formulas. The report was written at the request of the army by H. D. Smyth, chairman of the physics department of Princeton university and a special consultant on the atomic bomb project.

To achieve the production of plutonium in necessary quantities the scientists produced a self-maintaining nuclear chain reaction pile.

But the original pile was so small that, on the assumption one bomb would require 100 kilograms of plutonium, the pile would have to be kept going for 70,000 years to produce a single bomb.

Hence the need for expansion of the process if the bombs were to be produced during this war.

Emphasis Put on Plutonium

Emphasis was placed on the plutonium production process in the bomb manufacture because it was found more feasible to convert some of U-238, in uranium, to plutonium than to separate U-235.

The Smyth report brought out that in achieving the production of the elements going into the atomic bomb, care had to be exercised that workers would not be endangered by contact with any material that had been made radio-active during the process.

The reactions produce products that are dangerous to handle, like radium, but safety measures adopted have proven so effective that no one has shown any permanent ill effect.

In this connection, the war department previously had denied, without going into detail, an article which said that radio-activity of the bomb would make any blasted area uninhabitable for as long as 70 years.

It amplified this, in a preface to the Smyth report, to say that the bomb is detonated at such a height in combat, that the radio-active products are dissipated as a cloud, and practically all of them carried upward and "dispersed harmlessly over a wide area."

CARRIER MIGHT DEFEATED JAPS, SAYS MITSCHER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—"Japan is beaten, and carrier supremacy defeated her," Vice Adm. Mitscher, former commander of task force 58, and now designated to be deputy chief of naval air operations, said today in a message to the naval air force.

"Carrier supremacy destroyed her army and navy air forces," he said. "Carrier supremacy destroyed her fleet. Carrier supremacy gave us bases adjacent to her home islands. And carrier supremacy finally left her exposed to the most devastating sky attack—the atomic fission bomb—that man has suffered."

CHICAGO YANKS ROLL ARMS OVER STILWELL RD.

Some Fly Hump on Trip Back to Ledo

BY ALFRED WAGG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LEDO, Assam, India, Aug. 11—Along the Stilwell highway, trucks in record convoys are pouring arms to be used in an offensive in China if the war should go on. Among the many Americans making gruelling runs are hundreds of Illinois boys who sweat it thru without a chance to do any fighting.

In the last few weeks the average time for a convoy for the 1,079 mile trip from Ledo, Assam, to Kunming, China, has been 10 to 12 days. Along the world's highest mountains, thru thick jungles, and past Burmese temples and mule trains serving areas beyond the frontiers of civilization, these Americans push their trucks thru mud and monsoons.

The United States army has opened roadside camps where sleeping accommodations and baths are provided for the "pony express" drivers.

An attractive feature of trucking to China, a G-I said, is an occasional chance to ride back on planes over the air transport command's hump route, providing a good view of the country the drivers have labored over.

Among Chicagoans arriving in Ledo after truck trips were Pvt. Jack Dzierz, 4056 Milwaukee av.; 2d Lt. Robert Arnold, 2622 N. Drake av.; Capt. Edward Willecke, 3136 Monroe st.; Tech. Sgt. John Haydek, 1059 W. 34th pl.; Corp. Frank Weber, 4947 Carmen av.; Pvt. Joe Mocpol, S. Drake av.; Lt. Edward Clauther, 60 E. 73d st.; Sgt. Joseph Salamun, 4045 W. 31st st.; Sgt. Howard Ogburn, 5525 Woodlawn av.; Sgt. Joseph Keilbassa, 1748 Augusta blvd.; Sgt. Louis Sothras, 5459 Madison st.; Sgt. John Van Es, 185 E. 25th st.; Corp. Mike Cognato, 4326 Van Buren st., and T/5 Linford Buck Jr., 1407 Emerald av.

Other Illinoisans included Pvt. Joseph Golen, Bellwood; Pvt. Edward Bosgraff, Blue Island; Pvt. Thomas Fiala, Brookfield; Sgt. Alvis Wheat, Evanston; Corp. George Kaucher, Wilmette, and T/5 Marvin Cogswell, Harvey.

TWO-DAY TOLL 711 JAP PLANES AND 94 SHIPS

Nimitz Boosts Total by 188 Aircraft

GUAM, Aug. 12 [Sunday]—(AP)—Silent on any fleet action since Japan sued for peace Friday, Adm. Nimitz announced today that additional reports disclosed United States and British carrier planes Thursday and Friday destroyed or damaged 711 enemy planes on northern Honshu.

The bulletin increased the previously announced bag by 188 planes.

Nimitz also reported the two day toll of enemy vessels as 35 sunk and 59 damaged. These included seven destroyers sunk and seven damaged.

Seven U. S. Planes Lost

Allied losses were listed as seven American aircraft, with six pilots and air crewmen, and seven British planes, with five pilots. These additions for Friday were made to the score for American planes:

Enemy planes—62 destroyed on the ground; 76 damaged.

Enemy ships—A destroyer, four cargo and four luggers sunk; a destroyer, 10 cargo vessels, two ferries, and nine luggers damaged.

Ground installations — Three freight cars destroyed; seven locomotives and 15 railroad cars damaged.

British Bag 50

British aircraft made this score:

Enemy aircraft—16 destroyed on the ground; 34 damaged.

Enamy shipping—Six cargo vessels and eight small craft sunk; two destroyer escorts, 10 cargo vessels and eight small craft damaged.

Ground installations—One locomotive destroyed, four railway cars, two freight trains, barracks, hangars, buildings, freight yards and railway stations damaged.

Boosts Thursday Toll

These additions were made to results achieved on Thursday:

Enemy shipping—A destroyer and three destroyer escorts sunk and a freighter damaged by United States and British carrier planes, two destroyer escorts and two freighters sunk, a destroyer, a mine layer, and four freighters damaged by American aircraft, four cargo vessels sunk and two destroyer escorts damaged by British aircraft.

Adm. Nitmitz said he would take no action calling off his naval forces until the order came from Washington, and presumably the 3d fleet was ready to strike again.

Super Forts, too, will continue to blast Japanese industries with atom, demolition, and fire bombs until the war department tells them to stop, said Maj. Gen. Curtis Le May, chief of staff of the United States army strategic air forces.

Seize Five Islands

The navy was gobbling up islands from which the watch will stand over Japan in days of peace. The navy announced yesterday that five more Marianas islands on the Super Fort route had been overrun by United States marines.

At a cost of one dead and one wounded, the marines seized the islands of Agrihan, Sarigan, Asuncion, Alamagan, and Maug, stretching northward from Saipan. Maug, the northernmost, is about 350 miles north of Saipan, 1,100 miles from Japan, and 400 miles southeast of Iwo.

Nimitz's headquarters emphasized that yesterday's fleet respite after two days of hammering at Honshu had been planned before Japan's peace move was made.

Nimitz announced that the attack would continue and that vigilance against treachery "should be exercised even if a general surrender should be announced."

Nimitz was informed of the allies' conditional acceptance of Japan's peace proposal early today and announced he would take no further action after being assured the word had reached Halsey's fleet.

Navy to Police Japan

Speculation arose over the job that the navy would be assigned in putting the terms of surrender into operation. One job of the warships will be to oversee the evacuation of allied prisoners of war and internees.

It is expected that the navy will play a big part in the policing of Japan, and it probably will mount guard over the enemy's sea lanes until occupation forces move in. Commanders have been studying all phases of problems arising from a possible surrender.

LUZON PATROLS WARNED NOT TO RISK LIVES NOW

WITH THE U. S. 38TH DIVISION, North Luzon, Aug. 11 [Saturday]—(AP)—At least one unit commander cautioned leaders of patrols mopping up Japanese in the Sierra Madres today not to be aggressive and risk loss of life at a time when peace might be near.

As he walked his sentry post, hearing others celebrate, T/3 John Wente, Diamond Bluff, Wis., grumbled, "I wish they'd wait until tomorrow night when I'd be off duty."

First Sgt. Dennis Griffith, Danville, Va., complained, "Those guys must think they're home already."

Staff Sgt. Preston Johnson, Winchester, Ky., an army mess sergeant, exclaimed, "Wow—home cooking again."

"Oh boy," said a new arrival, Pvt. Laverne Sinclair, Seattle, "and me with only five points."

SAILOR SCOUTS JAP PLANES IN SHIP OPERATION

ABOARD A U. S. CRUISER IN THE NORTH PACIFIC (AP) — An emergency appendectomy was completed on this cruiser while Bernard B. Ziger, hospital corpsman, of 2148 N. 9th st., Milwaukee, Wis., gave the doctors a play-by-play report of the situation above decks.

If Japanese planes had approached and the anti-aircraft batteries had opened up, the job of the medics would have been a tough one. So Ziger kept his earphones plugged in to the ship's battle circuits while the doctors operated on James DeWitt, a sailor from Cooper, Tex.

Lt. Comdr. B. A. Johnson of San Diego, Cal., and Lt. Edward W. Sickels of St. Paul, Minn., finished the operation as the Nipponese flyers swung away without risking battle.

500 MACARTHUR PLANES RAID JAP TROOP CENTER

MANILA, Aug. 12 [Sunday] (AP)—More than 500 Far East Air Force bombers and fighters in their heaviest saturation raid of the war smashed at troop packed Kumamoto in western Kyushu Friday and left smoke soaring 15,000 feet and visible for 200 miles, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The raids came before the Japanese offered to surrender Friday night. Gen. Kenney said the assaults of his air forces would be pressed on Saturday, altho the latter blows have yet to be announced officially.

Tokyo radio said, however, 150 bombers and fighters set fires sweeping thru Kurume in northwestern Kyushu Saturday.

57 More Ships Sunk

Gen. Kenney threw into Friday's raid most types of planes at his disposal after belief was expressed that the city on the southern Japanese island held large concentrations of enemy troops.

Without enemy interception, waves of Liberators, Mitchells, Attack Bombers, Thunderbolts and Lightnings bored thru anti-aircraft fire which was described as light to heavy. Ten Liberators struck on the opposite side of Kyushu at the city of Oita, leaving smoke columns towering three miles high.

The raids were disclosed in a bulletin which reported 57 more enemy vessels sunk or damaged, including two destroyer escorts.

Kenney had announced that the raids were being pressed Saturday, despite developments which seemed to be leading toward an end of the conflict.

Set Transport Afire

At Kumamoto, fighters thundered in at low levels with jellied gasoline and high explosives. Strafers poured 150,000 rounds of machine gun slugs into the blazing city.

A single Lightning turned up over Kagoshima bay on southern Kyushu and dropped a fire bomb on a 1,000 ton freighter transport, enveloping it in flames from stem to stern.

Further reports on raids of Thursday added to the previously announced toll of five freighters, 18 smaller vessels and a subchaser destroyed or damaged. An enemy flying boat and two other planes were probably destroyed.

Bombers of the 5th and 7th air forces struck by night at western Korea, starting large fires and explosions at Gunzan and the Jinsen railroad yards. Other bombers hit an enemy seaplane base at Singtao, in north China, and the Tinghai airdrome near Shanghai.

GUNS OF SUNKEN SHIP TO SIGNAL HAWAII V-J DAY

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 11 (AP)—The 14 inch guns of the old battleship Arizona, sunk Dec. 7, 1941, at Pearl Harbor, will signal the start of Honolulu's V-J day celebration, Gov. Ingram M. Stainback said today.

The guns, now instaled on the battleship Pennsylvania and in coastal defense emplacements here, fire 1,500 pound projectiles.

The army said three of the guns forming a coastal defense unit are encased in their original turrets.

DUTCH IN BORNEO FIND FOOD FOR 15,000 NATIVES

Make Shift Hospitals Treat 1,000

BY ROBERT CROMIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BALIKPAPAN, Dutch Borneo, Aug 6 [Delayed]—The Dutch officials representing the Netherlands government are doing their best to help the native population, whose life under the Japanese has been far from pleasant.

Many hundreds of laborers, whose usefulness to the Japanese ended when the allied raids crippled the oil refineries, were driven into the hills. Unaccustomed to such an environment they grew ill from undernourishment, beriberi, and malaria.

Then, when the Japs were getting ready to leave, they lined up groups of natives in some places and beheaded them, either to prevent their carrying information or because they had refused to serve as carrying parties.

Japs Slew 500

Maj. Jan. Brouwer, commanding officer of the Netherlands Indies civil administration, today estimated that the Japs beheaded, bayoneted, or slit the throats of 500 to 1,000 natives in the final stages of their stay here. Previously they had killed perhaps five or so weekly, either wantonly, or in punishment for thievery, refusal to work, or some other "crime," Brouwer said.

Brouwer estimated that at least 3,500 and perhaps 10,000 more natives died of starvation, beriberi, or other diseases, directly traceable to Jap cruelty or neglect. Local hospitals, hastily set up in wrecked Dutch barracks, now house 1,000 to 1,200 men, women, and children, many of whom are suffering from wounds incurred during the shelling and bombing.

Twelve patients are being treated for deep saber cuts on the back of the neck, where the Japs did not strike hard enough to behead them, while two have no noses because—natives told the Dutch—the Japs had tested the metal of their swords by cutting off those organs.

Bitter Against Individuals

As nearly as can be determined by conversations with both Dutch and Australian officials, the native population is vaguely happy that the Japs have gone. By and large, the only real bitterness is against individual Japs, not against the Japs as a whole, altho among those natives working in the refineries the Japs were considered bad employers; while to the population as a whole they were simply a scourge—like a dry year or some other natural calamity.

Brouwer said that already the Jap has become to the native a humorous figure, and that when the Javanese—of whom many are here—reëstablish their native theaters, the Jap undoubtedly will be very popular in the role of a laughable villain. Already scores of stories are told in which the Jap is always the butt of the joke.

Since their departure the Japs have been trying, without success, to make the natives distrustful of the Dutch and Australians. In one section they dropped leaflets, written in Malayan, "warning" the natives that the only reason the Australians and Dutch are collecting them and feeding them is that they plan to use them as "shields for their tank attacks." The natives did not believe this for a moment, and thought it a very funny idea.

The Indies civil administration has helped about 15,000 natives since being set up early in July, finding homes for some and food for all, as well as providing clothing and helping them to establish gardens. The natives, in return, are expected to work when strong enough. At present, some are employed by the Dutch and perhaps 3,000 are working for the Australian army. Elementary schools are expected to be reopened this month.

The Japs brought many Javanese here, including men and women of high caliber, whom they promised to send to school. Once here, however, most of the women were forced into brothels, and the men turned into coolies.

In addition to the Javanese, there are perhaps 4,000 Chinese in the area. These have already established their own community, planned gardens, and now are virtually self supporting. Many Chinese were formerly merchants or skilled workers in the refineries, and presumably will be so again when Balikpapan is rebuilt.

Dr. J. Waller, formerly employed with Standard Oil in the West Indies, showed us thru a hospital that houses 1,000 persons. Some of the patients are as thin as sticks, very reminiscent of the half dead of Buchenwald, others are suffering from beriberi as a result of eating Jap rice, which is too highly polished.

Tho hundreds of wooden beds have been built, there is still a grave shortage, and many very ill patients are lying on boards or straw pallets on the floor, beneath roofs not yet repaired, which leak during the frequent rains.

Hiding Four Years

FRANCESCA GAAL

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that Hungarian Film Actress Francesca Gaal had arrived in the soviet capital after spending four years hiding from the Germans and Hungarian Fascists. She had been caught in her native country while on a visit from Hollywood.

The star of the films "Little Mother" and "Peter" was invited to Russia by the All-Union Society for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries, the broadcast said.

The radio said she hid in a little village near Lake Balaton, southwest of Budapest, where she was rescued by Russian troops.

"I have to settle my personal account with the Nazis," Miss Gaal was quoted as saying. "My mother was dragged out of a home for old people and tortured to death, my sister was tortured to death in a concentration camp, and my brother's son was killed."

REDS SMASH 50 MILES MORE IN MOUNTAIN DRIVE

Break Thru Pass; Japs Face Huge Trap

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Russian armored spearheads, in lightning 50 mile advances, burst across the great Khingan mountain range in western Manchuria today and broke into the valleys leading down to the Japanese arsenal city of Harbin, Moscow announced.

The soviet smashes that have covered 155 miles in two days tore thru natural Japanese defenses in western Manchuria in disregard of the exchange of peace notes between Japan and the allied nations.

Moscow's third Japanese war bulletin revealed three armies had been thrown into the battle for Manchuria. Veteran commanders of the European eastern front led the assault under supreme command of Marshal Alexander M. Vassilovsky, former Red army chief of staff.

May Free Prisoners

The three armies, breaking into Manchuria at five points along the 2,000 mile frontier, were converging on Harbin from the west, north, and east in drives that threatened to cut off Japanese armies in northern Manchuria.

The soviet advances brought hope of quick liberation to many American prisoner of war camps in Manchuria, and the Khabarovsk radio called on Red army men to fight with determination, demanding the "merciless destruction of the enemy."

In the west, Russian tanks tore thru the Japanese lines without much opposition, but in the heavily wooded, hilly terrain 100 miles northwest of Vladivostok, fanatic enemy defenders of the Kwantung army held the Russians to nine and 15 mile gains.

Thousands Face Trap

Some 480 to 500 miles separated the tips of a giant pincer moving into Manchuria from the west and east along the axis of the Chinese Eastern railroad. Moscow dispatches said the encirclement of tens of thousands of crack Japanese troops in northern Manchuria was a possibility.

The armored western tip of the pincers threatening northern Manchuria crashed across passes of the great Khingan range, whose peaks reach to 8,000 feet, in 50 mile advances either along or south of the Chinese Eastern railroad, the Russian bulletin disclosed.

These troops, forming the trans-Baikal army, were under the command of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, co-conquerer of Vienna and Budapest and former commander of the 2d Ukrainian army. Their sweep thru the passes carried them within 280 to 300 miles northwest of Harbin.

Capture 15 Towns

The eastern tip of the pincer advancing from the Vladivostok region smashed within 195 miles southeast of Harbin by the capture of Mulingchan, on the railroad 31 miles east of the communications center of Mutankiang.

Fifteen towns were captured in this area along an 85 mile front extending from Mulingchan northeastward to Panchiehho, on a secondary line linking the Chinese Eastern railroad with the trans-Siberian line 200 miles north of Vladivostok, the bulletin said.

The 1st far eastern army, under command of Marshal Kryil A. Merretskov, who led the Karelian army in fighting in Finland, was spearheading the eastward assault toward Harbin.

Sink 11 Transports

One hundred and ninety miles north of this battle front, the 2d far eastern army, under command of Gen. Maxim Purkaev, captured the town of Fuchin, a port on the River Sungari, 270 miles northeast of Harbin. Gen. Purkaev's troops also captured Hsihsiahotao, 216 miles northwest of Harbin.

Three hundred miles due north of Harbin other troops of the 2d far eastern army forced the Amur river southeast of the big Russian base at Blagoveshchensk and captured five towns.

Swarms of Russian bombers blasted Japanese controled rail junctions ahead of the advancing soviet ground forces, and ships and aircraft of the soviet Pacific fleet attacked enemy transports in the ports of Rashin, Yuki, and Seishin, southwest of Vladivostok. Eleven Japanese transports were sunk, Moscow said, revealing that the Red Banner Pacific fleet was under command of Adm. Ivan Yumashev.

HAITI EXECUTES TWO FOR ATTEMPTING TO KILL ITS PRESIDENT

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 11 (AP)—Two men convicted by a military court of attempting to assassinate President Elie Lescot were shot to death Aug. 7, it was disclosed officially today. The police identified the men as Max Audian and Excellent Desrosiers. They were sentenced March 1.

The police said five other men had been arrested on charges of participating in the distribution of a leaflet campaign attacking the government.

In Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, an exiled Haitian newspaperman, Fernand Saint Amand, identified all seven men as newspapermen.

U. S. DRAINS ITS SCIENTISTS, AIDS ALIENS: EGLOFF

Draft Policy Blamed for Condition

American universities and technical schools are training alien students while burocrats of Washington, D. C., are sending American students into war service, Dr. Gustav Egloff, noted scientist, charged yesterday.

He asserted universities lack science and technical students: that the United States has lost 150,000 potential scientists in the last three years; and that indications are another 100,000 will be lost in the next two years.

Science Students Needed

Dr. Egloff, science director of the Universal Oil Products company, said, "Something should be done immediately to release thousands of young men from military service to enter science schools." This is in addition to a bill introduced in congress to release 15,000 trained scientists from war duty.

In support of his charges he cited statistics from one university that ranks with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Illinois Institute of Technology. This school graduated 150 students a year in chemical engineering before the war. This year it graduated 12 Chinese, 15 Hindus, 25 South Americans, and only five from the United States.

U. S. Youths Sent to War

"These foreign graduates are going back to their own country with the result that we will have more and more of them in our schools in the years ahead," Dr. Egloff said. "Meanwhile we take our own young men right out of high school for military service when many of them should be sent to science schools."

The United States developed the atomic bomb thru a backlog of scientists trained before the war; unless immediate steps are taken to return men to school we may not have this backlog in a future war, he added. Furthermore, men should be trained now for research and development of new products that must follow World War II.

IDENTIFY TWO MORE CHICAGO WRECK VICTIMS

Michigan, N. D., Aug. 11 [Special]—The names of two additional Chicagoans killed in Thursday's wreck of the Great Northern Railroad's Empire Builder train were announced tonight. They were Miss Eleanor Kubes, 31, of 2823 South Harding av., and S/Sgt. Burt J. Cohen, a son of Larry J. Cohen, of 5471 Everett av., J. Pearson, of Chicago, a porter, had been previously reported killed.

Also included in the dead list were Sgt. Ernest J. Cellar, son of Joseph Cellar, of Harrisville, Mich., and Corp. Paul F. Nance, son of Mrs. Noami Nance, of Detroit, Mich.

Thirty-four bodies have been removed from the wreckage and railroad officials said the number of injured would approximate 214. Twenty-five of the dead, including 15 soldiers, have been identified.

The Great Northern railway made public the names of 56 persons injured in the wreck. They included: Mrs. S. J. Moran, Chicago; Mrs. R. F. Kremer, Detroit, Mich.; Pvt. Anthony J. Vattano, Chicago; Staff Sgt. William H. Murphy, Springfield, Ill.; Cora P. Larson, Chicago; Stanley A. Merrick, Springfield, Ill., and Marian T. Straub, Chicago.

7 Former Hitler Youths Arrested as Werewolves

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP) — The Prague radio today reported arrest of seven youthful members of a band of "werewolves" in the Karlsbad, Germany, area. The youths, between 13 and 17 years old, were former members of Hitler's youth movement. They had arms and ammunition hidden in the woods, and had been holding regular shooting practice, the broadcast said.

FRANCE SEEKS TO RUSH ARMY TO INDO-CHINA

Appeals for Ships; Fears Loss of Colony

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Aug. 11—The French government today decided to ask the United States and Britain to divert to its use sufficient shipping to transport to Indo-China a good sized expeditionary force now equipped and assembled in Madagascar.

With the end of hostilities in the Pacific in sight the French find themselves surprised and in the curious position of having their most important former colony liberated without having the means to send troops or administrators to take possession of it or see what is going on. The Japs occupied Indo-China in 1941.

With the defeat of Japan the French are now worried about who may grab Indo-China next before they can rush troops across the Indian ocean to recover it, and there is much excitement in Paris official circles. Some profess to think the Chinese Communists might take over Indo-China or some other political group in the country might get control.

Call Meeting of Ministers

Gen. De Gaulle summoned the ministers of foreign affairs, war, navy, and air, and the chiefs of staff to examine the situation "especially from a viewpoint of French rights over Indo-China."

It was expected the French would ask the United States, Russia, China, and Britain to give France a voice in the discussion of conditions to be imposed on Japan. Gen. A. P. Juin and Adm. Argenlieu were mentioned as possibilities for the post of French commissioner in the Pacific.

Adm. Jean De Coux, a Vichy appointee, was the last governor general of Indo-China and high commissioner for the Pacific but nothing is known of his actions in recent months.

De Gaulle May Delay Trip

The French also hastened to assemble the administrative corps which had been set up to reorganize the administration of Indo-China if and when it can get there.

There was considerable friction between the United States and Vichy over Indo-China when the Japs seized the outpost. Some Indo-Chinese collaborated with the Japs and the French now say there is danger of political movements organized by the Japanese to resist the return of the Europeans and against the collaboration of the yellow race with the white.

The future status of Indo-China, according to Paris officials, was to have figured on the agenda of the Truman-De Gaulle talks but De Gaulle's trip to Washington, D. C., now may be delayed in view of events.

Admitting the difficulties of reestablishing their authority in Indo-China, the French nevertheless look to the allies to permit the return of Indo-China as part of the French empire. They stress the French navy's part in the Pacific war, particularly the exploits of the battleship Richelieu, which is part of the allied Pacific fleet.

LASKI HAILED AT SOCIALIST RALLY IN PARIS

PARIS, Aug. 11 [Reuters]—The nine hundred delegates to the 37th national congress of the French Socialist party gave a great ovation to Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the British Labor party executive committee, and other members of the British delegation when they mounted the platform at the opening of the congress here today.

There were seven foreign delegations to the congress—from Britain, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Czechoslovakia, Luxemburg, and Italy.

Sitting in the Latin Quarter's Palais de la Mutualite the delegates will make decisions expected to weigh the scales heavily either for or against Gen. De Gaulle's constitutional proposals. The congress is expected to support the proposals as the party has been one of the main upholders of De Gaulle.

KING A TRAITOR, PREMIER TELLS YUGOSLAVIANS

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 11 (AP)—Blagoje Mesbkovitch, premier of the Serbian federal administration, said in a debate in the Yugoslav provisional parliament today that King Peter was a "traitor king."

Referring to Peter's announcement in London that he was withdrawing authority granted to three regents to act in the name of the king, Mesbkovitch said:

"This, his last act, will be recorded in the list of crimes he committed in the last four years against our people. I am convinced the day will come when he will return to this country, not as a ruling monarch, but rather as a traitor king upon whom our people will inflict just punishment."

tells you the story behind the furniture

WHEN RENT DAY CAME AROUND

. . . in the country estates of 18th century England, the steward would sit in the mansion, at a table with a rotating circular top. Around the flange of the table were small drawers, each painted or inlaid with letters of the alphabet, such as "A-C", "D-J", etc. He could then turn the table top until the correct drawer was in front of him, and thus he'd have his papers and records handy when the various tenants appeared on "quarter day" to present their rent payments, excuses and complaints. A fine example of one of these rent tables may be seen in the Art Institute of Chicago. And such interesting tables were the ancestors of the drum-top tables which are so popular today.

U. S. FLAG WINS NATIVES' CHEERS IN 'RED AUSTRIA'

Lend-Lease Evidence Seen Along Danube

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 11—The American flag is greeted by warm smiles and friendly waves of hands in this Russian held territory. Austrian men, women, and children apparently are delighted by the trickle of United States traffic into the zone occupied by the Red army.

The Stars and Stripes as an identification sticker on a jeep windshield received these features of welcome in the countryside and in the villages and cities on a 100 mile drive down the Danube valley from the American occupation zone. Russian territory was entered a few miles east of Linz.

[Entry into Vienna of Gen. Clark's United States occupation troops has been delayed indefinitely, it was reported yesterday in an Associated Press dispatch. The ostensible reason was the continued illness of Marshal Ivan S. Konev, Russian representative in the allied commission for Austria. Small American and British units recently moved into Vienna in the first phase of joint occupation of the Austrian capital by Russian, American, British, and French forces.]

The boundary between the zones is marked by double gates across the highway, one controled by United States soldiers and the other by the Russians. Both authorities inspect credentials and record the passage of the traveler. There was a few minutes delay at the Russian gate while a Red officer refused westward passage to an old German on a bicycle.

In Stalin Land

Once across the boundary, there is a sense of something different. To the south is the same horizon of the Alp foothills. There are the same oxen plowing and the same rolling fields. Farm houses are still squat, heavy mortar structures, the stones camouflaged by age to blend with the landscape, but with the shutters and doors of bright colors with floral and animal designs. You have left the jurisdiction of Uncle Sam and are under the absolute authority of Generalissimo Stalin.

Traffic signs, directional markers, and town names are in Russian in an alphabet that staggers unaccustomed eyes.

These traffic policemen are neat, clean stalwarts. Other Russian soldiers are seen in rural camps and on village streets, some with oriental eyes, others swarthy, and others with big, blue eyes, red hair or blondes. The apparent racial backgrounds are as varied as are American soldiers.

Lend-Lease Evident

In the villages and on the roadside are stripped German vehicles and disabled big guns, abandoned by the Jerries as they fled the Reds to surrender to the Americans in the final days of the war. In the American zone, most of the battle litter has been salvaged or collected in scrap dumps.

Russian army vehicles are passed on the road. They include German and American trucks, a wide assortment of battle duty and lend-lease gifts. American jeeps were also noted. There were also a large number of horse drawn wagons, skinny little horses pulling wagons about half the capacity of an American farm wagon.

Midway between Linz and Vienna, the road ahead winding thru hills became alive with human figures. They were a column of men with some women and children, a ragged column shuffling either barefooted or in much worn shoes, westward.

They were thin, some emaciated, and were obviously tired. Most of them carried bundles of clothes or blankets on their backs.

Stragglers Hurried Up

The migration was guarded by Russian soldiers with rifles and bayonets, some walking and others riding in rigs behind horses. Notwithstanding the guards, some of the migrants jumped across a road ditch into the fields and grabbed handfuls of turnips or dug hats full of potatoes before being called back into the road. At the end of the column, some guards were urging stragglers to hurry.

This is Russian territory. The Austrians cheer the Stars and Stripes on a lone jeep as evidence that there are a few United States soldiers in one sector of their beloved capital on the Danube.

Captain Leaps to Collect Kiss

12 BILLION CUT IN SPENDING FOR WAR REPORTED

Halt Work on 95 Ships; Army Buying Curbed

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Well over 12 billion dollars in war material cutbacks, coincident with the swift Japanese slide downhill toward surrender, were reported officially and unofficially today.

Meanwhile the White House took over on official news of reconversion and put out the only formal report on the cutbacks—a reduction of 1 billion 200 million dollars in navy shipbuilding.

That announcement, by War Mobilization Chief Snyder, came shortly after heads of other government agencies had received instructions from the White House to keep their post-war programs under wraps until President Truman gives the signal.

Stop Work on 95 Ships

The purpose of this taboo, it was explained, is to allow coördination of plans of various agencies and to prevent disclosure before peace is an accomplished fact.

The order cutting navy construction halted work on 95 ships, including one battleship, two carriers, and 10 heavy cruisers.

The battleship is the Illinois, under construction at the Philadelphia navy yard, and the carriers are the Reprisal and the Iwo Jima, being built by the New York navy yard and the Newport News Shipbuilding company, Newport News, Va.

10 Cruisers on List

The Reprisal and the Iwo Jima are carriers of the 27,100 ton class. Six other carriers of that class remain under construction as well as three 45,000 ton carriers and two carriers of 14,500 tons.

Among other ships on which work was ordered stopped were 16 escort carriers, 10 light cruisers, 11 destroyers, six submarines, and 39 auxiliaries. This cancels 56 combatant ships. Two weeks ago the navy disclosed that it had a total of 223 combatant ships under contract, including two battleships and 13 aircraft carriers.

Where Cuts Will Be Made

Here is the schedule of cuts by yards:

Navy yard, N. Y., one carrier.

Todd Pacific, Tacoma, Wash., eight escort carriers, one auxiliary.

Newport News Shipbuilding company, one carrier, three light cruisers, one large cruiser.

Kaiser-Vancouver, eight escort carriers.

Bethlehem, Fore River, Mass., seven large cruisers.

Navy yard, Philadelphia, one battleship, two large cruisers.

New York Shipbuilding corporation, five light cruisers.

Cramp Shipbuilding company, Philadelphia, two light cruisers, two submarines.

Bath Iron works, Bath, Me., four destroyers.

Consolidated, Orange, Tex., two destroyers.

Navy yard, Portsmouth, N. H., four submarines.

Tampa Shipbuilding company, Tampa, Fla., three auxiliaries.

Navy yard, Mare Island, Cal., one auxiliary.

Puget Sound navy yard, Wash., one auxiliary.

Defoe Shipbuilding company, Bay City, Mich., 25 auxiliaries.

Basalt Rock, Napa, Cal., four auxiliaries.

Savannah Machine and Dry Dock company, Savannah, Ga., four auxiliaries.

Bethlehem Shipbuilding company, Staten Island, N. Y., five destroyers.

Billion a Month Army Cut

Snyder, in announcing the navy cutback, said only that "the army also will make immediately a sharp reduction in its buying program."

Elsewhere there were indications that ground forces procurement would be trimmed by at least 1 billion dollars a month—some sources said the figure would be nearer 1½ billions—for a yearly total of between 12 billions and 18 billions.

It was pointed out, however, that a large part of this total represented only paper reductions, since it had been assumed beforehand that at least a part of the cut would be made before the expiration of another year.

Army air forces figures — presumed to be huge—still were missing from the picture.

The program threw into sharp focus the prediction of government officials that around 5,000,000 munitions workers will lose their jobs in 60 days after the Japanese quit.

More than half of these are engaged in shipbuilding and in the aircraft and ordnance industries.

The estimated cut in munitions employment means the total current pay roll of around 8,000,000 persons will be reduced about 63 per cent.

1,400,000 Now Idle

Of the 5,000,000 due to be released, expectations are that perhaps half will retire from the labor market. The others will become job seekers along with about 1,400,000 currently unemployed to bring the total to approximately 4,000,000.

About 3,000,000 of those now in war production are expected to stay on with present employers.

Governmental officials could make no estimate of how long it may take for 4,000,000 persons who will be out of jobs to find work in civilian production. They are hopeful, however, that consumer goods manufacture can hit its stride quickly.

Materials to be Rushed

Snyder said the WPB will channel needed materials into civilian production as rapidly as the cutbacks permit, to speed reëmployment. The war man power commission, he added, "will readjust its facilities to handle the reëmployment problem."

Snyder asked coöperation from labor and management, and urged manufacturers whose contracts are trimmed to cancel immediately their orders for scarce materials, so these may go to provide civilian goods and jobs.

161,839 Army Casualties in Jap War

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The war against Japan cost the army 161,839 casualties up to the early part of June, the war department disclosed today.

A break-down on casualties by theaters as reported to June 30 and reflecting fighting thru early June showed total casualties of 912,390.

The 161,839 casualties, including 35,810 dead, were suffered in the Alaska, China, India-Burma, and Southwest Pacific theaters and Pacific ocean areas. The break-down:

	Killed	Wounded	Missing	Prisoners	Total
Alaska	769	922	45	10	1,746

PARKER URGES U. S. KEEP BASES, BIG ARMY, NAVY

Maintenance of bases in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, an adequate army, navy, and air force to meet any and all enemies, and universal military training are urged in a resolution submitted by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, of Advertising Men's post, American Legion, to the token convention of the 2d district yesterday in the Morrison hotel.

Even numbered districts thruout the state are holding their streamlined conventions this week-end. Odd numbered districts will meet next Saturday and the state convention will be held in Chicago Aug. 25 to 27.

Gen. Parker's resolution urged that "under our policy of carrying war, in the event of hostilities, to the enemy, the army be maintained as an expeditionary force with the corresponding maritime and air transport services, organized for prompt activation" and called for a "navy capable of meeting successfully anywhere any probable combination of hostile fleets."

The resolution also demanded "a separate air force superior to that of any potential combination of hostile air forces."

U. S. DESTROYER CALLAGHAN AND SUBMARINE LOST

Bonefish with 85 Aboard Overdue on Patrol

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The navy announced today loss of the submarine Bonefish and the destroyer Callaghan. It said that 85 officers and men were on the submarine and that casualties on the Callaghan were three killed, 49 missing, and 73 wounded.

A bulletin said the Bonefish was overdue from patrol and presumed lost. The Callaghan was lost in the Okinawa area as the result of enemy action.

The Bonefish was commanded by Comdr. Lawrence L. Edge, 33, whose wife lives at Atlanta, Ga.

Sank 30,000 Tons of Ships

Comdr. Edge held the navy cross and the bronze star for sinking more than 30,000 tons of enemy shipping as a submarine officer.

The Callaghan was commanded by Comdr. Charles M. Bertholf, 33, of San Francisco, Cal. The navy announcement did not say whether he was among the survivors. His wife lives at Great Neck, N. Y.

The Bonefish was built by the Electric Boat Co., Groton, Conn., and was commissioned on May 31, 1943.

Destroyer Bore Hero's Name

The Callaghan, constructed by the Bethlehem Steel Co., San Pedro, Cal., was commissioned on Nov. 27, 1943. She was named in honor of the late Rear Adm. Daniel J. Callaghan, who was killed in action in an engagement with the Japanese fleet in the Solomon Islands on Nov. 13, 1942.

The Bonefish was the 51st submarine lost during the war and the Callaghan was the 70th destroyer. They brought to 434 the total number of navy ships lost since Pearl Harbor.

Skipper's Wife Has Baby

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 11 (AP) — Mrs. Sara Simms Edge, wife of the skipper of the United States submarine Bonefish, gave birth to a son here today a few hours before the navy reported the vessel "overdue from patrol and presumed lost." The baby was named after his father. The Edges have one other child.

TYPHOON HIT U.S.S. ALABAMA, NAVY REVEALS

GUAM, Aug. 12 [Sunday] (AP)—The new battleship Alabama, it now can be disclosed, was damaged by the typhoon which hit the 3d fleet near Okinawa June 5.

Fleet headquarters announced today the warship "was quickly repaired and once again she is adding to her record of doing a big and tough job quietly and efficiently."

The Alabama took part in the 12 consecutive operations as one of the screening ships of fast carrier task forces. She not only escaped damage herself but no carrier she was screening in any of the operations was reached by Japanese bombs, torpedoes or kamikaze planes. After being commissioned at Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 16, 1942, the Alabama guarded Atlantic convoys until August, 1943, when she joined the Pacific fleet. She supported the invasions of the Gilbert Islands and her 16 inch guns later thundered in the Marshalls, the Marianas, the Palaus, at Hollandia in New Guinea, and at Leyte in the Philippines.

NAVY REVEALS HEAVY LOSSES TO KAMIKAZES

Jap Suicide Pilots Sank Many Ships

ing kamikazes, thus warning the fleet. The anti-aircraft guns of these small vessels also formed a gantlet thru which some of the suicide planes had to pass.

One in 3 Ships Hit

The light ships on the picket line were the real "heroes" of the Okinawa operation. These ships constantly were fighting off suicide attacks, and altho many of the enemy planes were "splashed" [shot down in the sea] others got thru. The struggle was relentless, terrifying, unending, and when it was over one out of every three ships that served on the outer picket line had been sunk or damaged and 940 enemy aircraft had been shot down.

The inner screen, which handled most of the attacks by the enemy's suicide boats, also had to fight off suicide planes. This screen, which numbered several hundred vessels, lost three ships sunk and more than a score damaged in the Okinawa campaign alone.

A complete list of ships sunk and damaged by suicide attacks never has been published, but a partial list, which is subject to correction, follows:

SUNK

Escort carriers—Omannaney Bay, St. Lo, and Bismarck Sea.

Destroyers — Morrison, Luce, Mannert L. Abele, William D. Porter, Twiggs, Mahan, Colhoun, Reid, Pringle, Halligan, and Abner Read.

Destroyer minesweepers—Emmons and Palmer.

Destroyer transport—Dickerson.

Cargo ship—Canadian Victory.

Ammunition ships—Hobbs Victory and Logan Victory.

Numerous LST's and seagoing landing craft.

MANY OTHERS SUNK

In addition, many unnamed ships have been sunk by the Kamikaze corps. Thirty-three ships of destroyer size or smaller were sunk in the Ryukyus and supporting operations, most of them by suicide planes. At least three ammunition ships have been sunk.

DAMAGED

Aircraft carriers — Bunker Hill, Franklin, Saratoga, Ticonderoga, Intrepid, and British carriers Indefatigable, Victorious, and Illustrious.

Escort carriers—Kutkun Bay and Suanee.

Battleships—New Mexico, California, Nevada, Mississippi, and others.

Cruisers — Nashville, Columbia, St. Louis, and Australian cruiser, Australia.

Destroyers—Newcomb, Leutze, Haradon, Lamson, Powell, Laffey, Hazelwood, Ingraham, Hadley, Evans, and Ross.

Destroyer escorts—Rall and Bright.

Hospital ship—Comfort.

Motor torpedo boat tender—Orestes.

Cargo ship—Brown Victory.

The above list is indicative rather than complete. The names of scores of ships damaged by suicide planes have not been made public.

The enemy's suicide attacks, especially those from the air, therefore, complicated the problem of offensive operations in the Pacific but never halted or greatly delayed any operation.

Planes of All Types

There is no evidence that any single type of plane—except for the baka bomb—was manufactured for suicide use. Nearly all known Japanese types "body crashed" into our ships.

Japanese suicide attacks did not follow any pattern that could be termed "average." Sometimes the planes dropped suddenly out of a low overcast to plummet on a ship's deck; sometimes they scudded, low over the water or over near-by land masses, and zoomed up before diving. Often they came out of the sun. Some of the attacks were dubbed "second thought suiciders"; that is, planes which had made conventional attacks, were damaged by our anti-aircraft or fighters, their pilots saw that they were going to crash, and so tried to crash them into our ships.

$1,000 Cash and Whisky Loot from Liquor Store

Fifteen cases of whisky valued at $600, a wrist watch, a revolver, and $400 were stolen yesterday in a burglary at the Eagle Liquor store, 5842 Wentworth av., Michael Trotta, 5143 Wentworth av., the owner, reported to police.

23 ON TROLLEYS HURT WHEN BOY PULLS A SWITCH

A boy's prank caused a crash between two street cars and the injuring of 23 passengers last night. The cars, both on Harrison st., one moving east and the other west, were crossing Racine av. when the boy threw a switch that swung the rear end of the west bound car into the side of the other.

A surface lines supervisor, it was reported to police, seized the boy. Before he could call for police, however, a neighborhood crowd swarmed around the man and his captive and freed the boy, who ran away.

Five injured passengers were taken to Mother Cabrini hospital. They are:

Miss Marie Gentile, 21, of 4150 W. Van Buren st.

Miss Yolanda Poto, 21, of 1226 Flournoy st.

Miss Nicholinas Esposito, 21, of 706 S. Claremont av.

Mrs. Ella Purgatino, 28, of 1207 Cabrini st.

William Damon, 65, of 2656 N. Seminary av.

The others hurt were given first aid and dismissed.

BIG JOB AHEAD IN CHINA, VIEW OF MISSIONARY

Woman Points to Social, Economic Problems

Miss Clara Jones

The reconstruction of China will be one of the greatest post-war problems due to the economic and social revolution that has taken place there in the last seven years, Miss Clara Jones, foreign missionary for the Evangelical Lutheran church of Oak Park who has just returned from China, said yesterday.

Miss Jones arrived in New York aboard the Gripsholm Aug. 2 after seven years in China where she was "always one step ahead of the Japanese." She spent yesterday as a guest of Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Hegge. Dr. Hegge is pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church, Richland and Greenfield sts., Oak Park. She will be guest speaker at the 10:45 a. m. service in the church this morning and will relate her experiences.

Inflation Takes Hold

"The seven years I've spent in China unfolded a complete economic and social revolution," Miss Jones said. "Seven years ago I purchased a mandarin coat for one dollar. Today you couldn't buy one for $50,000 in Chinese money. A glass of milk costs $250 in Chinese money and an ordinary meal $2,000.

"The reconstruction of China will be a terrific post-war problem as the nation's buildings and homes have been bombed consistently. We will need a great staff of missionaries to return there to help do the job."

Under constant bombing, Miss Jones saw the retreating Chinese army and the advancing Japanese army at close quarters. Due to the work of the American consulate, she and the other missionaries were always warned in time of the advance and managed to get to safety, she said.

Chinese Equipment Poor

"There has been criticism of the retreats of the Chinese army," she said, "but after you have seen them both close at hand you see the wisdom of the actions. The difference in equipment between the two was enormous. For example, the Chinese soldiers wore straw sandals on their long marches. The Japanese had the finest, high leather boots."

U. S. SUB SINKS 2 DESTROYERS IN SURFACE FIGHT

Navy Tells of Raid on Jap Convoy

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The United States submarine Growler, now missing in action, once made a bold surface attack on a Japanese convoy and torpedoed two destroyers and two merchant ships.

Rear Adm. Ralph W. Christie, then commander of submarines in the 7th fleet, said the incident was unique in submarine warfare. The navy disclosed the Growler's exploit today when it told of five days of operations by five submarines in which at least 10 Japanese ships, including a 22,500 ton aircraft carrier, were sunk and 159 British and Australian prisoners of war were rescued.

The Growler was reported last Feb. 1 to have been lost. Her skipper was Comdr. Thomas B. Oakley Jr., Los Angeles, Cal., who was listed as missing.

Attacks by Moonlight

It was night, with a rising moon, when the Growler pushed on the surface into the midst of the convoy. A destroyer swung in to ram her and the Growler let fly with torpedoes. "The destroyer exploded violently, but beautifully, amidships," Oakley reported. The navy's account continued:

"Now shells from the enemy escorts fell around the Growler as she fired on two freighters. The Growler continued to move in for the attack. In a few minutes torpedoes from the Growler hit two freighters. On one there was an explosion, on the other columns of smoke could be observed.

"Enemy patrol craft spotted the Growler and gave chase. The Growler fired on another destroyer and heard the hits register. Other enemy craft moved in to depth charge the Growler and her men could hear a series of explosions. Later they reported their target, the destroyer, was breaking up and sinking. The Growler then withdrew."

Sealion Sinks Prison Ship

Attacking at the same time, the submarine Sealion, under Comdr. Eli T. Reich, Elmhurst, N. Y., sank a tanker and the Rakuyo Maru.

It was from the Rakuyo Maru that the 159 prisoners were rescued. It developed that the Rakuyo Maru had been carrying 1,400 prisoners from Singapore to Japan. The other prisoners presumably perished. The Japanese were seen threatening with pistols those who sought to get aboard other Japanese ships. The navy did not disclose the date but British protests over Japanese treatment of prisoners have indicated the Rakuyo Maru was sunk in September or October, 1944.

On the following night the submarine Pampanito, under Comdr. Paul E. Summers, Lexington, Tenn., torpedoed four more freighters of the convoy.

Two days later, in the same vicinity the Pampanito found a raft carrying 15 of the prisoners who had been on the Rakuyo Maru. It radioed other submarines for help and, continuing its search, eventually picked up survivors until it had 73. The Sealion picked up 54.

Typhoon Halts Rescues

Two other submarines, the Barb and the Queenfish, heard the Pampanito's call for help and, en route to the scene, came across another enemy convoy. The Barb got a tanker and the aircraft carrier and the Queenfish sank a transport.

The Barb rescued 14 survivors of the Rakuyo Maru and the Queenfish 18. A typhoon struck and they found no more.

The Sealion, Barb, and Queenfish were awarded Presidential unit citations for their parts in the rescues.

Comdr. Charles E. Loughlin of the Queenfish praised Lt. John E. Bennett, 2236 Sherman av., Evanston, Ill., for his work in rescuing prisoners. Chief Pharmacist's Mate Harold Dixon, Saginaw, Mich., treated the men when they were brought aboard.

Lt. Comdr. George N. Schiff, 4901 Drexel av., Chicago, and Pharmacist's Mate William A. Cumpston, Des Moines, Ia., of the destroyer Case, boarded the Pampanito to aid rescued men.

IKE ARRIVES AT MOSCOW TO REVIEW PARADE

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov flew to Moscow today. Eisenhower's visit was described as a short pleasure trip at the invitation of the soviet government. The general said: "It is a great pleasure to be in the capital of the country which contributed so materially to the success of the war against Germany."

Eisenhower was accompanied by his son, Lt. John Eisenhower. The chief of the Red army general staff, Gen. S. A. Antonov, officially welcomed the former allied supreme commander. Tomorrow Eisenhower will review a physical culture parade in Red Square.

Liner Queen Mary Docks Again at Southampton

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Aug. 11 (AP)—The 82,000 ton liner Queen Mary docked at Southampton today for the first time since August, 1939. From now on she will sail from this port instead of the Clyde, which she used to escape war time dangers.

ARNOLD PAYS LAST TRIBUTE TO MAJ. BONG

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Air Force Chief Gen. Arnold, in a tribute to the late Maj. Richard I. Bong, said tonight in a radio talk that what the men of the air force have done means more to mankind than any scientific development such as the atomic bomb.

The 24 year old Bong, leading American ace with 40 enemy planes to his credit, died in the crash of a jet propelled fighter plane last Monday near Burbank, Cal.

Arnold said the front pages were filled with another "immense and overwhelming event"—the use of the first atomic bomb.

Arnold then observed: "Dick Bong typified the many thousands of air force men who have died for their country. Giving without stint or reservation was indeed their way of life and of death. What those men and boys have done means more to mankind than any scientific development, however profoundly significant."

Mrs. Bong Returning West

Superior, Wis., Aug. 11 (AP)—Marjorie Vattendahl Bong, 21, widow of Major Richard I. Bong, is going back to California "to try to keep busy."

To a query concerning a fitting memorial to America's ace of aces, his widow replied, "perhaps improvement of the airport at Superior named for Major Bong last January, or perhaps a musical scholarship."

NAZIS EXECUTE 15 YANKS; FIND BODIES IN ITALY

War Department Tells of Slaughter

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Fifteen American soldiers were executed by Germans on March 26, 1944, the war department said today, in complete disregard for the rules of warfare.

The army said two officers and 13 enlisted men were on a military mission, trying to blow up a railroad tunnel near La Spezia, Italy. They were captured, it continued, and altho they were wearing uniforms, were executed and buried in a common grave.

"Every effort has been made to apprehend the Germans responsible for the execution," the statement said. "At present, several are in custody and are expected to be brought to trial in the near future."

Trying to Cut Rail Line

An attempt was being made to cut all German communications in preparation for an allied offensive which later resulted in the liberation of Rome, the army report said. One important railroad line ran from Genoa thru La Spezia to Livorno. Becaause of mountains, and because much of the line was hidden by the tunnels, the air force had not been able to knock it out.

So a special crew of 15 volunteered to put it out of commission. Col. Russell B. Livermore of New York, commanding officer of the 2671st special reconnaissance battalion, sent the group out March 22. They were landed on the Italian mainland by navy PT boats, but while the men were trying to reach their objective the PT's ran into a German convoy. A running battle ensued, one PT was damaged, and when it was all over it was too light to pick up the men on shore.

PT's Driven Away

The PT's were back the next night, but German patrol boats kept them from landing. The next night a heavy storm drove them away. But an airplane flew over the area, and the pilot reported the tunnel had not been blown up, and that there was no sign of the raiding party, the report continued.

Later Col. Livermore learned that the party had been captured, and a German broadcast boasted that a commando raiding party had been "wiped out." The 15 men were listed as missing in action.

More than a year late, in April, 1945, two officers made an on-the-spot investigation. They found that the 15 men had been executed, and they located their common grave. Each man still was in his uniform, each had his hands tied behind his back, each was barefooted.

Reburied in U. S. Cemetery

The army reburied them in an American military cemetery.

The war department's list of the 15:

First Lt. Vincent J. Russo, Montclair, N. J.; 1st Lt. Paul J. Traficante, New York; Tech. Sgt. Livio Viecell, Manor, Pa.; Sgt. Dominick C. Mauro, New York; Sgt. Alfred L. DeFlumeri, Natick, Mass.; and the following technicians fifth grade; Salvatore Disclafani, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Santoro Calcar:, Detroit, Mich.; Joseph M. Farrell, Southport, Conn.; John J. Leone, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Joseph A. Libardi, West Stockbridge, Mass.; Joseph Noia, New York; Thomas N. Savino, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Angelo Sirico, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Rosario F. Squatrito, Staten Island, N. Y.; Liberty J. Tremonte, Westport, Conn.

Woman Dies in Hit-Run Crash; Army Man Hurt

Miss Margaret Ward, 24, of 7259 S. Artesian av., a waitress, was killed yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding with Capt. Lee Alkire, 30, of 9533 Longwood dr., was struck by a hit and run car at Western av. and 97th st. in Evergreen Park. The inquest was continued at the Chicago Lawn police station to Sept. 13. Capt. Alkire was taken to Gardiner General hospital. He suffered a broken shoulder.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Aug. 12—Spanish-American War Ends

WITH her fleets sunk, her armies routed, and her own shores in imminent danger of American attack, Spain brought to an end her 114 day war with the United States by signing, on Aug. 12, 1898, a peace protocol relinquishing her sovereignty over Cuba, ceding Puerto Rico to America, and granting to the United States the right to hold the city and the bay of Manila, in the Philippine Islands, until a treaty could be concluded.

The signing took place in Washington, D. C., in the presence of President McKinley. Jules Cambon, French ambassador to the United States, acted for the queen regent of Spain. Secretary of State William R. Day signed for the United States.

Altho the formal treaty of peace was not concluded until the following Dec. 10, the protocol of Aug. 12 brought hostilities to an end everywhere except in the far east, where a severed cable delayed the news. On Aug. 13 American troops entered the Spanish city of Manila. [One of the generals participating in the operation was Arthur MacArthur, father of the Gen. MacArthur who was to take Manila from another foe, the Japanese, 47 years later.]

America's primary object was the freeing of Cuba from Spanish control. Her interest in the Philippines came almost as an accident of war. [Admiral Dewey had sought and destroyed the Spanish fleet there on May 1. Later land forces were sent from America to consolidate his victory]. After the treaty was concluded America found to her astonishment that by her acquisition of the Philippines she had become a great eastern power.

Even at the time, there was realization in some quarters of the gravity of the new responsibilities the country had assumed and of their enormous potential consequences. "What the more distant outcome of these results will be in the future years no man can tell," wrote Henry Cabot Lodge soon after the war. "We can only say with certainty that they will be far reaching and momentous."

POWER PROJECT RETURN PLANNED BY GOVERNMENT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The department of the interior today disclosed plans to return quickly the Grand river dam hydroelectric project to its owner, the Oklahoma Grand river dam authority.

The government took over the project several years ago by executive order of the late President Roosevelt to facilitate war use of its power. At that time the project was unfinished but, as the result of additional funds advanced by the federal works agency, it is now complete.

UNRRA'S TASK 'DOUBLED,' ASKS 2 BILLION MORE

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—Director General Herbert Lehman tonight estimated "more than $2,000,000,000" in new funds would be necessary to carry on the task of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration because the work had been "suddenly doubled" by the approach of the end of the war in the Pacific.

In a speech prepared for delivery over CBS while the third international conference of UNRRA was in recess over the week-end, he said that "large as this sum may seem, it will barely suffice to bridge the gap until the minimum of restoration has been achieved."

Earlier this week he told the conference that "at least" $1,500,000,000 more would be needed to finance the organization's program thru the next year.

Fears Now a Reality

"Our fears of starvation and disease are stark realities now," Lehman said. "It is inconceivable that the united nations could abandon the liberated peoples at this moment of their greatest peril.

"It is the great lessons of recent months that, despite hesitancy here and doubt there, they are essentially pulling together for this very endeavor."

[A Reuters dispatch from London said UNRRA officials believe that when the allied armies enter Japanese occupied Pacific zones they will uncover a degree of devastation unequalled in any other part of the world. In China alone officials estimated that 100 million persons are destitute and that many of these would succumb even if relief were to come at once, the dispatch said.]

Appeals to All Nations

Lehman said plans had been formulated for sending supplies, chiefly trucks, over the Stilwell road, and even larger shipments thru the ports of liberated China, calling for "some hundreds of thousands of tons."

Lehman appealed to "all the peoples of the united nations to let it be known that they will support and press for total fulfillment of the undertaking given in their name."

Earlier Australia had demanded a broader base for UNRRA's central government, urging its expansion from four to nine members to give greater representation to the smaller nations.

The proposal was sent to committee for study, delaying temporarily a plan to give France and Canada immediate membership. If the Australian plan is successful she would gain one of the additional seats as the fourth largest contributor to UNRRA's finances.

Other seats likely would go to Brazil and either Czechoslovakia, New Zealand, or India. Present members are England, China, the United States, and Russia.

U. S. FINDS 90% OF FARM LANDS NEED TREATING

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Nearly one billion acres—more than 90 per cent of the nation's farmlands—needs soil conservation treatment to protect it from soil erosion and to maintain its fertility, the soil conservation service reported today.

After a three year survey—the first detailed study of farmland resources ever made on such a scale by any nation—the SCS recommended that more than 43,000,000 of the 417,561,000 acres now under actual cultivation should be retired to grass or trees because they are too steep, eroded, wet, stony, or otherwise unsuited for efficient production of crops.

The needed conservation work, SCS estimated, will require 3,634,932 man years of labor; 327,441 years of motor equipment; 1,089,978 years of horse equipment, and 2,544,106 tons of seed.

VOCAL WINNERS TO MAKE DEBUT AT MUSIC FETE

Dreams Will Come True for Fortunate Four

FESTIVAL RESERVED SEATS

Reserved seats for the Chicago Music Festival at 80 cents and $1.25 are on sale in The Tribune Public Service offices at 1 S. Dearborn st. and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. They also are on sale by mail. Money orders or checks should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and sent with stamped, self-addressed envelope to Festival ticket manager, Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago 11.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK

The dream of a lifetime will come true for four young Chicago singers Saturday evening, Aug. 18, in Soldiers' field. They will make a glorious debut before 90,000 spectators at the Chicago Music Festival.

The years of study, of arduous practice, of perhaps saving and scrimping with only the prospect of a small, dusty hall some place for that all-important debut will have been worth while. Accompanied by the Chicago Music Festival Symphony orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber, they will try their wings before one of Chicago's greatest audiences with three prominent opera stars to judge their talents.

Two to Sing Over Radio

Two of the young hopefuls will be given even a greater opportunity for national recognition. They will sing over W-G-N and Mutual's nation-wide hookup between 9 and 10 p. m., when the star dotted festival program will go on the air.

The four singers, two women and two men, will be finalists in the Chicago Music Festival vocal contests and will have bested a field of 500 singers from Chicago and surrounding suburbs.

The contest, one of the largest competitions of its kind in the country, has been divided into two preliminary tryouts for Cook county and suburban contestants. Ten winners in Cook county have been announced and the best 10 suburban singers will be selected Friday afternoon. The 20 will compete for the privilege of appearing at the festival at comprehensive tests Saturday morning in the Drake hotel.

Opera Singers Judges

The great moment for the four young victors will be heralded on the field with the grand entrance of five open cars. In the cars will be the three judges, Lawrence Tibbett, Gladys Swarthout, and Edith Mason, noted opera singers, and the festival's honored guests, Dr. F. Melius Christiansen, composer and director of the famous St. Olaf's choir, and Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen.

The cars with their prominent passengers will tour the field and then the judges will take their places at three tables set well back from the stage. The field lights will be dimmed to highlight the spots illuminating the young contestants. The choice of the judges of the best woman and best male singer will be reported immediately to Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the vocal contests, but will not be made known until the festival is broadcast.

This is the first year that the festival winners will be recalled to sing for a second time on the program.

Beginning of Careers

Others who have stood in their place in previous Chicago Music Festivals remember it as the beginning of a successful musical career. From this rung, they have climbed to recognition in radio, musical comedy, and on the concert stage. Miss Harriet O'Rourke, coloratura soprano who won the contest in 1942 at the age of 19, is now a well known radio singer in New York.

Last year's winners also have promising futures. Miss Carol Smith, contralto, now a member of the W-G-N choral group, has more concert engagements than she can fill. Harold C. Keel, bass, formerly of Moline, who has been working in a war plant on the west coast, recently had a tryout for the leading role in the smash hit, "Oklahoma!"

Because they are Chicago's own sons and daughters, members of the Chicago Music Festival audience always have taken the winning singers to their hearts. Their performance, so fraught with youthful expectancy and fine talent, always has received tremendous ovations.

SHOSTAKOVICH'S 6TH UNWINDS IN A SILKEN THREAD

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY

Pierre Monteux last night devoted the third of his Ravinia concerts with the Chicago Symphony orchestra to Russian composers. He divided them neatly between such war horses as Glinka's overture to "Russian and Ludmilla" and the Tschaikowsky "Andante Cantabile" from the string quartet, and such not quite so familiar works as Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition," in the Ravel transcription, and Shostakovich's "Sixth Symphony." The sixth is a score rather obscured in the repertory between what lovers of alliteration would certainly call the fabulous fifth and the sensational seventh.

Sixth Fascinates Conservatives

From what we know of Monteux it may have been a typical gesture by which he by-passed the easy way of getting a Saturday night audience worked up to Shostakovich cheers. The 6th symphony is not popular with the cheering section. Its long, wayward largo, its witty allegro and its crisply marching presto—these can not hope to compete with the taut emotionalism of the 5th and 7th symphonies, or the audacious wit of the 1st.

But somehow the 6th seems to fascinate the more conservative conductors. Stock, for example, played it, tho he never performed the 5th, and the 7th was a Ravinia special for Russian war relief—back in those days, perhaps now happily in the past, when such things were of crucial importance.

Largo Held with Serenity

Having chosen the 6th, Monteux played it with the articulate, fastidious skill that is his one trade mark. When he turns to a piece of music, he understands its style, and it was rewarding to hear the serenity with which he held the rambling largo in suspension, never forcing it, never rushing it, but displaying it precisely, exactly, for what it is, a Shostakovich coup in the matter of achieving longevity without lethargy. Naturally, the second and third movements slipped off his baton like a spool of silk spun by the orchestra.

Some of the orchestra men who play string quartets with Monteux tell me his way with a viola is just as remarkable as with a baton. That sensitivity for chamber music took the Tschaikowsky completely out of the warhorse class and gave it the restraint of an etching in strings. The same sensitivity, applied to full orchestra, restored "Russian and Ludmilla" to its pristine state.

Treasure Gallery for Ear

But when I said Monteux bypassed the cheering section, I should have added, temporarily. For he ended the concert, with a performance of "Pictures at an Exhibition" on which the entire evening had been planned. It was a performance of mastery that verged on the colossal.

The huge score with its shifting moods became a great gallery filled with treasures for the ear, culminating in the Russian clangor of bells and brass in "The Great Gate of Kiev." And here was where an audience of more than 5,000 really let loose and cheered as the players bestowed their second "tusch" of the season. The other fanfare went to Artur Rodzinski. Discerning organization, the Chicago Symphony orchestra.

Seized in Robbery

PATRON OF LOOP HOTEL KILLED IN 8 STORY PLUNGE

A woman about 50 years old who registered at the Palmer House late Friday night from a nonexistent address was killed yesterday in a plunge from the window of her room on the 14th floor. Her body fell in a court at the sixth floor level.

When she took the room she said her name was Marion Davis, of 105 Elm st., New Douglas, Madison county. There is no Elm st. in New Douglas, and residents said yesterday that Marion Davis was not known in the village.

The woman, whose hair was turning gray, wore a black dress, black shoes, and had a plain gold wedding ring. There was no identification in her purse, which contained $57. An inquest will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at 425 Plymouth ct.

PETAIN DOZES AS PROSECUTOR DEMANDS DEATH

Four Years of Treason Charged by Mornet

BY ROBERT SAGE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Aug. 11—Marshal Petain, once hailed as the heroic victor of Verdun, today listened impassively or dozed while State's Attorney Andre Mornet demanded the death penalty for him as a traitor.

The demand, which was received in silence by the crowded courtroom that yesterday tumultuously demonstrated in favor of the former head of the Vichy government, came at the end of a four and one-half hour summing up on the 18th day of the trial.

Mornet said that the 89 year old marshal, using his illustrious name as a "screen for treason," had accepted a dishonorable armistice, had condoned the assassination of French patriots, and worked "systematically against our allies."

"That is treason," cried the red robed bewhiskered Mornet who sent the woman spy Mata Hari to her death during World War I. "It is a crime for which no excuse exists. For four years Petain was guilty of treason."

Tells of Threats

Mornet said that in asking the death penalty he was braving insults and threats of death which he received daily in his mail.

The afternoon-long oratory today brought to a climax the long legal career of the gray, 79 year old Mornet. He thundered away in a voice that became hoarser and hoarser as the afternoon wore on. Glowering and pointing a bony finger at Petain, the prosecutor took up the tragic history of France in the pre-war years and progressed, event by event, in attempting to prove that behind all the country's weaknesses, blunders, and blameworthy actions lay the figure of Petain, who allegedly was working to satisfy his vanity and to kill democracy in France.

Scuttled Fleet

Mornet read a bundle of messages which quoted Petain as ordering French commanders in North Africa and Syria to resist the allies. He said Petain scuttled the French fleet at Toulon when he might have sent it to the allies.

"They tell you the situation would have been worse without Petain," Mornet shouted.

"How could it have been worse? There is nothing worse. He almost succeeded in depriving France of her honor."

A supreme effort to sway the 24 man jury will be made Monday and Tuesday by Fernand Payen, chief defense counsel, and Jacques Isorni, his young assistant. The verdict is expected Tuesday evening.

WLB APPROVES HOLIDAY WITH PAY ON V-J DAY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The war labor board took steps today to help workers celebrate the day when victory over Japan comes.

Responding to queries from employers, the WLB announced that workers could be released to join in V-J day celebrations without being docked their pay.

This release, said the WLB, would allow employers to pay their workers at straight time rates on earnings for the hours not worked without violating wage stabilization regulations. The board added that there must be an official declaration of V-J day.

Drowned Girl, 11, Dead 4 Hours Before Body Found

Kathleen Templer, 11, of 949 Baker st., Gary, Ind., who was drowned Friday in Lake Michigan at Marquette park beach, Gary, was dead four hours before her body was discovered, police said yesterday. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Templer. The girl's body was found in 3 feet of water 15 yards from shore after other children reported they had not seen her for several hours.

CANADA AWAITS TRIAL BALANCE ON 'BABY BONUS'

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 11—The premiers of Canada's nine provinces who spent five days here studying the dominion government's offer of a new, highly socialistic public welfare and security program will arrive home in time to receive the first report on operation of the "baby bonus" law, it was learned today.

This act, described as one of the most radical share-the-wealth plans ever put into operation in the Americas, is the keystone of the British Beveridge social security program which the United Kingdom so far has failed to accept. Officially known as the family allowance plan, it was passed by the dominion parliament a year ago and has been in operation since July 1.

The plan offers a cash grant of $5 to $8 a month to every child under 16 years of age in Canada. Provisions in the income tax law make it uneconomical for persons earning more than $3,000 a year to accept the largess. The grant is a gift from the dominion treasury, paid out of general revenue, with no deductions or assessments against wage earners.

Average $6 for Child

The ministry of health and national welfare, which mailed out the first "baby bonus" checks last month, has promised a report on expenditures by provinces early next week. Best estimates are that nearly a million and a third families received a total of 17 to 18 million dollars last month, with an average of about $6 for every child registered.

To receive the grants a family need merely register at the nearest post office. The mother of the family—on the theory that she will use the money for her children whereas the father might be tempted to squander it on liquor or gambling—then receives a monthly check.

Children up to 5 years receive $5 a month, ranging upward by three year brackets to $8 for a child of 16 years. All children of school age must attend school to be eligible, and higher grants for older children are based on added school and clothing costs.

Security Held Assured

It has been estimated that the program will cost about 20 million dollars a month, or about a quarter of a billion a year. Its proponents say it gives "economic security" to the low average earning class because employers pay on the basis of productive effort and not on family need.

The provincial ministers who wound up their conference here yesterday ran into home constitutional difficulties in their discussion of an even broader "social rehabilitation" program.

"Timed" Public Investments

The dominion government offered the provinces a program calling for "timed" public investments to provide employment, public health insurance, old age pensions which would give every 70 year old citizen—rich or poor—$30 a month, an expanded employment insurance, public housing, and additional agriculture services. It also declared itself most willing to "discuss" wage floors and hour ceilings.

In return the dominion asked sole right to levy income, corporation, and death taxes. It has held this right under war emergency laws, but must relinquish it with the end of the war.

For the provinces to relinquish this taxing power permanently would require amendment to the British North America act, which is Canada's constitution. To get around this, the dominion government proposed that the provinces enter into a three year "gentlemen's agreement" not to collect the taxes.

The premiers made no decision on the dominion's proposals but adjourned to meet again Nov. 26.

INLAND STEEL CO. STRIKERS DEFY WLB WORK RULE

6 American Steel Plants Remain Idle

Striking steelworkers, who walked out of the Inland Steel company's East Chicago plant, at a mass meeting yesterday booed a telegram from the war labor board ordering them back to work and voted to remain on strike until disciplined employes are rehired.

Officials of the striking union, Local 1010, United Steelworkers of America [CIO] reported 9,000 workers had left their jobs, leaving only maintenance men at work but Inland Steel officials insisted nearly half of the day force of 12,000 had walked thru picket lines.

A telegram from Albert A. Epstein, director of the WLB disputes division, was read at the meeting in the CIO hall at 3436 Michigan st., East Chicago.

Demand Workers Be Rehired

The strikers demanded that the company rehire William Maihofer, a motor inspector disciplined for taking a vacation after he had accepted vacation pay in lieu of idle time last March, and two grievance committeemen, E. C. Johnson and Harry Powell.

All open hearth furnaces at the plant were shut down yesterday, said Clarence Randall, vice president, but blast furnaces and coke ovens are continuing in operation.

Joe Germano, sub-district director for the striking steelworkers, said the walkout was unauthorized and added that "orderly procedures of the union contract were not followed and the men had no right to leave their jobs."

See American Plants Idle

Six of the nine plants of the American Steel Foundries company continued idle yesterday after 5,000 workers had quit their jobs Friday over contract differences with the company.

The idle plants, normally employing 5,000 persons, are located at East Chicago, Hammond, Verona, Pa., Alliance, O., and Galesburg, Ill. Three plants at Newark, N. J., Granite City, and East St. Louis, Ill., are continuing in production, Thomas Drever, company president announced yesterday.

Drever said the strike was "due to a disagreement in negotiating a new contract." Germano said the steelworkers had walked out because "the company had refused to incorporate war labor board orders in the contract."

MEXICAN STRIKE BARS SHOWING OF U. S. MOVIES

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 11 (AP)—United States motion pictures, which have predominated in Mexico, were withdrawn from movie theaters today as the result of a strike against distributors. Offices of the distributors, United Artists, Fox, Paramount, Universal, Columbia, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, RKO, and Warner Brothers, were closed.

Employes ask 50 per cent pay increases, while the companies have offered 25 per cent raises. Conciliation talks are continuing.

Mexican distributors also face a strike threat. The entire nation is affected by the strike, the union reported.

WHAT THEY FORGOT

On Oct. 18, 1907, the United States subscribed to the second Hague convention defining the laws and customs of war on land. Russia and Great Britain, among the other victorious powers of the present war, were signatories, as was also the defeated nation of Germany, as well as Japan. The Hague convention makes curious reading when set beside the decisions at Potsdam. Altho it is still in effect, presumably governing the relations of nations, President Truman, Marshal Stalin, and Prime Minister Attlee have overlooked it completely.

The preamble to the Hague convention states that the inhabitants of belligerent powers "remain under the protection and the rule of the principles of the law of nations, as they result from the usages established among civilized peoples, from the laws of humanity, and the dictates of the public conscience." If these are the general laws governing a military occupation, a peace cannot logically be less generous or more punitive.

It is part of the evolution of civilization that the purpose of war is no longer regarded as extermination and enslavement. The civilized conception of war is that it is essentially limited to activities against armies and states, not against races or peoples. Even before the Hague convention the United States had given recognition to the fact that the law of military occupation does not accord to an invader unlimited power over the inhabitants temporarily under his control. President McKinley's General Order No. 101 during the war with Spain held that the inhabitants of occupied territory "are entitled to security in their persons and property and in all their private rights and relations," and further that "the municipal laws of the conquered territory, such as affect private rights of person and property and provide for the punishment of crime, are considered as continuing in force" and are "to be administered by the ordinary tribunals."

Are the Potsdam decisions, taken to "ensure the creation of a just and enduring peace," compatible with the objective professed and with international law as expressed in the Hague convention? And, in this light, what of the procedures and intentions outlined by the extraordinary allied commission constituted to conduct war crimes trials?

Justice Jackson and his associates of the war crimes commission have outlined some charges clearly punishable under international law, and others never before defined. Consideration may be confined to such recognized offenses as plunder of private or public property and deportation of civilian populations—two acts specifically mentioned. The astonishing fact here is that these are considered crimes if committed by the enemy, but, by the Potsdam statement, are not regarded as crimes if committed by the Russians, the British, and ourselves, altho both are enjoined under the Hague convention.

Article 15 of the Potsdam settlement for Germany states, "Productive capacity not needed for permitted production shall be removed in accordance with the reparations plan recommended by the allied commission on reparations and approved by the governments concerned or if not removed shall be destroyed."

A number of provisions of the Hague convention specifically contravene such acts by an occupying power. Article 46 states, "Private property cannot be confiscated"; article 47, "Pillage is forbidden"; article 50, "No general penalty, pecuniary or otherwise, shall be inflicted upon the population on account of the acts of individuals for which they cannot be regarded as jointly and severally responsible"; article 52, "Requisitions in kind and services shall not be demanded from municipalities and inhabitants except for the needs of the army of occupation" and, if taken, should be paid promptly or the indebtedness acknowledged by receipt. Article 53 limits the movable property which may be seized to that owned by the state and capable of being used for military operations. These provisions are referred to the Potsdam conferees. With the exception of the Goering steel works and a few other enterprises, all the property to be stripped from Germans is privately owned.

Section XIII. of the Potsdam declaration states, "The conference reached the following agreement on the removal of Germans from Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary. The three governments having considered the question in all its aspects, recognize that the transfer to Germany of German populations or elements thereof, remaining in Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Hungary, will have to be undertaken."

It is to be assumed that deportation to Germany is contemplated not only of nazi interlopers who entered these countries after the German army, but of persons of German blood who may have resided there hundreds of years. Eduard Benes, in fact, has made it clear that this is the policy to be applied to Czechoslovakia's Sudeten Germans. Those deported will unquestionably be forced to leave most of their property behind.

Article 46 of the Hague convention not only prohibits confiscation of private property, but states, "Family honor and rights . . . must be respected." Article 50 prohibits "general penalties" against civilian populations. Many of the Germans to be deported enjoyed citizenship in the lands from which they are to be removed. They are to be reprocessed into Germans. Is Section XIII. of Potsdam consonant with the principles of the Hague convention? According to Justice Jackson and his associates of the war crime commission, deportations, as well as plunder of private property, are crimes against international law.

How does the war crimes commission itself conform to the recognized procedures of international law? In some areas it is to prosecute under ex post facto laws; in others, it reserves the right to disregard "technical rules of evidence." It is an international tribunal and not a local court of constituted authority under the laws of the occupied country, and it asserts its right to prosecute acts "whether or not in violation of the domestic law of the country where perpetrated."

Article 43 of the Hague convention enjoins the occupying power to respect, "unless absolutely prevented, the laws in force in the country." President McKinley's order of 1898 had enunciated the same principle. In a recent publication of the international law division of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Dr. Raphael Lemkin writes, concerning nazi occupation tactics, "The introduction of German law in the occupied countries is not only in violation of the regulations of the Hague convention but also of the very principles of the law of nations and the laws of humanity." How would the Jackson commission, which writes its own international law, stand if the same rule were applied?

The logical reply to these objections to the Potsdam decisions and of the war crimes commission is that the Nazis were guilty of doing the same things which the allies intend to do, and that they did them first. This is no answer at all. It is to argue that there is no moral distinction between the Nazis and ourselves; to say that the things for which Hitler fought are the same things for which we have fought.

If we fought for a world of order, governed by a respect for law, we cannot impose a peace of anarchy, animated by a disrespect for law. If we fought to win respect for international obligations and the integrity of the pledged word, we must demonstrate it by our own actions. If we fought in the knowledge that the characteristic of criminals is that they are individuals, we must not proceed to punish nations and races. If we fought against the forces of darkness and evil, we cannot subscribe to a peace that perpetuates injustice and creates a new world order equally as intolerable as the old, with the only distinction a new set of victims.

Otherwise, we shall have fought that the principles of Hitler might triumph.

PEACE

We have before us now a tremendous task of restoration. America is in a more fortunate situation than the nations of Europe; yet to return our resources to the channels of peace, to free our institutions from the hasty improvisations of war emergency, and to protect them from the effects of forced and abnormal application, is a task which will test the wisdom and character of our leaders and our people.

If our war experience has proved anything of America, it has been the soundness and beneficence of American institutions and the life they make possible. Let us realize that truth, and resolve that these institutions shall be strengthened in peace and not weakened, and that the life which has grown up and flowered under their influence shall be jealously preserved for our children and our children's children, and for the sake of our heroic dead.

This was the editorial comment of THE TRIBUNE, published Nov. 12, 1918, following the armistice which ended the first World war. The writer was the late Tiffany Blake, then and for two succeeding decades chief editorial writer of this newspaper. His counsel is THE TRIBUNE's today, now that another and greater war has come to an end and the nation's rejoicing is tempered by remembrance of the heroic dead and by the sacrifices this country has made to achieve the victory.

The free men and women of America have won this fight for the preservation of their liberty. They may have hoped that a larger measure of freedom for the whole world might be another result of their striving. The prevailing state of the world beyond our shores does not offer any very heartening assurance of the fulfilment of these expectations. Liberty was never present in some of the nations allied with us in the struggle. In others, it has not grown during the war, but has declined. The United States stands virtually alone as a citadel of the ancient rights of its people.

The tremendous, overwhelming nature of the triumph which was won by American arms and American production, by the sons of freedom in the fighting ranks, by free workers and free managers, is its own warrant of the enduring strength of our Republic, its institutions, and its traditions. Surely this war was fought and won, above everything else, for the preservation of these values. Let us be vigilant to guard them eternally for ourselves, and as the light that can guide humanity to a future of such hope as men elsewhere in the world have never known.

MR. CHURCHILL DESCENDING THE STAIRS

According to the reporters there were protocol troubles at Potsdam. Mr. Churchill's quarters were on the second floor and the easy way for him to get to the conference room was to go by the stairway. A prime minister descending the stairs fills the eye. He is a more impressive figure than a dignitary entering by a door. One overpowers the other. Climbing is the way to many preferments, prerogatives, profits, and honors, but no potentate would look his part while climbing stairs. Even if he didn't puff, stair climbing in public would be infra dig. A king going aboard a battleship is just another guy getting on a boat. Climbing may get a fellow anything else, but not dignity or impressiveness.

Apparently the Three Bigs did not just amble into the conference room when it was along about meeting time, but made their entrance at the signal that all was ready. There was nothing to be gained by getting there first, as at a free lunch, but rather by sticking out longest. Nevertheless, precautions were taken. And protocol would not permit Mr. Churchill to come down the stairs with a somewhat chubby Jovian bearing to meet the earthlings. Presumably the rules applied also to Mr. Attlee after Mr. Churchill had come down some stairs he did know were there.

The then first minister of the king at Potsdam was required to get out of his room and into the court yard. There he could find a door that wasn't any better door than the doors used by Mr. Truman and Mr. Stalin. When all was set the whistles blew and the potentates, each with equal entrance privileges, gathered to take under consideration the future of the human race. How they got out of the room is not recorded. What they got out with has been in part reported. Mr. Truman's burden was not excessive.

Protocol is the sacred cow of our governmental Brahmins. In the first days of the Republic John Adams agitated himself over forms of official etiquette, particularly at the first inauguration. Thomas Jefferson preferred what he knew as the pell mell system, a nicely descriptive term. When a White House dinner was ready for the official guests they were expected to stroll, not run, to the table from wherever they happened to be with whatever companion happened to be nearest and seat themselves without regard for precedence. Mr. Merry, the British minister, thought it was an awful custom in an awful country. Some one may have bumped him in getting to the table for a choice place. Mr. Jefferson thought the scramble, if it degenerated into one, was suited to our republican institutions, homespun way of life, and doctrines of equality.

When the pell mell system was applied to hotels and boarding houses the rush swept the weaker off their feet. Charles Dickens observed the custom with uncomplimentary amusement. It achieved briskness at the cost of amenity and gradually it lost favor altho some survivals were noted several years ago in the Cumberland mountains one of the last strongholds of uninhibited freedom. Strong women were unequal to the dining room rush and waited for the second table. However, protocol was not a natural American amelioration of pell mell. Who, by the way, called the thing protocol?

It is easy to learn that the word comes from the Greek word protos, meaning first, related to pro, meaning before. It was once used to describe the first draft of an official document, such as a treaty. In that use it made simple sense. Now it means who comes before whom. Mr. Churchill was not allowed to be protos on the stairway, or because of the stairway.

Protocol is a little man all dressed up to impress some one who is all dressed up to impress him.

RUBBER, VETERANS, AND JOBS

In an analysis of post-war job opportunities for veterans THE TRIBUNE discussed one of America's new war time major industries—synthetic rubber. Enormous productive facilities were successfully developed when the supply of natural rubber was cut off by Japan's conquests.

When millions of men now in service are released to civilian life they can be given employment in one of two ways. Either they can be absorbed by an economy which will expand if freed from government controls and a crushing tax burden or they can become digits in a government regulated job budget, where their opportunities, in all likelihood, will be restricted to work on such super WPA's as the burocrats may fancy.

Spokesmen for the rubber industry have warned that the nation will be abandoning an important defense if it scraps or reduces its synthetic industry to a standby plant basis. Henry Wallace, the secretary of commerce, has long been loud in clamoring for the disposal of the synthetic rubber plants. He wants to make a gift of the rubber industry to the British and Dutch colonial planters who for years have thrived on the exploitation of coolie labor.

How worthy are the tuans of this present at the expense of America's security, its prosperity, and its employment opportunities? The answer is to be found in the record of the rubber cartel over the last 20 years. When, after the last war, the price of rubber fell to 15 cents a pound, the British planters in Malaya, with the guidance of the colonial office, formed the first restrictive combination.

They immediately fixed a base price of 30 cents a pound—double that of the open market—and reduced export quotas so that they could command the higher price. The American automobile industry at that time was expanding enormously, and its operations represented the principal demand for rubber. By 1925 the British growers had driven the price to well over $1 a pound, causing such a hostile reaction in the United States that by the following year reclaimed rubber consumption here had risen to 45 per cent of the consumption of crude.

In 1934 the Dutch and French rubber planters were brought into the combination, which became a full-blown cartel known as the international rubber regulation committee. The restrictive practices employed by this group to maintain artificial price levels bear much of the blame for the tragic lack of an adequate stockpile after Japan cut off supplies. The national industrial conference board has passed this judgment on the operations of the cartel:

"By the end of 1936 rubber production was as much an affair of colonial offices and international politics as it was of rubber estates and native operations. Of interest to the future were the facts that the international rubber regulation committee was dominated by the British government, that the place of consumers was confined to advice only, and that the producers' agreement provided that the governments in enforcing the rules regarding producing, importing or exporting, replanting or new planting, were empowered to 'destroy and eradicate' rubber and plantations."

In view of these facts, who in his right mind would destroy our synthetic industry, placing ourselves at the mercy of foreign governments, depriving our veterans of opportunities for gainful work, supporting a system of colonial slave labor, and doing all this for the gain of no one but the rubber barons? If there is a scrap of common sense left in Washington, our veterans will be given preference over the grasping rubber cartel.

VICTORY OVER DEFICIENCY DISEASES

No true member of the healing art is smug or complacent. In spite of advances in medicine, surgery, and laboratory technique, there is still all too much suffering in the world. But the physician should be permitted to take an occasional bow because of his conquest of certain bacterial, metabolic, and deficiency diseases. Scurvy is a good illustration. Before this malady was subdued in the 18th century, thru the employment of citrus fruits, sailors on long voyages died by the hundreds of thousands. Nothing was known about vitamins in those days, but somehow the Dutch authorities discovered that feeding oranges, lemons, or limes to their men prevented this dread scourge. Two hundred years later all English sailors were compelled to use limes on every trip and, to this day, they carry the nickname "Limey."

We see few cases of severe vitamin C deficiency today altho there are some. Not too long ago one such victim was brought to a large city clinic. The mother of the child was supplied with oranges and instructed to give the patient three or four daily. No improvement was noted on the return visit and investigation disclosed that the father had enjoyed them with his gin.

Rickets, caused by too little vitamin D, is another difficulty that is almost ancient history. The modern feeding of youngsters and good hygiene have worked wonders. We seldom encounter the marked bone deformities of years gone by. Cure and prevention are the same—the administration of vitamin D as cod liver oil, irradiated milk, or concentrated preparations.

When it comes to the B complex group we are likely to observe more instances of an inadequate intake. Probably our addiction to white bread is responsible for a depletion of thiamin [B1]. This ingredient is removed in the process of milling and, unless our grain products are reinforced, we do not receive a sufficient amount. While the most serious form of the resulting illness—beriberi—is rare in America, mild cases are not uncommon. Numbness of the lips and extremities should make us think of this possibility.

Early in the 20th century residents of the south particularly exhibited a peculiar disease affecting chiefly the skin, the intestinal tract, and the nervous system. This ailment had been widespread in Spain and other Mediterranean countries for more than 200 years, where it was called "rose sickness." Here it is known as "pellagra" and we owe a debt to Goldberger and his associates who discovered the cause—a scarcity of vitamin B2 [nicotinic acid]. Those whose menus consisted largely of fat pork, corn bread, and grits were ready victims. A varied and balanced diet, plus the addition of yeast, combats this disorder successfully.

There are other types of deficiencies. Nutritional edema may arise from a shortage of protein, especially meat. We have the knowledge of prevention, but lack the wherewithal, and we may well wonder if a rise in the incidence of this condition will follow our restricted meat supplies. Certainly there are many cases in war torn Europe, but the chances are that we will escape unless the situation grows worse. True, most of us have learned to eat substitutes we never tried before; others depend upon eggs to the point where they expect to start cackling.

TRACING HEART DISEASE

P. E. writes: Would an electrocardiograph test show if a person had an attack of angina pectoris?

REPLY

The instrument only demonstrates whether or not the heart muscle has been damaged by these seizures. In cases where the electrocardiogram is normal, temporary changes can be shown by making a record after exercise or during a period when pain is noted.

NASAL IRRIGATION

C. L. T. writes: Is there any danger in using oily nose drops to relieve a sinus condition?

REPLY

If the procedure is employed carefully, it can be very effective. On the other hand, this medication is discouraged in children because of the danger of oil dropping into the lungs and may cause trouble.

SALT IN SUMMER

M. N. writes: Should every one take added salt during the summer months, or only those who perspire excessively?

REPLY

Those who perspire freely are in greater need but any one who is physically active or who develops marked fatigue, depressions, cramps, etc., should fortify himself with an additional amount.

PUS IN CHEST

V. L. writes: Is empyema a serious disease?

REPLY

Unless properly treated, it can be; but in skilled hands, the outcome is usually excellent.

COMPLETE

H. C. L. writes: What is meant by whole blood?

REPLY

It is the real McCoy—the same as we have in our circulatory system.

DON'T SLIP

H. F. writes: Does shaving under the arms effect the eyesight?

REPLY

Not if you keep the razor out of your eyes.

"A LOT OF HUNGRY PEOPLE"

Macomb, Ill., Aug. 5—Recently a young man in this community, a farmer, was compelled to sell everything when called to the service. I know that boy personally. He was a young man who had spent all of his life on a farm, and was always on the job, but the draft board took him just the same. He took an appeal but was ignored.

The draft board took the last help we had and we are people who have always lived on a farm, and four of our family are in service. Our exercise of the right of appeal did no good, either, when they took our last boy. We are farming 200 acres. We have 350 chickens, 125 turkeys, 20 head of sheep, 75 hogs, 16 milch cows, and 35 head of beef cattle, and yet, they took the last boy we had. Now it will be necessary to send the cows to market, since no help is available here. A lawyer told us that he had tried to get a deferment for two draft age men for a farmer who had 900 hogs and 600 head of cattle. The farmer met the president of the draft board in this community, on the street, and asked him if he did not know that taking farm help was going to cut down production, and he turned and said, "To hell with production."

We had hay to care for, oats to cut, and corn to plow, when our last boy was drafted, but no member of the draft board has offered his help.

I think it is time congress took some steps to stop this drafting of farm boys or there surely will be a lot of hungry people.

CROCHET DOODLERS

Kewanee, Ill., Aug. 3—August is none too soon to start my campaign to restrain newspapers from publishing sketches and breathtaking details about some new and bizzare bit of crochet that will be labeled a potholder.

The season is almost upon us, as the doodlers must have time to finish their wares before the yule season. You know, a nice little something that will express affection and the Christmas spirit for the price of a greeting card, but with, O, so much more sentiment woven in!

Verily, I believe my mother has hundreds of friends who have showered her with Chinese lanterns, water lilies, Mr. and Mrs. panties, pitchers, fruit and flower baskets, padded mammy dolls, and other assorted crocheted junk, designed to be practical, which they are not, to match kitchen color schemes which they do not, always too thin to protect against heat, and invariably an intricate example of wasted time and sentimental veneer. This trash must be displayed diplomatically—the right potholder before the right guest. With this season's influx of potholders, I feel that the mental strain is becoming too great, that somehow I must have relief. MARGARET SCHMIDT

BUGHOUSE SQUARE

Chicago, Aug. 5—Now that everything else is being regulated it is about time to regulate or better yet, abolish the soapbox forum at "Bughouse Square." It has become a neighborhood nuisance and achieves nothing.

The same cliques of crackpot Communists, profane panhandlers, and religious fanatics appear regularly and shriek the same old stuff week after week. Their shouting makes it almost impossible to read or study at Newberry library. The location is unsuitable for gatherings and as a forum would not be tolerated by the authorities in a well governed city. I suggest that the forum be moved to 87th st. and Harlem av., or limited to Sunday night only, or abolished entirely. The present condition of nightly shouting has become rather a bore to near-by residents and possibly also to patients at Henrotin hospital. D. WAYNEFIELD

WHO ALWAYS WINS THE CITY SERIES?

Chicago, Aug. 3—May I, as a loyal White Sox fan from the days of Fielder Jones and the Hitless Wonders of 1906, arise in the meeting to inquire, "What is the matter with the White Sox?"

We see the Cubs in a well located, beautifully kept ball park, with a well managed team, playing heads up baseball and well on the way to winning a National league pennant, paying $100,000 for a star pitcher of the American league. In contrast, we see the White Sox in a not too well located, and rather ill kept park, stumbling thru the second division of the American league.

If baseball is a business, then the competition offered locally by the White Sox is impotent. Furthermore, I am getting tired of the frequent, emphatic, and sonorous razzing by rightfully proud Cub fans. IRVING KELLY

DOMINATION OR REFORMATION?

Chicago, Aug. 5—Speaking of wars, the possible prevention of wars, the meeting of the Big Three at Potsdam, what to do about Germany, and THE TRIBUNE's editorials on the Potsdam communique. I would like to quote the following well reasoned and deeply penetrating words from Garet Garrett's book, "A Time Is Born":

"Deluge was God's weapon. Now man had got hold of it; man himself possessed the power to produce cataclysm. Moreover, there was no reason to suppose this power would not increase in his hands, since it derived from technical and scientific knowledge, the body of which would probably go on growing by a law of its own. Its discoveries, at any rate, are irreversible events. Nothing is ever again as it was before.

"What to do with such power? How to restrain or control it, since it was not confined to any one people? How to live with it at all? These were questions no one could answer. The vague idea was that only the righteous should possess it, being able to trust themselves and forbid it to all others. Then should their children toil ceaselessly to support it—the cost being very great—or should the wicked who had last employed it for purposes of aggression be enslaved and made to pay tribute? How could one way or the other be for very long?"

Yea, verily: How could one way or the other be for very long? Who has the answer to it? Is Uncle Sam in the role of world policeman the answer to it? Is the united nations organization the answer to it? Is a world military force [if such a force can be organized] the answer to it?

A possible answer is the finding of people within Germany and Japan who see the error and folly of war and giving such support to these people as will enable them, in due time, to bring their countries back into the community of nations. To this very uninformed writer the cure for Germany and Japan, if a permanent cure can be found, must come from within those countries. EUGENE MULLANEY

IT'S A LONG WAR FOR MARINES

Chicago, Aug. 1—Last December my son, a marine, arrived back in the States after 30 months in the South Pacific. He was wounded on Saipan, hospitalized there, and after his 18th attack of malaria they sent him back to the States. He has been in the hospital here most of the time since then, and then just two weeks ago was sent back to the South Pacific.

This boy, with four battle stars, the Purple Heart, and 30 months over there, seems to have received unfair treatment when there are thousands of army men located right here in the Opera building year after year. These men are office chair soldiers with high ratings, and most of them would not know how to shoulder a gun if they had to. They receive their promotions over night and are all receiving high government salaries. This same condition exists out at the war department building at 39th st., where the signal corps and other departments are housed.

Why not place some of these war weary boys who have done their bit in these soft jobs and send these office lieutenants, captains, majors, and colonels out to live the life of a soldier? MOTHER OF TWO MARINES

NO SANDS OF TIME AT THE BEACHES

WORKING HOUR RESTRICTIONS

Chicago, Aug. 3—Does the Illinois law restricting the number of hours a woman shall work apply to all forms of employment? M. C.

"No female shall be employed in any mechanical or mercantile establishment or factory or laundry or hotel or restaurant or barber shop, or beauty parlor or telegraph or telephone establishment or office thereof or any place of amusement or by any person, firm, or corporation engaged in any express or transportation or public utility business or by any common carrier or in any public or private institution incorporated or unincorporated in this state more than eight [ten] hours during any one day nor more than 48 [54] hours in any one week."

The director of labor was authorized to grant emergency war time permits with the limits shown in parenthesis for not over 10 weeks in one year.

The act excepts, with certain qualifications, nurses, telephone and telegraph operators with sleeping facilities, emergency operation of public utilities, canning establishments in season, nonmercantile long day staggered with a short day, and mercantile nine hour day or 54 hour week for not over four weeks per year. GETTING THE 1,000 YARD STARE

Kansas City, Mo., July 24—I am writing in behalf of my brother who is with the 804th aviation engineers on Saipan. He has been in service 46½ months, serving overseas 42 months. He has a splendid army record and is now eligible for discharge on the point system with a total of 94 credits. In his overseas service he has served on many islands from Hawaii to the Marianas, going in with the invasion forces in the Gilberts and at Saipan.

Since the invasion of Saipan in June, 1944, he has been stationed on that hot tropical island. It seems that in the last few months my brother and his comrades have reached the end of their endurance. His recent letters show clearly he is near the breaking point. This work worn, war weary brother of mine and his comrades on Saipan should be relieved at once. Any one can understand the desire they have to return to their beloved America after serving on foreign soil for three and one-half years, enduring hardships and work that will, and I am afraid is, breaking them mentally and perhaps physically. MRS. B. J.

HUMAN BENEFACTOR

Gary, Ind., Aug. 2—I have just come into an inheritance of 250 million dollars. I am going to build a movie palace to fit the needs of all—i.e.: one room where children can run up and down the aisles as much as they please; one room for youngsters only, with drinking fountains at each seat; one room for folks with babies who are not interested in the picture and consequently cry all the time; one room for these lovers who really need only one seat; one room for wolves who insist upon taking leg room even tho it extends into the seat next to them; one room for people who tell each other about the picture; one room for women with high hair-dos and high hats; one room for gum smackers; finally one large room for people such as I, middle aged, who like to go to the movies and enjoy them without all the discomforts mentioned. Do I have any comers? I forgot the room for the teen agers who sit with their knees pounding the back of your seat. Are there any more suggestions? Maybe I am just plain crazy. Of course, every one will be able to see the screen. C. D. C.

Friend of the YANKS

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

K. M. R. writes: "My son who is in Germany writes that he is being held for violation of the 61st, 83d, and 96th articles of war. He said the 61st was for being absent without leave. What offenses are covered by the two others?"

The 83d article of war covers wrongful disposal, loss or damage to government property and provides that the loss shall be made good in addition to punishment. The 96th article of war covers all disorders and neglect to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, conduct of a nature to bring discredit upon the military service and all crimes and offenses not capital of which persons subject to military law may be guilty. The 96th article covers military offenses not specifically mentioned in any other article. Trial under these articles may be before a summary, special or general court martial, depending upon the seriousness of the offenses.

T. E. R. asks: "How can credit of five points toward discharge be given to soldiers for medals awarded by foreign governments when acceptance of foreign medals and decorations by soldiers is prohibited by the Constitution?"

The Constitution says only that presents, emoluments, office or title shall not be accepted by persons holding offices of profit or trust under the United States without consent of congress. [Article I., section 9.] In this war as in World War I. congress has given permission for officers and men of the military forces to wear medals and decorations of countries allied with the United States.

FLY FREEDOM'S BANNER HIGH, HOOVER ASKS

It's That or Serfdom for U. S., He Says

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 11 [Special]—With communism sweeping over Europe and a form of collectivism already in evidence here, the time has come for all of us to proclaim our resolution never to surrender our heritage—the American system of freedom, Herbert Hoover declared today.

"America should again proclaim our faith," he said. "We should proclaim our resolution to hold it. We should cease to apologize for it. Our first post-war purpose should be to restore it."

35,000 Hear Address

The former President spoke before an estimated 35,000 persons at the annual picnic of the Iowa Association of Southern California, comprised of former Iowa residents. A feature of the event was a reception for Hoover in honor of his 71st birthday anniversary. Hoover was born in Iowa and lived there until he was 10.

After recalling the days of his boyhood in the middle west, Hoover discussed the great decision which he said will confront the people of the western hemisphere, "which is fast becoming the last hope of free men."

"Today communism or creeping socialism are sweeping over Europe," he declared. "They are beginning in Asia. The causes lie deep in the holocaust of misery from the war, from power politics, from the impulse for any change from the bitter years which have passed, and from the years of propaganda of a new utopia.

"A score of fascist nations have shifted to communism; and half a dozen nations once liberty loving are shifting to socialism. The most recent chapter is the Socialist victory in Britain.

"Whatever the particular name of these European systems may be, whether it be communism, socialism, or the decoy termed planned economy, they are all collectivist. They all have a common base in burocratic power over the liberties and economic life of the people.

Cites History's Lesson

"In the extreme form they leave little of free speech, free press, free assembly, or independent justice. The less violent forms claim that government can dictate or operate economic life and still preserve personal liberty.

"But history shows over and over again that burocrats, to stay in power, and to enforce their ideas, must in the end dominate the making of laws, the press, the courts, and the police.

"Inevitably and invariably the totalitarian 'liberals' find themselves whittling away the freedom of men. Their utopia is a will-o'-the-wisp that leads implacably to the swamps of serfdom.

"You have seen a form of collectivism in our own country. You are familiar with the pre-war growth of governmental power over our own citizens. To this are added the controls necessary to win the war. Have you not seen with your own eyes the flood of burocratic violations of liberty and the moral degeneration which comes with this collectivist process?"

Warns of "Fifth Columns"

Hoover warned that tho we have a right to make our own decisions, just as we do not question the right of other nations to decide for themselves, we shall be besieged by the "missionaries, the propaganda, the fifth columns of these foreign burocracies."

He scoffed at talk of a "middle of the road" course, asking "middle between what—fascism, communism, socialism?" Declaring that thinking American people are allergic to all of them, he said "we should have none of them."

"If it be 'reactionary' to be for free men, then I shall be proud of that title for my remaining days. As a matter of fact, it is the only genuine liberalism. . . ." Hoover said.

Reminding his audience that 15 million boys went into battle with courage because they believed they were preserving America for free men, Hoover said the survivors will expect to return to the free America they have known.

He listed numerous "deeds of daring of unimaginable bravery" to which the American way of life has moved men, including the fighting of four great wars, and asked:

"Is it not a faith? Is it not a belief for which men die? Is freedom to be defeated by slogans, or foreign propaganda, or fifth columns? You and I must not be marked as the generation who surrendered the heritage of America!"

TWO POLICEMEN SAVE GIRL, UNCLE FROM DROWNING

Mary Halup, 13, of 10652 Avenue F, and her uncle, Steve Tancos, 37, of 10701 Avenue A, were rescued from drowning off Munson's beach at 102d st. yesterday by Policemen William Mahoney, 7933 Constance av., and Thomas Brennan, 8037 S. Carpenter st., both of the East Side station.

The girl went under when she slipped thru an inner tube on which she had been floating. Tancos started to her aid but also went under. The policemen stopped their squad car when they saw the incident. Mahoney stripped off his shoes and heavier clothing, swam out and brought the girl to shore. Brennan applied artificial respiration to her while Mahoney rescued Tancos.

Police Capt. Michael Spatz said he will recommend both policemen for creditable mentions.

SADIST, 9, BEATS 2 GIRLS; TRIES TO DROWN BOY

Seize 5th Grade Pupil in Brutal Attacks

A 9 year old sadist was seized by Albany Park police lasts night after he beat and took liberties with two girls, 3 and 8, and tried to drown a 4 year old boy, all of whom he had lured from points near their homes on the northwest side.

Lt. John H. Sherping said the young sadist is a fifth grade pupil in the George H. Thomas school. Sherping asserted that two of the victims identified the boy as their assailant.

Hits Girl with Stone

About 7 p. m., the 8 year old girl said, the boy met her near her home and invited her to go to a movie. When they reached a deserted section near Avondale and Lawrence avs., the boy pulled a sweater over her head and beat her with his fists. Then he struck her on the head with a stone, inflicting a severe laceration.

While squads were mobilized to search for her attacker, police received a call from Theodore Human, 4361 Leland av. Human had found the boy's second girl victim lying in a hole in a lot adjoining the Human home. He said he had been attracted by her feeble cries.

Bound Hand and Foot

The girl, suffering from a severe blow on the head, lay bound hand and foot with twine. She was unable to identify the boy as her assailant. Both girls were taken to hospitals for examination.

Lt.. Sherping reported the boy confessed he had taken four year old John Huffnus, 2641 N. Parkside av., for a street car ride. They went to the forest preserve at the end of the Milwaukee av. car line.

John told police that the older boy stripped off his clothing and pushed him into the Des Plaines river. The Huffnus boy was rescued by three girls who saw him splashing about in the water. They took him home to his father.

METEOR DISPLAY WILL BE VISIBLE HERE TOMORROW

A "flying gravel bank" of Perseid meteors, resembling Roman candles as they burn to dust before reaching the earth's surface, will be visible shortly after midnight tomorrow morning, University of Chicago astronomers announced yesterday. At least one shooting star a minute will be visible. The meteorite shower is actually the thinned out tail of a comet, last seen in 1862 and not expected to be visible again until about 1984. The meteors appear yearly, however, when the earth, traveling 18 miles a second, meets the orbit of the comet.

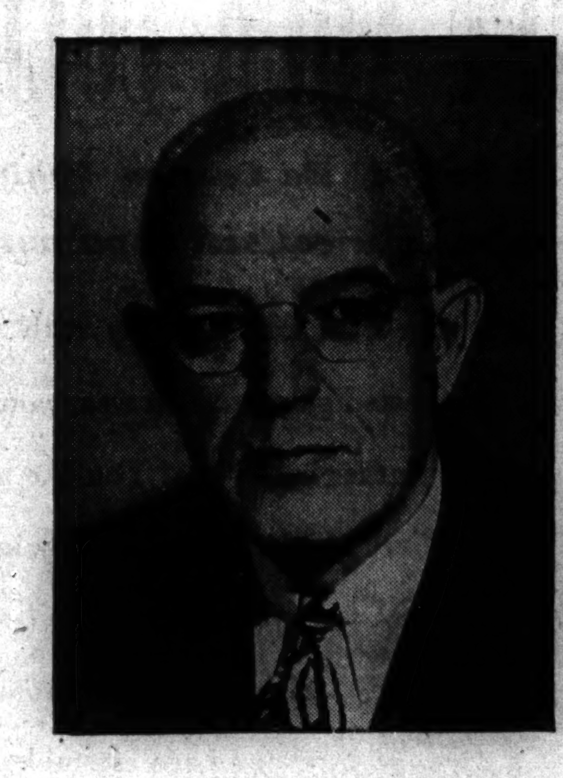
ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE



A Friendly Warning
TO POSTWAR RADIO SET BUYERS FROM Stewart-Warner

AS SOON as manufacturing restrictions are lifted, there will be, no doubt, a great demand for radio sets—regardless of make.

But before you buy, remember what happened after the first World War. In the period between 1922 and 1939, 886 brands of radio receiving sets were put on the market, according to authoritative figures. 742 of them were discontinued by 1940!

Most of the people who spent their money on one of these "orphan" sets probably wished they had made a wiser, more thoughtful selection. Certainly, they experienced little "pride of ownership."

As for Stewart-Warner (a $50,000,000 institution, well-known the world over), we have been a leading manufacturer of radio receiving sets for more than 20 years. We propose to keep and to amplify this position in the industry.

Since Pearl Harbor, we have devoted our large radio production facilities entirely to radar, radio and communications equipment for our armed services.

During the course of this work, we have developed many new and interesting features which will be incorporated in our postwar sets.

The point of this message is to caution all of our friends who propose to buy a new radio set as soon as they are available.

If you can't get a set made by Stewart-Warner—and there will undoubtedly be a scarcity, at least to begin with—buy a set made by a well-known, experienced radio manufacturer whose trade-mark you know and who has a proved record of performance behind him.

Those of you who exercise buying discrimination in the postwar era will get a world of new enjoyment, plus increased pride of ownership, as a result of your purchase.

RETURNING GIs CHEER AND JEER OFFER OF JAPS

15,000 Arrive on Giant Queen Elizabeth

Millionth GI to Return

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The war department reported tonight that the one millionth soldier to be returned from all overseas theaters since May 12, the day redeployment began, will arrive in this country Monday.

Arrivals on that day, the department said, will push the exact total to 1,011,432.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Shouting, cheering service men, celebrating Japan's surrender offer by banging mess kits and sprinkling torn paper overboard, came home from Europe today on the huge British liner Queen Elizabeth.

A roar of protest also went up from the liner when news of the allies' conditional acceptance was announced by loudspeaker. Cries of "kill the emperor!" and "to hell with Hirohito!" broke out.

One major, who did not give his name, said: "I don't think we ought to give the Japs a damn thing. Who do they think they are, asking concessions of us? They are beaten and they guess we are just soft enough to give in to them."

Five Other Ships Dock

First of six troopships to arrive today, the Queen Bess carried some 15,000 men, including 8th air force units slated for redeployment to the Pacific if the war with Japan continues.

Mingling with the men's cheers were the frantic blasts of harbor whistles, one of the noisiest welcomes accorded returning troops since V-E day.

"I'm just wondering what my destination will be because of the good news about Japan being willing to surrender," said Lt. [j. g.] E. H. Clark of 1305 Avenue C, Fort Madison, Ia., who brought back two cocker spaniel puppies for his son, John, 3.

Corp. Amador Hinojasa of Mission, Tex., said he hoped "they send 6,000 atomic bombs over every city, if necessary, in Japan."

Opposes Atomic Bomb

Sgt. Thomas N. D'Altrui of Newark, N. J., said he opposed use of the atomic bomb, explaining: "I don't think innocent people should suffer because of their leaders."

Corp. Chester P. Leszczynski of Detroit said the emperor should be treated as a war criminal.

A total of 17,000 United States troops were aboard the ships. The giant British Queen Elizabeth carried 12,719 army personnel, 1,081 navy men, and 974 Netherlands marines.

Other ships arriving: The Brandon Victory with 1,193; the Nicholas Gilman with 419; the James MacCosh with 111; the John W. Brown with 419, and the John B. Hood with 742.

Four Ships Due in N. Y.

The following army units are scheduled to arrive from Europe tomorrow:

AT NEW YORK—[Aboard Santa Rosa] infantry reorganized detachment; 294th quartermaster laundry detachment; 265th ordnance evacuation company; 351st engineer general service regiment; air force casuals for reassignment, and the 66 piece army air forces band. [Aboard Marine Angel] 3,534th quartermaster truck company; 858th, 8634 quartermaster fumigating and bath companies; 3,123d quartermaster service company; 393d, 98th engineer general service regiments. [Aboard George W. Goethals] troops for discharge and reassignment. [Aboard Joseph C. Lincoln] troops for reassignment and discharge. AT BOSTON—[Aboard Joseph T. Robinson] headquarters 447th bomber group [heavy]; 708th, 710 bomber squadrons.

119th Regiment Sails

PARIS, Aug. 11 (AP)—The 119th regiment of the 30th infantry division sailed from Le Havre today for the United States as the army indicated the Japanese surrender offer caused no change in processing of troops and material for redeployment to the Pacific.

May Speed Soldiers Home

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—United States army officials in Paris are agreed that Japanese surrender would accelerate the return home of soldiers from the European theater, but cautiously refrain from predicting how much, the army newspaper Stars and Stripes said today.

Capital Awaits De Gaulle Visit in About Two Weeks

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Gen. de Gaulle, president of the French provisional government, will visit President Truman here in approximately two weeks, French Ambassador Henri Bonnet indicated today to newsmen. Bonnet returned to Washington by plane yesterday after conferring with DeGaulle in Paris.

BODY OF MAN TAKEN FROM RIVER

The body of a man tentatively identified as Edward Harding, 61, of 1644 N. Kedzie av., a stationary engineer, was taken from the river at Michigan av., yesterday by police.

BERLINERS GASP AS FIRST NEGRO GIs ENTER CITY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Aug. 11—George Bass, driving a six ton quartermaster truck, was the first American Negro to enter Berlin, and when the vehicle disgorged a dozen other colored personnel, and the party entered the Femina cabaret, a sensation was created this afternoon. "Schwarze Amerikaner," gasped the Berlin girls and gigolos.

Bass and his group lined up at the bar and ordered "cocktails"—innocuous pink drinks without a trace of alcohol, and soon were dancing with the prettiest and blondest barmaids and habitues, who apparently forgot all their Aryan inhibitions at the sight of the giant colored men with their well fitting uniforms and flashing smiles.

Traffic Mishaps on Park Roads Up 21% in Dim-out

Traffic accidents on park district boulevards increased 21 per cent from Feb. 1 to May 8 of this year, when the dim-out was in effect, over the same period in 1944. A report by Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago Park district, said fatal, nonfatal, and property damage accidents numbered 177 during the dim-out against 138 in the 1944 period.

CHICAGO AREA'S BUILDING SETS 21 MONTHS' HIGH

Construction of Homes Biggest Since May, '44

BY AL CHASE
[Real Estate Editor.]

New building construction of all types in the Chicago metropolitan area in July was at the highest level since October, 1943, and the total of residential units built was the largest since May, 1944, Bell Savings and Loan association said yesterday in its monthly survey. Construction in Chicago proper was largest since May, 1942.

Permits in the metropolitan area for all types of building totaled $10,456,983, compared with $5,849,336 in June this year and $4,525,871 in July, 1944.

General construction in the suburbs last month totaled $3,863,939, compared with $2,242,633 in June and with $2,004,769 in July, 1944. Home building in the suburbs also rose substantially above the preceding month and a year earlier. Permits were issued in 89 suburban communities for 280 homes, costing $1,520,323, compared with 195 and $1,142,458 in June and 127 and $633,551 in July, 1944.

Gary Leads Suburbs

Gary led all suburbs with permits for 68 homes, costing $279,625; La Grange was second with 47 homes, valued at $268,000; Munster, Ind., third with 18 homes and $109,539; and Harvey fourth with 25 homes and $103,450.

Other favorable residential building reports included Elmwood Park with 15 homes and $100,100; Waukegan, 13 and $59,100; Evergreen Park, 14 and $57,800; Park Ridge, 6 and $53,650; Bensenville, 9 and $49,150; and Westchester, 6 and $40,400.

$900,000 Factory Addition

The largest industrial project announced for July was an addition to the plant of Amertorp corporation in Forest Park, estimated at $900,000.

The outstanding residential item of the month was the report by the Chicago housing authority of a federal project at Pershing rd. and Wentworth av. that provides for 422 home units at a reported cost of $2,342,000.

EASTERN FUNDS EARMARKED FOR CHICAGO REALTY

John J. Reynolds, New York real estate broker, who recently negotiated the purchase of the Merchandise Mart for Joseph P. Kennedy of Boston for a reported 16 million dollars, was in Chicago yesterday arranging for the opening of a Chicago branch office to handle a reported large amount of eastern capital earmarked for Chicago realty investment.

John J. Reynolds

"There is plenty of money in New York looking toward this city's real estate holdings," Reynolds said. "The purchase of the Merchandise Mart was the first of several big realty deals."

On Dec. 1 when title to the Merchandise Mart is conveyed by Marshall Field & Co. to Kennedy, Reynolds will get a check for $613,000, said to be one of the largest commissions in American realty. Contrary to custom the buyer, Kennedy, instead of the seller, will pay the commission. Reynolds believes he will receive about $142,000 after income tax. Experts said he will have only about $85,000.

MAJESTIC'S NEW ELGIN PLANT TO COST $600,000

Majestic Radio and Television corporation's proposed new plant will be built on a 69 acre farm tract on state highway No. 31, at the north end of Elgin, Eugene A. Tracey, president, disclosed yesterday. The site was purchased for $35,000 thru the First National Bank of Elgin.

Tracey said that the first factory units, to cost $600,000, will be built shortly. The plant is expected to have 243,000 square feet of manufacturing and office space. Preliminary plans call for a manufacturing unit 400 by 320 feet, an office building 100 by 220 feet, and a power house and shipping section 65 by 170 feet.

Served by the North Western and Milwaukee railroads, the new plant will produce Majestic radios and phonograph records. The company will continue to maintain its factory units in Chicago, at 2600 W. 50th st., and the former Howard aircraft plant east of St. Charles, for carrying on war work in the communications field.

BUY BUILDING FOR OUTPUT OF CIVILIAN ITEMS

Indicating the trend from war production to civilian needs the two story industrial building at 2740-56 N. Wolcott st. was sold yesterday to Trylon Products corporation, cosmetic maker, and Spill-Stop Manufacturing company, producer of plastic and metal equipment for restaurants and bars. It has been under lease to Stewart-Warner corporation as office quarters for workers moved from its main plant to make room for war work.

The building was sold by Diamond Products company of Marshalltown, Ia., for $65,000 thru Lang, Wiese & Cella. First Mortgage corporation financed the transaction with a $35,000 10 year, 4½ per cent mortgage. Stephen G. Cohn, president, said the new owners will spend $10,000 in air conditioning and other modernization.

Northwest Side Building Purchased for $89,500

The 26 flat building at 4835-41 Roscoe st. was sold yesterday by Frederick C. J. Haavekost to Wanda Kaminski for a reported $89,500. Gustav E. Beerly was attorney for the seller. George W. Blomgren was broker.

Store Planned by Rothschild to Be Larger

David Mayer Jr., president of Maurice L. Rothschild, said yesterday that since the preliminary announcement in last Sunday's TRIBUNE of plans for a half million dollar store facing Fountain square, Evanston, the company has decided to build an even larger building than originally planned. Instead of four stories it will have five with foundations for carrying two more when needed.

To Operate Independently

The new suburban project will be self-contained and independently managed and operated, Mayer said. He asserted the store personnel, as yet unselected, would be built up entirely by promotion from present stores. There will be no drawing on outside establishments in Evanston or elsewhere.

The extra story to be built will give the Evanston store more space for boys' and girls' departments, Mayer said. Originally one floor was to be used for both. With the higher building it will be possible to give an entire floor to each department. All of one story will be devoted to women's and misses' apparel and another to men's wear. The main floor will be for general items.

Plans Are Complete

Working plans for the new Evanston store have been completed by Architects Alfred S. Alschuler and R. N. Friedman, and contracts can be let as soon as government approval is obtained, Mayer said.

The site of the new store was leased from Northwestern university thru Sadler & Hultman, Evanston, for 50 years. It fronts 40 feet on Davis st., 122 feet on Orrington av., and 116 feet on Sherman.

MORTGAGE FIRM PLANS EVANSTON FLAT BUILDING

Work is scheduled to start on an 18 apartment building at 225 Custer st., Evanston, the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation, which is financing the project with a $115,000 loan, reported yesterday. The general contractor is the W. H. Lyman Construction company. Rents will range from $70 for four room units to $80 for five rooms, with $6 extra for rental of any of the seven garages to be built.

Art Firm Leases 5 Story Building on Michigan Av.

The five story building at 336-38 N. Michigan av. has been leased for five years by Ruttenberg Studios which will occupy the property about Oct. 15, E. C. Ruttenberg of E. C. Ruttenberg Sales, Inc., said yesterday. The building will be used as a retail outlet for lamps, shades, paintings, gifts, and objects of art. The Ruttenberg wholesale activities will be continued in the Merchandise Mart. The new quarters were leased from the Stanley McCormick estate thru the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

BUYS FOX THEATER

Gust. A. Stathis, theater operator, was one of the buyers of the Fox theater, 3161 Elston av., recently reported purchased by Dr. Ansel H. Tulupan, for $88,500, thru the Mark Levy Realty company. Stathis is operating the theater.

SURFACE LINES BOND GROUP TO FIGHT CITY PLAN

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

An attack on the proposed plan to have the Chicago Transit authority purchase and operate the merged surface and elevated lines under public ownership was made in a formal petition prepared for filing Tuesday in federal District court by a large group of junior security holders of the surface lines.

In the petition, drawn by Attorneys William R. Morgan and John E. Gavin, the court, controling the surface lines in bankruptcy, is requested:

1. To rule that the city-transit authority price offer of 75 million dollars for the street railways is not fair, and that it be dismissed immediately.

2. To direct that steps be taken immediately to reorganize the surface lines separately.

3. To direct the Chicago Surface lines trustees to proceed at once to buy 800 new street cars and 1,805 buses [the lines already have on order 200 cars and 195 buses].

Represent "B" Bondholders

Morgan said he and Gavin represent 90 per cent of the Chicago Railways series B bondholders, whose securities have a face value of 15 millions. Under the proposed plan they would receive only a nominal amount.

Even this amount would be taken from them if the securities and exchange commission should recommend—and the court follow its advice—that the customary payoff priorities must prevail. Under priorities rule two other bond issues would outrank the B bonds and there would be nothing left for the B bond holders. The city-CTA plan would cut the remuneration of the second ranking security holders to leave a pittance for the B holders.

The SEC report also is due tomorrow. It is to determine whether the 75 million dollar offer is fair. The report has been in preparation for three months and its possible recommendations have been kept secret. It is understood that the report will be a long one, perhaps 100 or more pages.

Authority Meets Tuesday

The transit authority, created by the state legislature at its last session, is to hold a special meeting Tuesday to consider the SEC report. Objections to the plan are to be heard in court Wednesday. It is regarded as likely that the report and the objections will have an important bearing on whether the court will pass on the traction acquisition price proposals, including the 12 million dollar offer for the L, and certify that the valuations are fair.

In the B bondholders' petition it was asserted that the 75 million dollar price was arrived at solely by figuring amounts the city of Chicago or the authority could borrow and that this "financial poverty" could not be any criterion of real value of the street car lines.

Call Price "Misleading"

It was also asserted that the price was misleading in that the authority was claiming 6 million dollars set aside as "compensation reserves" for the city, while the surface lines were giving up under the plan about 6 millions more of claims against the city for damages incurred by subway construction. With the public ownership body also retaining 25 millions of renewal funds, the petition said, the offer for the physical properties was reduced to only 38 millions.

It was pointed out that under the provisions of the 1907 franchise ordinance the surface lines are now valued at 172 millions while the Illinois Commerce commission's valuation for rate making is not less than 128 millions.

NEW FLATS TO HAVE DEEP FREEZE UNITS AND RADIANT HEAT

Radiant heated flats and deep freeze units for each tenant are innovations planned for Chicago's first post-war multiple story apartment building to be constructed at the southeast corner of Sheridan rd. and Fargo av., George S. Lurie, of George S. Lurie company, said yesterday. The proposed eight story building will cost about $560,000 and will contain 80 unfurnished 3 to 5 room flats.

Plans for the project were disclosed when the 100 by 150 foot corner was purchased by Lurie from Charities Liquidation trust thru A. A. Wilbur of Baird & Warner, Inc., for $10,000 cash. The American National Bank took title as trustee.

Besides being Chicago's first tall apartment building to use radiant heat [warmth conveyed in ducts under the floors instead of thru radiators] it is believed to be the city's first flat building with deep freeze units. Each tenant will have a unit in the basement where he can store frozen meats, vegetables, pies, bread and other edibles.

MOTHER TO HEAR HOW SON DIED TO SAVE VILLAGE

Mrs. Tessie Dian and her daughter, May, will depart for New York at 10:50 a. m. today aboard the New York Central for a long awaited interview with an envoy from the French village of St. Genevieve les Gasny, who has come to this country to tell them of the heroism of their son and brother, 1st Lt. William Dian, 22, fighter pilot.

Dian, who is reported to have saved the village from his burning plane and lost his life thereby, is honored daily by the villagers with fresh flowers on his grave. The mayor of the village dispatched Robert Mercier to visit the Dian family and tell of the deed.

Mercier, while in Chicago for three days, was unable to find the family who had moved to 3133 S. 54th av., Cicero. He returned to New York and will depart for France Thursday.

ALL-STARS REPORT; HOLD FIRST WORKOUT TODAY

SOUTHWESTERN ATHLETES LEAD EARLY ARRIVALS

Bierman and Aids Hold Conference

BY WILFRID SMITH

Football players from Texas and Oklahoma were in the vanguard of the College All-Stars who will hold their first drill today in preparation for the game in Soldiers' field on Aug. 30 with the Green Bay Packers. The stars checked in yesterday at Northwestern university's Dyche stadium, their headquarters for the next 19 days.

Merle Gibson, end, and Clyde Flowers, tackle, from Texas Christian, and Walter Schlinkman, Texas Tech half back, were the first to sign the register. Shortly afterward, three players from Tulsa university, members of the squad which defeated Georgia Tech in the Orange bowl game last Jan. 1, also reported and were assigned quarters. They were Glen Burgeis, 220 pound tackle; Ellis Jones, veteran guard who played for the 1944 All-Stars against the Chicago Bears, and Charles Mitchell, half back.

Near Full Strength Today

In midafternoon three members of last year's Oklahoma A. & M. team reported. They were Cecil Hankins, quarter back; J. C. Colhouer, guard, and Ralph Foster, tackle. Hankins also will be remembered by Chicago sports fans as a member of the brilliant Aggie basketball team which won the invitational tournament in New York last winter.

Steve Susic, former University of Illinois full back; John Strzykalski, Marquette half back; Monte Moncrief, Texas A. & M. tackle, and Damon Tassos, guard from the same school, were among the players reporting last night.

Other members of the college squad reported last night and this morning a majority of the men are expected to be here. The squad should be nearly at full strength by evening. Carl Erickson, Northwestern university trainer, who has had the same duties for the All-Stars since the inception of the series in 1934 by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., issued equipment as rapidly as the players reported.

Coaches Hold Conference

The players will be greeted officially this morning by Bernie Bierman of Minnesota, head coach of the All-Stars, and his assistants. First to arrive yesterday was Jim Lookabaugh of Oklahoma A. & M., whose 1944 team was Missouri Valley champion and winner of the Cotton bowl game. Ray Eliot of Illinois and Howie Odell of Yale also reported yesterday. Jeff Cravath of Southern California, whose Trojans won the Pacific Coast conference title last year and defeated Tennessee in the Rose bowl game, will arrive today or tomorrow. Cravath also served as an assistant All-Star coach last year.

Bierman met with his assistants last night in the North Shore hotel to go over the work sheets for the training period and to confer on the fundamental plans for offense and defense. Handling a group of All-Stars is no new business for the veteran Minnesota coach, as he had the All-Star assignment in 1936 and also was one of the coaches of the East team for several years for the annual East-West games in San Francisco.

Plan Two Drills Daily

The All-Stars probably will hold two practices a day, at least for the first week which will be the testing period for the three score men. In this period, the players will be assigned positions and given definite duties for the system Bierman has selected.

Nearly half of the group are civilian players and some recently have received honorable discharges from military service. The other men, who are in the army and the army air forces, are using their furloughs to participate in the game.

While the squad does not have a forward passer of the caliber of Glen Dobbs, former Tulsa star, it may develop into the best of the war period. Dobbs led the collegians to a 27 to 7 victory over Washington in 1943 and his passing contributed two of the three touchdowns last year's All-Stars scored as they were beaten by the Chicago Bears, 24 to 21.

EVANS DEFEATS KRAAY, 2 AND 1, FOR 5TH TITLE

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Back in the early days of this century a young fellow from up around Pratt blvd. took a ride on the old south side elevated. He had only a few clubs, this smiling blond kid as he headed for the old Jackson park golf course. He was shut out that first time, but not in 1907, 1908, or in 1911. Last year the same kid, grown a mite chubbier, but still with the constant smile, amazed a number of folks by winning the 40th Chicago City Amateur Golf tournament again.

The gent's name, as you may have suspected, is Charles Evans Jr., who yesterday vindicated the advice of several of his friends by going out and winning a hard 2 and 1 match from Larry Kraay, the Burnham Woods steel worker, regarded by his mates as the best practitioner in their little league.

He Decides to Try Again

Last summer, after he had defeated Harold Mathisen of St. Andrews, only other golfer than Evans to win this championship four times, several of Chick's associates said to him, "Why don't you stand on this victory, Chick? Here you are 54 years old. You've just pulled off the greatest sports comeback of the year. Why not stand on it?"

But old Charles, who was on top of the National Amateur and Open scoreboards in 1916 and again on the Amateur side in 1920, quietly made a personal poll of other sources. These parties replied by saying, "Why not? Why don't you go back there? You can brush off those kids. Go on!"

There will be days after this war in which Old Charles may not be able to hit a lick, golf, baseball or otherwise, but yesterday he played the Jackson park acreage in terms which only such contemporaries of his middle playing days as Bob Jones, Jess Sweetser, Max Marston, and Francis Ouimet could understand.

Kraay Puts Up Battle

Kraay, the youngster whom Chick said last night is the finest golfer he has met out of the public links league, took a 1 up advantage over Chick at the end of the first 18 holes.

After halving the next hole, Old

It's Leonard, So Senators Rout Sox, 11-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The White Sox proved again yesterday that when it comes to being admirers of Emil [Dutch] Leonard they are in a class by themselves. As proof that they regard his knuckle ball pitch the peer of all, they succumbed to his skill for the fifth straight time this season, the swooning being made quite simple by the fact that Leonard's co-workers, Washington's second place Senators, showed no consideration for a pair of James Dykes' hurlers. The score was a mere 11 to 2.

The first of Dykes' two luckless moundsmen was Orval Grove who succeeded only in doing his sixth fadeout in his last nine starts. This time the fade came so quickly the bull pen was hardly prepared. Grove remained only long enough to retire two men, but is was long enough for the visitors to acquire five runs on seven hits. Thereafter the second placers did an equally impressive job against the southpawing of Frank Papish.

Dickshot Hits No. 3

Leonard, who now owns a new record of 13 victories against four defeats, allowed only six hits, one of these being Johnny Dickshot's third homer of the season. Because of the scarcity of hits, not to mention the handicap under which his boys were operating as the result of the Senators' free scoring, Boss Dykes removed some of his regulars from circulation, the idea being they didn't deserve the punishment. One of the subs sent in it was Outfielder Bill Mueller, making his first appearance since his discharge from service.

The first inning brush-off of Grove began with Mike Kreevich singling, going to second on George Myatt's out and to third on Buddy Lewis' single. Joe Kuhel didn't fool around. He just tripled to left center, sending in the two waiting runners. Harlond Clift was thrown out, but that proved the last retirement under Grove's regime. George Binks singled to score Kuhel. Rick Ferrell doubled and Binks scored. Gil Torres singled and Ferrell dashed home. Then Leonard singled and this evidently was accepted as a tip-off on Grove's skill. He was yanked, Papish ending the inning by fanning Kreevich, who had started the whole thing.

Senators Keep Scoring

When Kuhel walked in the second inning and scored on a double by

Bettors Riot at Suffolk; 3 Go to Hospital

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11 (AP)—Angry spectators rushed the stewards' stand, smashed equipment and set fire to a police motorcycle late today during a riot at Suffolk Downs race track over the disqualification of a horse.

The crowd was out of hand for more than an hour before police reserves and a detail of navy shore patrolmen cleared the track.

Two policemen and one civilian were hospitalized and four other persons were arrested on charges ranging from drunkenness to willfull and malicious destruction of property as a result of the outbreak.

All of the glass in the stewards' stand was broken by flying bottles as two of the four officials cowered on the floor, holding chairs above their heads to protect them from flying glass.

Police Lose Motorcycle

The jockeys' weighing in scale was smashed and a police motorcycle and side car was set afire.

Attempts to overturn the tractors used on the track harrows and to set fire to an awning opposite the finish wire was nipped in time.

During the riot, the crowd, without waiting for the horses to come out, wagered $41,614 on the eighth race, final event of the Suffolk season. The sum was refunded, however, when the race was canceled because Massachusetts law forbids horse racing after 7 p. m.

Fan Goes After Stewards

The trouble began after the stewards disqualified E. J. Daily's Johnny Jr., in the seventh race.

An irate spectator raced across the track and climbed into the stewards' stand to protest. The policemen followed him and when the officers used force to subdue him, about 100 others jumped the outside rail and began a beer bottle barrage.

Johnny Jr., was disqualified as winner of the co-featured $5,000 Commonwealth for crowding Windmill, owned by Mrs. T. Haskos and A. Spilios.

PASSEAU HOLDS BRAVES TO TWO SINGLES; CUBS TRIUMPH, 8 TO 0

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11—Claude Passeau, the fellow who insists upon wearing No. 13 on his uniform, won his 13th victory of the season this afternoon when he and the Cubs beat the Braves, 8 to 0, in one of the Mississippi gentleman's finest pitching performances. He yielded only two hits, none until two were out in the eighth inning, walked none, and hit no batsmen. Claude struck out eight.

The Cub offense, frail in 6 to 3 and 2 to 1 defeats here Thursday and yesterday, was downright meek this afternoon. A misjudged fly, two errors, and two walks enabled the Chicagoans to score two runs in the first inning and the first three of six runs scored after two were out in the ninth were forced across on passes. The Cubs left 15 men on bases, which certainly does not reflect championship punch.

Merullo Errs in Third

Three occurrences prevented Passeau with being credited with a perfect game. Phil Masi was safe on Lennie Merullo's fumble of an easy grounder in the third inning. No other runner reached base until two were out in the eighth, when Masi singled past Phil Cavarretta. Morris Aderholt then batted for Dick Culler and dropped a single in short left. Passeau threw out Pinch Batter Joe Medwick. He retired three batsmen in order in the ninth.

The Cubs made two runs in the first inning after two were out and six after two were out in the ninth. Here's the way the Braves helped the boys snap out of their two game losing streak:

At the start of the game Stan Hack was credited with a double when Butch Nieman misjudged his easy fly. Don Johnson and Harry Lowrey supplied easy outs, but Cavarretta singled to right to score Hack with the run that was enough to win. Cavarretta stole second and went on to third when Masi threw into center field. Bob Logan then passed Andy Pafko and Bill Nicholson. Len Rice was safe on Vince Shupe's error, Cavarretta scoring. Merullo popped to Tommy Nelson to end the threat.

Johnny Has Trouble

Cavarretta was out to open the ninth. Pafko was hit by a pitched ball but was forced by Nicholson. Johnny Hutchings, who had replaced Logan at the start of the inning, pitched a single to Rice for Len's third hit, then walked Merullo, Passeau and Hack forcing two runs across the plate. Don Hendrickson replaced Hutchings and walked Johnson, forcing another run across. Lowrey singled to left, scoring Passeau and Hack, and when Nelson fumbled Cavaretta's grounder, Johnson got home.

The result today enabled the Cubs to resume a 5½ game lead over the second place Cardinals and kept them 6½ ahead of the Dodgers. The Cardinals and Dodgers will be battling each other tomorrow while the Cubs will be playing a double header with the tailend Phillies in Philadelphia. Paul Erickson and Hank Wyse will pitch for the Cubs tomorrow.

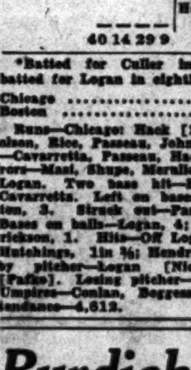
Burdick, Illini and Bear Star, Crash Victim

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 11 [Special]—The University of Illinois today mourned the loss of one of its outstanding athletes, Lloyd S. [Shorty] Burdick, 37, of Great Falls, Mont. He was killed Thursday night in the train wreck at Michigan, N. D., it was learned here today.



Lloyd S. Burdick

Burdick was 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighed 240 pounds. He played on football teams which won two Western conference championships and finished second once. He also was Illinois' heavyweight wrestler. After graduating from the university in 1930, he played with the Chicago Bears in 1931 and 1932 and was football coach at Knox college in 1934.

Later, Burdick worked for farm implement and diesel engine firms. He spent two years working on the Alcan highway and there gained some fame as an author of children's stories.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sumter Burdick, Blue Mound, Ill.; his widow, and two children, a girl, 10, and a boy, 6.

AIR SAILOR, 20-1 SHOT, VICTOR IN DICK WELLES

War Jeep, Favorite, Runs Second

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Mrs. Elizabeth N. Graham's Beaugay, fast stepping unbeaten juvenile filly, virtually walked away with the sixth running of the $43,040 Princess Pat stakes yesterday at Washington Park, her fifth consecutive victory and the most convincing of the lot. The sprightly daughter of Stimulus won by six lengths from Col. C. V. Whitney's Enfilade altho Jockey Doug Dodson put on the brakes as she reached the last sixteenth pole in the six furlong dash.

Enfilade, beaten twice before by the Maine Chance farm colorbearer, never had a chance yesterday, tho Georgie Woolf brought her up fast in the stretch to take second money from Mrs. Louise Donovan's Breezy Louise, a 17 to 1 shot in the field of six 2 year old fillies. Beaugay's time was 1:13, and she paid $2.80, $2.40, and $2.20 across the board, having been made 2 to 5 favorite by the crowd of 22,000.

War Jeep 2d in Welles

The winner's end of the purse was $34,020 and it boosted the earnings of the New York woman's stable during the current Arlington-Washington park meeting to $168,290, to which she had hoped to add $21,950 with War Jeep in the $32,700 Dick Welles handicap, the day's secondary feature.

Instead, Mrs. Graham had to be content with $6,000 second place money as Lt. Comdr. Theodore D. Buhl's little regarded Air Sailor, ridden by the veteran stake rider, Otto Grohs, got out in front early and stuck it out to beat War Jeep, 8 to 5 choice, a length and a half in the mile event.

Air Sailor Pays $43.40

Air Sailor closed at 20 to 1 and returned $43.40, $12.80, and $4.80 for his upset victory. War Jeep paid $4 and $2.60, and the Murlogg farm's Fighting Step, running as an entry with Bergolater, returned $2.60 to show after hitting the stretch turn in second place behind the flying Air Sailor. Air Sailor went the distance in 1:38, fast time for the off track. The victory was his fourth in nine starts this year, but his first in four outings in the current meeting.

Air Sailor forced the early pace set by R. B. Carroll's Beldine but still was in second place at the half mile. However, he forged to the front as they neared the three-quarter marker and drew two lengths ahead of Beldine with Fighting Step in third place and J. K. Housels' Bymeabond fourth. The Calumet Farm's Pot o' Luck got away last, as usual, but made up ground in the stretch and finished half a length behind Bymeabond and four lengths in front of Charles S. Howard's Sea Swallow.

Beaugay Pulls Away

Hal Price Headley's Lamme broke on top in the Princess Pat and Jockey Billy Thompson kept her even with Beaugay until they reached the quarter pole when Dodson gave the Maine Chance farm sensation her head. From there she raced into a three length advantage at the half mile marker, increased it to five as they turned into the stretch and won as she pleased.

Enfilade, which had finished second to Beaugay on two previous occasions, was held in the third spot by George Woolf until the stretch when she overtook Lamme. Lamme then dropped back and finished last behind Breezy Louise, A. C. Ernst's Aladear, and the Walmac farm's Radiant Girl.

Seventh Major Victory

Beaugay's triumph and War Jeep's second place raised the Maine Chance farm's Arlington-Washington Park earnings to $174,260 and put the stable well ahead of the perennial leader, Warren Wright's Calumet farm, which has won $125,150 so far, principally due to Pot o' Luck's victory in the Arlington Classic, which was worth $67,150.

The Princess Pat was the seventh major purse accounted for by Mrs. Graham's horses—the Princess Doreen, the Modesty, and the Matron handicap, all won by War Date; the Skokie and the Constitution, won by War Jeep, and the Lassie and Princess Pat, taken by Beaugay.

Aullie Carr started the nine race program with an unexpected victory on M. A. Waldheim's Tav which paid $61.60. Steve Brooks followed with F. M. Harris' K. Durable at $12.80, and the daily double return was $375.40.

The mutuel handle for the day was $1,650,617.

BEAUGAY had speed, shook off LAMME after a quarter, drew out in the stretch and was eased thru the last sixteenth. ENFILADE was never far back, drifted out entering the stretch and finished resolutely. BREEZY LOUISE lacked speed, saved ground, and held on well in the drive.

DODGERS DEFEAT REDS, 5 TO 2; LES WEBBER HURLS

Goodie Rosen Gets Four Out of Four

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Brooklyn swept its five game series with Cincinnati by taking today's final contest 5 to 2, behind Les Webber, who pitched his first game for the Dodgers since his recall from Montreal.

Webber yielded six hits, one of them a home run by Al Lakeman in the fifth with one aboard to produce all the Reds' tallies. The Dodgers his Elmer Riddle freely, getting three runs off him before he retired in the sixth. Mike Modak and Hod Lisenbee finished for the Reds, with Lisenbee being tagged for the last two runs in the eighth.

Goodie Rosen, trying desperately to overhaul Tommy Holmes of Boston for the league batting honors, led the Dodgers' 10-hit attack with four singles in as many times at bat.

LEGION JUNIOR NINES OPEN PLAY TODAY FOR TITLE

Quincy, Ill., Aug. 11 (AP)—American Legion junior baseball champions from four states—Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, and Illinois—begin their fight tomorrow for a place in the national tournament as they open their regional title competition here.

The four enter the tournament with such impressive records there is little to choose among them. They are the Stockham post of St. Louis, Mo., three times state champion in the last four years; Topeka, Kas.; Little Rock, Ark., and Oak Park, Ill.

The Stockham nine has won 13 straight games this year and will be paced by a 17 year old pitcher, Dick Loeser, who has won 10 games this season, including two no-hitters.

Ed Wilson is the pitching star of the Topeka team, which turned in an upset in beating Wichita. In one week he pitched a nine inning no-hitter, a 13 inning victory, and a seven inning shutout.

Little Rock won the Arkansas title mainly thru the pitching of Ernie Funk, who hurled a five inning no-hitter over Fort Smith. Oak Park has a record of 11 victories and one loss.

Tomorrow's first round pairings:

Oak Park vs. Topeka.
Little Rock vs. St. Louis.

BOB KENNEDY TO JOIN TROUPE ON PACIFIC TOUR

Naval Lt. Bob Kennedy, White Sox third baseman on military leave, said yesterday he had been ordered to report to San Francisco, Sept. 2, to join a fighter group to fly to Manila. It is believed he will be a member of a baseball troupe sent from this country.

Kennedy, home in Chicago on leave from the Jacksonville, Fla., naval air station, said Ted Williams, the Boston Red Sox slugger who also is stationed at Jacksonville, received similar orders. Kennedy worked out with the White Sox yesterday.

SIGN WITH CHICAGO ALL-AMERICA

John Wickham (left) of Tulsa, Harley McCollum (right) of Tulane, and Chuck Huneke (inset) of St. Benedict's college, three hefty tackles who will play on the Chicago team of the All-America conference. Announcement of their signing was made by John Keeshin, owner of the club.

Keeshin Signs 3 Tackles for Chicago Team

Three hefty tackles, Harley McCollum of Tulane, John Wickham of Tulsa, and Chuck Huneke of St. Benedict's college, will play on the Chicago eleven in the All-America conference. Owner John Keeshin made the announcement yesterday.

"We're continuing to sign capable squad members," Keeshin said, "and it's my intention to have the best material possible available for Coach Dick Hanley as soon as we are able to start play."

The last trio to accept contracts with the Chicago team was Lt. William Hillenbrand, one time Indiana university star passer; Lt. Don Griffin, Illinois half back, and Lt. Norm Verry of Southern California. Verry, a big lineman like the three announced yesterday, was a 247 pound guard on the Trojans' 1944 Rose bowl team.

Gained National Honors

McCollum gained All-American recognition on the Tulane team of 1939 which won the co-championship of the Southeastern conference and lost to Texas A. & M., 14 to 13, in the Sugar bowl game on New Year's day, 1940. He was outstanding on offense and defense for three years and Tulane Coach Red Dawson rated him as most effective when the going was tough.

Much of the Tulane yardage, at a time when the Green Wave was rated one of the outstanding ground gaining teams in the nation, was gained thru holes opened up by McCollum. His greatest individual performance came when Tulane beat Alabama, 13 to 0, in 1939.

Wickham, 230 pounds, earned three football monograms and one in basketball at Tulsa. He joined the Golden Hurricanes in the fall of 1938 after being an all-state football player in Findlay, O.

Wickham's first two years of varsity football were played under Chet Bebefiel in 1939 and 1940. The next year he was coached by Henry Frnka, who brought Tulsa to a spot of foremost importance in collegiate football. His final game was in the Sun bowl in El Paso, Tex., on Jan. 1, 1942, when Tulsa defeated Texas Tech, 6 to 0. It was Frnka's first bowl game.

Entered Service in 1942

His size and power, as well as general all around playing ability, made Wickham an asset to the Hurricanes. He was one of the largest players ever to perform for Tulsa, and required 14½ shoes, which were made on special order. He was enrolled in the arts and sciences college and called into service with the naval reserve in spring of 1942.

Huneke attended one of those smaller colleges which so frequently contribute outstanding performers to professional football. A native of Springfield, Ill., Huneke first enrolled at St. Mary's of Texas before transferring to St. Benedict's [Kans.] in 1942. He won a starting position in the opening game when the Ravens upset Kearney [Neb.] State Teachers, 12 to 6, after the Teachers had won 14 straight victories. In that game, Huneke intercepted a pass in the fourth quarter to set up the winning touchdown. With Irv Comp, now of the Green Bay Packers, and Larry Visnic, who played last year with the New York Giants, he paced the Ravens to victories in six of eight games.

Also Played Basketball

Huneke, an all around athlete, was second high scorer as center on the St. Benedict's basketball team.

In elaborating on his announcement, Keeshin said: "We're determined to give Chicago a winning team in our conference and we'll need plenty of material to keep pace with the other clubs. Cleveland, which signed Bob Steuber Thursday, has as great a collection of players as you'll find anywhere, and the other teams are making the same progress, but I'm figuring on matching or bettering them."

KIRKWOOD TAKES LEAD IN PEORIA GOLF TOURNEY

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 11 (AP)—Joe Kirkwood, the veteran from Abbington, Pa., was off to a one stroke lead tonight in the annual $2,500 Peoria Open golf tournament.

Kirkwood fired a 34—35—69 in the first 18 holes today to lead Johnny Revolta of Chicago and Defending Champion Abe Espinosa of Decatur by one stroke in the 54 hole medal play tournament.

Behind that trio were Roff Manarchy of Rockford, Ill., and Ed Furgol of Detroit, who finished third in the Canadian Open last week, with 71s for the par 72 course.

Meanwhile, Ky Laffoon of Chicago, a professional, was far off the pace with a 37—38—75.

TIGERS DEFEAT RED SOX, 5 TO 4, ON FOUR RUN 2D

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP)—Boston's Johnny Lazor hit two successive homers, the second with two men on base, today but the Detroit Tigers clung to a one run lead behind George Caster's relief pitching to whip the Red Sox, 5 to 4, and protect their one game American league margin.

The Tigers tagged the Boston starter, George Woods, for seven hits—five of them for extra bases—in the first two innings to pile up a 5 to 0 lead before Labor belted his first homer in the fourth and his second in the fifth, scoring behind Byron La Forest and Tom McBride, who had singled, to make it 5 to 4.

Great Lakes, Spartans Lead A. A. U. Swim

Akron, O., Aug. 11 (AP)—Great Lakes naval training station and Michigan State college moved into a tie tonight for the men's National A. A. U. swimming team championship after competition that saw two 1944 champions dethroned.

The Bluejackets gained a tie with the Spartans with a two-day point total of 18 points each by virtue of a victory in the 800-meter free style relay.

Three points back with 15 was Ohio State university. The Buckeyes owed their position to the swimming of Keo Nakama, the tiny Hawaiian who became the first double winner of the three-day meet by taking the 400-meter free style in a close finish with Ross Dean of the Oakland, Cal., Swimming association.

Weeden Finishes Third

The 1944 champions who toppled from their perch were Jack Weeden of Great Lakes in the 100 meter free style relay.

Weeden could do no better than third in his specialty which was won by Bob Cowell of the United States naval academy. Howard Patterson of Michigan State was second. Cowell's time was 1:10.6.

The 800-meter free style relay had the crowd in an uproar. Weeden, swimming the first leg, surprised the customers by swimming the last 100 meters with a back stroke. The bluejackets had a slight lead at that point but in the next 200 meters Michigan State and Camp Chikopi battled for the lead until the bluejackets went back out in front near the half-way mark in the race.

Ohio State Is 3d

Great Lakes time was 10:18.6 to 10:21 for Camp Chikopi and 10:23.8 for Ohio State.

The Erie Y. M. C. A. also put on a brilliant finish to beat Michigan State for fourth position.

The point standings:

Michigan State 18; Great Lakes Naval Training Station 18; Ohio State 15; Camp Chikopi 11; Buffalo A. C. 8; Oakland Swimming association 6; United States Naval academy 5; Grand Rapids Y. M. C. A. 1; Cincinnati Coca Cola 2; Erie Y. M. C. A. 2; Manhattan Beach Coast Guard 1.

Nakama will try to make it a triple crown tomorrow when he competes in the final day's 800-meter free style.

400 METER FREE STYLE—Won by Keo Nakama, Ohio State; second, Ross Bean, Oakland Swimming association; third, Steve Wozniak, Buffalo A. C.; fourth, George Hoogerhyde, Grand Rapids A. C. Time—5:05.7.

100 METER BACK STROKE—Won by Robert Cowell, the United States Naval academy; second, Howard Patterson, Michigan State; third, Jack Weeded, Great Lakes Naval Training Station; fourth, Albert Ratkiewich, Manhattan Beach Training Station. Time—1:10.6.

200 METER BREAST STROKE—Won by Dave Seibold, Michigan State College; second, Bowen Stassford, Los Angeles, unattached; third, Jack Seibold, Clark Lake, Mich., unattached; fourth, Mike Sojka, Buffalo A. C. Time—2:55.5.

800 METER FREE STYLE RELAY—Won by Great Lakes Naval Training Station [Weeden, Solberg, White, Gastineau]. Second, Camp Chikopi; third, Ohio State; fourth, Erie, Pa., Y. M. C. A. Time—1:018.6.

METROPOLITAN LEAGUE TO PLAY 4 GAMES TODAY

Four games to be played today in the Metropolitan Baseball league may decide divisional championships. If the J. T. Dempseys defeat the Chi-Orioles, they will take the Hamlin-Riis park district title. The Nelson Hirschberg team also can take the Humboldt-Welles park district crown with a victory over the Miller Sessler's and the Brighton Wildcats can do likewise by beating the Si Murray Jr. team in the McKinley-Brainard park district.

Wrightwood Tigers and Serratello Crest nines meet in the California-Suburban brackets for the championship:

The schedule:

DOUGLAS-GAGE PARK DISTRICT
Jim Young Conders vs. Marzeno Boosters, Gage park, 3 p. m.

Clift it didn't occasion much of a shock among the 4,821 customers. Neither did three runs added in the fourth. This assault was launched on Papish's two base wild throw of Myatt's tap. Another singled by Lewis sent in Myatt and when Kuhel singled, Lewis hiked to third. He went in from there on Clift's fly which was deep enough to permit Kuhel to go from first to second. A single by Ferrell scored Kuhel with the ninth Washington run.

The Boys Get a Run

There was a break in the knuckle ball monotony when Kerby Farrell singled to open the fourth, this being the second hit off Leonard. Leroy Schalk made it three by singling, sending Farrell to third whence he scored on Dickshot's fly. The Senators replied to this with two in their half of the fifth, the ingredients being a single by Leonard, passes to Myatt and Kuhel and a single by Clift. The next outbreak, quite mild of course, was the No. three Dickshot homer that arched into the left field pavilion in the sixth.

La Guardia to Study Baseball Racial Angle

New York, Aug. 11 [Special]—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia said today he had written to 10 prominent citizens, including Larry MacPhail, president of the New York Yankees and Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, asking them to serve as a committee to make a thoro study of the "color line" in organized baseball and submit recommendations directly to the proper officials of the National and American Baseball leagues.

The mayor made public the text of his letter to MacPhail, disclosing that he was oppointing the committee at the request of his committee on unity, of which Charles E. Hughes Jr., is chairman. The committee was named by the mayor several years ago as a means of improving interracial relations.

"The subject has not been overlooked by the officials of the two major leagues," the mayor wrote. "A preliminary survey has been made by the committee on unity and conferences have been held between the executive director of the committee, baseball officials and people interested in the game.

"It is my understanding that the National league has named Mr. Rickey and the American league has designated Col. MacPhail. Mr. Dan W. Dodson, executive director of the committee on unity has conferred with both of these gentlemen. It seems to me at this point that while everybody is interested, nothing is being done."

Baseball is enjoyed and played by all persons, from childhood on, regardless of race, color or creed, the mayor's letter declared, and ball players, many of them the sons of recent immigrants, have given the best proof of assimilation."

MAXWELL FIELD WINS

Columbus, O., Aug. 11 [AP]—The Maxwell field [Ala.] Bombers today took the second of their two game series with Lockbourne army air base Flyers, 7 to 5.

ED SCHNABEL'S YANKEE TAKES YACHT RACE

Yankee, owned and sailed by Ed Schnabel, won the Chicago Yacht club's R class race off Belmont harbor yesterday, the second successive Saturday victory for the 37 foot sloop. Skipper Schnabel's entry covered the twelve mile course in 2 hours, 1 minute, and 18 seconds. Safara, Lewis Gilbert's entry, was runnerup in 2:03:43, followed by Dr. Adrien Ver Brugghen's boat, Vitesse, in 2:08:06.

The first three of the new Luders 16 class finished in close time. William Alsip's Trio led in 2:13:30, followed six seconds later by Russell Moon's entry, Delight, and one second more by Clare Udell's sloop, Falconet. Orn, Harvey Heiss' sloop, won the Eagle [S] class event.

Raymond Wins Sheridan

Commodore Emerson Raymond won the Sheridan Shore Yacht club's Star class race off Wilmette harbor in his flagship, Dolphin. With Peter Robinson, 16, one of the club's dinghy boys, as crew, Commodore Raymond sailed the ten mile course in 1:42:23. James Bercaw won the Arrow class race in his Jimac.

Van Arsdale in Ohio Race

Wilson [Buzz] Van Arsdale, 18, owner of the Star yacht Step-N-Fetchit, leaves here this morning for Vermillion, O., where he and his crew, Robert Rodgers, will represent the Wilmette Star fleet and the Sheridan Shore club in the annual Great Lakes Star class championship regatta. The regatta starts tomorrow on Lake Erie. The Southern Lake Michigan Star fleet, with crews from the Chicago and Jackson Park yacht clubs, arrived at Vermillion yesterday led by Robert Cameron, of the Chicago Yacht club, district Star secretary.

Purvis Added to Annapolis Athletic Staff

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 11 [Special]—Appointment of two more football stars with college background, the now in the naval reserve service, as assistant coaches of the United States Naval academy was announced today by Capt. Charles O. Humphreys, director of athletics.

They are: Lt. Charles G. Purvis of Mattoon, Ill., and Glenville, Ga., who will help Keith Molesworth handle the backs, and Lt. Edward Erdelatz of San Francisco, end coach. Both are already on the job aiding in weeding out the squad of 250 plebes who began practice a few days ago, and until varsity men begin work Aug. 20.

Purvis Former Illini

Lt. Purvis played at Purdue in 1936, transferred from there to Illinois in 1937, played with the Illini in 1938 and 1939, graduating in 1940. Purvis coached Mattoon High school in 1941 and 1942 and was assistant coach at Illinois.

Lt. Erdelatz graduated from St. Mary's [Cal.] college in 1935. He was an outstanding wingman there for three seasons, and played with the college All-Stars against the Detroit Lions in 1935. He was assistant football coach and head boxing coach at St. Mary's in 1936, '37, '40, '41. In 1938 and '39 held a similar position at University of San Francisco.

Hagberg Begins 2d Year

Comdr. Oscar E. [Swede] Hagberg, United States navy, is beginning his second year as hear varsity coach. The veteran Edgar E. [Rip] Miller of Notre Dame fame will be chief line coach, with Raymond Swartz, formerly of Oklahoma A and M as his associate.

OPEN CUP SERIES PLAY TODAY FOR SEMIPRO TITLE

Seven first round games in the annual Midwest Baseball league's championship cup series for the Thomas J. Bowler trophy, emblematic of the semi-pro title holder of Chicagoland, will be played today. Rabb Tailors vs. Stevens Hotel in Trumbull park, 104th st. and Bensley av.
Oak Park Elks, bye.

LOUISVILLE AIR FORCE ELEVEN TO MEET ARMY

Ted Shipkey Will Coach New Team

BY DAVID CONDON

The army air forces personnel distribution command football team of Louisville, now being assembled for training at Greensboro, N. C., will meet the United States Military academy in West Point, N. Y., on Saturday, Sept. 29.

This was announced yesterday at a meeting of the air forces physical training directors and football coaches in the Knickerbocker hotel. The meeting, second of its kind to be held in Chicago this summer, was called to complete plans for the air forces football program this fall, when seven air forces units will have football teams in competition with each other, while an eighth, the first troop carrier command, will concentrate on college opponents.

Arrangements for the personnel distribution command game with the army team were completed yesterday with Col. Lawrence [Biff] Jones, West Point's manager of athletics, who authorized the announcement. The balance of the personnel distribution command schedule has not been announced, pending verification of tentative dates.

Capt. Shipkey Is Coach

Capt. Ted Shipkey, former All-America end at Stanford and one time head coach at the University of New Mexico, will coach the personnel command squad, with headquarters in Louisville. Shipkey said his team will open its schedule on Sunday, Sept. 23, against the 3d air force team in Tampa, Fla. The engagement previously announced for Sept. 15 against Duke university, in Durham, S. C., probably will be only an informal scrimmage, he said.

Other developments at the meeting, which opened Thursday, included a vote on the extension of the season from Dec. 2 to Dec. 9, announcement of the appointment of Maj. Jess Yarborough, former Miami [Fla.] High school coach, as coach of the 1st air force eleven with headquarters at Mitchel field, N. Y., and transfer of the 4th air force team from March field, Cal., to Ontario, Cal. It also was announced that the personnel distribution command team will be located at Greensboro, instead of Camp Davis, N. C., as previously planned. Coaches and locations of other elevens were announced at the Chicago meeting here in June.

Physical Directors Meet, Too.

Lt. Norman Sanders, one time high school coach in California, will be coach of the newly formed 1st troop carrier command team, to play out of Bergstrom field, Austin, Tex. This eleven, while meeting college teams mainly, also will play the personnel distribution command team, at a date and site to be announced later.

Col. Donald G. Storck, A. A. F. director of athletics, presided at the meeting, which included a special assembly of physical directors from air forces posts. These directors met with the aim of coördinating the physical training program at all bases.

Col. Storck said that the A. A. F. league is continuing its plans to operate even tho peace with Japan seems imminent.

The air forces football program last year carried only four teams, the 2d, 3d, 4th, and training command. This season, the 1st air force, the personnel distribution command, and the air transport command, with headquarters at Berry field, Nashville, Tenn., have been added. Plans call for all teams to exchange games, while other service teams also have been scheduled.

Combat Returnees to Play

Teams will be comprised mainly of combat returnees, while the air forces policy of practicing and playing in off duty hours will be in effect.

The 2d air force team will be in Colorado Springs, Colo., the same as in 1944; the 3d air force will play out of Tampa, Fla., instead of Charlotte, N. C., as it did last year; the 4th air force will play out of Ontario, and the training command team, which last season played as the Randolph Field [Tex.] Ramblers, will play out of Fort Worth. All schedules have not been completed. Those announced were:

PLUMP PACKERS HAVE OWN LITTLE BATTLE OF BULGE

BY EDWARD PRELL
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 11—The Packers batted each other around considerably today in their first physical strife of the training campaign which will end the night of Aug. 30 against the College All-Stars in Soldiers' field.

The two hours of rough competition, politely known as a line scrimmage, was supposed to be only a mild form of what will happen when a regular scrimmage is held. There will be two of these later in the program and today the squad of 35 made a good start toward getting used to bodily contact.

It's Battle of the Bulges

The warm-up scrimmage produced the best wise crack of the training season. Milburn [Tiny] Croft, who weighed in at 306 when the professional champions opened drills three days ago, found himself opposite Bill Neal, 287 pound rookie from Tulane. As they crashed into each other, with Tiny having the better of it, Edide Fonferek, a Packer fan from away back when, remarked, "I guess you could call that the battle of the bulge."

The person most vitally interested in today's stepped-up exercises was Walter Kiesling, the onetime Packer lineman who is making his debut as line coach. Walt has definite ideas on perfection in line play so his somewhat gloomy statement did not surprise the few sideline observers, who crashed the gates of the practice field adjacent to the city stadium.

"I was a little disappointed in some of the new men," said the taciturn Kiesling. "Some of them need a lot of instruction in fundamentals. A few could be in better condition. They need a lot of work to get ready for the All-Stars." Kiesling noted that the forwards showed negligence of duty especially in blocking to protect the forward passers.

Cope Good at Give and Take

One of the most active of the newcomers was Bob Cope, 202 pounder from the University of Arkansas. Most Arkansas boys who come to football's big time are ends or half backs, but Cope is a guard. He is the young man who dealt a terrific beating to the Norman [Okla.] Navy line last season. Today he was popping thru into the back field on line scrimmage.

Because the Packers will lose at least five players on the right side of their line in the regular season, replacement experiments were started today. Joel Mason, who has been the left end behind Don Hutson for several seasons, was moved to right end. Croft moved over to right tackle and Forrest McPherson, erstwhile center, also worked at right tackle. The champions have lost their two veteran right tackles, Dr. Paul Berezney and Ade Schwammel. They also will lose their top right end, Harry Jacunski, who, however, will play in the All-Star game. The other 1944 right end, Roy Wehba, is in military service.

McKay Boots Long Ones

Charles [Buckets] Goldenberg, 34 year old right guard who is making the Soldiers' field spectacle his gridiron swan song is due to report today. Most of the time will be allotted to photographers.

There was no letup in the barrage of passes thrown by all the left and right backs. Roy McKay, the 195 pound back from the University of Texas, who was on the 1943 and 1944 All-Star teams, turned in an astouding punting job today. He kicked four consecutive long spirals against the wind each carrying more than 60 yards in the air. McKay, who was listed as a full back with the collegians, is a tail back, or left half, in the Packers setup. This position calls for running, passing, and kicking.

Travel Ban Not to Affect Illini Football Squad

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 11 [Special]—The ban on civilian sleeper trips of less than 450 miles will have no effect on the Illinois football itinerary this fall. No Pullman trips had been planned. The road schedule this year for the Illini is remarkably simple, calling only for games in Evanston, South Bend, Madison, and Columbus.

Roster of College All-Stars

THE roster of the College All-Star squad, from which will be selected the team which meets the Green Bay Packers, National football league champions, in Soldiers' field Aug. 30, follows:

Hold Testimonial in Honor of Father Leach Tonight

A testimonial honoring the Rev. John Leach, former director of Shewbridge field, which was originally scheduled for last Sunday but was postponed because of rain, will be held tonight during the intermission between two softball games at the field, 74th and Aberdeen sts. The Rev. Michael J. Sweeney, present director of the field, heads a committee of south side civic and business leaders in charge of the testimonial.

Chicago Teams to Play Ontario Soccer Eleven

One of Canada's leading soccer teams, the King Edward club of Toronto, Ontario, will invade Chicago to meet two teams selected from the six leading clubs of the Chicago National league.

Chicago's representatives in the first game, to be played on Sept. 2 in Sparta stadium, will be selected from the Sparta, Slovaks, and Necaxa squads. The second game, to be played on Labor day in Winnemac park stadium, will see the better players of the Vikings, Hakoah-Centers and the Schwabens forming the opposition.

Managers of the Chicago teams will meet on Tuesday night to name the Chicago squads.

The National league's annual 7 a side, which is the big event before the opening of the fall season, will take place Sunday, Aug. 26, in LaBagh Woods at Foster and Cicero avs.

FIRST ALL-STAR WORKOUT WILL BE HELD TODAY

froe of Tulane, and Ralph Park of Texas are candidates for the passing position. Renfroe, incidentally, is one of the best kickers in collegiate football. He scarcely can break the All-Star record for the longest punt, however, since Dobbs set a mark of 85 yards last year with a quick kick.

Center is well fortified for here Bierman has Gordon Appleby, Ohio State; Caleb [Tex] Warrington, Auburn; Martin Silovich, Marquette; Bill Mayther, Oregon, and Jack Tavener, Indiana. Tavener was the starting center for the game last August with the Bears. He also opposed Warrington in the annual North-South game last December.

Bill Meek of Tennessee, Don Greenwood of Illinois, and Hankins of Oklahoma A. & M., are included in the list of field generals while Ernie Bonelli of Pittsburgh, Bernard Singer of Arizona, and Paul Yates of Texas A. & M., are candidates for the full back spot.

Packers' Third Appearance

The All-Stars face the Packers for the third time in the 12 year old series. In 1937 the college men won 6 to 0 when Gaynell Tinsley of Louisiana State scored on a forward pass. In 1940 the Packers won 45 to 28. Thus, the game Aug. 30 will decide supremacy as far as Green Bay is concerned altho the champions of the National league have registered six victories to three for the All-Stars since 1934. The opening game was a scoreless tie, while the Chicago Bears and Bierman's 1936 squad tied Detroit 7 to 7.

A capacity crowd of approximately 90,000 will see the battle in Chicago's lake front stadium. At this time tickets remain in the $2.40 and $1.20 sections. These may be purchased at The Tribune public service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st., and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Mail orders should be sent to the All-Star Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower.

Lots of Birds, No Shells, So Hunters Fret

BY BOB BECKER

Altho mid-August usually is a rather quiet time for most outdoor fans, it's a different story this year since the boys on the home front have plenty to do and think about. For example, here are some of the items on the docket.

First, there is the worry about how many shotgun shells the hunters will have this fall to do the annual fall job of cropping our supplies of wild game. South Dakota hunters especially are walking the floor nights as they try to figure out this problem what with millions of pheasants on hand to provide both sport and food without points.

Then there is the mud hens problem which is worrying the waterfowl experts. We have too many coots for the good of our supplies of duck foods. The mud hens or whitebills—that's the new name for the lowly coots—are increasing rapidly and their numbers must be cut down. But how can hunters be induced to shoot more mud hens?

Northern Illinois is one section of the country that really mows down the coots. To encourage this take of the birds, we wouldn't be surprised if the government set up a special early season for mud hen hunting in Illinois. Such an opportunity to blast the mud hens before it is legal to hunt ducks will mean that Livingston Osborne, director of conservation, and his staff will have some extra work to see that hunters do not knock off any ducks before the regular duck season gets under way.

Bowling Proprietors Will Hold Golf Meet Aug. 28

The 1945 annual golf tournament and outing of the Bowling Proprietors association of Greater Chicago will be held Aug. 28 at Nordic Hills Country club in Itasca.

The Home Front

BY WILLIAM BAYLISS

CLIMAX of the golf side of the industrial sports program in the Chicago area will come Sunday, Aug. 26, when 280 players, representing 25 companies, will play for team honors in the Industrial Amateur Golf association's third annual tournament. The site is the Itasca Country club and the competitors already have warmed up in three preliminary meets, in May, June, and July.

John Gertenrich of Douglas Aircraft, secretary of the association, reports that most of the individual prizes this year will be in war stamps. The No. 1 team award, of course, will be the Claud S. Gordon trophy, donated by the president of the I. A. G. A., whose name it bears.

The team tournament will be followed by an individual meet on Sept. 9 in which the low 32 in the Aug. 26 event will compete for the Chicagoland industrial amateur title. The grand windup will be Sept. 11, when trophies will be awarded at an association banquet in the Como inn.

A-C Employes Get Booklet on Activities

The industrial relations department of the Allis-Chalmers company in Milwaukee has compiled a 24 page booklet outlining the recreation program which it sponsors and giving the workers pointers on how they best can take advantage of the set-up provided for them. Fifteen sports are included on the A.-C. program, all organized on an intraplant basis, with "varsity" teams also supported in half a dozen. The booklet also covers plant recreation activities other than sports and tells how to reach parks and other play spots.

An interesting sidelight on the growth of the Allis-Chalmers recreational program is the statement by Dan Mortensen, employe service department manager, that all activities originated with employes. He says the company never has taken the initiative in offering an activity to the workers, but, when the latter have shown spontaneous interest, the company always has been ready to help with organization and provide supervision.

The Industrial Recreation association has come up with the second of its series of folders on summer sports, this one being on tennis. The first, on golf, was a great success and compilation of a third, which will cover bowling, is almost finished. The folders are available in quantities only to I. R. A. members but single copies may be secured from association headquarters, 1 N. La Salle st., for 10 cents each. Only the tennis folders are available now.

Cullman Wheel Cuts Down P. & G. Lead in North Av. League

Cullman Wheel, second place team in its division of the North av.-Larrabee Y. M. C. A. Industrial Softball league, beat the leading Proctor & Gamble team, 13 to 12, Friday night to cut the losers' margin to half a game. In the North av.-Lincoln-Belmont girls' league, Oak Manufacturing and Croname, Inc., both are undefeated in the second half of the season.

THE Chicago recreation commission this month is observing its 11th birthday. It was in August, 1934, that the commission was set up after a study of the need for such an organization made by a committee headed by Dr. Philip L. Seman. Dr. Seman was appointed by Mayor Kelly as the first chairman of the commission and he still holds the position. The commission will sponsor the 11th annual Chicago recreation conference in the Morrison hotel Nov. 27.

A six team bowling league at Aldens Chicago Mail Order company has been disregarding the calendar this summer and has had a most enjoyable time. At the halfway mark in the schedule the Executives team was in first place, followed in order by Budgeteers, Junior Accountants, Auditors, Timekeepers, and Senior Accountants. Ralph Eggert leads the individuals with a 161 average.

Sparacino Leads Anglers on Seeburg Annual Party

Forty men from the J. P. Seeburg corporation enjoyed the company's annual fishing party at Grass lake. Judging by results, Sam Sparacino was the busiest man in the vicinity since he was credited by the judges with catching 33 fish to win first prize, well ahead of Irv Trappa, second with 19. The largest fish taken was a two pound pickerel, caught by Steve Smigielski. The Seeburg golfers held their regular monthly tournament at Nordic Hills yesterday.

American Gears won the regular season championships in both men's and girls' divisions of the Clearing Industrial softball league. In the men's division the Gears went thru a 24 game schedule undefeated and are the favorites to gain additional honors in post-season competition. In other leagues, American Gear representatives are bidding for the leading spot in the West Suburban Industrial circuit and finished on top in the American division of the North Town league, in which the veteran Swede Roos of the Gears leads the batters with a .583 average.

TALBERT, SEGURA MEET TODAY IN TENNIS FINALS

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 11 (AP)—Billy Talbert, Wilmington, Del., who beat Francisco [Pancho] Segura in two title events this season, again will meet the two fisted tennis star from Ecuador and the University of Miami in the finals of the eastern grass courts tournament tomorrow.

Talbert, defending champion and ranked second to Sgt. Frankie Parker, national title holder now in the Pacific, defeated Frank Shields, New York, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3, in a semi-final match.

Segura, No. 3 in the national ratings, had a more difficult time in eliminating 32 year old Sidney B. Wood Jr. of New York, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5.

Pauline Betz, national women's champion, defeated Louise Brough, eastern defender from Beverly Hills, Cal., 6-8, 7-5, 6-3.

The Los Angeles star will meet Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke of Boston and Los Angeles in the finals.

U. S. Chess Champion to Give Exhibition Tuesday

Reuben Fine of Washington, D. C., United States speed chess champion, will give an exhibition Tuesday at 7 p. m. in the Allerton hotel Italian room, 701 N. Michigan av. He will play two games while blindfolded, at the rate of 10 seconds a move. Afterward he will play all comers simultaneously at ordinary over-the-board play.

M'GUFF TAKES 2 YEAR COACHING JOB AT WEBER

Al McGuff, star quarter back at St. Mel and half back and quarter back at Notre Dame until his graduation in 1934, was signed yesterday to a two year contract to coach football and basketball at Weber High school, the Rev. Louis Kusinski, athletic director, announced. McGuff will have George Ring, formerly on the football coaching staff at Austin and Lane Tech, as a football assistant, but probably will handle basketball alone.

ANNUAL TURNER SWIM MEET TO BE HELD TODAY

The annual swimming meet sponsored by the Illinois Turners will be held this afternoon at the Illinois Turner camp in Fox River, near Algonquin, Ill. It is open to Turners only, and contestants will range from 10 to 50 years of age.

Theodore A. Gross is president of the Illinois Turners, a branch of the national body of American Turners.

$50,000 RACE AT SUFFOLK GOES TO FIRST FIDDLE

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11 (AP)—Returning to the scene of his greatest triumph, Mrs. Edward Mulrenan's grey 6 year old, First Fiddle, repeated in decisive fashion in the 11th running of the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap today before a 35,625 crowd during today's turbulent Suffolk Downs' windup.

That bargain horse, claimed for $2,500 as a 2 year old, won $42,750 more for his owner by coming from ninth in a 10 horse field to lead the Sandy Lane farm's Dinner Party by a length and a half in the rich mile and an eighth stake, run in 1:49 2-5.

First Fiddle, an easy victor at a long price in last year's running, closed as the 4-5 favorite. Jockey Johnny Longden repeated his 1944 ride by not asking that son of Royal Minstrel to get going until the three-quarters pole.

Then, under Longden's urging, First Fiddle flew past William G. Helts' Rounders, his supposedly only serious rival, and pulled away easily. Dinner Party's late rush gave him the place, a length and a half ahead of the Christiania stable's Megogo.

Bets totaling $69,868 had to be turned back when Mrs. W. W. Adams' entry of 2 year olds Fore and Aft and Harrier, the 8-5 favorites, were ordered scratched by Starter Bob Frend after they had gone to the starting gate for the third race.

While becoming the only double winner in the Massachusetts history, First Fiddle's parimutuel prices were $3.60, $2.80, and $2.40. Dinner Party returned $7.20 and $4.20, and Megogo $4.40 for show.

The day's handle, minus the refund, totaled $1,551,370. A check for $225,000 was given to the National War Fund, Inc.

National Cycle Meet Attracts State Riders

Over 100 amateur bicycle riders from every section of the country will compete in the National championship meet in Humboldt park next Saturday and Sunday, according to John Mesch, board of control chairman of the Amateur Bicycle league of America. Heading the list of stars will be Lt. Marvin Thompson of the army air force, the present title holder.

Arthur Lauf, Maryland State senior champion and winner of the all-around championship last year will be accompanied by his brother, James, runnerup for the same title, and G. G. Sanrock. Paul Luders, New York title holder and Ted Smith, winner of this year's meet in northern New York will head delegations for their sections. Pennsylvania will be represented by Warren Bare, state champion.

A trio from Ohio will be Ed Johnson of Cleveland, state title holder, and the two who trailed him in the state meet, Eugene McPhearson and Dr. G. R. Schweitzer.

The meet will wind up National Bicycle week in Chicago. The opening event of the week will be staged in Humboldt park this afternoon when about 25 of the leading riders in the mid-west will take part in a 20 mile race starting at 1 p. m. Wednesday night, the Willie Honeman sprint championship will be held in the same location with titles decided at ¼, ½, ¾ miles.

GERMANS SEE ARMY VETS RUN —FOR FIRST TIME

Gen. Patton's Men Win E.T.O. Track Meet

NUERNBERG, Germany, Aug. 11 (AP) — With its commander, Gen. George S. Patton Jr., looking on, the 3d army captured the first European theater track and field championships with 188 points today as thousands of GIs packed Soldiers' field and saw five ETO records broken.

The communications zone squad took second with 152 points followed by the 16th corps with 81. Seven teams, winners of regional meets, competed in the all-European finals run off in this former nazi shrine.

Gen. Patton, surrounded by 10 other generals, hailed the competitors for showing the same indomitable spirit which made the American soldier invincible.

The two gun general recalled that he had participated in many athletic meets and had been beaten too—but never in battle—and I think it's things like this that prove that Americans are the best soldiers in the world.

The words drew a roar from the soldier crowd that jammed the stadium. Gen. Patton then stepped forward and shook the hand of Corp. Brady Walker, the 3d army captain from Provo, Utah, who led his squad to victory by winning the discus with a toss of 142 feet 9 inches and placing second in the javelin throw and hammer throw.

The communications team leader was Corp. Charles Edwards of Hammond, Ind. In one of the most spectacular performances of the day he won the 200 meter dash, took third in the 100 meters and the broad jump, and ran the anchor legs on the winning 400 meter and 800 meter relay teams.

The 16th corps captain was Sgt. Charles Moore of Terre Haute, Ind., who placed third in the hop, step, and jump.

The top feature of the day was accomplished by Corp. Horace Mamala of Hammond, Ind., who set a new E. T. O. mark by running the 100 meters in 10.7 seconds over a track dulled by yesterday's rains. The time was only five-tenths of a second off the world standard held by Jesse Owens and Harold Davis.

Pvt. 1st Class Lawrence Stout, former University of Illinois athlete, won the hop, step, and jump, and took second in the broad jump and pole vault; Corp. William Behrns, Clay Center, Neb., took first in the 110 meter high hurdles and the 200 meter low hurdles for the 7th army.

2 DAY PROCEEDS AT 2 TRACKS TO GO TO CHARITIES

The Arlington Park Jockey club and the Washington Park Jockey club yesterday announced plans for charity contributions during the current coördinated meeting, which runs until Sept. 6.

Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director of both organizations, said the net proceeds of the Labor day week-end—Saturday, Sept. 1 and Monday, Sept. 3—would go into a joint charity fund to be distributed by the two associations. The tracks will make other contributions out of the net receipts of the meeting.

Shoesmith Wins $1,200 in London Golf Tourney

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—After upsetting Henry Cotton, former British open champion, 4 and 2, in the morning semi-finals, John Shoesmith, 29, a munitions worker, won the London Star's $6,000 Golf tournament today by beating E. W. H. Kenyon, 3 and 2, in the afternoon 18 hole final.

Evans Beats Kraay, 2 and 1; Fifth City Title

Charles revived himself by taking the 20th. Then he went one up at the 22d and added another on the next. Yet the best he could do against Kraay at the turn was to remain even. The long holes, the 560 yard 32d and the 475 yard 33d, provided Charles with his ultimate winning advantage.

The cards:

ADONIS TAKES BELMONT RACE; PAYS $53.50

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—The 76th running of the American turf's oldest stake race brought back memories of one of the sport's biggest upsets today when William Helis' Adonis won the Travers at Belmont Park as a crowd of 44,125 bet a record $4,035,465 on the eight race card.

Fifteen years ago when the classic was run at Saratoga, Jim Dandy, a 100 to 1 shot, beat two of the greatest horses ever to trod an American track—Gallant Fox and Which One. Adonis paid $53.50 after finishing the mile and one-quarter three lengths in front of E. R. Bradley's Burning Dream.

Sir Francis Is Third

Burning Dream, the second longest shot, had five lengths on George D. Widener's Sir Francis. Then came Walter M. Jeffords' Pavot, winner of the $50,000 Belmont stakes over the same track two months ago and today the odds-on favorite of a crowd that wagered more than $4,000,000 and turned some $140,000 over to war relief. The previous record of $3,951,227 was set by 43,701 fans at Belmont last June 9.

C. V. Whitney's Jeep, an early season senation, wound up sixth and Lt. J. M. Roebling's Wildlife, victor in the recent $50,000 Dwyer, was last. Wildlife and Jeep were the second and third choices, respectively, to earn the purse of $28,750.

Air Hero Wins Fourth Straight

In the 43d running of the United States Hotel stakes for 2 year olds, Crispin Oglebay's Air Hero chalked up his fourth straight victory to take the purse of $18,100. He stepped the six furlongs down the Widener straightway in 1:10 2/5 to finish a head in front of Vera S. Bragg's Mist o' Gold, the favorite. He paid $11.20, with Johnny Gilbert in the saddle.

THE LOCKER ROOM

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

IT is the Locker Room's respectful wish that the Chicago District Golf association, which recently formed a public links section, give thought to the conduct of the City Amateur Golf tournament, 41st edition of which was completed yesterday. It's a great old show, chock full of color in its annually qualified ensemble, but there is a measure of efficiency still lacking. . . . This is not the fault of folks like Jerry Riley and Tom Ryan, who strove well these last six days to make the tourney a success. . . . It's just one of those things wherein the C. D. G. A. can help out no end. . . . Here is a great event which, properly run, can add to the tradition and background of the city's oldest golf show. . . . It doesn't call for too much to get the proper first names of the contestants and their affiliations, if any. . . . That is a detail which was overlooked during the last week, when the scores of the qualifiers resembled a list of so many morning line jockeys at Washington Park.

They Could Have Been Jockeys by Their Names

There were fellows named T. Jones [on the board], and none had the slightest idea of whether they came from Jackson park or Jackson Hole, Wyo. . . . The time element was another disturbance in the mechanism of the city tournament. . . . There is no reason why golfers who have won one match, let's say at the Thursday stage, when there is a pair of 18 hole bouts, should be permitted to dally for an hour before starting out. . . . And such important matches as the semi-final and final factors should be teed off on time. . . . It's just a thought, this suggestion from the L. R., but it's one which might be examined if the C. D. G. A. is going into the business of helping a fine tournament to become an even finer one.

ROUND OF THE WEEK.

Larry Kraay of Burnham Woods shot a 67, three under par, in the course of defeating his clubmate, Alex Zgorka, in the semi-finals of the Chicago City Amateur tournament at Jackson park.

AMONG the great shots of the year was that four wood which Capt. Frank Lawler knocked into the hole on the 375 yard eighth at Beverly while playing with his brother, Dr. Paul, K. F. Sheeran and Fred English. . . . It's high time the L. R. got around to praising the magnificent press room work turned in by Quent Lambert, Harry Chapman, Dave Wilkinson, Bill Smith and Jim Lowder at the recent All-American Tournaments at Tam o'Shanter. . . . They pitched all the way, but had nothing to do with the curve thrown in the cancellation of the third round of the women's tournament at Tam, which started out as one of the mistake curios of the 1945 season.

North Side Policemen Play Elimination Round Tuesday

North side policemen will hold their elimination round for the department's annual tournament on Tuesday at Bunker Hill. . . . The four leading scorers will qualify to argue with the south siders for the annual trophy donated by Sheriff Mulcahy in the annual gendarmes' gathering at St. Andrews on Aug. 23. . . . Many a golfer has been respectfully spoken of as "Old Fox," according to Dr. F. J. Hospers of Olympia Fields, but the south side dentist allows that a real fox is no respecter of golf balls and especially the scarcity of them. . . . Approaching the third green at Olympia one night recently, Dr. Hospers and his mates saw a red streak heading for the bushes with a golf ball. . . . Worse yet, it was a highly cherished prewar number. . . . They discovered it later, gnawed up by fox teeth.

SHOT OF THE WEEK

Sgt. Moe Springer of the army knocked in one of his boyhood niblick shots for a three against Harry Andreason on the 347 yard 16th in the third round of the City Amateur.

HOLD PICNIC TODAY

The Old Morgan Athletic club will hold its annual picnic and reunion this afternoon in Royal Oak grove, 87th st. west of Keane av.

FORECAST FEW TIRES QUICKLY FOR MOTORISTS

Large Scale Output Expected in '46

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

Gasoline for motorists will be plentiful shortly after V-J day, but tires will not be available in quantity for present A card holders until the first quarter of 1946, spokesmen for the gasoline and tire industries said yesterday. This means motorists will have to continue to take extra good care of their tires for months after the war is over.

The problem of reconverting from war to peace will be relatively simple for the petroleum companies. Several big producers have indicated they could do it in 24 hours.

Predicts Stiff Competition

"Once the war with Japan is ended there should be plenty of petroleum products for all needs," one spokesman said. "Doubtless there will be severe competition, particularly in the gasoline field, with new refining facilities competing for a market sharply limited by a shortage of passenger cars which will take a couple of years to alleviate.

"On the other hand trucks, buses, and airplanes all will be using more gasoline than they did before the war."

It is estimated 29 million passenger cars were in operation before the war and about 23½ million still are running, indicating the reduced market for gasoline. However, because of the necessity of keeping wells in the producing areas running tho the pressure for maximum amounts will be off, big refineries will keep or turning out their products.

Fuel Oil Needs Will Drop

When the Pacific war ends, the big demand for fuel oil should drop, holding a promise that consumers of fuel oil for home heating will get more this coming winter than had been expected. Large quantities of fuel oil are consumed in freighters and tankers carrying supplies to the Pacific areas. The craft used on beachheads and in island fighting consumed large quantities of diesel fuel which will revert back to civilian use.

A tire industry spokesman in Akron said it will be relatively easy to reconvert from military to civilian production, but it will be impossible to produce all the passenger car tires needed within a few months. However, there will be sufficient tires for all B and C card holders.

The necessity remains for providing tires for trucks and buses. This will require the immediate attention of the tire makers who will have to "let their left hand make the tires for passenger cars."

Expect Larger Production

Despite the handicap of strikes the tire companies produced slightly more than 2 million passenger car tires in July and they expect to produce about 2½ million this month. With war time expansion the passenger tire capacity of the industry is about 73 million tires annually and the heavy duty tire capacity is about 28 million. Before the war a 50 million passenger tire year was a good one and about 8 million heavy duty tires were the most produced.

Man power shortages exist for the tire companies in cities other than Akron, where there is plenty of help. Material shortages include rayon and cotton cord, caused by the lack of man power. However, this situation could be changed overnight with the end of the war.

Chicago Bank Clearings Decrease to 435 Million

Chicago bank clearings last week were $435,200,000, compared with $474,000,000 in the preceding week and $456,500,000 a year ago, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The figures:

WPB Relaxes Steel Curbs for Furniture, Fixtures

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Production controls on the metal furniture and fixture industry were further relaxed today by the WPB. Manufacturers may use steel for furniture and fixtures to the extent of 25 per cent annually [6¼ per cent quarterly] of the amount they used in the base production year [July 1, 1940, to June 30, 1941] without applying for special authorization.

U. S. Agencies Expect Little Drop in Chicago Job Level

No immediate widespread unemployment is expected in Chicago after the capitulation of Japan, and many of the plants will continue to produce a wide variety of goods for the army and navy, spokesmen for the joint program information committee, representing the army, navy, war production board, and war man power commission, said yesterday.

They explained that they did not speak officially, but based their forecasts on information already in their files. They awaited orders from Washington headquarters before making any commitments.

Will Need Food, Clothing

"The army quartermaster corps will continue to buy normal supplies of clothes and food except combat rations, probably even larger supplies of staple merchandise, special furnishings for rest camps and hospitals, large amounts of packaging materials, woolens for next winter in nothern areas, and hundreds of other items," a spokesman said.

"There also may be a continued manufacture of aircraft and aircraft engines and parts, altho there has been no word from Washington about this program. There probably will be cutbacks soon in the manufacture of ammunition and other ordnance materials, and also some signal corps supplies.

"There is a bright side to the employment outlook, however. Unlike Detroit and some other cities, a majority of plants here face no long drawn out shutdown period for retooling and accumulation of materials. Most Chicago workers will continue making the same or similar items, with comparatively short periods of idleness."

Predicts Many Will Leave

He said there are comparatively few workers in industrial plants that face permanent closing or long shutdowns. He predicted a large enough total of persons, particularly women, will wish to leave the labor market voluntarily to keep those seeking jobs at a reasonable minimum.

"Virtually all buying agencies have ceased placing new orders and contracts, pending further word from Washington," he said. "This, too, adds a note of optimism, as it is probable all materials in the hands of manufacturers whose production for the government is stopped may be used for civilian manufacture, except perhaps a few that are so scarce they may continue to be allocated."

65,500 in Area

About 65,500 employes of the larger war plants owned by the government in the Chicago area may be affected by the end of the war with Japan. The plants and the total of workers recently employed include: Dodge-Chicago plant, division of Chrysler corporation, 30,000; Douglas Aircraft company, 17,000; Buick engine division, General Motors corporation, 7,600; Republic Steel corporation, 2,500; United States Steel corporation, 2,000; Aluminum Company of America, 2,000; Bendix Aviation corporation, Illinois division, 2,000; American Steel Foundries, 1,600, and Revere Copper and Brass, 800. Several smaller plants also are owned by the government. Studebaker corporation's Chicago aircraft engine plant when it ceased operations some weeks ago had about 2,500 workers.

WAR LOSS RECOVERIES

Various American corporations in 1941 and 1942 for income tax purposes charged off many million dollars of investments in enemy or enemy occupied countries. From now on the process will begin to be reversed. So far as some European and Philippine investments are concerned, their remaining value will be restored to balance sheets. Later it is presumed there will be substantial recoveries of assets such as rubber plantations, oil properties, and tin mines, in Malaya, Netherlands East Indies, and other western Pacific areas.

The gratification with which stockholders will view these recoveries will be lessened to some extent by the fact that the value of recovered assets previously charged off will be treated as ordinary taxable income to the corporations, with some exceptions. And tax rates are higher now than when the properties were written off. Levies on the value of properties regained may exceed the earlier tax reductions due to their loss, if the valuations are substantially the same in both cases.

In 1941, the combined corporate income tax and surtax rates were 31 per cent. They have since been 40 per cent. The maximum excess profits tax rate in 1941 was 60 per cent, and in 1942 the flat rate was 90 per cent. It is now 95 per cent.

Because of this tax situation, Socony-Vacuum Oil company set up a special reserve for income taxes on recovery of assets. It carried to this reserve the entire tax reduction of $19,850,000 resulting in 1941 and 1942 from charge-offs of assets held by enemies.

Among other examples, United States Rubber company, which owned extensive rubber plantations in Sumatra and Malaya, wrote off $15,487,000 war losses in 1942 and $1,400,000 in 1941 in reports to stockholders—not necessarily the same as in tax returns. Similarily, Standard Oil [New Jersey] deducted 30 millions from income in 1941 as a provision for losses on foreign investments. Pacific Tin Consolidated corporation charged off $2,727,912 because of the Japanese invasion of Malaya.

Aggregate recoveries of course will be only partial. Goodyear Tire and Rubber, however, reported recently that its Pathfinder plantation in the Philippines was found in better condition than expected. International Harvester's plant at Lille, France, was undamaged, and another Harvester factory near Paris, which had been bombed, was reconditioned.

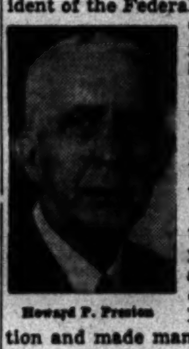
PRESTON QUITS RESERVE BANK; JOINS BROTHERS



Howard P. Preston

Howard P. Preston, first vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for 12½ years, will resign Sept. 1 to become president of the Hamilton National bank of Knoxville, Tenn., he disclosed yesterday.

Preston came to Chicago 14 years ago as manager for the Reconstruction Finance corporation and made many loans to banks during the depression years. He is a native of Tennessee and returns to join his brothers in operating 16 banks with total assets of 280 million dollars. As president of the Hamilton National, he succeeds C. M. Preston, who will become chairman of the board.

NEW STABILIZED OFFICE WORKER PAY RATES FIXED

New stabilized wage rates for office workers in the Chicago, Indianapolis, Minneapolis-St. Paul, and Milwaukee labor market areas, and new job descriptions for the classifications involved have been fixed by the regional war labor board, Edgar L. Warren, chairman, said yesterday. Hundreds of thousands of white collar workers are affected by the new rates.

Stabilized rates and ranges are not intended to disturb existing wage structures, but are established to limit the degree to which existing wages may be adjusted with WLB approval, Warren explained. WLB uses them as a guide to decide wage rate disputes and to rule on the legality of voluntary applications for wage adjustments.

General Mills Registers 100,000 Senior Shares

General Mills, Inc., has registered with the securities and exchange commission an issue of 100,000 shares of $100 par convertible preferred stock with proceeds to be used, among other things, to finance plant expansion, the company said yesterday. Dillon, Read & Co. will head the underwriters. The company plans to issue subscription warrants to common stockholders entitling participation in the new series at the rate of one share for each 20 common held after giving effect to the proposed three for one common split to be acted on by shareholders Aug. 21.

HOME BUILDING BOOM TO BEGIN WITH WAR'S END

Chicago Needs Set at 30,000 a Year

BY AL CHASE

Conclusion of the Japanese war will cause a big increase in home building this year with peak construction in 1946 and thereafter, builders predicted yesterday.

With gradual withdrawal of restrictions and channeling of vital materials into much needed housing, the construction industry in the Chicago metropolitan area is expected to make big strides toward providing adequate housing, they said.

Funds to build these homes have never in the history of Chicago been so plentiful and obtainable on such easy repayment terms, said Percy Wilson, president of the Percy Wilson Mortgage and Investment company and former president of the Chicago Real Estate board.

Need 30,000 a Year

Chicago can use more than 30,000 new homes a year for several years, Arthur E. Fossier, president of the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders association, said.

To meet this pentup demand it is expected present restrictions on home building will be relaxed, he said. The only continued control will be the direction of materials into proper channels by the war production board.

"WPB will keep control of materials and see that they go where they should and not be wasted on nonessentials," Fossier said. "For example, nails are scarce. With the cancellation of a lot of big war contracts more steel will be available. Some of it should be allocated for the manufacture of nails and not go into toys or unnecessary things.

"With allotment of steel for building, the construction industry is going to come back much faster and in greater volume than it otherwise would."

Expect Early Resumption

Chicago builders expect it will take 30 to 60 days to get construction moving and home building will attain peak production by next spring.

Labor, not so plentiful as builders desire, will become available gradually as the 30,000 building trades workers in war plants return to construction jobs, Fossier said.

"There will be some competition for labor between heavy construction interests and home builders," he added. "But the national housing agency, it is understood, will endeavor to keep control and channel as many workers as possible into building homes."

NAVY DRILLS OIL WELL IN NORTH ALASKAN FIELD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—The navy has begun drilling its first test well in northern Alaska where for 20 years it has had 35,000 square miles staked out as "naval petroleum reserve No. 4."

Reporting on a project begun more than a year ago, the navy said today about 200 men are at work on it to determine whether the "reserve" contains oil in quantity.

Capt. Bart W. Gillespie of Gabriel, Cal., the expedition's leader, advised the navy department that there is every reason to believe that it does.

WPB Relaxes Curbs on Highway Projects

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP)—Public highway and street construction projects costing up to $100,000 now may be undertaken without WPB authorization, the agency said today. The old limitation was $10,000, or $25,000 if the total was made up of projects costing not more than $5,000 a mile.

Field Store Will Exhibit Model Post-War Homes

Six model post-war homes, prize winners in a national competition for architects, will go on exhibit tomorrow at Marshall Field & Co.'s State st. store. The homes embody lower cost materials and methods of construction expected to result from mass production of parts and material.

Mercury Use Reaches New Peak in War

Consumption of mercury, often known as quicksilver, has reached a new peak because of a recently discovered use in dry cell batteries for walkie talkies, Chicago industry sources said yesterday.

Mercury prices have declined, however, to approximately $140 for a 76 pound flask, compared with $200 soon after Pearl Harbor. A spokesman for Goldsmith Brothers Smelting and Refining company, one of the largest mercury dealers in the middle west, said the decline may be attributed to increased output from domestic mines and resumption of foreign mercury shipments to the United States. Also, the Metals Reserve company accumulated a large stockpile for the government and withdrew from the market, depressing prices.

Industry Small, but Important

Altho the mercury industry is small, it has attained major importance during the war, because no satisfactory substitutes are available for this strategic metal in many instances. Its war uses include the dry cell battery, which the army requires on a large scale. It goes into the making of fulminate for the detonator of high explosive shells. During the war against Germany it was used extensively in paravanes, instruments which cut the cables of floating mines.

Mercury pharmaceuticals are used by the medical services of the army and navy and the metal is employed in all kinds of precision instruments, gauges, and meters. It long has been utilized in the making of dental alloys.

Double or Triple Distilled

The metal generally is obtained by roasting cinnabar ore. The mercury vapors are recovered from the roasted ore in condensing chambers and collected under water. The perfected product is double or triple distilled for technical uses.

Industry sources said the market value of mercury comes from its indispensability rather than from the amount consumed, which is insignificant compared with the consumption of major metals.

Before the war the United States imported about one-third of its supplies. Domestic mercury is found in California, Washington, Oregon, and other western states, including some in Texas. Spain and Italy accounted for 70 per cent of the prewar world supply, and imports from Spain have been resumed to some extent. Canadian, Chilean, and Mexican sources also have been developed.

20 MORE PLANTS IN BRITAIN TURN TO PEACE ITEMS

LONDON, Aug. 11 (AP)—The board of trade tonight said 20 more government owned factories had been allocated to civilian production, bringing to 74 the total assigned to private industry. Also the radio industry council announced civilian radio sets probably would be available this fall.

The board of trade action increased to about 20 million square feet the space of government owned plants so far assigned to civilian production. This would require an estimated 200,000 workers.

GRAIN FUTURES PRICES TUMBLE IN HEAVY TRADE

Rye Option Breaks 5 Cent Limit

July rye broke 5 cents a bushel, the limit for one day's trading, yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade and July wheat was down 4¾ cents at one time as the grain markets continued readjustment from a war to a peace basis. Liquidation of distant deliveries began at the opening and all July deliveries and May oats and barley went to new seasonal low prices.

Support was lacking except in September wheat, and closing trades were slightly above the bottom. Wheat closed ⅞ to 4⅛ cents lower, with July leading. Rye fell 1¼ to 3⅛, corn ½ to 1⅜, oats 2 to 2⅜, and barley 3½ to 3¾.

Crop Estimate Larger

A department of agriculture crop estimate suggesting record yields of wheat and oats, and a gain of about 160 million bushels in the corn estimate was regarded by brokers as bearish. Including this year's crop and the carryover from last year, the report indicated a total available supply of the five major grains of 6 billion 764 million bushels, or 59 million bushels in excess of the 1944-'45 season.

Buying of the September wheat futures by cash interests, presumably against further large sales to the Commodity Credit corporation, and to remove hedges against sales of 300,000 sacks of flour to Puerto Rico prevented a large decline in that delivery. Cash wheat, however, was easy. Stop loss orders were uncovered in the deferred deliveries.

Expect Parity Decline

July wheat was sold heavily because brokers believe parity prices will decline soon and result in a lower government loan on next year's crop.

Stop loss orders were uncovered in oats, rye, and barley on the way down. Professional traders were buyers of rye early but dropped their holdings later. Canada reduced the export tax on oats 2 cents, effective Monday, but no permits for shipment were being issued.

Net losses on grain futures on the board of trade last week were 3⅛ to 7½ cents on wheat, corn 3 to 4½, oats 6½ to 7⅛, rye 2⅝ to 7⅝, and barley 6¾ to 8¼ cents.

UAW TO IGNORE ORDER AGAINST PREMIUM WAGE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP)—CIO's United Automobile Workers union informed President Truman today that beginning Aug. 27 it no longer would abide by the war time executive order against premium pay for Saturday, Sunday, and holiday work.

R. J. Thomas, president, said the union proposes to return to prewar arrangements under which a worker received premium pay for such time regardless of whether he had worked 40 hours previously in the week.

Canning Sugar Supply Short, Dealers Warn

Chicago area wholesale sugar distributors yesterday said most housewives would find it "extremely difficult" to use their office of price administration canning sugar allotment coupons. Spokesmen said their deliveries to retail outlets had narrowed to negligible amounts and sugar supplies are the tightest since the war's inception. More rationing paper "is around" than sugar.

"The disproportion has encouraged rationing abuses," said a leading wholesaler. "The 'preferred' customer will get sugar—others will experience difficulties."

Quotas Held to 7½ Pounds

OPA currently permits a maximum canning sugar allotment of 7½ pounds per capita in the Chicago metropolitan area. The allotment is based on the total canning done by an individual last year.

Independent grocers particularly have been "hard hit" since they must depend entirely on the wholesale distributor for their supplies, said one distributor. Chain stores, buying in larger quantities, obtain their supplies directly from the refiner. He said he had delivered little sugar to grocers since mid-July.

"I am weeks behind in deliveries and no substantial supplies are in sight," he said. "I could sell 2 million pounds a day with ease, but I have been able to buy only 100,000 pounds since Aug. 1."

Supplies Cut 75 Pct.

Another wholesaler said he had handled less than 25 per cent as much sugar in 1945 as in the corresponding 1944 period. Most of his distribution was going to food converters rather than grocers, he added.

Spokesmen expected little relief from the harvesting of the new sugar beet crop which begins in October. One source said the yield must be distributed over a wide area and must be stretched to next season. He foresaw no real relief before the 1946 crop harvest.

Another spokesman said the new crop could alleviate the situation only if it were distributed immediately without the usual six month spread. One wholesaler suggested that sugar be borrowed immediately from government stockpiles to alleviate the canning situation.

TOTAL OF IDLE FROM STRIKES DROPS TO 30,000

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

The total of workers made idle by labor trouble dropped to a new low for recent months yesterday when a dispute involving 200 Detroit area lumber yards ended, leaving about 30,000 persons remaining away from their jobs thruout the country.

Ed Thal, secretary of the AFL carpenters' district council, Detroit, said 700 employes who left their jobs in 12 yards, causing them to close Aug. 3, returned when the operators agreed to a closed shop, paid vacations, unionization of foremen, and an increase in pay. More than 10,000 construction workers were made idle by the dispute.

Bottling plant workers of Schlitz Brewing company, Milwaukee, entered the third day of a strike which company and union representatives said was unauthorized. About 1,600 were idle in the contract dispute which spread to 35 loading employes of the Pabst Brewing company and an undetermined total at Blatz Brewing company plant.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP)—Wall st. was groggy today after one of the most disrupting weeks in its history forced brokers to adjust themselves to one major development after another. Normally business is slow in August, but in this big week, traders had to digest:

1. News that America had won the race to develop a new superweapon—an atomic bomb which would be used to sear and devastate the tottering Japanese empire.

Russia Enters War

2. Russia's entrance in the Pacific war.

3. President Truman's warning to the Japs to quit or be destroyed and his assertion the United States would hold bases deemed "essential to our protection."

Stock exchanges, closed yesterday under the regular summer schedule, will reopen tomorrow.

4. The Tokyo radio broadcast offering to surrender under terms of the Potsdam ultimatum as long as Emperor Hirohito could retain his prerogatives "as a sovereign ruler."

In appraising these rapid developments stock prices were upset at times, but recovery usually was quick and the Associated Press averages even advanced.

Turnover Average Gains

Daily average turnover was more than 1 million against about 700,000 in the preceding week and about 2 million at the peak of the June rise.

Stock market investors had been watching the ticker tape barely an hour last Monday when the atom bomb landed in their laps. It was not until Tuesday that it became apparent the bomb would hasten the war's end.

Realization that sudden collapse of Japan would bring immediate problems of reconversion, cut backs, unemployment, and other post-war considerations, caused prices to slip about 2 points.

On Wednesday Russia's declaration of war on Japan came too late to affect dealings. However, the list picked up 4 points and more in heavy volume Thursday.

With the Jap radio report fresh in investors' minds on Friday, peace time stocks were bought and war rated issues sold off.

You Can Get Better Investment RESULTS

with FINANCIAL WORLD than without it. Many say a subscription is worth more dollars than it costs pennies. Why? Because our well-trained organization supplies them each week, in condensed and understandable form, the highly essential data and suggestions they need for shrewdly evaluating and selecting securities. We really help subscribers reach much sounder decisions on securities. That's why they gladly pay $15 for a subscription. They do not expect "tips" for trading, but they DO expect (and get) MORE safety, MORE income and MORE long-term market appreciation from their capital. Why delay subscribing when this will mean much better future INVESTMENT RESULTS for you?

FINANCIAL WORLD sends free to every subscriber each month a remarkable up-to-date stock ratings and data book entitled "INDEPENDENT APPRAISALS OF LISTED STOCKS." Besides giving one of 8 different ratings to each of 1,600 listed stocks, the book gives many vital facts on all these issues. Hereafter, before buying or selling any stock check it up first in this famous monthly manual. Ratings are changed as conditions warrant. An added feature of every subscription is our Investment Advice Privilege.

BECOME A WISER INVESTOR

by sending $15 for a yearly subscription, or $7.50 for six months. BRIDGE SERVICES WEDNESDAY TO MARK MASSACRE

Patriotic Groups Honor Fort Dearborn Dead

Traffic over the Michigan av. bridge will be halted for 30 seconds shortly after 11 a. m. Wednesday during ceremonies observing the 133d anniversary of the Fort Dearborn massacre, Col. H. A. Musham, chairman of the Fort Dearborn Memorial association, announced yesterday.

A military police detachment will raise the colors and three volleys will be fired as a small group gathers at the southwest tower of the bridge. This is the site of the frontier fort which was abandoned on Aug. 15, 1812.

52 Slain, Others Seized

Attacked at what is now 18th st. and Calumet av., just after they had left the fort and set out for Fort Wayne, Ind., were a group of 120 whites and Miami Indians. The massacre grew out of War of 1812 enmities and was carried out by more than 400 hostile Indians, who murdered 52 and captured others.

The memorial services will start at 11 a. m. Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Benn, representing the Sons of the American Revolution, the Daughters of the War of 1812, and the Daughters of the American Revolution, will place a wreath on statuary of the bridge tower.

Others on the program include Stephen Michuda of the city engineer's office and Paul M. Angle of the Chicago Historical society.

Location to Be Outlined

Musham said that after the war the memorial commission hopes to complete the outlining in colored concrete of the Fort Dearborn parade ground and stockade wall, which were located at the Michigan av. and Wacker dr. intersection.

Also planned is the erection of a memorial flagpole from which Chicago would keep flying a replica of the flag of 15 stars and 15 stripes flown from Fort Dearborn during the war of 1812.

RAPIST HUNTED FOR ATTACKING STUDENT NURSE

A 20 year old student nurse from a Chicago hospital, who was beaten and raped Friday night in Waukegan, remained in a serious condition yesterday at the Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan, as city and Lake county authorities sought her assailant.

The young woman told police that the rapist was about 25 years old, and that he was wearing bell bottom trousers and a blue work shirt. She said he dragged her into the grounds of the Holy Child convent, a high school at 1201 Sheridan rd., Waukegan. When she resisted, the man tore off her colthing and struck her several times with a tree limb. After the attack, which occurred in a heavy rainstorm, the woman fled, naked, to the Victory hospital, where she collapsed.

In training for the army nursing corps, the young woman was waiting for a bus to take her to her home in a near by town when the man seized her.

FOUR AT PURDUE WIN MEDALS FOR R. O. T. C. WORK

Four Purdue university students have been awarded the Chicago Tribune medals for outstanding work in R. O. T. C. training at the university in the last term. Col. D. M. Beere, R. O. T. C. commandant at the school, presented the medals on Thursday. Robert C. Forney, 6910 Olcott av., and Theodore N. Ballin, 5430 Adams st., both of Chicago, received gold medals. Theodore H. Heemstra of Bluffton, Ind., and Blacque W. Thorman of Fort Worth, Tex., were awarded silver medals.

Hunt Arsonist for Fire at Holy Name Cathedral

Chicago avenue police yesterday continued a search for a tall man, about 35 years old, who is believed to have set fire to the west door of the Holy Name cathedral, State and Superior sts., early yesterday morning. A description of the man was obtained from Mrs. Mary Kenyon, 11 W. Superior st., who saw him throw kerosene at the door and then light it. The cathedral was the third Roman Catholic church to have been set on fire in a week.

NEW GLENVIEW HOME
Do you want a home as cheap as possible on a cheap lot in Glenview?
Then we can't help you.
Our lots are not cheap, but we believe they are the best located in the Country Club section. We believe they have the best improvements all in and paid for. We believe they have the best protective restrictions it is possible to draw. Our construction is not cheap, but we believe our method of construction assures you a fire-safe, skyscraper home of enduring value.
Our designs are not cheap, but we believe they combine traditional beauty with modern living to the utmost.
Our charge, not for selling such a home to you, but for buying it for you is not cheap, but when you investigate it, we believe you will feel it is fair and assures you the most of the best.
Some building restrictions have been lifted. More will be soon.
Come and talk to us and see what we have.

QUALIFIED G.I.'s
An Apartment Oct. 1st
Plus a New Home May 1st
Startling news—but true! We actually have a 4 room apartment—only one at present—available Oct. 1, on our preferred G. I. list. We're renting it to a G. I. who wants, and can qualify for, the building of a new home May 1, on one of our choice, fully improved, high-rolling sites in distinctive Northbrook Highlands, in the fine, long-established village of Northbrook, with every municipal facility and convenience, with exceptional stores, schools and churches in close walking distance, 32 minutes steam transportation to Union station.
If you seek a bona fide combined proposition of a good apartment for 8 months and then, forever, a well designed, soundly constructed home to fit your needs and budget, see us today. You can have us build for you for May 1 delivery, for 1-5th cash, on a 60 to 90 foot site, your choice of the following: a picturesque $10,500 Cape Cod, for which, covering everything, you will pay $79.11 a month, or a $11,300 1 floor, spreading Rancho for $85.42 a month, or a $12,500 2 story charming Colonial for $86.08 a month.
In order to free this apartment for rental to another later-returning G. I. it will be rented only to a G. I. family who select and pay for a site now and contract for a home for May 1st occupancy.

ELMHURST—BUILT TO SATISFY fastidious and discriminating people, no expense was spared to make this one of the most delightful homes in this section of fine residences. The 21x15 ft. living room has a picture-window bay, and a lovely oversized mirror over the real fireplace, a doorway from the paneled dining room opens onto a screened terrace, the kitchen with its circular breakfast corner, is the newest in design and there is a clever powder room. From a large reception hall, a circular staircase leads to a master bedroom 32x14, 2 other large bedrooms and a large bath with colored fixtures. The basement recreation space has a fireplace and shower. The construction is brick with steel beams so well insulated that the yearly cost of gas for heat, cooking and refrigeration is only $150. This is honest value at $35,000.

THIS 6 ROOM HOME was built 9 years ago by the present owner, and nothing was spared to make it the best that money can buy. It is of combined stone, brick and frame construction, garage attached, with oil-fired heat and hot water. All rooms are large and light, the kitchen is delightfully modern, and there are 1½ baths. The low heat cost and taxes on so fine a home in this preferred location will amaze you. $19,000.

A COMPLETE CAPTIVATING 6 room, 2 story brick home with tile roof. The 28x16 ft. studio living room with its large window and large fireplace is a stunning departure from the ordinary. 2 tile baths, 1 with tub, the other with shower stall, add to the convenience of this home. The kitchen has cabinets and a large breakfast room. 1 bedroom is 12x18 with dressing room and large closet, one 12x13 with closet 5x8, and the 1st floor bedroom is finished in knotty pine. House is fully insulated, has hot water stoker heat and garage. $18,500.

We believe these houses are unusual values. See them today.

FARMS—What size do you want? Write. W. C. KIERNAN, WHITEWATER, WIS.

TWO DANDY SMALL FARMS.
Both are exceptionally good and well worth the money asked.
60 highly productive acres—all work land. Good and very pleasant house; Chicago inspected barn, 2 silos, outbuildings; 1 mile from town; bus to grade school, high school, and college. Farm alone $10,000. May also be bought with personal—good machinery, quality herd of cattle, lots of good feed and growing crops.
74 acres, 60 of which is very highly productive work land. Best crops we have seen this year. Oats yielded about 99 bushels per acre. They will have three if not four cuttings of alfalfa. Corn is wonderful. Good house, good barn, good outbuildings, including exceptionally good 600 hen laying house; 26 fruit trees; large grape arbor. Only ½ mile from trading center of 100 with community church and state graded school. Also ½ mile from dandy little lake with excellent fishing. Black top road. Bus to high school and college. Farm alone, $10,000. May also be bought with personal.

NEAR LAKE GENEVA.
Owner of this 160 acre farm has gone east to live permanently; is very anxious to sell either alone or with personal and wants us to get him an offer.
Pleasant little home with running water and bathroom; large Chicago inspected barn, large chicken house, large, new concrete silo, large, new milk house, new machine shed, granary, corn crib, and the best hoghouse in Wisconsin.
The land is good and most of it, except for 20 acres of heavy timber, is under cultivation.
Two excellent sites for an owner's home. Come up and if you like it make us an offer.
Other quality farms of all sizes. Write us for our new lists.

The more times we say "Yes" to requests for loans—the more business we do. And since making Personal Loans is our ONLY business—you can depend on our doing our best to say "Yes" to you. Besides, consider these advantages of Personal service—

1. Loans $10 to $250 or more on signature, car, or furniture, whichever suits you best.
2. Loans made to employed men and women.
3. Between pay-day loans.
4. Exclusive Personal Nation-wide Cash-Credit cards issued and honored here.

Why not stop in or phone us today? We'd like this chance to say "Yes."

Young Admiral

EIGHT YEARS AGO, when the world was at peace, an obscure navy lieutenant known to his intimates as Min Miller wrote a book called "Navy Wings," in which he traced the development of naval air power. In keeping with his lowly rank, he avoided saying anything to offend the admirals and their battleships, but he urged continual development of the naval air forces and made several daring predictions.

"The value of airplanes as a fast striking force cannot be underestimated," he wrote. "Carrying tremendous loads of bombs, this arm of the fleet may well put several major ships out of action or at least cripple them sufficiently to place them at a distinct disadvantage."

Since those words were written battleships have been sunk by airplanes. The greatest sea battles of history have been fought by fleets that never approached within gun range of each other.

Min Miller's position has changed, too. He is now Rear Adm. Harold Blaine Miller, the youngest admiral in the navy; he has been decorated twice for exceptionally meritorious conduct and is the new director of public relations for the navy department. His friends still call him Min.

Admiral Miller denies he was a lone prophet on the subject of naval air power. There were many other aviation enthusiasts in the navy, and they are now running it. Miller cautiously admits that their faith in the airplane has been sustained by Three Crosses!

JAPANESE SUICIDE TACTICS puzzle American navy men —Comdr. Joe Taylor, for example. He has won three navy crosses for extraordinary heroism, which means he has offered his life at least three times for duties that might easily have been suicidal. But he is still puzzled by the Japs.

Joe's three navy crosses are three more than he expected to get when he was graduated from the Danville (Ill.) High school in 1923 and entered the United States naval academy at Annapolis. He won the first cross in March, 1942, when he was commanding a torpedo plane squadron on the old Yorktown.

Those were the days, Joe recalls, when our antiquated torpedo planes, flying at 100 miles an hour, attacked shipping protected by Jap Zeros, which flew 300 miles an hour. The missions were never described as suicide tactics, but often the boys didn't expect to come back. Many didn't.

Joe insists he was one of the luckiest, not one of the bravest. Off New Guinea he won his first navy cross for sinking an enemy seaplane carrier. Two months later came the battle of the Coral sea. Joe's squadron helped sink a Jap carrier and seriously damage another, and he won a second navy cross, but the Lexington was sunk in that battle, and neither he nor anybody else on the Yorktown was happy as the remnants of our crippled fleet steamed south.

On May 9, the morning after the Lexington went down, word came to the Yorktown that a large Japanese task force was approaching at high speed. Joe, then a lieutenant

YOUTH ON THE CAMPUS

On the steps of the Rockefeller Memorial chapel at the University of Chicago: Sigurd Johnsen, Montclair, N. J. (fourth year, college); Walter Shirley, Indianapolis (discharged marine, now in third year, college), and Corinne Pendlebury, West Hartford, Conn. (third year, college).

By ELEANOR NANGLE

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO was one of the first, if not the first, to organize its curriculum on a quarterly instead of a semester basis, thereby affording students the opportunity to pursue their regular university studies during the summer months. Chicago's Midway is practically never deserted.

There are some 3,100 students of the graduate schools, the college, and the divisions working assiduously here this summer. Of these about 800 are enrolled in the university's college, constituting a group of boys and girls who quite literally represent youth on a campus. Most of them are very young indeed, since this unique college accepts qualified students who have completed their sophomore year in high school. By attending college for all four quarters of the school year these kids can complete their liberal education and receive a bachelor's degree in as few as 27 months!

Naturally this is one college in the country where even in these times one sees almost as many boys as girls; the former flock to Chicago from all sections of the country, surprisingly young, bright, and intensely eager to obtain the precious degree before entering military service.

The 800 college students on the campus during this summer quarter represent only a fraction of the normal enrollment. Tho the college has been operating for less than three years, its program has proved so attractive to the youth of America that its enrollment has shot up to close to 2,000—and is held there only by the lack of adequate housing facilities for the young students.

The summer term at the University of Chicago ends on Sept. 15. The fall quarter opens 10 days later.

Captain Eddie's Outfit

This is the second of two articles, written before the end of the European war, about the 1st fighter group, descendant of the famous group that included Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker as its ace of aces. The first installment told of the 1st's call to action and its early work in Africa.

By CLAY GOWRAN

IN NOVEMBER the group broke up housekeeping again and moved to Montserrato, Sardinia. A month later the 1st celebrated its second Christmas on foreign soil, if you can call it a celebration. The ground echelon spent the day unloading ships. The pilots flew a mission to Italy and ate a turkey dinner.

It might be worth while to mention where the pilots of each squadron lived at Montserrato, for men with the group today insist their habitations there were true indications of their temperament. The 27th, apparently of aristocratic inclination, appropriated a private villa. The 71st lived in a monastery. The old 94th, undoubtedly following in the footsteps of the other 94th, moved into a winery.

The group log records the following statistics at the end of 1943:

Foreign service	19 months
Pilots killed in action	21
Pilots missing in action	76
Pilots prisoners of war	16
Enemy planes destroyed	253
Total missions	948
Combat hours	37,692

The group had had nine aces, some still with their squadrons, others back in the United States after completing their 50 missions. The Illinoisan, Lt. Meldrum Sears of Oconee, now a captain, was high scorer with seven enemy planes in his bag. Lt. Jack Ilfrey had six. Darrell Welch, now a major, had five, and Lt. John MacKay had the same, while Lt. Lee Wiseman had bagged his five and moved up to the rank of captain. The others, each with five planes to his credit, were Capt. Newell Roberts of Dayton, O., and Lieutenants John Wolford of Cumberland, Md.; Daniel Kennedy of Medford, Mass., and Rodney Fisher of Sacramento, Cal.

Sardinia proved to be just a way stop. In January the group was on the move again, this time to southern Italy. Men and officers barely had time to put the single runway at the new field in serviceable condition and get the tents up when they were plunged into the newest, roughest offensive. . . . Anzio. Gen. Clark's forces made their beachhead there at dawn on Jan. 22, and from then on until they no longer were needed the Lightnings of the 1st raked German positions around Anzio with 1,000 pound bombs and machine gun and cannon fire.

In late February new targets were assigned and the "Cook's tours" of Europe began. Airdromes around Sofia, Bulgaria. . . . Messerschmitt factories near Wiener Neustadt . . . railroad marshaling yards at Turin . . . port installations at Piraeus, Greece . . . the air fields of Rome . . . Klagenfurt, Austria . . . southern France . . . oil refineries and air fields around Budapest.

Group records show that, about this time, enemy air opposition began to lack the old aggressiveness, to be uncoördinated as compared with the superb attack routine of the old Luftwaffe. More and more anti-aircraft fire from the ground came to be the main opposition, altho occasionally the Luftwaffe gathered its resources and struck hard for a day, two days, or maybe a week at a time against the air armadas spearing into the heart of the 3d Reich.

Like their forerunners in the old 1st pursuit group, the flyers of the new 1st managed to get into trouble, even tho they had a harder time finding it. For instance, Capt. Hugh Watson of Phoenix, Ariz.

Watson and Capt. Joe Ewers of Welch, Okla., were roaming around over Yugoslavia one day late in the spring of 1944 when they spotted a German ammunition truck crawling along a road deep in a mountain valley. With Ewers riding his tail, Watson slammed down into the valley, right on the deck along the road, to shoot up the truck. Just as he roared over it the ammo-filled vehicle exploded, hurling his plane almost straight up and out of control. Before he could recover, the P-38, traveling at almost 400 miles an hour, brushed the vertical face of the mountainside, damaging one tail boom, completely knocking out the engine on the same side, and damaging the oil system on the other. Somehow Watson bulled the ship back into the air; then started the following plane-to-plane conversation with Ewers, flying alongside:

Capt. Jerome Schweikert . . . in last big scrap.

Watson: "Joe, it flies awful hard. I don't know whether I can hold it."

Ewers: "Pick a spot and belly in. Try to come down easy. Keep that gun sight out of your face when you hit."

Watson: "How long can an engine fly without oil? One engine's gone and there's no oil pressure on the other."

Ewers: "About 45 minutes, I suppose. Never tried it myself."

Watson: "That's damned encouraging. Forty-five minutes, and home is an hour and a half away. How does my tail look?"

Ewers: "Well, it looks rather nice. But how the hell you can fly with it I don't know."

The engine kept going, the tail held together, and 1½ hours later Watson staggered in to crash land on his own runway without injury to himself.

Lt. Col. Bucky Harris, left, and Capt. Everett S. Lindley after a mission to Austria.

The Luftwaffe apparently received extra vitamin pills at breakfast on May 18 because on that day it put up its toughest scrap in weeks. Fifty-three Lightnings from the 1st were to rendezvous with heavy bombers just this side of Ploesti, Romania, for the run in on the oil refineries there. Because of weather the fighters were six minutes late. When they arrived, at 22,000 feet, they found 33 Liberators and Fortresses trying to fight off nearly 80 German fighters, and not doing so well.

The P-38s poured down into the melee and 21 minutes later 11 enemy planes had been knocked out of the sky with the loss of only one Lightning, and its pilot later was rescued. Two Minnesota boys from the 94th had a good day.

"Just as we reached the level of the fight an Me-109 turned toward me and came in head-on," said Lt. Raymond Maxfield of Mankato. "When he was 200 yards away I opened fire. Just 75 yards from me the Jerry's engine exploded and he caught fire. Missing me by a few feet he did a split S and went down flaming to smash into a mountainside."

Capt. Edward LaClare of Minneapolis also got one. "As I arrived a Focke-Wulf 190 was making a pass at a bomber," he stated in his report. "He passed in front of me 500 yards away. I broke inside of him and closed to 200 yards, then cut my guns loose. He blew up as I rolled over on my back and went under him."

Later another unit citation was awarded for this battle.

Late in May the group took time off to hold an all-night party to welcome back Bucky Harris. The tough, stocky Wisconsin boy had completed his missions months before and gone home. Now he was back, to become CO of the 94th less than a month later.

Three days later the group acquired another ace when Lt. Thomas E. Maloney, flying a Lightning dubbed "Maloney's Pony," nailed his fifth German plane on an escort job to Ploesti. Maloney didn't know it on that day late in May, but less than three months later he was in for real trouble. It came on Aug. 19, on a bridge beat-up near Marseilles, France.

The 23-year-old Cushing, Okla., boy, who had eight planes by this time, was forced to crash land the "Pony," in the sea after flak knocked it out of control. Wading ashore he stepped on a land mine which shattered one thigh bone and mangled both feet. Somehow he managed to drag himself into a small woods before fainting from pain and loss of blood.

Next morning he came to long enough to sprinkle sulfa powder on the great gaping wounds in his legs, then lost consciousness again, and for the next three days he was rational only an hour or so at a time. On the fourth, altho his legs were useless, he dragged himself almost a mile to a pool where he managed to drink before passing out again.

On the fifth day, still undiscovered, he dragged himself to a river, swam it somehow and crawled into an abandoned house. Moldy carrots he found on the floor were his first food since the crash. Mosquitoes and flies descended upon him. On the ninth day, with his wounds dripping infection, he managed to build himself a little raft and floated down the river. But there was no help there, so he paddled back to the house. There, on the tenth day of his ordeal, Free French forces found him. He now is in an army hospital at Temple, Tex.

Col. Arthur C. Agan . . . here missing in action.

For the group, things picked up a little in June. It chalked up 42 planes during the month, 28 of them on the 10th of that month. But 14 Lightnings went down the same day.

Forty-eight Lightnings had been assigned from the group as escort for P-38s of another group carrying out a dive bombing and strafing mission at Ploesti and Gaesti, Romania. They ran into nearly 100 Messerschmitts and Focke-Wulfs. Jerry even had a few training ships in the air equipped with machine guns.

Lt. Herbert Hatch Jr. of Stockton, Cal., and the 71st squadron was high man with five Focke-Wulfs certain, another probable, and still another damaged. Three other pilots each bagged three. They were Lieutenants Everett Miller of Pomona, Cal.; John Shepard of Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Carl Hoenshell of Saginaw, Mich. Miller was a 94th squadron man, while the other two were from the 71st.

Hoenshell also won a distinguished flying cross for extraordinary heroism that day. A flight leader, halfway thru the scrap he found himself with only his two wingmen left behind him. Using the plane-to-plane phone, he picked up another straggler to form a four plane flight. Only two of the four ships still had ammunition left.

The Michigan boy was leading his hodgepodge section to safety when his radio picked up another ship calling for help. Despite heavy flak which knocked out one of his engines he turned back into the melee and shepherded another ship with engine trouble out of the fight. Eleven Messerschmitts jumped them, but somehow they managed to beat their way out.

It was a sad gang which finally made home base that night. Fourteen seats at the squadron tables were empty. One Lightning had flown right into the railroad locomotive it had been strafing, another had exploded in midair, another had gone down over the target with its pilot waving farewell to his wingman. All the long way home P-38s had dropped out, parachutes blossoming in the dusk and the planes screaming down to disintegrate against the mountainsides.

But they were not all gone for good, those pilots who fell on June 10. The fall of Romania late in August liberated four of them, plus a fifth flyer who had been captured back in May. Those captured on the June 10 mission and released were Lieutenants Raymond Geyman, Madison, Ind.; Ralph Hisey, Lakewood, O.; Rudolph Jancl, Phillipsburg, N. J., and Harry Noone, Kansas City, Mo. The fifth man was Lt. Edward Ulrich, Los Angeles, Cal.

On July 18, 1944, came the last really big air scrap the 1st has had. It started as an escort mission to the Dornier works at Friedrichshafen, Germany. Capt. Jerome Schweikert, mentioned above, was leading the 52 Lightnings on that mission.

"We were supposed to pick up a group of Liberators at the rendezvous point, but they didn't show up so we shifted over to protect a group of B-17s going to the same target," he said. "As we got close to Friedrichshafen I saw what I thought was heavy flak concentrations in the sky ahead of us. Then suddenly—I'll never forget it—I realized those dots weren't flak. They were enemy fighters, about 90 of them, sitting there waiting for us.

"Down they came and we tangled. They went after the bombers, and it was a hell of a fight. The Fortresses were strung out, making it difficult to protect them, and they suffered. Honest to God, there were bombers dropping like flies that day, and parachutes like snowflakes below us. At one time there must have been 30 chutes in the air. Somehow we didn't lose a fighter, and despite the heavy superiority of the Jerries we got 14 of theirs. The bombers knocked down about 10."

From that day on enemy planes became a much sought after rarity. Missions became synchronized operations with the heavy bombers. One day the Liberators and Fortresses escorted by the Lightnings would smash up a railroad yard, for instance. Next the fighters would go back alone to strafe the area, destroying any halted trains and preventing immediate repairs. For example, on Sept. 1 the Lightnings got 11 locomotives, 9 railway cars, 4 oil cars, 1 armored railway car, 45 trucks.

Dishwashing's a Cinch!

She's Like Other Chicago Women Who Prefer American Family 2 to 1

Cuts grease in a Flash . . . yet helps hands stay soft and smooth

"My hands are worlds softer since I started to use American Family Flakes," says Mrs. S. A. Velba, Jr., 2435 W. Rice. . . . Here's why. Today, these famous flakes are milder than any strong granulated soap—and so they are far kinder to hands.

"I never got pots and pans clean quicker" says Mrs. J. Schenk, 3150 No. Honore . . . She's right! No soap in the world cuts grease faster than American Family Flakes.

American Family Flakes make more suds faster than strong granulated soaps! These famous flakes are specially made for the hard water of this area. No wonder a new survey reveals they're preferred for dishwashing by twice as many women as any other package soap.

Don't Waste Soap! It's made of vital war materials. Make your American Family Flakes go as far as you can.

Does BORDERLINE ANEMIA* Say You're Older Than You Are?

HAVE you lost your "push" and "drive"—is there a slump in your spirits? Borderline Anemia can make you feel like a failure!

Borderline Anemia is a highly prevalent condition! Doctors say thousands upon thousands of men—up to one out of two women—suffer from it.

Healthy Red Blood Cells Are Needed for Energy

Many people who should enjoy life have a Borderline Anemia, resulting from a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency. Their blood cells are not red and big enough for full vigor.

Without full health in these red blood cells, which control the amount of energy you get, you can't expect to feel alert and "on your toes."

Ironized Yeast Helps Build Up Blood and Energy

If you're threatened with Borderline Anemia—if you're tired, pale, listless—you need Ironized Yeast Tablets!

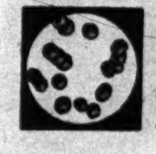
Of course, your condition may come from some other cause—so it's wise to consult your doctor at regular intervals. But, if you've a Borderline Anemia*—if you need to build healthy red blood cells, to improve your energy—take Ironized Yeast. It contains the very elements that half of us don't get enough of for red blood, for fullest energy. Insist on genuine Ironized Yeast Tablets. At all drug stores.

Resulting from a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency.*

Energy-Building Blood

This is what the doctor sees in his microscope looking at blood rich in energy-elements. Note big, plentiful red cells that carry oxygen to release energy to every muscle, limb, tissue.

Borderline Anemia



Thousands have blood like this—and never know it. Note puny size and irregular shape of red cells. Blood like this can't generate the energy you need! Only sturdy blood can give you top energy.

IMPROVED CONCENTRATED FORMULA

Ironized Yeast TABLETS

It's better with fresh fruit and White Rock

Try this White Rock Rum Collins!

Put 1 level teaspoonful of sugar in a tall glass. Dissolve thoroughly in a little White Rock water. Add juice of 1 small lime (or ½ lemon) and stir. Add cracked ice (or ice cubes), then 1 jigger of rum (2 oz.). Fill glass with White Rock Sparkling Mineral Water—the lively mixer with the refreshing tang. Stir slightly . . . and drink. Um-m-m!

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

(Copyright: 1945: The Chicago Tribune)

Hollywood

WHEN leading men were the kind of bold, aggressive males you couldn't trust with the hind side of a soda cracker, censors measured the length of screen kisses. What the jive hounds call a solid musher was allowed 30 seconds' screen time. It reduced the audience to sentimental pulp. But that sort of wolfing isn't so popular in today's pictures.

The wolf of yesterday is now the big brother type. So the audience gets its thrills from the predatory tactics of our women stars.

If you remember Humphrey Bogart's limp defense against Lauren Bacall's onslaught in "To Have and Have Not" you'll get what I mean. She was strictly dishonorable from the moment their eyes met. Bogie didn't have a chance. Don't forget I'm talking about the picture now.

Cary Grant used to be a man with a load of menace. Now he's a gay, companionable 'chip who falls on the worthless side where cards and debts are concerned, but you could trust your junior miss out with him any night—and Mother Hensel does.

Dana Andrews and Jeanne Crain in "State Fair."

Because menace passed to the distaff side, a handsome young actor named Dana Andrews, who'd waited a long, long time for a break, got it in 20th Century-Fox's "Laura." He played—or, to be more precise, he underplayed—the part of a young detective. It was a role that could very well have become a mere bore. Dana Andrews made the detective an outstandingly romantic figure. And it won him a seven year contract without options that will net $1,500,000 during its run.

Dana with his "other girl" in "Fallen Angel." Linda Darnell.

Dana has acting tricks. They'll be copied by other actors in due time. By then he'll no doubt have developed a new set. He shows anger by a tightening of the cheek muscles and a slow fisting of his hands. Remember the vein that always stands out on Charles Boyer's forehead when he's under stress? And the veins in the neck of the late Conrad Veidt? They stood out like whipcords. When his performance reached its peak you looked at his neck more than at his face.

Dana made the alien and frequently forbidding detective likable and sympathetic by such things as the sudden drop of his shoulders and relaxing of his face when he learns the girl he loves is innocent. These are minutiae that would be lost in a theater but loom significantly in the camera eye. Dana, who knows cameras and works with them, is on to this. What's more, he played a love story without a single kiss to salt its emotional quality. That, pals, has become the picture fashion plate of 1945.

Andrews was 12th on the list of 20th's fan mail recipients when "Laura" was released. He zoomed right to the top. This is enough to make you feel he might want to remain playing parts that lie in the popular groove. Far from it. He promptly asked for the role of Eric Stanton in "Fallen Angel," where "I'm a heel to end all heels," he told me. "I'm an opportunist who makes love to two women—Linda Darnell because I've a yen for her, and Alice Faye because she's got some money I'm after so I can give Linda more luxuries."

Since he admitted he has six kissing scenes to his credit (hot ones, too), I can see it's well out of the big brother orbit he helped to popularize. But Dana likes the idea of variety in movies, just as he does in private life. Between the time he was graduated from the university at Huntsville, Tex., and landed in the Pasadena Playhouse (good old prep school for so many of our stars), he held 21 different jobs.

"I dug ditches, picked cotton, figs, and oranges. I weeded the neighbors' lawns. I delivered meat for the local butcher. You see, my father was a Baptist preacher. There were 10 kids in our family—nine boys and a girl. We all worked at odd jobs thru grammar and high school and even in college. I got $30 a month delivering for the butcher when I was going to Uvalde High school. I'd get $10 a week with room and board during vacation while I was going to college, working for a neighboring farmer. Later on I was a plumber's assistant. Then I got a job as nursemaid to a few million bees at an apiary. I was stung about 50 times a day at first. They taught me to take it. One year I was handyman on a farm—I got acquainted with the dawn that way. Then I took town jobs. I kept books at a bank for a while. I clerked in a department store. Then truck driving appealed to me. I was in the 'don't fence me in' stage at that time. My second bookkeeping venture fell under the head of accountant. I tried newspapering, too. But when I was publicity man for a movie theater I got the acting bug. I doubled inside the theater at night—we had a sound film, 'Wings,' and I muffed the sound miserably. I had to watch the picture all thru the run. I got so I knew the story by heart, so I concentrated on the actors. Just to entertain myself, I'd reconstruct how they played the parts and imagine how I'd do it. That's when I began to feel I had acting talent. Since being fired from a job, or quitting one, never bothered me, I just took my hat and started for Hollywood."

This landed Dana Andrews driving the Van Nuys school bus at $10 a week for a spell. Eventually located him in a gas filling station instead of a studio. He was checking oil, gas, and tires and wiping windshields when his employers offered to stake him to a movie career. It took some doing. They gave him $50 a week for almost three years before he got going. But they got back their initial $8,000 investment plus $20,000 profit out of his first five years' earnings. That is an investment hard to beat.

Only two of the many jobs he's held have served Dana to any extent in his career. In "Ox Bow Incident" he was a western rancher. Played it so convincingly that he was in so far as movies are concerned. Then for a long time he played airmen, officers—the war cycle was on then in pictures. Now, in "Fallen Angel," he plays a publicity man; admits his experience in that line was one of the toughest he ever experienced. He couldn't get the name of the show he was press-agenting into the papers, so he bought a marking pot and brush and wrote it in large letters on every vacant space he could find. It was a wonderful first night, but Dana wasn't there to see it. He was in the clink. His boss was belatedly grateful. He paid Dana's fine, then fired him. Since then he's had a wholesome respect for publicity.

DANA ANDREWS . . . up the hard way.

With Alice Faye in his latest film, "Fallen Angel."

When an agent recently bought his contract for $50,000 Dana Andrews thought he was crazy. But the agent was crazy like a fox—he knew he could land that million and a half contract—with sure-fire money.

Dana recently bought a home on Toluca lake, where he is an interested member of the community. His wife, the former Mary Todd, was an actress, but retired when they married. His three children—two boys and a girl—are a matter of deep concern to him. He may be the hottest leading man in movies, but he isn't above attending a parent-teachers' meeting if he thinks he should be there. And since movie parts are jobs in his life, he moves with keenness from one to another, happy so long as they're different.

MARY MEADE TELLS HOW TO Freeze Meat, Poultry

By MARY MEADE

FREEZING does not improve the quality of meat, but does have a tendency to tenderize some cuts. The important step in freezing meat is to wrap it carefully, as improperly wrapped meat deteriorates rapidly.

Meat and poultry may be cooked from the frozen state or thawed first. If you put a hard frozen roast in the oven it will take at least half again as long to cook as a thawed one. The temperature is the standard one for most meats, 325 degrees. Following are the main steps [illegible] to accompanying [illegible].

1 When freezing meat at home try to select good quality and package in family size portions. Wrap meat in sufficient cellophane to allow ends to fold over several times in a lock seal. To exclude air, wrap tightly so that cellophane touches all surfaces of meat.

2 Fold cellophane so that the [illegible] ends are tightly sealed, then tie with string to hold ends in place. Label and date all packages. Carefully slip stockinet over package and tie both ends securely. Most meats and poultry will keep for one year. Pork should be used within six months.

3 To freeze fryers, cut [illegible] into desired pieces. [illegible] in the [illegible] for thorough cooling. Wrap giblets separately in cellophane and package with fryer. Place in compact carton and heat seal with moderately hot iron. Wrap package with locker paper and place in freezer.

4 Roast chicken may be packaged more easily in a cellophane bag, always overlapping the material and folding into a lock seal. Wings or other bony portions should be turned inward to avoid piercing the cellophane. An outer covering of locker paper or stockinet will complete the package.

THREE NAVY CROSSES!

commander, was called to the admiral's cabin.

"How many planes have you got left?" asked the admiral.

"Seven, sir—seven that are fit to fly."

"All right, stand by to take off when our contact is verified. Attack the Jap fleet, and if you survive, go on toward Australia. You can't make it, I know, because you won't have enough gas. But we can't wait for you. I'll try to get word to Gen. MacArthur, and maybe he can send out planes to search for you."

For the next two days Joe Taylor and his squadron stood by, ready to take off on a mission that meant almost certain death. Nobody talked about it much; nobody said anything about suicide tactics.

"It's a wonder our hair didn't turn white," is the way Joe explains now how he felt.

Luckily for the torpedo squadron, our task force was not discovered by the superior Jap fleet, and the Yorktown reached safety. Joe was detached from the ship and sent to Pearl Harbor to train new torpedo plane squadrons. A month later the Yorktown was sunk in the battle of Midway, the turning point in the war.

After this battle, our torpedo plane squadrons were "depleted," as the navy says. Joe was sent to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to direct the training of new squadrons, which by this time were getting fast, new planes. He left there in November, 1943, to become air officer of the new carrier Franklin, which was almost ready to be commissioned.

The "Big Ben," as the Franklin was dubbed before her paint was dry, got to the Pacific in time to take part in the second battle of the Philippine sea. For Joe and other officers who had served in the desperate early days of the war this was an entirely different kind of combat.

The gigantic new Franklin was always accompanied by other carriers, fast battleships, cruisers, and numberless small craft. Recalling the little fleet in the Coral sea, Joe stared in awe at the huge American armada, and wondered if the new ships and the new men—most of them fresh from civilian life—would measure up to the old navy's standards.

It wasn't long before he learned that his new ship had spirit as well as looks. A Jap suicide pilot dived into the Franklin, starting some fires which Joe says, modestly and briefly, that he helped put out. The navy gave him a bronze star for this. More important to him than the new decoration, however, was the fact that his ship had been baptized with fire and blood, and had made good.

In January, 1945, Joe became executive officer of the Big Ben, second in command to Capt. Leslie E. Gehres. He no longer flew on combat missions, but he shared responsibility for sending out fighters and bombers.

"This is sometimes worse than going yourself," he says.

The Big Ben was 60 miles off the coast of Japan on March 18, 1945, along with other fleet units assigned to pave the way for the Okinawa landings. All that day airplanes roared off the flight deck, buzzing away like angry hornets to attack air fields on the mainland.

Early the next day crews were briefed for more attacks on targets in the Kobe area—aircraft installations and industries. The flight deck was jammed with planes—Hellcats, Helldivers, and Corsairs—ready for take-offs, the finest planes in the world.

The ship's bull horn sounded: "Stand by to start engines," and then "Stand by to clear propellers."

Joe was on the flight deck, beside the officer dispatching the planes. In the roar of the engines, nobody could hear the fleet's patrol planes, guarding them in the sky, and nobody heard an enemy bomber which slipped thru a hole in the clouds and dropped two bombs. Somebody remembered to look at his watch. It was 7:07 a. m. when the first bomb hit the middle of the flight deck 100 feet forward of where Joe was standing. An instant later came a second terrific explosion.

The aircraft carrier Franklin aflame off Japan.

The first blast knocked Joe against the life line on the starboard side of the ship. When he opened his eyes it was dark; the whole ship was engulfed in a swirling cloud of black smoke from the bomb blasts and from burning airplanes. He could hardly breathe, and he could see nothing except the smoke and occasional flashes of fire from new explosions of gas tanks and ammunition.

As the second in command, Joe knew his first duty was to see whether the captain was all right. He groped his way across the flight deck, choking from the smoke, and climbed the emergency ladders to the bridge. It took him 20 minutes.

"On the bridge the smoke was just as bad as below," Joe said. "The captain could not see me; I had to tell him who I was." By this time the smoke was rising thousands of feet and the explosions were continuing. The after part of the ship was an inferno. On the forward part men were rigging fire hoses and going into the flames in defiance of almost continual showers of bomb fragments, rockets, pieces of the deck, and parts of airplanes. Some plane engines were hurled 200 to 300 feet.

Nobody said anything about suicide tasks, but many Americans risked death in the next few hours, as they tried to save their comrades and their ship. The captain told Joe to go below and try to determine the condition of the ship. He worked his way back to the flight deck, then to the forward part of the ship where he could reach the hangar deck below.

The hangar deck was a furnace. Joe organized fire fighters, who put up a wall of water and worked their way back, inch by inch, thru a jungle of twisted girders. Everywhere there were bodies of men who had died in the first blasts. As they gradually subdued the flames, they saw airplanes melted down so that nothing but a steel crankshaft remained. The light fixtures hung down like icicles.

The ship had been turned into the wind to keep the smoke from blowing across the bridge. This meant it was moving ever closer to Japan, an easy target for Jap bombers. All men were ordered out of the engine rooms, and soon the water from the fire hoses had drowned out all the power plants. The Big Ben lay dead in the water.

Joe returned to the bridge, where Capt. Gehres told him to direct the taking of a tow from the cruiser Pittsburgh. The cruiser Santa Fe already had come boldly alongside, and was taking aboard wounded men and the air crews who were not needed for fire fighting.

Joe went to the forecastle deck, where he organized a crew of nearly 100 men to take the tow line. Half of them were Negro stewards. Since the Franklin had no power to operate its winches, the line had to be taken by hand, a Herculean task. First they grabbed a light heaving line from the Pittsburgh, and pulled aboard an 8-inch Manila hawser. To this the Pittsburgh fastened a 10-inch wire hawser which weighed tons.

Somehow, Joe's crew pulled that hawser aboard, passing the Manila line back until it could be attached to a winch on the Santa Fe. Officers and enlisted men, white and black men, pulled together on that line until their hands were raw and bleeding.

"My throat was so sore from the smoke that I could not call commands above a whisper," Joe said. "But a big Negro steward still had his powerful voice and he's the man who yelled, 'Heave, heave, heave,' in a steady rhythm to help us pull together."

At last the wire hawser was aboard and shackled to the Franklin's anchor chain. The Pittsburgh was taking up the slack in the tow line when a Jap plane dropped a bomb 100 feet off the Franklin's stern. Fragments of the bomb started more fires on the helpless carrier, which was listing at least 14 degrees and was down at the stern from the heavy load of water used to quench the fires.

At 1:30 p. m., when the ships were about 35 miles off Japan, Capt. Gehres signaled the Pittsburgh that she could turn away from the wind and go south. They were making about three knots. Fifty Jap planes coming in to finish the kill were intercepted 20 miles astern of the Big Ben, and 41 of them were shot down by our fighters from other carriers. The survivors turned tail.

At midnight a few brave men on the Franklin donned rebreathers (combination oxygen and gas masks), crawled into one engine room and managed to get up enough steam to start the blowers, which cleared the smoke from all the engine rooms. Gradually the Franklin built up its own power until it was making 15 knots, and at noon of the next day Capt. Gehres cast off the tow line.

The Franklin came home on its own power, manned by 704 men of its own crew and 100 others who were picked up at a Pacific base. They worked until they dropped from exhaustion, slept an hour or so, and then went back to work, putting out new fires, clearing away the wreckage, and burying the dead. The navy sadly reported 832 men killed and missing; 270 wounded.

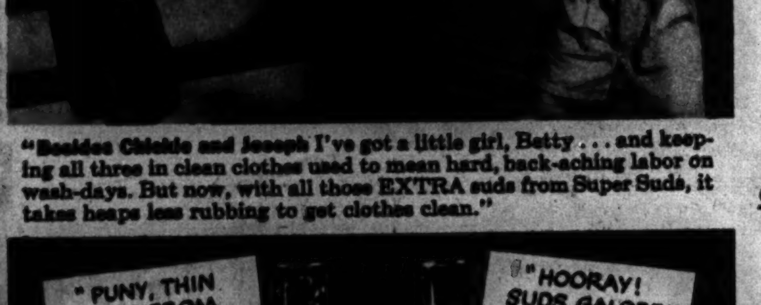
For his part in saving the Franklin, Comdr. Joe Taylor received his third navy cross, making him one of the few men in navy history to win this distinction. He was in Chicago recently on his way to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt Taylor of Georgetown, Vermilion county, Ill. He insisted that he wanted no emphasis placed on his performance on the Franklin.

"This job was done by the whole navy—the Pittsburgh, the Santa Fe, our escorting ships, and the flyers who protected us," he said. "When we got back to the United States, all of the 704 men of our original crew were offered a chance to transfer to another ship or to a shore station. Every one of them said he wanted to stay with the Franklin. That's the navy."

"Wash-day isn't Labor Day any more—now that I've got MORE SUDS!"

"Dish towels and linens washed in all those extra, harder-working suds come out so snowy-white it's a joy to look at them! But there's nothing strong added to extra-sudsy Super Suds. It's easy on fabrics and easy on my hands too!"

"Besides Chickie and Joseph I've got a little girl, Betty . . . and keeping all three in clean clothes used to mean hard, back-aching labor on wash-days. But now, with all those EXTRA suds from Super Suds, it takes heaps less rubbing to get clothes clean."



"PUNY, THIN SUDS FROM MY OLD SOAP JUST COULDN'T SEEM TO STAND UP!"
"CHUNKS OF UNDISSOLVED STUFF THAT DIDN'T MAKE SUDS... HARD TO RINSE OUT TOO!"
"HOORAY! SUDS GALORE! HARD-WORKING, LONG-LASTING SUDS FROM SUPER SUDS!"
"NO BIG UNDISSOLVED STUFF HERE... ALL OF SUPER SUDS SEEMS TO MAKE SUDS. A SOAP SAVING!"

Make the "milk-bottle suds test." Shake up a teaspoon of your old wash-day soap and a glass of water—even hard or cool—in a milk-bottle. Do the same with Super Suds in another milk-bottle. See if you don't get more suds from new, sudsier Super Suds!

"Super Suds' extra suds go after dirt like fury! Everything washes quicker and easier!" says

HEY HEY HEYWOOD, THE DUKE, WOODY, AND FRED

Eddie Heywood

SINCE he was 8 years old Eddie Heywood has been interested in music. The Atlanta, Ga., boy studied under his father and at school (he attended Moorhouse college), and got his first professional job before he was 15, playing in a theater orchestra. In 1935 he went with Clarence Love, then joined Benny Carter just before the war. Last year he formed his own band, and DECCA has been giving him a buildup. One of the latest of his disks under that label is a smooth pair, "Please Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone" and "Blue Lou." The former is one of those elegant piano exercises, with some very good ensemble support. You'll hardly recognize the tune for the virtuosity, but it is good music anyhow. "Blue Lou" is even better. Heywood stars, of course, but there are some other good breaks, and the beat is good.

By all means hear Duke Ellington's VICTOR duo, "Riff Staccato" and "Everything but You." Duke opens the "Riff" with a brief bit of piano, then the band builds up to Ray Nance's good sandpapery vocal. This is delightful Ellingtonia. Joya Sherrill dominates the B side with a fine vocal, but there is plenty of instrumental elegance in this one, too. Rank this disk with the top shelf Ellingtons. Under its Bluebird label VICTOR gives Jazz Gillum a couple of wonderful blues chances—"Five Feet Four" and "Go Back to the Country." Not every one likes blues singing with instrumental accompaniment, but Gillum is good.

A strong affirmative vote for COLUMBIA's new Woody Herman record—"Goosey Gander" and "A Kiss Goodnight." A gander at the "Gander" reveals Woody doing a strong opening, blending into some grand loose jamming, with a frantic trumpet all over the place. Chubby Jackson's bass is perfect. The "Kiss" side offers another of Woody's wonderful vocals, some easy and breezy clarinet, and a nice beat. . . . CAPITOL offers Freddie Slack doing that same "A Kiss Goodnight," and doing it in a light, bouncy way that sets up Liza Morrow's vocal beautifully. She's a comer. "Gee Chi Love Song" is fantastic and wonderful, with Barney Bigard's clarinet, Slack's piano, and some great muted brass.

Next Sunday—CAPITOL's Hawaiian scoop; and our own scoop from the Pacific—a review of a Dick Jurgens show by our magazine correspondent, Pfc. Harry Simmons.—W. D.

EVEN THO it might make a gal feel more secure knowing how she stands in a fellow's affections, his feelings can never be found spelled out in neon on his shirt front. But there are many subtler ways to find out how you rate on his hit parade if you really want to know. Just to check on your appeal to that particular hunk of heartbreak, check him up against this list. You're strictly up there on top and probably part of his post-war plans:

If he has his class ring made smaller so that it's just the right size for your third finger, right hand. (And that's where all the gals are wearing them these days.)

If he remembers to play "your song" every time he puts nickels in the juke box, and gives you a special wink every time you hear it together on the radio.

If he buys a pipe to smoke just after you mentioned how interesting and rugged Walter Pidgeon looks with his briar.

If he calls you up twice a day just to see how you are and to hear your voice.

If he would rather walk three times around the block with you than spend a bright lights, music, and orchids evening with the local Lana Turner.

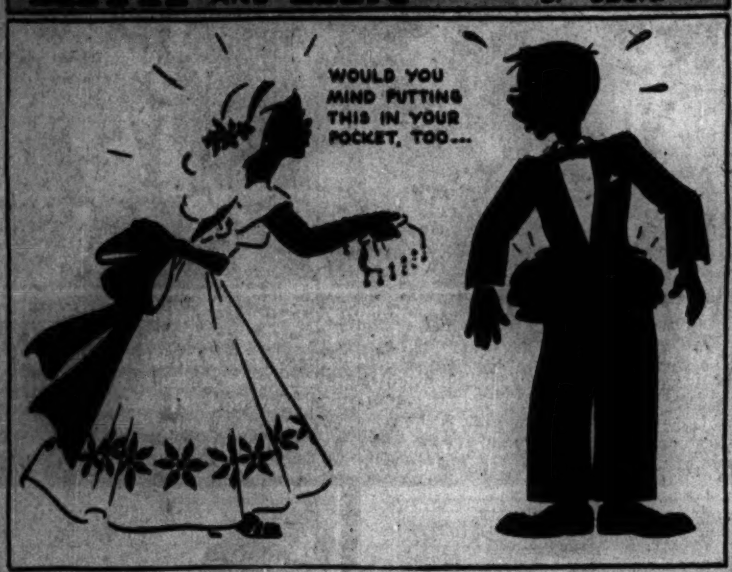
If he confides in you what he plans to do when he gets out of college and hints that he'd like to include you in those plans.

If he suggests coming over to your house to play pinochle with your father or to make a fourth for bridge on the evenings you aren't allowed to go out.

If he suggests that just the two of you go to a movie occasionally instead of doubling as usual, so that you can be alone together.

If he tells you how pretty you look with a new summer dress and daisies in your hair, notices when you're wearing your hair a different way and comments appreciatively on it.

KITH AND KIN BY BECKY



WOULD YOU MIND PUTTING THIS IN YOUR POCKET, TOO...

If he sounds disappointed when you tell him you've made plans to go out with your family on the very Friday night he wants to take you out, but suggests that you go out with him on Saturday instead.

If he manages to send you a letter or a bright picture postcard when he goes out of town, even if only for the day.

Fellows are often just as curious about how they rate with their particular gals. So here's a list of little signs that may be cropping up in your boy-girl friendship. If they're evident with your gal, it's time you came in off cloud number eight and started looking up new phone numbers, because something's definitely rocking that dream boat:

If she gives you back your class ring with the feeble excuse, "I still like you, but——"

If she always brushes you off when you phone her, explaining that she has to hurry to help her mother with the dishes or has to answer the doorbell just when you're preparing to ask her out for the next Friday night.

If she keeps talking about how cute Van Johnson is on the very night you wear your smooth new sport coat just to impress her.

If she doesn't seem worried or even seem to care when you fail to call her for more than a week at a stretch.

If she makes vague excuses about having promised to take her little brother to see the latest Roy Rogers movie when you suggest an evening with her.

If she lays down a thick smoke screen every time you're out together, tho you've mentioned several times that you don't like to see girls smoke.

If she doesn't bother to repair her chipped nail polish before going out for a big evening with you.

If she looks over your shoulder eagerly while you're dancing and seems overly anxious to exchange every other dance.

If she keeps asking you to introduce her to the other fellows when you're at the drug store together.

If she tells you that she thinks your young brother is a spoiled little brat just because she heard him say, "Jimmy's got a girl friend!" (While all the time you were glowing with pride because you had!)

TOPS AMONG TEENS

Billy Stephenson . . . . newspaper man.

AT 13 BILLY STEPHENSON was making headlines—his own—in a weekly tabloid newspaper called the Pilot, written, edited, and printed by Billy Stephenson in his own back yard garage. Within two years the Pilot had netted its owner and publisher more than $500. At the same time he was publishing his tabloid Billy, now a 17-year-old spring graduate of West Point High school, West Point, Ga., was serving his apprenticeship as a regular newspaper man. He asked for the privilege of just hanging around the local printing shop to learn what he could about the work. Soon thereafter he was placed on the regular pay roll of the West Point Publishing company, and within less than two years he was a full time linotype operator.

As editor of his high school paper, the Hilltop Hi-Lite, with a subscription list of 500 from a school of 125 students, Billy enlarged the paper from a four page edition to a 16 page streamlined production by working at night, after school, and on Saturdays for the publishers to set type and do the lay-out and make-up work, thus overriding the publisher's "too short of help" arguments. As guest columnists the young newspaper man secured such nationally known veterans as Marquis Childs and Paul Mallon. Last year the school paper won first place awards from the International Quill and Scroll and from the National Scholastic Press association.

Besides his extensive newspaper work, young Billy has found time to author two articles for national publications—the story of his first newspaper venture, for Newspaperman, and an article on the future of American youth, for Tomorrow magazine. The hard-working young writer has trained himself in the mechanical side of newspaper work, and after a course in college journalism he would like to own his own newspaper, beginning with a country weekly. And, with that ambition always foremost, Newspaper Man Billy Stephenson has already begun to set the type for his own journalistic success story.

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY
(Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

THE SWEATER GIRL VOGUE, probably more than anything else, accelerated interest in developing the curved line of bust line beauty. The curved line always has governed the shoulder line, waist line, the concave diaphragm, the very carriage of the head as well. Holding up the chest improves the features.

A beautiful bust line first and above all else is in proportion to the figure. It neither dominates nor minimizes the silhouette. It is a curved line, not a boyish line—or an overstuffed feature.

The contour of the bust depends upon the strength of the muscles. To make and keep these muscles strong requires exercise, tho keeping the chest up is a contributing exercise in itself. The exercise best adapted to this part of the body is forward and backward swinging of the arms, the pull of which you feel immediately on the named muscles. A well known authority gives the following exercise as the one she has found best in her body-building work:

"Clasp the wrists with each hand; the arms will be bent at the elbows and raised in front of you at shoulder height. Keep the hands in place at the wrists, but, with a quick jerk, pretend you are trying to push the skin of the wrists up to the elbows. You'll feel the contraction of the muscles as you do this, and you can repeat it 40 or 50 times in successive quick jerks, doing it faithfully every day several times whenever you have a minute alone."

Exercises for the underdeveloped bust as well as for the overdeveloped are identical in character. Their purpose is to stir up circulation so that excess fatty tissue is burned up, and new nourishment is fed the underdeveloped. And count swimming as one of the best.

The cut of your neck line is worth study in this connection. We would beg full-busted women in the name of charm, dignity, and mature appeal not to adopt the plunging line. Dressing to flaunt questionable charms is the nadir in femme appeal.

We cannot repeat too often the value of good posture in connection with the curved line of bust beauty. Whether you stand, sit, or walk, that upheld chest still controls the line of symmetry, minimizing faults or emphasizing the lovely curved line.

Discovery by Noted Veterinarian
STOPS DOG-ITCH

For years, veterinarians were baffled by a common skin disease that caused untold agony to dogs and cats. Starting as a burning itch, it soon develops dandruff-like scales and brownish edged sores with a mouldy odor in ears, on paws, under-body, back or around tail. Treatments for mange, fleas, allergy or faulty diet result only in costly care or actual loss. Now, noted veterinarian, Dr. A. C. Merrick, has positively identified this disease as a fungus infection comparable to "Athlete's Foot." He has named it "Fungitch" and has also developed SULFADENE, a treatment proved amazingly effective in thousands of clinical cases. Applied externally, Dr. Merrick's SULFADENE stops the itch in a few minutes—scales and sores vanish in a few days. 1 Maj. Bob Collins (Robert Cummings), Capt. "Shakespeare" Anders (Don De Fore) and Lt. "Handsome" Janoschek (Charles Drake), wounded heroes of 50 combat missions, are loaned to the treasury department for a flying tour of America. Staid Ivy Hotchkiss (Lizabeth Scott) is [illegible] with the treasury department. At Boston the boys have a fancy dinner at their hotel and Ivy traces them to the club's dressing room, where they have been awarding "pearl hearts," decorations of their own design, which they present to pretty girls everywhere "for valor in the face of the opposite sex."

2 In Chicago Shakespeare and Handsome decide that Ivy is a pretty good egg and buy her a gown which they arrange to have presented anonymously. It is a transformed Ivy who makes her appearance that night. She and Bob dance. Shakespeare attempts to cut in, but Bob pulls rank and orders him off. Bob admits that Ivy has him "up in the air." "That's fine," she says. "I intend to keep you there."

3 In San Francisco, Shakespeare finally gets his turn at a date. At a nightclub they are joined by Colonel Stubbs, an army doctor. From his conversation Ivy learns that Bob is suffering from an incurable blood infection. By common agreement the boys never gave Bob an opportunity to dwell on his illness. Hence the constant search for fun and excitement.

4 At Seattle, Bob and Ivy come to the realization that they are in love. She comments on the strange tricks that fate plays. A week ago she didn't know he existed. Bob tells her that she can live a long time in a week. Sometimes in a fight you can live a year in 10 seconds. Ivy understands what he is trying to convey, yet she never lets on she knows of his illness.

5 When Ivy's sister marries a navy flyer bound for the Pacific, Bob is convinced that his and Ivy's right to happiness is a sacred thing. They watch the moon from a balcony of the inn. The next morning he offers Ivy a "pearl heart" with a wedding band wrapped around it.

6 To celebrate the union, Bob, Ivy, Shakespeare and Handsome drink a toast to an undying friendship. "To the four of us," they drink. "Bottoms up!"

7 The honeymoon ends, and then the fatal day arrives. Bob receives orders to report to the Walter Reed hospital in Washington, where he must face the end. He tells his buddies that he is bound for overseas duty, but they know. There are no good-byes. "Look in on Ivy now and then," Bob asks.

8 Bob tells Ivy that he has been assigned to [illegible]. She pretends to believe, but knows [illegible] months of correspondence with Ivy. Then one day the [illegible] telegram arrives. "The war department regrets to inform you . . ." As Bob would have liked, they drink a toast, "To the four of us."

NEW VEL MAKES ILLINOIS HARD WATER ACT SOFT!

Vel gives you instant suds in hard water, without a water softener! No more dish wiping!

NOW . . . with Vel's quick, rich, busy suds you can whip through the dishes in a flash . . . suds 'em . . . rinse 'em . . . leave 'em to drain! Dishes sparkle without wiping because Vel leaves no pesky hard water soap scum. Vel is kind to hands too. It contains Coco-Cerol . . . an ingredient used in hand lotions. Vel, you know, is not soap. It is a remarkable new washing discovery scientifically known as a neutral hydrophylic detergent.

Due to wartime conditions, your grocer may not always have Vel, but look for it each time you shop.

SAVE MONEY!

You need only about half as much Vel as soap to make suds in hard water. That means a real saving!

Stockings wash up sparklingly clear!

With Vel, there's no hard water soap film to cloud the sheer beauty of your precious stockings. They rinse out clear and fresh - looking. Vel is wonderful for all your fine things.

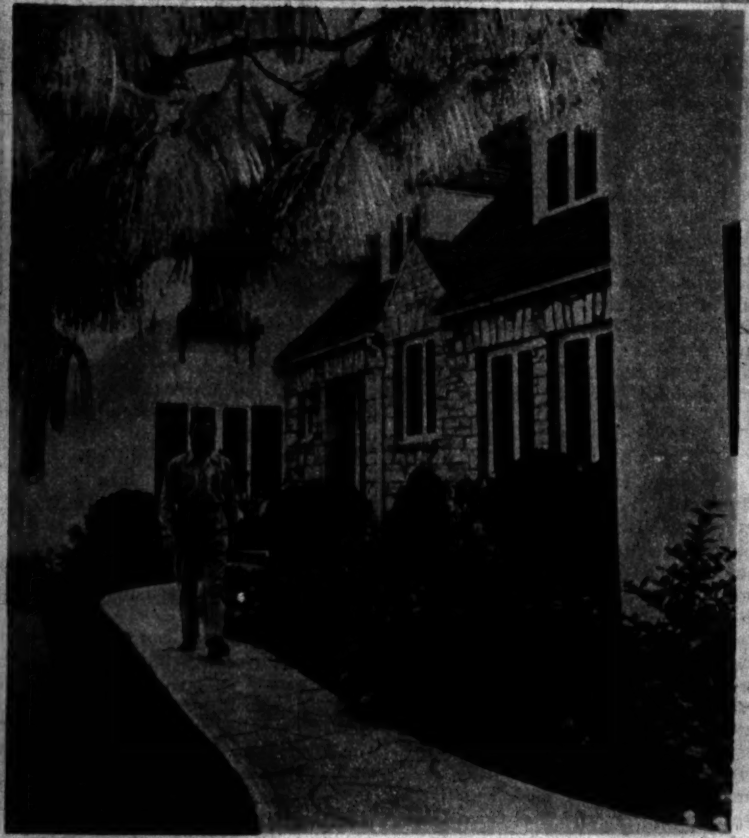
Young Man Who Went West

1 Chicago boy, Robert Young, went west to find his fortune, and this white-walled living room in his Beverly Hills, Cal., home is one evidence of his success. He was born on Feb. 22, 1907, and his family took him first to Seattle; then, when he was 10, to Los Angeles. High school plays gave him the acting bug, and he joined the Pasadena Playhouse company after graduation, while he was working in a bank. He made the grade in Hollywood in 1932 and has been active ever since.



2 This is the Young home from the outside. For a while his home was a ranch at Tarzana, Cal. Young made his first really big impression in the movies in 1941 when he appeared in "H. M. Pulham, Esq."

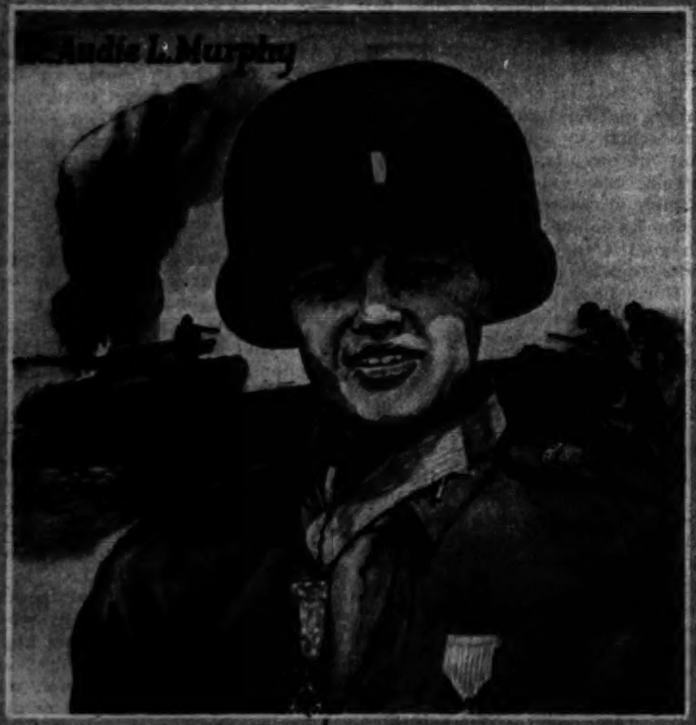
AMERICAN HEROES OF WORLD WAR II.



This is another of the series on outstanding American heroes of the present war. Subjects are heroes who have been decorated for valor. Illustrations are by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Vernuk.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

TWO GERMAN INFANTRY companies led by six heavy tanks swept out of a clump of woods near Holtzwihr, France, last Jan. 26 in a desperate thrust at an American 3d infantry division company under the command of 2d Lt. Audie L. Murphy of Farmersville, Tex.

Murphy ordered his men to fall back to prepared positions but he remained at an advanced post to direct artillery fire against the enemy. He was alone in this situation except for a tank destroyer that held a position near-by. A German 88 millimeter shell crashed into the vehicle and its crew quickly withdrew to the rear, but Murphy climbed into its turret and opened fire with an undamaged .50 caliber machine gun as the Germans approached.

Twice the tank destroyer was hit by direct shell fire as its sole occupant kept plugging away with the machine gun. His clothes were riddled and soaked with blood from a wound but he continued shooting. When a dozen or more Germans tried to sneak thru a ditch and attack him on the flank he swung his weapon on them. The enemy attack was halted by his plucky action, the German tanks being unable to advance without the support of their infantry. Murphy, who is credited with killing or wounding 50 Germans, dropped out of the tank destroyer and limped back to his company when it was all over.

On June 2, Murphy, who in the meantime had been elevated to 1st lieutenant, was presented with the medal of honor (congressional medal) by Lt. Gen. Patch at a ceremony at 3d division headquarters in Austria. At the same time he also was decorated with the Legion of Merit for continued bravery between Jan. 22, 1944, and Feb. 18, 1945, at Anzio beachhead and Rome and in southern France. Murphy, age 21, has all medals for valor that it is possible for him to win. The only other man in the army entitled to wear every such existing individual medal is Capt. Maurice L. Britt of Fayetteville, Ark.

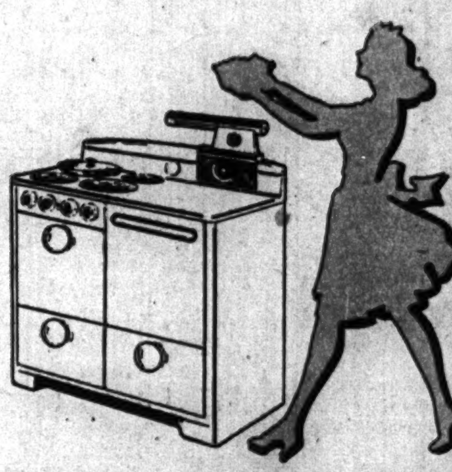
"Here I am, a Child Care Aide

THANKS TO MY AUTOMATIC ELECTRIC RANGE"



"I had no idea being "part-time" mother in a day nursery could be such a thrill! Why, every hour I work I feel I'm really doing my share for the war effort. And because I have extra time to be a Child Care Aide—I say thanks a lot to my wonderful automatic electric range.

"Since the day our electric range arrived, I've had more time for the things I wanted to do. I stopped spending endless hours hovering over the stove. I stopped peeking into the oven to see if my cakes were nicely brown. I found my electric range lightened my cooking job for me. It's so fast cooking it's given me extra time for many things, for being a Child Care Aide.

"And I can honestly say there hasn't been a day when my own family was neglected. The easy-working automatic controls of my electric range mean I can put food in the oven . . . it will be cooked to perfection, ready to serve when I come home. Another thing, electric cooking is so cool. Even when baking cakes or pies, my kitchen stays as comfortable as any room in the house. So you see why I'm so glad we own an electric range. Now I can do my bit for the war effort—and be sure my own precious family will get the attention they always need."

"If you, too, own an electric range use the automatic timer, often. Let the minute minder work for you. Cook whole, easy dinners in your efficient deep-well cooker. These days, when time is so precious, remember your electric range can save you a great deal of time."

The Akron, navy dirigible, to which Admiral Miller was once attached as pilot of one of its planes.

the war's events. "Sea power is now air power," he says, "and air power is sea power. The purpose of ships is to carry and to support air power. There is no longer any argument about this in the navy."

Miller's elevation to the rank of rear admiral at the age of 42 is an example of the navy's new emphasis on youth. There is not a gray hair on his head. When he flies he pilots the airplane, sitting in the driver's seat constantly puffing a big black cigar. His landings are perfect; he learned that by setting flying machines down on the decks of aircraft carriers.

His intimates say he is never flustered. When he gets into a strange situation he deals the cards face up, so that nobody misunderstands his intentions. He disposes of problems quickly in the order of their importance and is not afraid to maneuver in a tight spot. Despite his youth, he gets along well with the older men of the navy, and the younger men swear by him.

Like many other high ranking navy officers, Admiral Miller is a middle westerner. He was born in Newton, Ia., and that town (population 10,462) is still his official residence. His brother, Ralph G. Miller, operates a farm at Montezuma, Ia., which the admiral recently visited. During his stay he proved he could still milk the cows.

Admiral Miller is loquacious on most subjects, but not on the details of his career since he was graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis in 1924.

"Nothing ever happens to me," he says, grinning.

The truth is that a great many things have happened. He won his wings as a naval aviator in 1926, served with the fleet and later as a flying instructor, and in 1932 was assigned to duty with the airship Akron. He flew planes on and off her until the ship was lost off the coast of New Jersey in April, 1933.

Landing on the airship was accomplished by flying into a V-shaped trapeze suspended from the huge helium-filled bag. It was tricky work, requiring all the nerve of the best man on a circus flying trapeze plus consummate flying ability.

After the Akron was lost Miller was transferred to its sister ship, the Macon. He was aboard on Feb. 12, 1935, when the airship was returning from fleet maneuvers in the Pacific. A failure in the ship's upper fin structure resulted in a loss of control, and with much gas lost, it settled into the sea and slowly sank. All except two members of the crew were rescued.

Of this experience Miller is willing to recall only that he spent an hour in the water.

When the war began he was a lieutenant commander and one of the most experienced aviators in the navy. From October, 1941, until the following February he served as aide and flag secretary on the staff of the commander of the support force, Atlantic fleet, achieving "distinctive success in developing close coöperation between units of the united nations engaged in escort and anti-submarine operations," according to the citation he received when he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

About this time somebody in Washington remembered that Miller was the author of "Navy Wings," many magazine articles, and three fictional books dealing with aviation subjects, written in collaboration with his wife, Jean Dupont Miller. Writers are rare birds in the navy.

Miller was sent to Washington to organize a new enterprise with the fearsome title of training literature section, training division, bureau of aeronautics.

He attacked the job with his usual originality and disdain for stuffy tradition. With Cartoonist Lt. Comdr. Bob Osborne he helped create a character called Dilbert who appeared in a series of "Sense" pamphlets that taught young aviators all the things to avoid if they wanted to stay alive. He also initiated production of the film "Fighting Lady," which has done much to teach the nation what the navy is doing.

From his experience in the training division Admiral Miller gained an appreciation for American youths that is one of his favorite topics.

"If we have any secret weapon in this war," he says, "it is those boys who fly our airplanes. In flying skill, courage, enthusiasm, and adaptability they are out of this world. Much credit belongs to the training forces—the men who are performing drudge work without the excitement of combat and are turning out an amazing product. Just ask the Japs."

In November, 1943, Admiral Miller reported for duty as naval attache for air at the American embassy in London. Men who were with him on this assignment say he handled himself like an American and won the hearty respect of the British. Last fall Miller was named public relations officer on the staff of Admiral Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet. He did such a good job that the navy awarded him a gold star in lieu of a second Legion of Merit.

War correspondents, who watched him help them move an unprecedented volume of news material in record time, grow lyrical when they talk about Min Miller.

"He's just too good to be true," they mutter.

For his new job as the navy's director of public relations Admiral Miller has a plan based on his love for the navy and his respect for the American people.

"The navy belongs to the people," he says. "Our objective is to see that every home in the country knows what the navy is doing. News will be suppressed if its publication is likely to endanger the lives of our fighting men, but for no other reason."

The admiral dislikes the term "public relations," because he thinks it connotes press agentry or "selling a bill of goods." One of his first acts in his new job was to change his title to director of naval public information.

"We have no programs to sell," he says. "We simply want to inform the people. And from my experience with newspaper men, they have the same idea. Never in my life have I had such coöperation as the war correspondents gave me in the Pacific.

"British naval officers' mouths drop open with amazement when they see what confidence we place in newspaper men, but the fact that our confidence is not misplaced doesn't surprise me at all."

Admiral Miller may have no program to sell the American people, but there is one program he doesn't want them to buy. That is the proposal to combine army and navy aviation into one over-all air arm.

"Naval aviation should remain a part of the navy," he says. "There are many ways in which army and navy air power can be coördinated, especially in the matter of supplies, but navy flyers should be trained as naval officers, with a thoro comprehension of the fundamental fact that all the fleet's efforts are directed to making it possible for airplanes to be launched for attacks.

"The British fleet air arm is an example of what might happen under unified command of the air forces. Before the war the R. A. F. got 95 per cent of the new equipment, while the fleet air arm got 5 per cent. By contrast, the competition between our army and navy helped to produce the finest aircraft in the world, and when the showdown came in the Pacific we had the airplanes and the flyers to win the naval war."

Proud as he is of the navy's victories and its present power, Admiral Miller reflects its present leaders' insistence that it should never be smug.

"I hope we are never satisfied," he says.

A Beer made with 2-Stage Ageing

each ageing period
under different conditions to retain the Delicate Flavor

Visitors to our brewery act surprised when I show them rows of 2 different kinds of tanks in different places where our beer is ageing. But this is our old-time 2-stage ageing method. Each stage of ageing is under different conditions. But both contribute to the result we want.

First of all it takes time and choice malt to ripen the brew and digest the grain sugars, and blend the grain flavor to smoothness. We use here only genuine hops grown on imported roots. We process these hops all through the brew so they will yield just their top delicate fragrance.

I insist on ageing Meister Brau live and sparkling too. Never let it go flat in the tanks. Sure it would be easy to add carbonation later, but we could never recapture the precious flavor and aroma that are enclosed in each tiny bubble of wholesome carbonation.

Thousands who tasted Meister Brau for the first time have adopted it as their favorite. Please compare Meister Brau with others and see what a treat our old-time methods bring.

and an Me-109 unfortunate enough to be standing on an air strip.

Early in November of last year the 1st acquired a new commanding officer. He was Col. Arthur C. Agan, formerly a staff officer with 8th air force headquarters in England and later with Lt. Gen. Ira Eaker's Mediterranean allied air forces headquarters in Italy. Agan was just 29 years old when he joined the 1st, and already a full colonel. His home is in Corpus Christi, Tex.

Late in the same month a flight from the 94th squadron led by Capt. Everett S. Lindley of Weymouth, Mass., encountered the first German jet propulsion fighters the group had ever run into. It cost the 94th a plane and a new pilot making his second mission into enemy territory.

"The mission should have been a milk run," Lindley said. "Three 94th planes were escorting a P-38 photo ship over Munich. We'd been there many times and had never seen fighters, only flak which didn't bother us much.

Lt. Col. Francis J. Pope . . . shepherded the President.

"My escort flight was hanging around a few miles east and slightly above the photo ship when suddenly the photo pilot yelled over the radio that he was being attacked by a jet job. Turning, we saw the twin trails in the sky from the jet. He broke off the attack as we went after him and tried to suck us down over Munich's antiaircraft guns but we weren't having any. Shepherding the photo ship we started home.

"Then, far behind in the sky, I noticed the trails of another jet. The new pilot on my left wing was straggling and I yelled at him to close up, but he was slow about it. All of a sudden—God, how fast he came—that jet ship was on the new boy, clobbered him, and was out again before we could swing on him."

The beginning of 1945 found pilots of the 1st going more and more after targets of opportunity as the important objectives of the preceding year were overwhelmed one by one by the Russian advance. Flights of P-38s roamed Austria and Germany, snooping low along roads and railroads, looking for trouble they could get into. One day's score for 16 planes indicates how they scoured the countryside . . . 5 locomotives, 2 trucks, 1 trolley car, 1 radar station, and 1 electric transformer station.

In February the entire group went on detached service for one of the most monotonous but important jobs of its overseas career. In the biggest, longest escort job in history it provided coverage for President Roosevelt to, during, and from the Yalta conference. Fighters of the 94th led by Bucky Harris picked up the President's party west of Gibraltar and shepherded it part of the way across the Mediterranean. There the 71st squadron led by Lt. Col. Frank Jones, 27 years old, New Cumberland, W. Va., took over and provided constant escort to Malta.

On the last leg, from Malta to Yalta, Lt. Col. Francis J. Pope and his 27th squadron did the shepherding. Pope is a 26 year old former university student from Oakland, Cal. Before joining the 1st he had flown 75 missions in the Aleutian theater. Up to March 20 he had added 24 in this theater.

Col. Agan directed the entire escort show from Cairo and other undisclosed stations en route.

After returning to Italy from the Yalta job the pilots of the 1st spent their time flying what, after the old days, they considered pretty dull missions into the north; in griping because they couldn't find any enemy planes in the air these days, and in working on their "city." This city was made up of the little huts they had built from tufa stone blocks and fitted with furnishings either they'd built themselves or looted on dark nights. Each hut had one of the 100 octane heating units, and surprisingly not one exploded. In some way this seems to be disappointing to the pilots, especially those of the 94th.

P. S.—Just as these last sentences were written, word came that Col. Agan was missing, down somewhere in the north. The full story cannot be told now. But when it can it will add a new, heroic chapter to the annals of this greatest and oldest fighter group of the army air forces.

Chicago and the states of the middle west are well represented among the pilots of the veteran 1st fighter group.

Group operations officer, and the former commander of the group's 71st fighter squadron, is 23 year old Lt. Col. Lee V. Wiseman, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The famous 94th fighter squadron, commanded by Eddie Rickenbacker in the last months of the first World war, today is led by a 26 year old former farm boy from Benton, Wis., Lt. Col. Francis (Bucky) Harris. Other midwestern pilots in the squadron are: Maj. Harry L. Culberson, Shelbyville, Ill.; 2d Lt. Jack Faxon, 5052 Marine dr., Chicago; 1st Lt. Jack Fehrenbach, Terre Haute, Ind.; 2d Lt. Philip Fisher, Rockville, Ind.; 2d Lt. Edwin Karges, Evansville, Ind.; 1st Lt. John J. Hawkins, 726 N. 12th st., Milwaukee, Wis., and 2d Lt. Elsworth King, West Allis, Wis.

In the 27th fighter squadron, which also was a unit of the 1st fighter group in World War I., are the following midwestern pilots, all 2d lieutenants: Joseph Demkovich, 1414 S. 50th av., Cicero, Ill.; Richard Barnes, Girard, Ill.; George K. Lovering, De Kalb, Ill.; William R. Maddox, Virginia, Ill.; Loren J. Sullivan, Mason City, Ill.; Lloyd M. Longenbaugh, Clinton, Ill., and Marvin A. Thorson, Withee, Wis.

The 71st, third squadron of the 1st fighter group, lists only one midwestern pilot. He is 2d Lt. Steven Dostal, Milwaukee, Wis.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS BY BOB BECKER

THIS IS the day we open up the mailbag and look at the letters from dog owners who are asking for suggestions on the care, feeding, or training of their pets. Some of the typical inquiries follow:

"We live on a farm and for several years have not owned a dog. I have hesitated to buy a puppy because we never seem to bring them up properly. We are thinking about a tawny colored collie. Can you tell us where one may be purchased? Some friends have offered us a Baltimore retriever. Would it be suitable for a farm? MRS. J. F. W."

We are sending you a list of collie kennels where you may be able to purchase a dog of that breed. However, we believe you need to study a good book on puppy care and training before you get another dog. There are several retriever breeds (Chesapeake Bay, golden, Labrador, etc.) recognized by the American Kennel club, and we've owned retrievers for years, but we never have heard of one called the Baltimore. Please give us the description of the dog in question and we'll try to identify it for you.

"I have just received a 3-month-old Irish setter pup as a birthday gift. I intend to use this dog for hunting when he is old enough and would appreciate advice relative to feeding, training, and taking proper care of him.

"EDWARD H."

Because it would require about a 15,000 word letter to cover all the subjects you should know about in caring for your new puppy, we are mailing you suggestions on handbooks we believe you ought to read about general dog care. Some leaflets also are being sent to you. One of the first things to study is how to train your dog in obedience. Every young dog needs such instruction. Feeding is important, too, for the pup will need about four meals a day at first. We also are sending you suggestions on books that will tell you about training a setter.

"Will you please send me a leaflet explaining how a dog can be cured of chasing chickens?

"MRS. R. F. S., Carthage, Ill."

The mimeographed leaflet on that subject is being mailed to you. May we warn you that breaking a dog of chasing and killing chickens is not easy, because the owner must know something about general obedience and control, and also have a yard with some chickens where the dog can be worked? The first step in the whole training routine is teaching the dog to mind you, so you have control over it. As a rule the dog that goes in for killing chickens is the untrained pet that roams around as it pleases.

Two pals. McTague's Dinah Lee is the name of the cocker spaniel with little Frances Patricia O'Neill.

"We have a cocker spaniel with bad ear cankers. He has had them for about two years. We have tried just about everything to cure him. He is fond of children. Is there any danger of them getting an infection from the dog's ears? Do you know of any cure?

"MRS. B. D. B., Decatur, Ill."

If your dog has had ear trouble for two years you had better get him to a veterinarian at once. Any infection of the ear canal that has persisted for two years should not be treated by owners except under the direction of a veterinarian. We've never heard of any one picking up any infection from so-called ear canker.

"We have a new puppy in our house that is 6 weeks old. Will you please send us your booklet on the care and feeding of dogs?

"DENNIS M., Hammond, Ind."

The Tribune has published two illustrated handbooks on feeding and training. One tells how to feed dogs of all breeds, with details on number of meals a day, how to feed puppies, etc. The other, "Training the Dog," gives complete instruction on how to teach a dog to be well mannered and obedient. Both are sold by the Public Service Office, 1 S. Dearborn st., for 30 cents each by mail.

"My cocker's ears are infested with white nits. I have picked from him what I believe to be lice. I know they are not fleas. Have been using a dip you recommended, but it has not helped. Perhaps I am not using it correctly. Will you tell me how to handle this situation? Altho this dog was a frail puppy, he has grown into a fairly strong animal. But his teeth are decaying rapidly. He gets horse meat and a dry dog food. Do you think there is something lacking in his diet to cause tooth decay? L. H. M."

The dip you have used on your dog for lice is the same as we have used on our dogs for four years. It contains the insecticide called rotenone and kills ticks, lice, and fleas quickly, so you apparently are not applying it correctly. You must saturate your dog's coat thoroly with the liquid. There also is a good powder on the market which contains rotenone and will kill lice. We urge you to have a veterinarian examine your cocker right away to determine what's wrong with his teeth.

The Shetland sheep dog is the answer for the dog fancier who wants a small collie, because it's virtually a working collie in miniature. The standard of the breed says that the ideal height of a Sheltie is 13½ inches. This specimen, named Gerry of Mar Norwill, is owned by Laura V. Allen, Winnetka, Ill.

Just One Cake of Camay and you can have Softer, Smoother Skin!

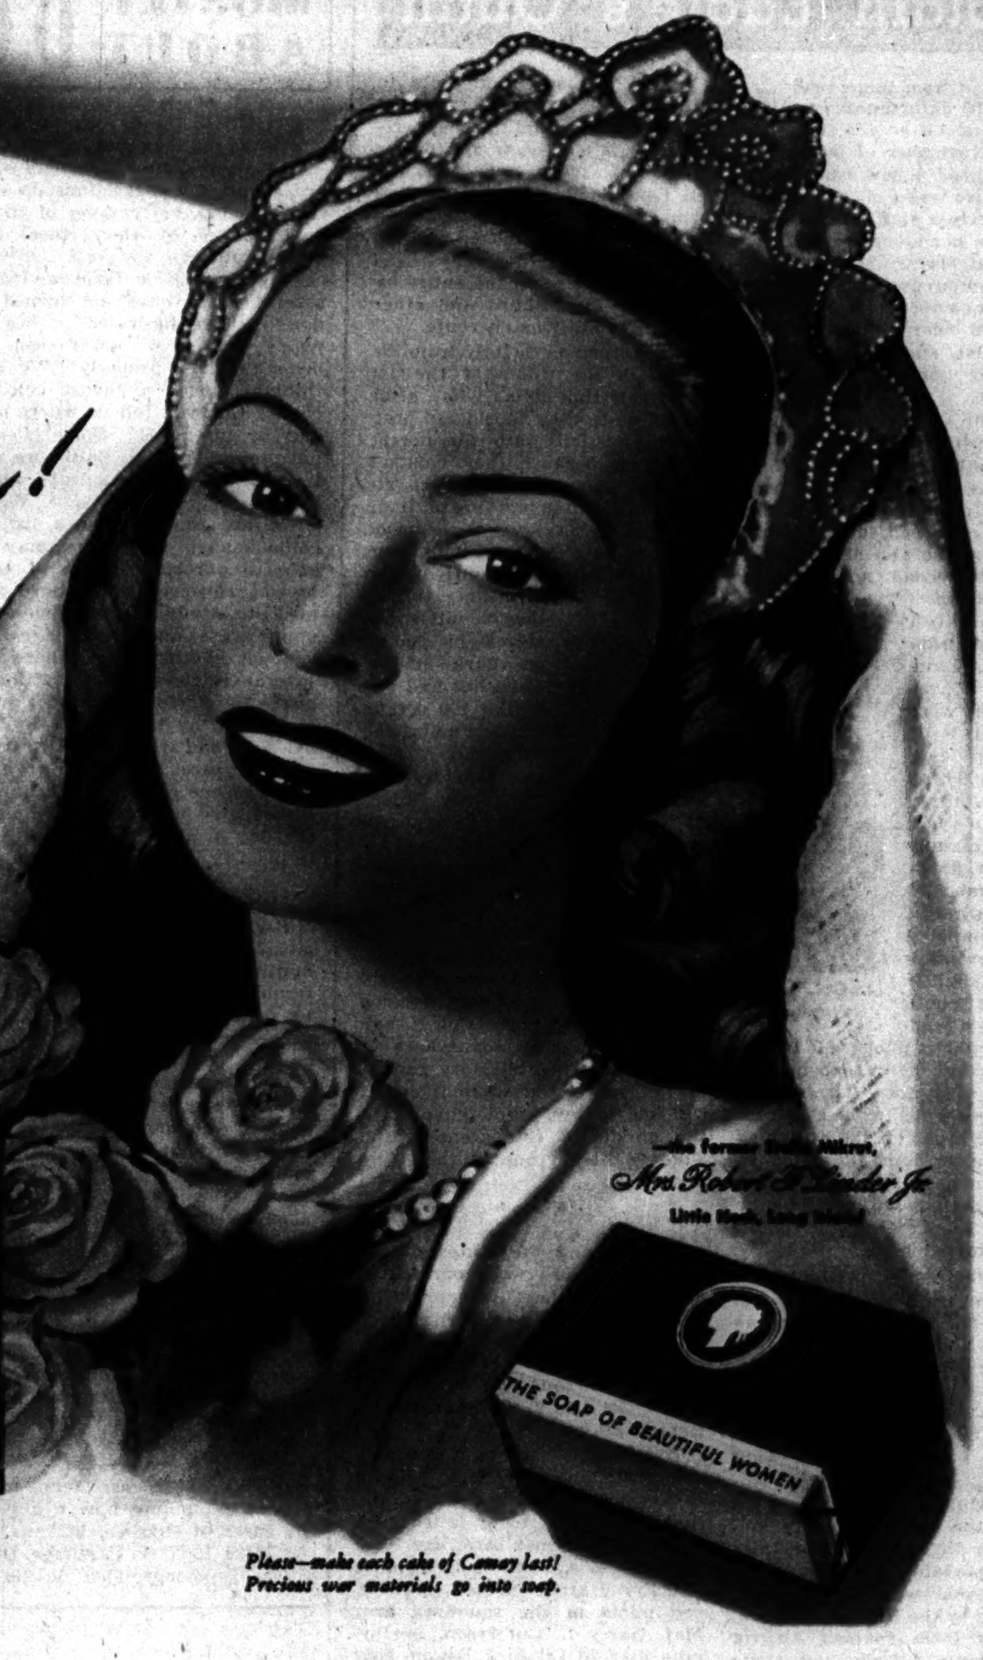
Oh, how exciting—to see your skin glow softer, fresher—with your very first cake of Camay! It will—simply change from careless cleansing to the Camay Mild-Soap Diet. Doctors tested Camay's daring beauty promise under exact clinical conditions—on scores and scores of complexions. And the doctors reported that woman after woman—using just one cake of Camay—had a softer, clearer, even younger-looking complexion.

THE ROMANCE OF MRS. LINDER:

It's a table for two, at Manhasset Bay Yacht Club, after a day's happy sail in their sweetheart days. Stella is radiant, her skin glowing. "I'm devoted to Camay's gentle care," she says, "for my complexion has sparkled ever so much fresher and softer, since my very first cake of Camay."

"Frankly," Stella explains, "it's easy to win a lovelier complexion, on the Camay Mild-Soap Diet—cleansing without irritation really helps!" Try it yourself. Simply pat dreamy-mild Camay over your face—morning and night. Rinse warm. Add a cold splash for oily skin. That's all! Doctors proved just one cake of Camay can bring a softer, smoother complexion.

Two's a honeymoon . . . on their picturesque schooner, Glad Tidings. "Now that I'm a sailor's sweetheart—for life," smiles Stella, "I'm counting on the Camay Mild-Soap Diet to help keep my skin nice—fresh and radiant always—despite wind and air."



THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Please—make each cake of Camay last! Precious war materials go into soap.

"What's this about a double life?"

Lovely Lois Doyle (right) of Flushing, N. Y., swaps secrets with her pal. Engaged to a Midshipman at Annapolis, Lois studies piano in New York. "Next to Bob and music, I love frilly undies," confesses Lois. "They're so expensive and hard to find now, that I was thrilled when a salesgirl told me how Ivory Flakes care had meant a double life for lots of fine washables!"

Salesgirl gives warning!

"'Don't treat nice washables rough!' warned the salesgirl. 'Never use the wrong kind of soap. Handle them gently and use mild Ivory Flakes! Here are the facts: Actual wash tests by the dozen—on undies, sweaters, dresses, stockings—showed nice things stayed bright and new-looking up to twice as long with Ivory Flakes care!'"

Take this gentle hint!

Lois did. She says: "I swish stockings and undies through gentle Ivory Flakes suds after every wearing. As for other nice washables, I wash 'em regularly and carefully in lukewarm water and Ivory Flakes." Ivory Flakes are the fast flake form of baby's pure Ivory Soap. Mild—gentle—safe!

IT'S VITAL! Ivory Flakes contain vital war materials. Don't waste, please. Just a few flakes make mountains of baby-gentle suds!

Make-up Pat gives a fresh velvety, just-made-up look that lasts for hours and hours.

"Water Colors"

your skin smoothly with a gorgeously clear, natural tone.

New double-formula discovery makes EVERY SHADE a flatterer . . .

Easy to see why young society women love Pond's new cake make-up!

Pond's Make-up Pat washes on so smoothly . . . gives such natural, lasting make-up! And every shade brings foolproof flattery—thanks to Pond's new double-formula discovery.

Pond's discovered that no one formula works equally well for both light and dark shades of cake make-up.

So the lighter shades of Make-up Pat are in a featherweight formula to go on sheer . . . clear . . . never chalky.

The darker shades are in a richer formula to carry richer, rosier glow.

That's why we believe you'll like Pond's new Make-up Pat better than any make-up you've ever tried. And it's so easy to use! Just apply sparingly with a damp-to-wet sponge or cotton. While still moist, blend evenly with fingertips. Result—a practically flawless-looking complexion!

Make-up Pat acts as a buffer against weather and dirt—protects your skin! Wear it every day! 69¢, 39¢ (plus tax).

She who hesitates about Tampax is losing time

This modern method of monthly sanitary protection discards belts, pins and outside pads

Think what this means to a woman—in freedom, comfort and self-confidence!

Free from the encumbrance of belts, pins and pads, and free from the need to use a sanitary-pad deodorant—millions of women are now wearing Tampax for monthly sanitary protection. The advantages of this method are so marked that you will probably come to it yourself some day! Then why hesitate? Why not try Tampax this very month?

Improvements like Tampax are rare indeed. Invented and perfected by a doctor for this special use by women, Tampax is in principle an internal absorbent . . . Tampax is made of pure surgical cotton, highly compressed in one-time-use applicators for quick and dainty insertion. The hands need never touch the Tampax and you are unaware of its presence when it is in place. No odor. No chafing. No bulges to "show" under a trim skirt.

Tampax is easy to change and inconspicuous in restrooms. Disposal is no trouble, because of its compactness. A whole month's supply will go into your purse—or get the economy box with 4 months' average supply. Tampax is sold at drug stores and notion counters all over the United States. Comes in 3 absorbency-sizes (Regular, Super, Junior) to suit varying needs. Tampax Incorporated, Palmer, Mass.

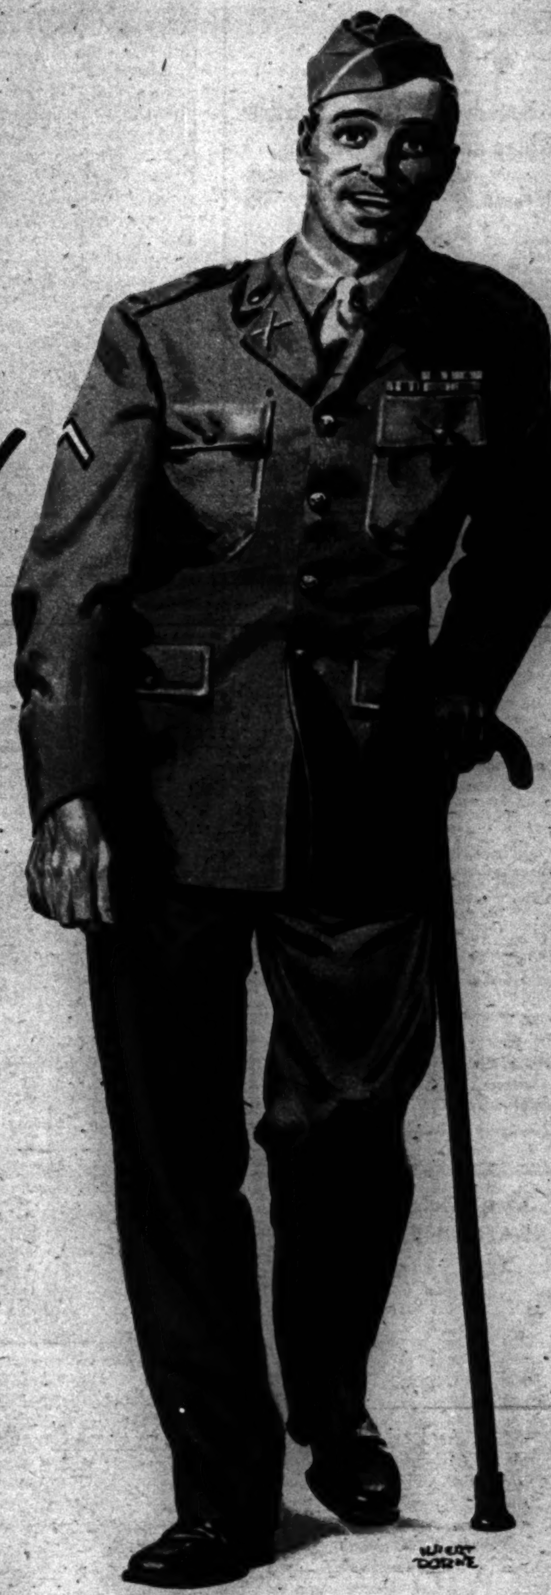
Goldfish bit me, Lady!



IT'S A GOOD GAG, all right. But it's no joke.

It's the stock reply a certain hospitalized vet makes to eager sympathizers who want the story of his injury.

And, as any service doctor will tell you, it's the prodding questioners, the people who feel they can't be properly sympathetic until they get all the details at first hand—who actually hold back the mental and physical recovery of the disabled soldier.

So, don't do it. Don't stare. Don't ask him where he got his injury . . . and how . . . and when. He'll tell you when he's good and ready. Then, by all means, listen. But in the meantime, help him to forget.

He may be awaiting your first reaction to his changed appearance. So, if you can't look at his injury without having your feelings betray you . . . don't look. Control your emotions

(On the other hand, don't pretend he hasn't changed. He knows that he has. And he expects you to be honest with him.)

Include him in all possible social gatherings. There's no better way for him to learn that his disability hasn't changed him, as far as you and his other friends are concerned.

All he wants is to be accepted back into a peacetime society as a useful, worthwhile member of it. A society to which he has given much to preserve.

And one for which his wartime experiences have made him more valuable than ever.

Let's not put any stumbling blocks in the path of his return!

"A friend in need is a friend indeed"

Well do you know that your familiar friend, the dependable steel-and-tin can is not quite so much in evidence, these days, as in peacetimes. Certain products—such as motor oil, paints, beer, and drugstore articles—as well as some foods, are coming to you in substitute wartime containers . . . In a very true sense, the cans you miss on your dealers' shelves have gone to war. The pictures below show a few of the many vital, battle-front jobs now being done by the sturdy can.

Concentrated food tablets are kept safe, pure, and wholesome in cans similar to sardine cans. They are carried by our fighting men right into battle.

Remember your old friend the "tennis ball can"? Its counterpart now protects blood plasma that saves lives of wounded men who otherwise might die.

Fishing tackle—in cans—was early made a part of life raft equipment. Men adrift at sea catch food and thus maintain life until rescue comes.

Army food is protected against contamination and the hazards of transportation by countless cans—one reason why ours is the best fed army in all the world.

Enemy tanks are blown to bits by "land mines"—which are contained in cans that resemble your familiar gallon varnish can.

Bomb fuses are packed in individual cans to protect their intricate, delicate mechanism from dust, dirt, moisture, and the danger of accidental damage.

Have you missed your handy beer cans? Then you'll be glad to know that their counterparts now enclose incendiary hand grenades!

About 30 per cent of all air-sea rescues that have been analyzed are accounted for by the "Fluorescein Dye Sea Marker"—packed in cans.

Our "G. I.'s" now enjoy delicious, juicy canned hamburgers that come all ready to heat and eat. After the war, you'll have them too!

On Battlefront and Homefront

Even though the "tin" can is over 98% steel and less than 2% tin—it's important to prepare your used food cans for tin salvage. That's because the Japs have cut off 90% of America's normal tin supply. Meanwhile, our armed forces need thousands of things packed in billions of cans. Practically everything that rolls, flies, fights, or that feeds, heals, and saves our men needs tin. And America's only "tin mines" are in your kitchens!

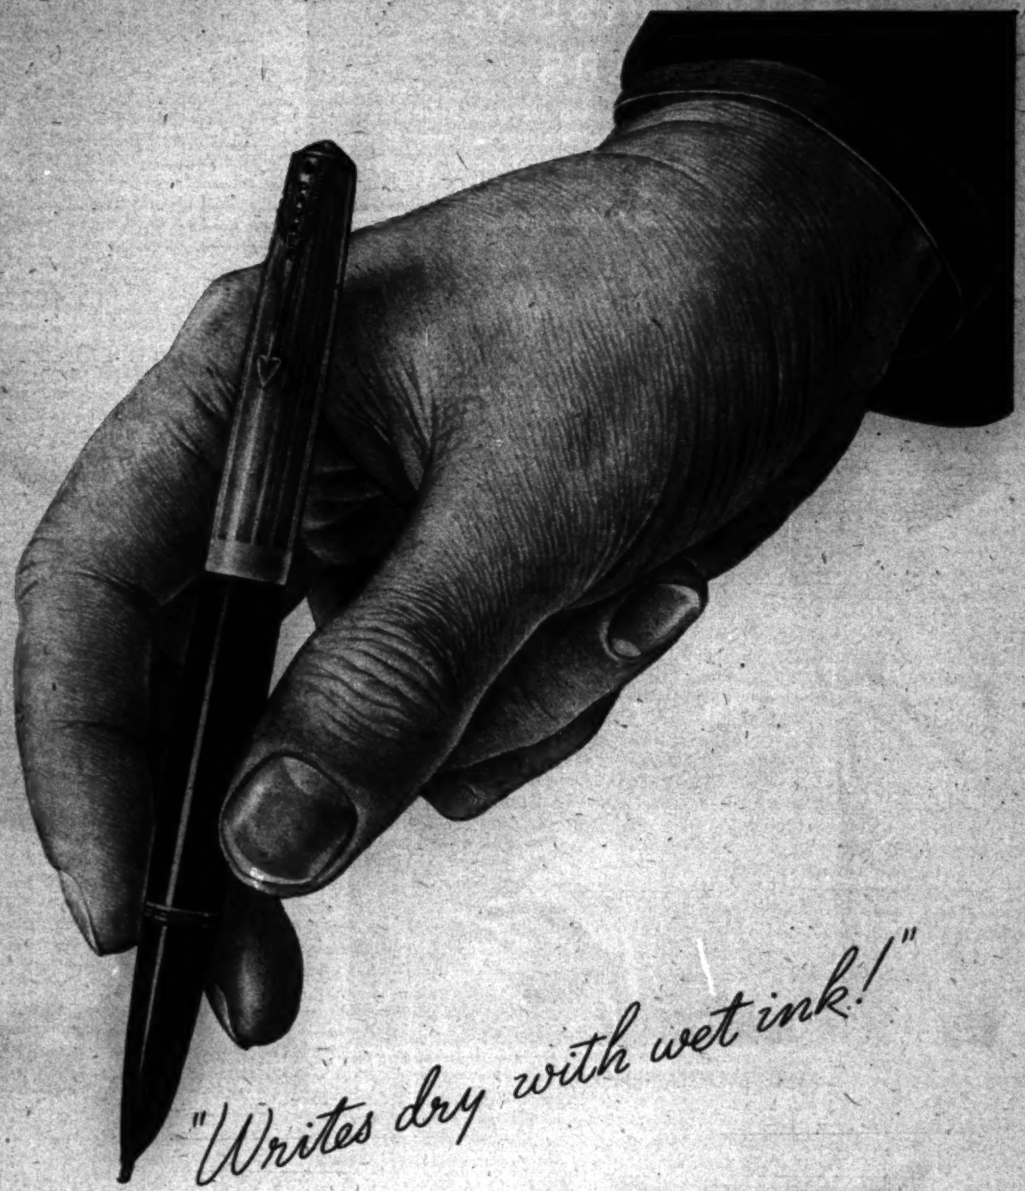
PRIORITY AA·1



"Writes dry with wet ink!"

OVER HALF THE FEW PARKER 51's BEING MADE ARE GOING TO THE ARMED FORCES ON PRIORITY AA-1 ORDER.

PARKER 51's play their part in scheduling troop movements—in keeping ships' logs up to date on all the seven seas—in stimulating the flow of those precious letters to home.

Here's a typical sample of what their fighting owners say. It comes from a rifleman who has seen plenty of action with the 7th Army. "My Parker '51' always seems so anxious to write, it makes it easy to keep up on my letters to home. Naturally, we don't have blotters, so I'm mighty thankful for the way this pen writes dry with the special '51' Ink. I guess everyone in the outfit has borrowed my Parker '51' at one time or another. And some of these G.I.'s are pretty heavy-handed. But this pen is really rugged. It writes smoothly as ever."

Parker 51's are scarce because we are producing rocket fuzes and other war materials... and that will continue to be our first assignment until final Victory. Furthermore, the limited number of 51's we do make are the result of patient, precise craftsmanship. They cannot be turned out by hurried mass-production processes.

But more may be available sooner than you expect. Your Parker "51" is well worth waiting for. So we suggest that you place a reservation order with your dealer now.

Parker "51" Pens are made in four colors: Black, Blue Cedar, Dove Gray, Cordovan Brown. $12.50 and $15.00. Pencils, $5.00 and $7.50. Sets are $17.50 to $80.00. World-famous Parker Vacumatic Pens, $8.75. Pencils, $4.00.

WHAT'S THAT? YOU SAY THEY'RE THE JOHNSON BOYS? —STRANDED IN THE CITY IN THEIR JALOPY?—NO GAS— —NO LICENSE PLATES?
SEEMS THEY HIRED OUT THEIR LIZZY TO TAKE A WOMAN INTO THE CITY AND THE COPS HAVE PICKED THEM UP?
A WOMAN? WHAT DID SHE LOOK LIKE?—LET ME HAVE THAT PHONE, CONSTABLE.
FREE, AT LAST!—AND RICH! FINALLY, BREATHLESS DARLING, YOU CAN LIVE. HONEY, YOU CAN LIVE!

A CABLE FROM THIS ISLAND TO THE NEAREST JAP BASE TO KEEP THE NIPS UP ON WHAT WE'RE DOING? ISN'T THAT A BIT FANTASTIC, MISTER CHARLES?
SIR, THE NAVY RADIO MONITORS WOULD HEAR A WIRELESS SIGNAL—BUT NOT A CABLE MESSAGE UNDER OUR DEFENSES!
ASSUMING THE JAPS HAD A TELEGRAPH WIRE FROM HERE—WHERE IS IT ANCHORED? WHERE ARE ALL THE INSTRUMENTS?
WHERE DO THE JAPS ALWAYS GO, SIR? UNDERGROUND! THEY HAD PLENTY OF TIME TO SET THIS UP AND BURY IT BEFORE THE ISLAND WAS OCCUPIED!
WELL, CHARLES, THEY'RE LEARNING ALL ABOUT US BY SOME MEANS—THIS MAY BE IT! I'LL ORDER THE MINE SWEEPERS TO DRAG THE INSHORE AREA!
MEANWHILE...
SURE, MR. LEE, PYZON HAS A SEAT ON FLIGHT SIX... I WAS JUST SHIFTING THE LOAD TO TRIM THE AIRPLANE—GUESS WHY!
THE BUGGY'S JUST GOING UP THE HILL TO PICK UP PYZON AND HIS GEAR... CARE TO RIDE ALONG?
SCUTTLEBUTT HAS IT THAT AS A NEUTRAL, MR. PYZON ASKED THE NAVY TO FLY HIM HOME VIA THE UNITED STATES, BECAUSE OUR GUYS SUSPECTED HIM OF SPYING FOR THE JAPS! HIS FEELINGS WERE HURT! AIN'T IT A SHAME?
IT DOESN'T QUITE ADD UP... BUT IT'S TIME FOR ME TO THROW THE PAST AT OLD PYZON...
YEP—THERE'S PYZON'S LUGGAGE—BUT WE CAN'T ACCUSE HIM OF ANYTHING UNLESS HOTSHOT PERSUADES THE NAVY TO LOOK FOR A CABLE—IF ANY...
NO ONE AROUND—NO PYZON—NO SERVANTS... APRIL! ... NO ANSWER! WE SHOULDN'T HAVE LEFT HER HERE...YET THE PLACE IS SURROUNDED BY TROOPS
HEY!
ONE OF APRIL'S LITTLE HAIR BOWS —BUT TWISTED TO FORM A SORT OF ARROW...
IT POINTED DOWN THE HALL THIS WAY... HERE'S PYZON'S SUITE—AND HERE'S APRIL'S OTHER BOW—POINTING TO HIS DOOR...
WHY, THAT OLD TUB OF LARD...
EMPTY!

A WIND SHIFT CAUGHT THE PUNCTURED JAP BALLOON AND BLEW IT AWAY FROM WICKIE'S PLANE. IT CAME TO REST IN SOME BUSHES--
SINCE THE SMALL LEAK HAS LET THE BALLOON DOWN AT A SLOW RATE OF DESCENT THERE WAS NOT ENOUGH IMPACT TO DETONATE THE BOMBS ---
A HUNGRY WOLF IN THE VICINITY SAW THE BALLOON LAND AND WHILE SNIFFING AROUND IT IN SEARCH OF FOOD---
----THE VICIOUS WOLF'S NOSE CAME IN CONTACT WITH THE DETONATOR WHOSE ARMING WIRE HAD BEEN PULLED BY THE BUSHES WHEN THE BOMB LANDED--AND-- BOOM
SMILIN' JACK
--THE EXPLOSIONS JARRED WICKIE BACK TO CONSCIOUSNESS--
OH, LOOK THE WOODS ARE ON FIRE--- THERE MUST HAVE BEEN INCENDIARY BOMBS TIED TO THAT BALLOON---
HURRY, WICKIE, CLIMB OUT OF TH' PLANE-- THE FIRE IS COMING THIS WAY--IT'S BURNING TH' GRASS, TOO--
THE WIND HELPS THE FLAMES SPREAD RAPIDLY THROUGH THE WOODS AND DRY GRASS--
THE FLAMES HAVE ALMOST ENCIRCLED US--WHAT WILL WE DO? OH, SAY--- --I SAW A RIVER NEARBY WHEN WE MADE OUR CRASH LANDING---
BUT I DON'T REMEMBER WHICH DIRECTION IT WAS--
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off. Copyright, 1945, by News Syndicate Co., Inc.
WELL, THERE IS ONLY ONE DIRECTION WE CAN RUN AND IF THE RIVER ISN'T OVER THERE WE'RE OUT OF LUCK--
WHAT AN AWFUL EXPERIENCE-- BUT I GUESS I'M LUCKY AT THAT--
OH, THERE'S TH' RIVER--IT WAS IN TH' RIGHT DIRECTION-- WE CAN GET IN THE WATER AND THE FLAMES CAN'T REACH US--
I MADE AN ILLEGAL FLIGHT AS A STUDENT, CARRIED A PASSENGER AN' WRECKED THE PLANE---- I COULD BE PROSECUTED--
BUT NOW THAT THE PLANE HAS BURNED, MAYBE THE OWNER WILL THINK IT WAS STOLEN-- NO ONE SAW ME GET IN TH' PLANE AND NO ONE CAN PROVE I WAS FLYING IT--
MAYBE I WON'T BE CONVICTED, NOW THAT ALL THE EVIDENCE HAS GONE UP IN FLAMES--
BUT WAIT! NO, ALL THE EVIDENCE HASN'T GONE UP IN FLAMES-- JUNGLE JOLLY MIGHT TELL SOMEONE ABOUT THIS!!!

OUT OF THE NIGHT

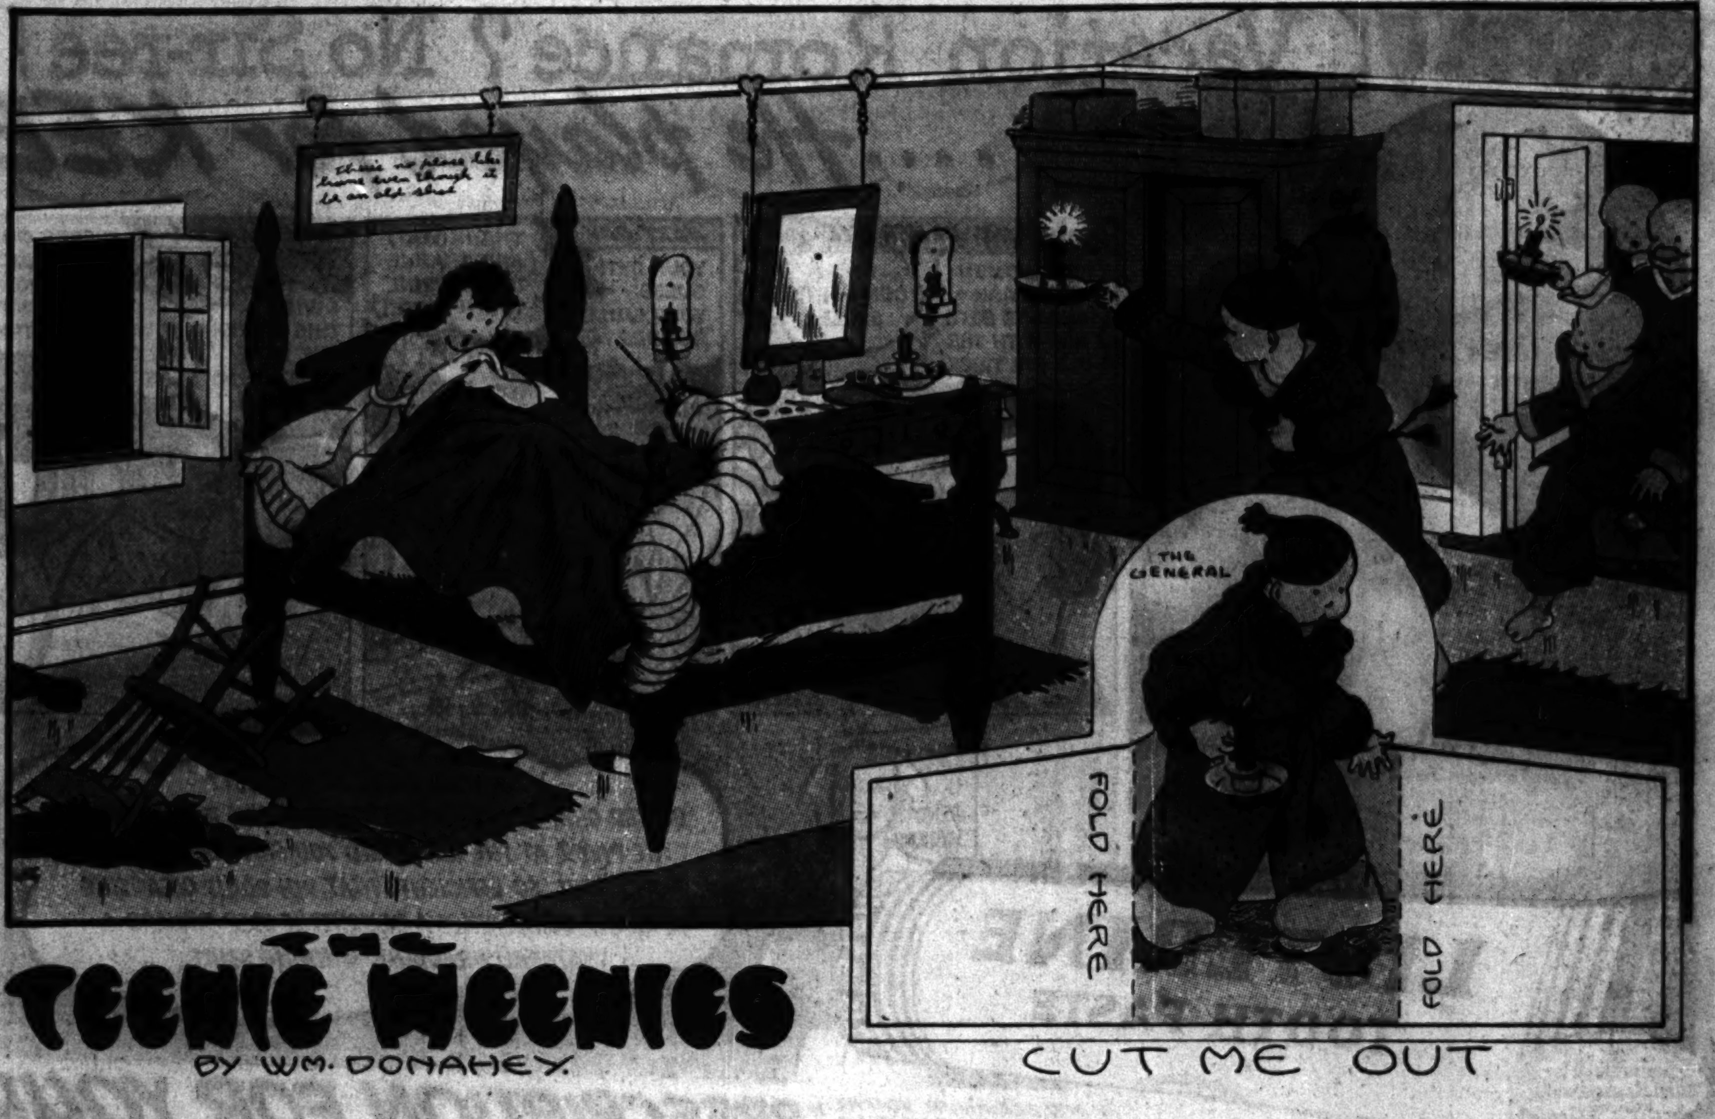
THE Lady of Fashion had been trying to get a new screen for her bedroom window. A number of the tiny screens had been stolen, and there was every reason to believe that Ginky was the thief. Some of the men had promised to replace the screens, and they had gone so far as to cut out the screen wire from an old fly swatter with Teenie Weenie cold chisels, but they hadn't had time to make the screen frames. The hunting season was at its best now, and every single Teenie Weenie man was busy hunting frogs, for frog ham is the main Teenie Weenie meat dish

At first the Lady of Fashion slept with her window shut, but she didn't like to do that, and she was afraid to leave it open for fear a mosquito or bug might get into the little room. After a few nights of stuffy air she began to leave her window open, and then one night a dreadful thing happened. The little lady was awakened by the noise of a chair falling over. She raised up in bed and listened, and then she heard something moving toward her. She grew hot and cold with fear, as she felt that something was crawling onto her bed. She opened her tiny mouth and let out such a mighty scream that every Teenie Weenie in the shoe house was awakened except the Dunce, who could sleep thru an air raid.

"HELP! BURGLARS!" screamed the Lady of Fashion.

The General lit a Teenie Weenie candle, threw on a bathrobe and ran to the Lady of Fashion's room, followed by the rest of the little people in the house. A huge caterpillar was just in the act of crawling over the foot of the bed. The Sailor and the Policeman caught it and pushed it squirming thru the window just as the Lady of Fashion fainted. The Doctor revived her, but the little lady was so nervous she couldn't sleep another wink, and she spent the rest of the night knitting a stocking out of spider web silk.

The Lady of Fashion never mentioned the matter of the screen to the men, but right after breakfast several of the little men built a frame, put in the screen wire, and fixed it tightly to the Lady of Fashion's bedroom window. Now she sleeps soundly in plenty of fresh air, and without the fear that something may come into her tiny room out of the night.



There's no place like home even though it be an old shoe

SPUUT! I DO! SPUT! SPUT!

YOU CAN SEE THE DIFFERENCE!

Tests show it... Millions know it!

No matter what leading tooth powder you are using now . . . Pepsodent Tooth Powder with Irium will make your teeth brighter!

Pepsodent makes this unqualified promise to you, without fear of contradiction . . . because test after test proves: Pepsodent Powder with Irium makes teeth far brighter.

Tests by impartial laboratories . . . tests with photoelectric devices . . . tests by identical twins . . . by dental clinics, by dentists themselves . . . produced overwhelming evidence for this one unshakable fact:

Pepsodent Powder produces a lustre on teeth twice as bright as the average of all other leading brands . . . brighter than any of them—bar none!

Change to Pepsodent Powder—the only powder containing Irium, the exclusive cleansing ingredient. Use it twice a day . . . and see it make your teeth brighter!

You can see the difference in one week!

Is your child brushing his teeth correctly?

Teach your child it's how he brushes . . . not how hard . . . that counts in cleansing teeth. Show him how to brush straight up and down, rather than scrubbing sidewise. And follow the method pictured below.

1. Clean the back teeth (inside and outside surfaces) by repeatedly rolling the brush bristles over the gums and teeth toward the grinding surfaces.
2. Clean the outside surfaces of the front teeth with the same brushing motion . . . rolling bristles into all grooves and spaces from gum to biting surfaces.
3. Clean the inside surfaces of the front teeth, drawing the brush forward from gum line to biting edges.
4. Clean grinding surfaces by forcing bristles well into the grooves and vibrating brush backward, forward, sideways.

Before you finish make sure you have brushed every surface of every tooth. And for best results, try Pepsodent Tooth Powder with a Pepsodent Tooth Brush—it has the Straight Line Design most dentists recommend.

ONLY PEPSODENT CONTAINS IRIUM

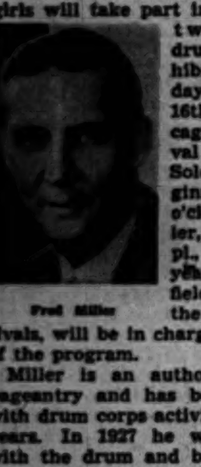
1,000 BATONS WILL FLASH AT FEAST OF SONG

Stress Field Events for Festival

BY PHILIP MAXWELL



Fred Miller

Nearly 1,000 men and boys and girls will take part in drills, baton twirling and drum corps exhibitions Saturday night at the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival to be held in Soldiers' field, beginning at 7 o'clock. Fred Miller, 601 Deming pl., who for 16 years has been field supervisor of the Tribune festivals, will be in charge of this part of the program.

Miller is an authority on field pageantry and has been identified with drum corps activities for many years. In 1927 he went to Paris with the drum and bugle corps of Kankakee, Ill., then the Illinois Legion's championship corps. He managed the American Legion national drum and bugle corps contest in Chicago in 1933. In addition to taking part in drum corps exhibitions he has written several manuals on baton twirling and drill and drum corps maneuvers.

Corps to Open Program

Seven Chicago drum and bugle corps will open the festival performance. The players will enter Gate 0 at the south end of the field, preceded by a massed assembly of 100 Cook county American Legion colors, under the command of John S. Cusack, commander of the Cook county council and Ellidor Libonati, Americanism chairman of the council.

Among the posts represented in the opening parade will be Square post, Giles, Melin-Romer, Logan Square, North West Cadets, a junior corps, sponsored by Portage and Glendale posts.

Harold Todd, a member of the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps, will assist Mr. Miller in the presentation of the opening pageant.

All Baton Twirlers Invited

All baton twirlers in Chicago are invited to take part in the big exhibition which will be staged later in the evening. In order to receive their instructions and tickets of admittance they should attend the festival rehearsal at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Soldiers' field. The festival contest finals for baton twirlers will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Soldiers' field.

A special exhibition also will be given during the performance by the Knights Templar of Humboldt commandery, No. 79. The commandery has headquarters at 2410 N. Kedzie blvd. The 125 men in the corps and drill teams are attired in dark blue uniforms with plumed hats and flashing sabers. Richard C. Loewe is drill master and George W. Patton is corps manager. Carl Schultz is commander of the Knights Templar group.

North side girls who have entered the junior division include: Rita Arnet, 1817 Henderson st.; Joan Marilyn Detterbeck, 1629 Cullom av.; Audrey Vernell Iverson, 1721 Balmoral av., and Beverlee Olson, 1623 Hollywood av.

Miller also will have charge of hundreds of dancers who will take part in the Buckingham Fountain dance pageant and in the Alice in Wonderland pageant. He estimates that nearly half of the entire evening's program will be devoted to field presentations.

Here's Where Ye Editor Is Told Faults

VIElla Smerling

VIElla Smerling, 1415 Lincoln st., Evanston, who teaches in the suburb's Haven school in winter, would like to teach newspaper editors a few rules about writing headlines. "It would make scrapbook keeping much simpler," she observed.

Since 1939 Miss Smerling has filled 36 scrapbooks with war news, chiefly headlines, and she longs for V-J day because—in addition to more noble reasons—she's tired of saving clippings.

"The job would be much easier if editors would write headlines with scrapbooks in mind," she laughed. "Sometimes the line isn't significant, like 'Two Jap Ships Sunk.' That could have been good last year or next month.

Has Editor's Troubles

"Then there's the three line banner, with the second line unrelated to the other two, which pertain to the war. I have to save the middle one, too, or cut it out.

"And murders! I wish editors wouldn't headline crime news so often. It plays havoc with my scrapbook.

"Another headache," she continued, "is the page one story that jumps to page two. That means usually that I have to buy two papers. But it's fun, of course, and I can't stop now. A project like this is something you have to finish."

Her war scrapbooks, which contain about 2,500 headlines, are a current exhibit in a public service company window, 911 Church st., Evanston. Each book covers about six weeks of news.

She Clips from Habit

War scrapbooks are just one hobby for this vivacious brunette, who received a speech degree in 1942 from Northwestern university and who has been a secretary as well as teacher. She began the clipping habit about 1927 and has a total of 50 books of news stories and pictures on such subjects as the romance of the duke and duchess of Windsor, the coronation of George VI., famous brides, the Chicago Cubs, and the Dionne quintuplets.

"I've always collected things, and the clipping habit just grew," explained Miss Smerling. "Mother says the books are so bulky that either they or I will have to move. No one in the house dares throw away a scrap of paper without my O. K." she chuckled. Already she's planning to start a book of miscellaneous cartoons and humorous stories.

Has Other Hobbies

Another hobby is gardening. At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Smerling, at the Lincoln st. address, VIElla mows the lawn, cuts hedges, and cultivates flowers and vegetables. In the remainder of her leisure, after about five hours devoted to clipping newspapers each week, she does war service work.

A third major iron in the fire is radio. Altho she likes school teaching, Miss Smerling feels there is a field in radio for women sports announcers, and she'd like to have a try at it. "There's a woman's angle to sports just as in everything else," she insisted, "but I suppose I'd have to own a radio station to prove it!"

WELFARE BODIES PLAN GLENCOE THEATER PARTY

Maternal Welfare centers of Chicago, assisted by Leagues for Planned Parenthood of Evanston and Illinois, will sponsor a benefit theater party at 2 p. m. Sept. 7 in the Glencoe theater. North shore board members in charge include Mrs. Stewart Boal, Mrs. Matthew Rockwell, Mrs. Clarence Sills Jr., and Mrs. Jeffrey Short Jr., all of Winnetka; Mrs. Donald Kimball II., Wilmette; Mrs. William L. Taylor Jr., Northbrook, and Mrs. William H. Norton and Mrs. George Seidel, Evanston.

$15,000 SOUGHT TO KEEP CAMP FOR CHILDREN

Kiwanis Plans Drive in Ravenswood

A $15,000 drive to keep Camp Kiwanis North for the 1,000 underprivileged children who invade its woods each summer has been opened by the Kiwanis club of Ravenswood. Major activity of the group is supporting the camp near Rand rd. on the outskirts of Des Plaines.

The camp site covers 13 acres near the forest preserves along the Des Plaines river. Clarence S. Wille, president, said the property has been rented on a monthly basis, but the owner wishes to sell. Unless the club buys the land it will lose the camp and the $7,000 already invested in buildings and improvements. The purchase price asked is $15,000.

John S. Kurtz is chairman of a fund raising committee which plans a canvass of north side organizations and individuals before the drive closes Oct. 1.

Pick Team Leaders

Captains of canvassing teams, each consisting of five men, are Dr. Dr. Otto Bersch, Camp Director William Y. Brownlie, W. Frank Donaldson, Richard Telsing, Walter Radig, John C. Herrig, Melvin A. Nelson, Thomas A. Oswald, Winard G. Olson, Jacques Saikin, and Frank W. Schauler.

The camp is under supervision of trained leaders and is available for outings and week-ends to children under 14 from such organizations as Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, church groups, orphanages, and civic clubs.

It was built in 1936 by club members, who with their own hands dug the foundations, poured concrete, laid stone and brick, and performed all carpentry. The camp centers about a main lodge and an assembly hall that has 24 double deck bunks at each end.

Dig Artesian Well

There also is a kitchen, dining room, a tool shed, and a small sleeping cabin. A recent improvement is the installation of an artesian well, 540 feet deep, with an electric pump. Children have access to the Des Plaines municipal swimming pool, two blocks from camp.

Other officers and directors of the club are Jack T. Haynes, immediate past president; C. G. Schwabe, vice president; A. J. Schroeder, treasurer; Edwin A. Koch, secretary, and G. H. Smith, Alvin Tagge, Charles Drake Jr., and John Bobzien, directors.

LEGIONNAIRES IN ROGERS PARK ELECT OFFICERS

New officers of Rogers Park American Legion post are Joseph Fisher, commander; Bert Gast and Hugh H. Shannon, vice commanders; Frank O. Penzel, finance officer, and Lionel M. Brenner, sergeant at arms.

Delegates to the convention Aug. 26, 27, and 28 in Chicago will be Carl W. Stuke, retiring commander; R. O. Schneider, Edward Parlee, and Gast.

Delegates to district meetings will be Stuke, Shannon, Fred W. Willrett, Lewis G. Casey, Frank J. Smith, Irving J. Anderson, and George F. Reusch.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Richard W. Kutz, petty officer 3d class, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kutz, 1519 Greenleaf st., Evanston, recently returned home on leave after 15 months in the Pacific. He participated in the Biak and Leyte campaigns. His twin brother, Seaman Raymond, is in the Pacific.

Richard Kutz

Raymond Kutz

The silver star has been awarded Pvt. George A. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Johnson, 1331 Addison st., for rescuing a wounded companion during the Battle of the Bulge.

Lt. Richard A. Adler, 1609 Jarvis av., is recovering from a broken leg at Vaughn General hospital. He served in the Philippine Islands.

Louis F. and Eddie E. Wehlacz, 17 year old twin brothers, 3383 N. Marshfield av., have joined the merchant marine.

Pvt. Jack Nathan, son of Mrs. Erna Nathan, 621 Melrose st., is convalescing from wounds received on Leyte at Ashburn General hospital, McKinney, Tex. He also served in the New Guinea campaign.

The navy and marine corps medal has been awarded Louis J. Cuzzo, chief boilermaker, 2448 N. Marshfield av., for helping rescue several sailors trapped in wreckage caused by enemy bombs on their ship. He also explored the extent of the damage, despite intense heat, live steam, and smoke. His wife, Mary, resides at the Marshfield av. address.

Sgt. Adam S. Klus, 1636 N. Bell av., is en route to the United States from Europe, where he participated in the Normandy, Belgium, Luxemburg, northern France, and German campaigns. He wears the Purple Heart and five battle stars.

Francis F. Poppenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Poppenburg, 4863 N. Rockwell st., has been promoted to major with the army in Germany. Holder of the bronze star and four battle stars, he is assigned to the ordnance section.

Maj. Poppenburg

William M. Driscoll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Driscoll, 105 E. Delaware pl., has been promoted to first lieutenant with the 9th infantry in Germany. He wears the Purple Heart for wounds received during the battle of Hatton last January. A graduate of New Trier Township High school, he attended the University of Illinois.

Pvt. Thomas Sargent Jr., 7101 N. Ashland av., has been awarded the silver star for heroism in action in Italy. He is with the 91st infantry division of the 5th army.

Frank J. Plennert, son of F. G. Plennert, 3542 N. Oakley av., has been promoted to captain with an anti-aircraft searchlight division in Manila. Graduate of St. Gregory's school and De Paul academy, he entered service in August, 1941. He formerly was stationed in New Guinea.

Capt. Plennert

Pvt. Frank J. Dowd Jr., Winnetka, has been awarded the bronze star medal for organizing litter squads and removing wounded from a battlefield in Germany. He is now in Madigan General hospital, Fort Lewis, Wash., recovering from shrapnel wounds in his neck. He is a graduate of New Trier Township High school.

Ensign Nelson Fitch, 4530 N. Wolcott av., has been assigned to the naval air base, Brunswick, Me. In the air corps two years, he received his commission in July.

N.U. HIGH SCHOOL SPEECH COURSE NEARING CLIMAX

A championship debate Thursday, a dramatics program Aug. 21, and a radio show Aug. 22 will climax the speech division of the 15th annual National High school institute now in session on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university.

Ninety-eight high school students chosen from more than 300 applicants, representing 30 states, are attending classes in radio, dramatics, and public speaking, taught by 35 instructors from schools thruout the country.

Students live in dormitories on the campus and attend classes from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Study schedules are balanced by social activities such as beach picnics, sightseeing trips in Chicago, and attendance at plays and concerts. Among north siders in the institute are Leona Marko, 4538 Clarendon av., and Katherine Lloyd, Glencoe.

BRONZE STAR MEDAL, PROMOTION GIVEN TO FRED M. CLARKE JR.

Fred M. Clarke Jr., Wilmette, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel. He is deputy corps signal officer with the 7th army in Bad Nauheim, Germany, and recently received the bronze star for gallantry in action before V-E day.

Lt. Col. Clarke

As a member of the 2d signal battalion, Col. Clarke took part in the drive into Normandy and later fought in Belgium, Holland, and Germany. He has been in the army four years and overseas two.

Their present hotel quarters would make even Hollywood movie actors envious, the colonel writes, adding that the food is good, too.

CITATION AWARDED LT. GEORGE M'GURN FOR CLEARING MINES

Lt. George E. McGurn, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McGurn, 2084 Lunt av., has been cited by the 8th fleet commander for his achievements as commanding officer of a mine sweeper operating off the French and Italian coasts in September, 1944.

The citation praised Lt. McGurn for his 'fearless determination in sweeping a fire support channel, altho repeatedly subjected to heavy, close range enemy bombardment" and for maneuvering his ship "with such expert seamanship as to avoid sustaining casualties to personnel or material."

A graduate of St. George High school, Evanston, and Northwestern university, Lt. McGurn played varsity football three years at N. U. and was a member of The Tribune All-Star team in 1940. He has been in service since March, 1942. Following a 30 day leave, the officer will report on the east coast, for further duty.

The officer's wife, the former Eileen Burke, has been residing temporarily with her family in Sioux Falls, S. D.

MIGHTY MODEL TRAIN SYSTEM PUT ON DISPLAY

A Show for Young in Age and in Heart

A railroad hobbyist's dream show, complete with 899 feet of electric double track, industrial communities, and tiny villages, will be opened to the eyes of the young in years and young in heart tomorrow when Elmer B. Tolsted, 63 year old consulting engineer, puts his show on display at 632 N. Dearborn st.

Young visitors will marvel at the vastness of the model, covering 2,300 square feet in the building which once housed the Chicago Historical society. Their elders will gaze with amazement at the minuteness of the model tracks, trains, and villages as well as at the finely painted scenery and background.

Since he was 10, Tolsted has been evolving the plan for his unique exhibit. A consulting engineer who headed the firm of Fonda-Tolsted, Inc., until his retirement 10 years ago, he has spent most of the last decade collecting material for the show.

Shows 12 Bridge Types

Scaled to approximately ¼ inch to a foot, the model is an intricate design of mountainous community dwellings.

Twelve different types of bridges are duplicated on the winding railroad tracks and 17 trains, including freight and passenger models, are operated by third rail control. A 280 square foot lake is equipped with barges. It is bordered by an electrically operated coal dump and crane and a complete miniature model of the power house at the North Western railway passenger terminal.

Included in the scenery at the exhibit are scale models of the Swan house in England, a store-apartment structure in Coventry, England, the Taber Opera house in Denver, Colo., a church, the Vendramin palace in Venice, Italy, and numerous complete communities with houses, filling stations, and stores.

13 Hours Daily Two Years

Tolsted said he thinks his biggest customer will be older men who are interested in the technical aspect of such things as the bridge modeled after a 2,400 foot span.

"They'll like the minuteness and appreciate the 13 hours of daily work for the last two years," he said.

A fee of 25 cents for children and 35 cents for adults will be charged to view the exhibit.

Church Services

Dr. Clarence Seidenspinner, pastor of First Methodist church, Racine, Wis., will speak at 11 a. m. today in First Methodist church, Evanston.

Irish to Hold Annual Fete Wednesday

Irish folk songs and dances, sports contests, the crowning of a queen chosen from 30 colleens who have surivived preliminary competition, and the appearance of Irish radio entertainers will characterize the observance of Our Lady Day in Harvest at 4 p. m. Wednesday in Harms park, 4207 N. Western av.

More than 10,000 persons are expected to attend. Principal speakers will be Bishop Sheil and the Rev. James J. Mertz, S. J., founder of Madonna Della Strada chapel on Loyola university campus. Chaplain will be the Rev. Richard J. Wolfe, pastor of St. Patrick's church. The Rev. E. O. Boyle of St. Barnabas church will serve as moderator.

300 to Twirl Batons

Native games and athletic contests will open the program, followed by competition in the playing of pipes, accordion, and flute. Exhibitions in dancing and baton twirling by 300 pupils of Chicago Irish dancing schools, and group singing, square dances and reels will be included. An orchestra will furnish music for modern dancing, and the Star of Freedom Irish Flute band will appear.

Special instrumental numbers will be played by Bob Flatley and Edward Luekin. A dance arrangements committee is composed of Mae Kennedy Kane, Paul Dillon, Madonna Gaffney, Mary and Lucille Lynch, Rose Ann Smith, Theresa Prendergast, Marge Corrigan, and Mary T. O'Malley.

Officers of Irish Day, Inc., sponsor of the outing, are John J. Hurley, president; Patrick Bonner, vice president; Edward B. Dwyer, secretary, and Stanley O'Sullivan, treasurer. Officer of the day will be James J. Doody, high treasurer of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

North Siders on Committees

North side committee members include: H. E. McHugh, 1122 North Shore av.; Dr. James J. O'Connor, 2556 Coyle av.; W. J. Pettis, 4905 Clark st.; Thomas Cook, 7309 N. Bell av.; Patrick Flannery, 2510 Burling st.; John and Marguerite O'Shea, 4022 N. Western av.; John J. Curtin, 1441 Rosemont av.; John McRermott, 2416 N. Halsted st.; T. J. Murtaugh, 7106 Ridge av.

George Gannon, 1046 Loyola av.; William Moynahan, 2344 Touhy av.; James Sullivan, 1441 Devon av.; Mr. and Mrs. Steve B. McBrien, 4508 N. Racine av.; Peter King, 4239 Broadway; Mrs. Margaret Arte, 754 Buena av.; Elizabeth Aylworth, 3103 Kenmore av.; Theresa Hayes, 5440 Magnolia av.; Elizabeth Holland, 3413 Lincoln av.; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Flynn, 6259 Lakewood av.

Martin Jeffers, 2165 Touhy av.; Thomas Morrin, 2638 N. Halsted st.; Lew Monckton, 907 Wrightwood av.; J. Frank Lyman, 710 Junior terr.; Bartholomew Quigley, 1341 Arthur av.; William Nicholl, 1138 Granville av.; Thomas H. Cannon, 534 Stratford pl.; Martin Cannon, 1401 Devon av.; Michael J. Brown, 6508 N. Ashland av.; J. F. Conway, 1700 Albion av.; E. W. Doyle, 1[illegible]4 Catalpa av.; J. J. Garrity, 6527 Newgard av., and Michael Kehoe, 1401 Devon av.

CAP NORTH SIDE HOSPITAL CLASS AS NURSES' AIDS

North siders recently capped as nurses' aids in a ceremony at Evanston hospital include: Helen Dryfus, 2430 Lakeview av.; Carol Schaffner, 1325 Chase av.; Eugenie Steuer, 5727 Sheridan rd.; Catherine Tideman, Kenilworth, and Frances Adams, Charlotte Hannaford, Katrina Wolcott, and Ann Gregory, all of Winnetka.

Evanstonians include: Julia Bissell, 811 Monticello st.; Mrs. Frank Brewer, 802 Ingleside pl.; Betty Gelber, 823 Brummel st.; Frances Jackman, 2430 Marcy av.; Ann W. Johnson, 1632 Wesley av.; Betty Kaen, 1413 Noyes st.; Virginia Nishkian, 623 Judson av.; Mrs. Jack Vilas, 1042 Hinman av., and Laura Woolman, 2771 Sheridan rd.

Other graduates are Joyce Bergman, Florence Davis, Elizabeth Weir, Joan Wesiberg, and Eugenie Wuichet, all of Glencoe, and Margaret Knight, Mary McCormick, Kate Shamberg, Janice Uhlmann, and Mrs. Hugh Wilson, all of Highland Park.

LET'S TAKE OUR VACATION TRIP THRU UNIVERSE

No Ticket Priority Needed Here

[The ninth in a series of articles telling of interesting places available to Chicagoans who are vacationing at home due to war time travel restrictions.]

BY ONEY FRED SWEET

During the vacation month of August the Adler planetarium expects to entertain its five millionth visitor. In a time of travel restrictions the tantalizing demonstration topic for the month is "Other Worlds." But these astronomical journeys need not be postponed by Chicagoans. The only requirement is that they arrive at the museum at the scheduled starting time for trips thru the universe.

The planets—the only known other objects like our earth—can be distinguished from the stars by their motions. With the unaided eye we may watch these apparent motions which seem complicated. As explained at the planetarium the real motions of the planets are simple.

Now to Meet the Planets

First we are made acquainted with the five planets that can be seen by the unaided eye—Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and Mars. Then we are shown those planets that cannot be seen except with telescopes — Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto.

We learn something of what conditions are like in these far off worlds and the possibilities there of the existence of life.

Location of the planetarium on an island in Lake Michigan is suitable to a summer vacation experience. As you approach the museum from the west, Chicago recedes to a blurred skyline and you become absorbed in the blue of the lake. Walks and roadways of the broad esplanade flank a series of 12 shallow pools symbolic of the months of the year that prepare one's attitude for the adventure ahead.

Gives Air of Detachment

The upper promenade deck of the copper domed, granite building affords further opportunity to enjoy the scene of detachment from the city. Air conditioning gives the planetarium chamber, itself, an evening cool temperature.

Those who vacation in September and include the planetarium in the "musts" of their itinerary will appreciate a demonstration, "The Southern Cross."

Visitors first will be made acquainted with their home sky—objects that are visible, and their motions. They will then be transported to the skies of the East Indies and the smaller islands of the Pacific which have become familiar to our service men on duty in this part of the world. There will be a stopover to observe how the motions of the stars and planets have changed.

Now to the Pacific

The next step of the journey will be to the islands of the South Pacific, Australia, and New Zealand, as far south of the equator as Chicago is north of it. Strange things will be seen. The sun will be in the northern sky at noon and many constellations of the home sky will be upside down. Stars never visible at home, like those of the Southern Cross, will be high in the sky.

The trip will continue to the skies of the South Pole before the traveler is returned home.

Said Max Adler when the museum was dedicated: "The popular conception of the universe is too meager; the planets and the stars are too far removed from general knowledge. In our reflections we dwell too little upon the concept that the world and all human endeavor within it are governed by established order, and too infrequently upon the truth that under the heavens everything is interrelated even as each of us to the other."

Portraits of the Moon

On niches in the museum walls are 72 large transparencies from negatives made with the world's largest telescopes. You see the pitted surface of the moon, the sun in eclipse, closeups of famous comets, and the Milky Way.

A superb collection of astronomical instruments is on display, and among them is the 6 inch reflector made by Sir William Herschel, a duplicate of the one with which he discovered the planet Uranus.

These exhibits may be visited either before or after the sojourn to starland made possible by a complex instrument into which optical technique, mechanical skill, and astronomical knowledge all have been merged.

Hear Chorus of "Awes"

Seated comfortably in the central, circular hall visitors express their awe in chorus as darkness descends, the sky stretches into the infinite, and the big instrument with its many projectors reproduces the intricate phenomena of the heavens—the stars, sun, moon, and planets—all in their proper places for any instant of any year for any terrestial position.

As explained by the demonstrator the ancients were not fitting figures to the stars when they placed the first constellations in the sky. They were naming groups of stars for their heroes and divinities in the legends and myths. We do the same today with our geographical names, but the state of Washington is not expected to look like George Washington. In some cases, the figures do fit the stars, but in learning the constellations it is easier, at first, to look for the simple geometrical

BABY AIDS STATE DEPARTMENT IN FRIENDLY POLICY

French Town Celebrates Birth in Chicago

Franco-American amity made great strides amid a haze of cigar smoke and the cheer of good French wine as a parish priest, the mayor of a small French village, and a local barber helped a proud Yank father celebrate the birth of his son.

The baby's mother, Mrs. Gordon Wells of Glencoe, sent cigars for the occasion. The Calvados, department where the celebration took place, had been saved from the German occupation. The baby, Tommy Gordon Wells, now is a year old. His father, who has been overseas since Christmas, 1943, with army counter-intelligence, soon will receive a picture of his wife and son thru the V-mail service offered by the Metropolitan section of THE TRIBUNE.

Holds Purple Heart

Among other fighters who will receive similar pictures of their wives, and the babies they have never seen is Pvt. Edward F. Wegmann, 2114 Cuyler av., who holds the Purple Heart and one cluster for being wounded in action in Germany last November and again Feb. 3.

Now on limited assignment with the engineers in France, Pvt. Wegmann has enough points for discharge and hopes to come home soon. "I'm moving in the right direction anyway," he wrote his wife. The Wegmann's son, James Edward, was born last March 20.

Mary Jeanette Roche, 6969 Clark st., arrived last Nov. 3, her dad's 34th birthday. Staff Sgt. John B. Roche has sent his daughter, whom he calls Bonnie, a teddy bear, a rag doll, and a pair of wooden shoes from Belgium. Sgt. Roche spent five months in a hospital in England after being wounded a year ago in France. He has 72 points toward discharge.

Another offspring who chose to be a birthday present is John Gattuso Jr., 2454 Catalpa av., who was born Aug. 8, 1944, his mother's 21st birthday. Corp. John Gattuso, member of an army air forces ground crew, has been three years in service and more than a year in England.

She Inherits Red Hair

Patricia Ann Carroll, 4832 N. California av., who was a year old July 31, borrowed her red hair and blue eyes from her great-grandfather. "Her temper matches; it's terrible," chuckled Mrs. Leo J. Carroll, the baby's mother. A nice war time touch is the V birthmark on the sole of Patricia's left foot. "Dead and lonesome" is Sgt. Carroll's succinct description of the Aleutians, where he has been stationed 15 months.

Richard Matzick, 3310 N. Seeley av., will celebrate his first birthday Thursday. His father, Herman Matzick, storekeeper 2d class, has been on sea duty in the Pacific since May, 1944.

Pvt. Donald Root, 1949 Leland av., is a guard in a prison camp in Germany and has been overseas 18 months. His daughter, Donna Lee, soon will celebrate her first birthday.

EVANSTON BEACH ACQUACADETOBE HELD ON FRIDAY

Gaily decorated canoes with colored sails—floats in every sense of the word—will furnish a gala background for an aquacade to be sponsored by the Evanston bureau of recreation Friday at Clark st. beach, Evanston. An afternoon program will begin at 2:30 p. m. and evening events at 8 p. m.

Activities will consist of water ballets, skiing, and acrobatics; races for children of all ages, and clown stunts and novelty acts. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded winners.

Bleachers will be built and special lighting effects arranged. Those in charge are Robert Hall, beach supervisor; John McCarthy, assistant supervisor; Harry Bergman and C. T. Byrnes.

Evanston Bride

MRS. NORMAN WYMBS
[Toloff Photo]

Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Stevens, 3200 Park pl., Evanston, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Harriet Lee, to Lt. Norman E. Wymbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Wymbs, Fredericksburg, Va. The bride was graduated from Carleton college, Northfield, Minn., and Stephens college, Columbia, Mo. With the 9th air force, Lt. Wymbs has completed 83 missions, and will be returned to inactive status shortly. The couple will be at home in St. Louis, Mo.

LUZON SERVICE WINS AIDMAN A BRONZE MEDAL

Other N. Siders Win Stars Also

For his service with the 108th medical battalion in the battle for Baguio, P. I., Sgt. Eugene H. Godfrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Godfrey, Highland Park, has been awarded the bronze star by the commander of the 33d infantry division on Luzon.

Sgt. E. H. Godfrey

During the 120 days of the campaign Sgt. Godfrey served as liaison aidman between front line medical aid stations, often assisting in administering plasma and giving medical treatment. A veteran of two years overseas and four years in the army, Sgt. Godfrey also wears the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with two battle stars and the Philippines liberation ribbon with one star.

Infantryman Receives Award

Among other north side bronze star winners is Corp. Jack Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Wilson, 1931 Lincoln Park West. With the infantry in Europe since November, 1944, Corp. Wilson was decorated for reëstablishing communications between units during an enemy counter-attack.

In addition to the bronze star, Staff Sgt. Leo J. Bacino, 4211 Kenmore av., holds the Purple Heart, two battle stars, and the medical badge for combat service.

Awaiting discharge from the army, Sgt. Bacino has been a patient in Harmon General hospital, Longview, Tex. He served 16 months as a medical aidman with the 3d armored infantry division and was wounded by shell fragments a year ago near St. Lo, France.

Wins Medal on Luzon

Second Lt. Warren C. Horton, whose wife lives at 7013 Ridge av., was decorated on Luzon island for his services with the 13th armored group. Lt. Horton is a platoon leader in the 44th tank battalion.

Wearing the bronze star, Pvt. Angelo Allori, 449 N. Wells st., is spending a furlough in Chicago after nine months with the infantry in Europe.

Corp. Martin L. Daneman, son of Mrs. Fannie Daneman, 1451 Elmdale av., received the bronze star for meritorious service with the 5th army infantry in Italy. He entered service in April, 1943.

RANK OF MAJOR BESTOWED ON 2 N. SIDE FIGHTERS

Two north side army officers who have been stationed outside the United States more than two years have been promoted to major. William Lee Soboroff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Soboroff, 2842 Sheridan rd., was promoted at an advanced air base in China.

Maj. Soboroff

Maj. Soboroff, who entered the army as a private in May, 1941, and later attended officer candidate school in Florida, has been overseas almost three years. He is group intelligence officer of the China glippers, oldest medium bombardment group in the China-Burma-India theater and originator of the "glip" bombing technique, which enabled it to destroy more bridges per bomb tonnage than any other army air force unit, records show.

Graduate of Senn High School

The major was graduated from Senn High school and the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Before entering service he practiced law one year with his father in Chicago. A brother, Sgt. Paul, is with the army in Germany.

Robert S. Saunders, whose wife lives at 4871 N. Ravenswood av., received his new rank at Fort McAndrew, Newfoundland, where he is adjutant of area headquarters.

Graduate of Fort Benning

He was commissioned in the officers reserve corps in December, 1938, and entered active duty two years later, spending three months at Fort Benning, Ga., infantry school. Maj. Saunders has been at his present post since May, 1942.

A graduate of Calumet High school, the officer attended night school at Northwestern university's Chicago campus and received a degree in 1940. During this period he was a stock transfer teller in Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

American Women at War

An oak leaf cluster in lieu of an additional air medal has been awarded to 1st Lt. Margaret E. Parsons, Winnetka, for her work as flight nurse with an air evacuation unit of the 13th AAF in the Philippines. Since going overseas in January, 1944, Lt. Parsons has received the air medal, Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with three campaign stars, and the Philippines liberation ribbon. Before entering service in July, 1942, she was employed in a physician's office.

Lt. Margaret Parsons

Sgt. Sylvia B. Shapiro, 5131 Kenmore av., is a member of a WAC postal company in Caserta, Italy, which has received a meritorious service award for its work in processing huge volumes of mail.

Good conduct medals for a year of faithful and efficient service in the WAC have been awarded Sgt. Hanna Levette, daughter of Louis Levette, 3714 Fremont st., and Marjorie L. Newens, 658 Melrose st., who recently was promoted to private 1st class. Sgt. Levette is stationed at Fort Des Moines, Ia. Pvt. Newens, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Newens, enlisted in June, 1944.

Newly commissioned WAC officer at Fort Des Moines, Ia., is Lt. Frances Helen Hayes, daughter of Frank H. Fort, 2942 Lincoln av., and mother of three daughters. Before entering officer candidate school, she was stationed at Eglin field, Fla.

Two north side WACs, promoted to corporal at Oliver General hospital, Augusta, Ga., are Stella M. Perkins, 5946 Winthrop av., and Georgia M. Bimson, 4921 Sheridan rd.

Lt. Ann Rosalie Hilsey, daughter of Mrs. Rose Hilsey Bessler, 958 Cuyler av., is completing training as a flight nurse at Fort Dix, N. J. She received preliminary training at Randolph field, San Antonio, Tex.

N. U. EDUCATION SCHOOL ADOPTS 16 UNIT COURSE

Well Rounded Training Sought for Teachers

Endeavoring to offer a more rounded program for prospective teachers, Northwestern university's school of education this fall will discard its traditional system of courses and credits to initiate a four year program consisting of 16 units of study.

Objective of the new system is to develop in students the attributes and skills of an educated citizen as well as those of a successful teacher.

Modeled on a similar program initiated in the liberal arts school last year, the unit system has been developed by Dean J. Monroe Hughes of the education school in coöperation with Dr. Fred D. Fagg, dean of faculties; Dr. G. Donald Hudson, head of the geography department and assistant in developing the liberal arts program, and members of the education school faculty.

Seek Balanced Course

The professors realized that the liberal education of prospective teachers was too departmentalized and, because of the elective system, frequently one sided. To avoid this, they agreed on 16 units of study, comprising not segments of knowledge but a balanced and integrated four year program.

Students will enroll for four units each year. They will devote approximately half their time to a liberal education, one-fifth to gaining professional knowledge, and the rest to a study of content of subjects at elementary and high school levels. On completion of the four years, students will take a comprehensive examination designed to integrate liberal, professional, and specialized knowledge.

Unit Courses All New

First year units are use of English, the bases of social life, introduction to science-mathematics, and introduction to personal and professional development. None of the 16 units has been taught before or is an adaptation of other courses.

Teaching will be coöperative. For example, in the social life unit as many as six professors—anthropologist, economist, historian, philosopher, sociologist, and psychologist—may participate in class leadership. The program provides curricula for teachers of high school, elementary school, and physical education.

Standard Oil to Promote Kenilworth Executive

Carl T. Kellman, Kenilworth, will be promoted Sept. 1 to assistant to the general manager in charge of the operating department for Standard Oil Co. of Indiana. Since 1940 Kellman has been operating department office manager under the general sales manager. He joined the company in 1919 as a bookkeeper in Joliet.

Three north siders were among six Public Service company employes who christened six Hellcat fighter planes recently at Glenview naval air station. The planes were purchased by company employes in the 7th war loan drive. Participating in the ceremony were Geraldine Weber, Wilmette; Mrs. Frank O'Hern, Evanston, and Mrs. Edward Orpet, Lake Forest. The last two named are wives of service men on military leave from the company.

Nonie Mueller Heed, daughter of Mrs. Olinda M. Heed, Highland Park, and a student in Bennington college, Bennington, Vt., will represent her house on the 1945-'46 community council, supreme governing body of the college.

WINNER of two silver cups, permanent trophies in the annual state golf tournament sponsored by the Knights of Columbus was John E. Wagner, Wilmette, who had a score of 73 for 18 holes. Wagner won a council trophy and an individual cup. A member of the Northwestern university golf team in 1936-'37, he holds numerous trophies, winning 13 in one summer. Wagner has played in nine national amateur tournaments.

Miss Helen L. Booz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norton A. Booz, Wilmette, has arrived in Italy to serve as a Red Cross secretary. She was graduated from New Trier High school and Northwestern university and also studied at the Sorbonne in Paris. Before entering Red Cross work, Miss Booz was employed by a machinery sales company in Chicago.

WEEK IN CAMP AWAITS NORTH SIDE CHILDREN

Many Groups to Sponsor Vacation Plan

Community organizations of Northtown and Rogers Park will join again this year in sending lesser privileged children of both districts to Rogers Park Y. M. C. A. camp, Lake Villa, for the week beginning Saturday.

The Rev. Paul Grimes

Four years ago the Northtown and Rogers Park Kiwanis clubs united in a program whereby youngsters of the more crowded areas were given a holiday at the camp. The movement became so popular that other civic organizations joined the project.

List Other Sponsors

Led by the Rev. Paul T. Grimes, pastor of West Ridge Community church, this year's sponsors also include: Rogers Park-Clark St. Business association, North Shore Philantrophy club, Rogers Park Neighborhood club, Rogers Park Senior and Junior Woman's clubs, and the PTA organizations of Armstrong, Kilmer, and Field schools.

Children from 8 to 14, whose fathers are noncommissioned service men, will be given special consideration in the choice of 90 campers, who will leave at 1 p. m. Saturday in chartered buses.

Have Recreation Program

Activities, which will be directed by the regular Y staff, directed by Dean Walters, will include swimming, boating, horseback riding, handicraft, baseball, tennis, and supervised play.

Officers of the camp organization are: George H. Smith, vice president; N. A. Lyons, treasurer, and Mrs. T. T. Pratt, secretary.

CHURCH HOME GETS PAINTINGS OF BURNS, WIFE

Rare oil paintings of Robert Burns, Scottish poet, and his wife, Jean Armour Burns, recently were presented to the Presbyterian home in Evanston by Chester H. Ruxton, 1000 Grove st., Evanston. The donor presented the portraits in memory of his mother, the late Anna Brown Ruxton, who was born in Scotland. Artists of the paintings, which were purchased from the estate of a late north side Chicagoan, are unknown. The Robert Burns oil recently was on display in the window of an Evanston store.

Irish Day, Inc., to Hold Park Fete Wednesday

Members of Irish Day, Inc., will observe Our Lady Day in Harvest Wednesday in Harm's park, 4200 N. Western av., with a program by speakers and Irish radio entertainers. Bishop Sheil will be honorary chairman. A queen will be crowned from girls 17 to 25 years old of Irish parentage.

PICK MILES LUTTER FROM ARMY RANKS TO ATTEND WEST POINT

Selected from a group of students in officers training at Fort Benning, Ga., Miles R. Lutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roswell E. Lutter, Waukegan, has entered the United States Military academy at West Point, N. Y. His appointment was confirmed by Congressman Church [R., 10th.]

Miles Lutter

The cadet recently completed 22 months as an instructor with staff sargeant's rank at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Luther was cadet lieutenant colonel of the Waukegan Township High school R. O. T. C. and twice received the Tribune gold medal for military proficiency. Graduating in 1942, he attended A. and M. College of Texas, College Station, before enlisting on his 18th birthday.

figures which are obvious to every one.

Ancient Stars Inspire Moderns

Those who have been content to consider the conspicuous Big Dipper as a constellation learn that it is but part of Ursa Major, the Great Bear, whose head and feet are marked by fainter stars below the bowl of the Dipper. The Dipper itself forms the hind quarters of the Bear, while the handle forms an impossibly long tail. There are many stories and legends concerning the Great Bear.

"These stories which inspired the ancients to name the star groups are not old and dead," Director Wagner Schlesinger tells his listeners. "They live on today and inspire moderns to some of their greatest works in painting, sculpture, and music just as the sky on a beautiful, clear dark night is an inspiration to any one who stops to contemplate the glory overhead. Nor does this familiarity with the stars dull this inspiration. Rather, it increases it.

"It is not difficult to learn the stars and constellations. An hour or two each month for a year is sufficient time to learn them so well they will never be forgotten. Learning the constellations is like making a new set of friends who will be with you no matter where you may go on the earth, no matter how long you live!"

How to Get There

Chicago Motor coaches will take you directly to the door of the Adler planetarium. Transfer from elevated or surface lines to route 26 bus at Jackson blvd. or at 7th st. and Michigan blvd.

Adler Planetarium One of World's Best

The Adler Planetarium and Astronomical museum, which opened its doors to the public in 1930, contains the finest collection of antique instruments in the world as well as exhibits to illustrate modern developments in the science of astronomy. Many large transparencies, illuminating photographs of the heavens made with great telescopes, also are on view.

Seated within the planetarium chamber one sees a portrayal of the sky with all its changes as time passes. The changes are due to the earth's motions. Each month a different drama of the heavens is presented.

The museum is open on week days from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; on Sundays, 2 to 5 p. m. It is closed on Mondays. Planetarium demonstrations are at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. on week days; 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. on Sundays. Admission is free on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays. Other days 25 cents plus 5 cents federal tax is charged. School children are free mornings. Children under 5 are not admitted to the planetarium chamber. The planetarium instruments may be seen only during the time of demonstration.

C. of C. Rodayo

The Evanston Chamber of Commerce will sponsor its annual sports Rodayo Wednesday at Sportsman's Golf club on Dundee rd. near Northbrook. W. W. Robson is chairman.

ANNUAL OUTING OF LAKE VIEW VIKINGS SUNDAY

The Lakeview Vikings, an organization of four lodges of the Independent Order of Vikings, will hold its annual outing next Sunday at Vikings' Valhalla in Gurnee.

Games will be played in a park surrounding the Valhalla, an old people's home maintained by the order, and an orchestra will furnish music for dancing. Carl A. Johnson is chairman, assisted by Daisy Melin and Adolph Bergstrom.

SAND MODELERS TO VIE FRIDAY AT NORTH AV. BEACH

Children who have learned sandcraft modeling in north side parks this summer will practice twice as much in the next few days, readying themselves for the picnic and sand modeling contest Friday at the North av. beach.

Approximately 30 teams, each from a park of the north and northwest sides, will compete for the area championship and the gold, silver, and bronze badges. The picnic will be the 10th annual outing for the sandcraft teams, but the first with which a contest will be held to determine the best modelers.

Recreational workers from the park districts will accompany the teams of six members each and other children of local parks who will watch their favorites. Each team of modelers will work without coaching or aid from their tutors.

Swimming, games, and contests in which the park district recreational workers will take part, will follow the contests.

THOMAS LIMA GETS CAPTAIN'S RANK IN KANSAS

Promotion to captain of Thomas Lima, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lima, 1933 Sedgwick st., has been announced at Fort Riley, Kas., where he is commanding officer of two service detachments.

Capt. Lima has been assigned to the fort since April, 1943. He interrupted his studies at John Marshall law school to enter the army in March, 1942.

GIANT GARDEN STOCKS TABLES OF NORTH SIDERS

100 Families Help Tend War Enterprise

Suntans, neighborliness, and vegetables grow apace in a war garden of 55,000 square feet, bounded by Clarendon, Eastwood, and Leland avs. and Marine dr.

Here some 100 families, 90 per cent of whom never had gardened before, till the soil under tutelage of books, each other, and Director William Schachtel, 811 Eastwood av., who—as lieutenant commander of Central Uptown OCD—originated the project three years ago.

Community residents, these city-bred truck farmers exchange gardening tools and visit as they work. With no trees to shade the spot, they usually may measure their diligence by the shade of their suntan. The 20 by 20 foot individual plots provide enough vegetables to feed the "truckers" and their friends and to stock pantry shelves.

Has Remedy for Insects

"My garden is my home," declared Mrs. Anna Kurz, 808 Wilson av. Lavishing tender care on her section, she covers plants with flower pots and discourages insects by dousing plants with soapy water which she keeps in jars at the ends of the rows.

Phillip F. Milks, 4700 Clarendon av., who learned gardening as a boy, has one of the best tended squares. "With a wife and three growing boys to feed, my garden has got to be good," he laughed.

Edward Yarmat, 811 Eastwood av., air forces veteran of the African campaign, made a few mistakes such as planting radishes in bunches instead of rows when he began gardening this spring. Spiro Guskos, 1060 Leland av., holds the record for growing squash. He also raises dill for pickles, swiss chard, and endive.

Has Onions Year Round

Believing in year round production, Jack Holbrook, 4640 Clarendon av., plants winter onions in the fall and eats them in March. He has an elaborate irrigation system for his cucumbers: each plant has its own pipe. "I should know the ropes," he pointed out, "I was raised on a farm!"

A committee gardens six plots as community property, their produce going to service men's centers in Chicago. About four bushel baskets of lettuce, tomatoes, onions, radishes, beans, and other vegetables are picked each Sunday for the centers. Joseph E. Pierce, 826 Eastwood av., has charge of the plots, assisted by Miss Helen Woolum, Arthur Muckler, Dr. John DuPlessis, and Gilbert Wiesel.

Has $1,500 Rock Garden

At the southwest corner of the site in a rock garden, which has been appraised, Schachtel said, at $1,500. Mrs. H. L. Coleman, 4626 Clarendon av., landscaped the garden and planted petunias, candytuft, sweet alyssium, verbenas, snapdragons, and other old fashioned flowers. A pond with 50 goldfish supplies additional color. Each fall the gardeners attend a festival at the site.

Despite gloomy predictions of park district officials and experienced gardeners who said the plot, a former trash heap, could not be cultivated, OCD would-be gardeners set to work to reclaim the property. Working all the first summer, they removed load after load of debris, Schachtel said. The largest single article on the heap, he recalled, was an ancient Ford car, completely buried. It was discovered when a plow, overturning the earth the first time, struck its top.

Gardeners generally may work as they please, but a few rules are enforced for the good of all. For instance, sunflowers, hollyhocks, potatoes, corn, and castor oil beans are banned, chiefly because they cast too much shade or cannot be confined to one plot.

This Week in the Garden

Outdoor flowers should be at their best at this time, especially those known as bedding plants. These include such kinds as the geranium, Canna, Verbena, sweet Alyssum, Ageratum, elephant's ear, and other well known kinds.

They will need an abundance of water, altho the geranium flowers best when not kept saturated at all times. Cannas require a lot of water but soaking the soil only once or twice a week should suffice, depending on the character of the soil.

Often the gardener believes that a daily soaking will promote a stronger and healthier growth, but such is not the case. When soaking is constant the roots cannot function properly. Let the soil dry out but not to the extent that the plants wither for a lack of moisture.

Tuesday, Aug. 14

If you are interested in seeing the newer varieties of the popular gladiolus, visit the gladiolus show at Garfield park conservatory. It is the top show of the kind in the middle west.

Water lilies should be at the height of their flowering season at this time, especially the beautiful tropicals with their immense flowers and fine colors. Among the varieties that are well adapted for small pool use are August Koch, pink pearl, Chicago [pink], and all hybrids originating at Garfield park conservatory.

Garden [hardy] chrysanthemums will soon be in bloom and continue until after frost in October. Stop disbudding and give an application of plant food when the buds show. They are gross feeders. Tie up the tall sort.

Wednesday, Aug. 15

It is time to examine the pots of house plants that were plunged in the garden during the summer. Any plants that need repotting or shifting should receive attention. Large tubbed plants may be top dressed with rich soil which makes it unnecessary to shift into larger containers.

Frequently plants in too large pots or tubs are grown indoors. It is much better to discard excessively large plants and replace them with medium sized plants—more kinds can occupy the space of a single large plant.

In many cases, plants can be easily propagated by placing cuttings in a bottle of water. Among these are the shoots from the screw pine [pandanus], English ivy [Hederal], Coleus [foliage plant], grape ivy [vitis], wandering jew [tradescantial], African violet [saintpaulia], German ivy [senecio], and Chinese evergreen [aglaonema simplex].

Thursday, Aug. 16

Keep the vegetable garden cultivated and free from insect attacks. It will be necessary to apply water at least once a week. Water the shrubs, trees, and perennials. It is a fine time to cut out deadwood, for it is easily distinguished at this time.

It is not too early to take critical notes for changes in the garden plan for next season. Rearranging shrubbery borders, the elimination of too much shade, changing the layout into a better design and all other practices that intrigue the gardener may be made on paper.

Food must continue to be grown in 1946, according to government authorities, and if more space is desired it should be arranged for as soon as possible. But in any event do not attempt more than can be cared for.

Friday, Aug. 17

The attacks of insects have been most serious this season. Many cocoons are seen fastened to the trunks and branches of trees. Collect and destroy all these that can be reached. When the larvae changes into flying butterflies or moths which lay their eggs on vegetation more and more of their kind are produced to consume and mutilate foliage that grows later on.

Watch for aphids and spray with a contact material, such as nicotine, rotenone or pyrethrum. Larger flowers of dahlias may be enjoyed by disbudding. Do not allow phlox to form seed or a mixed lot will be had next season. Remove all seed pods but cutting back the flower stems.

Keep evergreens well watered. Collect and burn diseased leaves of the hollyhocks.

Saturday, Aug. 18

Keep seedlings well watered, for if they are allowed to dry out they will be checked in their growth. They should be given every opportunity to grow into good, husky plants for later planting in the borders.

Keep the grass cut at 2 to 3 inches and do not allow crab grass to form seed. Turn over the compost heap that was started earlier.

Get the cold frames in condition by reglazing the sash, painting and repairing the frame.

SIMPLE RULES EASE PAINTING CANVAS ITEMS

BY LOUISE BARGELT

There are only a few simple rules to follow if one is applying special paints to canvas, but these rules are well worth heeding.

For furniture and equipment it is important that dust and dirt be removed by thoro brushing. Then any one of 10 and more colors can be applied. The strokes should be even and the pressure on the brush steady.

Paint should not be applied with an overloaded brush. After the painting the article should be placed in the sun to dry. If another coat seems necessary, paint should not be applied until the first application has dried.

Test Paint First

Leatherette and other coated fabrics sometimes can be freshened with this type of paint, but because of the unknown chemical content in such articles it is well to test the paint on an inconspicuous spot.

There is an overcoating available, a clear liquid, which can be applied over the paint to seal in the pigments. This is especially recommended for porch chairs, gliders, and canvas articles subject to rubbing. To make canvas articles water repellent and mildew proof and give them longer life there also is available a special clear liquid.

If you have covered a grass or fiber rug with this paint, go over the rug when it is dry with a scrubbing brush to restore gloss.

For Stripe Effects

Often the question comes up as to how to paint an awning, chair, or umbrella which is striped. One coat of paint will cover bold contrasting stripes so that they appear in a pleasant tone effect. If they are to be completely covered, however, it may be necessary to apply a second coat.

To achieve a stripe effect on plain colored canvas, rule off the stripes with a pencil and mask the edges of the light stripe. Paint the dark stripes first and when this has thoroly dried continue with the light stripes.

GIVE FESTIVAL BROADCAST ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Stars, Chorus Will Sing from 9 to 10 P. M.

Solos by Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett will be heard on the broadcast portion of the Chicago Music Festival over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network Saturday night from 9 to 10 o'clock. Miss Swarthout will be heard in Youmans' "Thru the Years," "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen," and "Dancing in the Dark" from "The Band Wagon" by Dietz. Selections to be offered by Tibbett include "Di Provenza" from Verdi's "La Traviata," Wolfe's "De Glory Road," and "One Alone" from Romberg's "Desert Song."

Philip Maxwell, director of the festival held annually at Soldiers' Field, will be master of ceremonies for the program. Music will be provided by a 110 piece orchestra, under the baton of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N.

A chorus of 4,300 voices, directed by Dr. Edgar Nelson, will open the broadcast with the "Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Weber will conduct the orchestra in Chabrier's "Espana."

Dr. Nelson also will lead 1,500 Lutheran church choristers in "The Wondrous Things the Lord Hath Done" by Christiansen. John G. Rieck will direct a Lutheran children's chorus of 750 voices in a cappella presentation of Kremser's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and Bortniansky's "Jubilate, Amen."

Some worthwhile radio fare is in store for drama lovers starting Sept. 9, when The Theater Guild will begin airing plays Sunday nights from 9 to 10 o'clock via WENR-ABC. Theater Guild successes will be highlighted on the series, but scripts also will be built around productions not sponsored by the Guild. In as many instances as possible, the original casts will act in the radio adaptations. When one considers that Eugene O'Neill, Franz Werfel, Sidney Howard, Philip Barry, and the team of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. are all Guild playwrights, one can anticipate an hour of entertaining listening.

DOUGLAS ENLARGES PLANT—MEN and WOMEN NEEDED
We are building vitally needed aircraft . . . C-54 Combat Air Transports . . . designed for the conflict against Japan. No one knows how long it will take to defeat the Japanese. If we are unable to turn out these planes Now—thousands of American boys may die unnecessarily . . . because of our failure here in Chicago.
Meanwhile construction is starting on a new $300,000.00 addition to our plant. So we need more men and women. There is no better way to serve America—and prepare for your future—than by coming to work at Douglas . . . NOW.
Our C-54's will be the postwar airliner, on orders already placed.

APPLY AT ONCE AT PLANT, Mannheim, Higgins & Devon, or Douglas Office, 4070 Milwaukee Avenue (near Irving Park), or any North or Northwest U. S. E. S. Office of WMC.

NO CUTBACKS HERE
Instead of cutting production, our schedules are actually being increased. The Army wants more and more Douglas C-54's as fast as we can build them. To help us obtain workers needed to build them War Manpower Commission has granted us a No. 2 Labor Priority, higher than any other war plant in Chicagoland. This is your opportunity to learn the aviation trade. Apply at once.

QUIZ KIDS MUFF A FEW NOW AND THEN, IT SEEMS

The Quiz Kids, who juggle posers Sunday nights at 6:30 o'clock on WENR-ABC, aren't so smart, sometimes. Like all youngsters, they make mistakes now and then. There's the time Richard Williams visited an automat, slipped in a nickel for cocoa and failed to provide a glass for the beverage, which spurted over him.

Harve Fischman

When the Kids were in Victoria, Canada, they were entertained at the government house, where Ruthie Duskin sat quietly looking into space. "A penny for your thoughts," offered her hostess. Ruthie replied, "I was playing a little thinking game that I always play when I'm not having a good time."

During a bond tour in Richmond, Va., Joe Kelly's gang was to meet for luncheon on the mezzanine floor of their hotel. Harve Fischman strolled in to find the mayor and other city officials gathered for what he thought was the Quiz Kid shindig. Harve ate his lunch, made a speech, and had a wonderful time only to discover he had attended a luncheon given by the Richmond Musical society to boost its membership.

Discuss Potsdam on Review Stand Today

The significance of the Potsdam conference will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand over W-G-N-Mutual at 10:30 a. m. today. Prof. Hans J. Morgenthau and William Stokes will participate.

PHILHARMONIC SOLOIST TO BE GEORGE SANDOR

George Sandor, pianist, will be soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos, on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Sandor will play Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C minor. The orchestra will play Vaughan Williams' Symphony No. 4 in F minor.

Spitalny's Girls Will Play and Sing Old Favorites

Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra and chorus will offer selections from their Hour of Charm record album on WMAQ-NBC at 9 o'clock tonight. A presentation of Steffe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the orchestra and chorus will open the program. Molloy's "Love's Old Sweet Song," Nevin's "The Rosary," the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," and other favorites will be heard.

Play Brahms Symphony Over W-G-N Tuesday

The Chicago Philharmonic orchestra, under direction of Henry Weber, will highlight Brahms' Symphony No. 4 in E minor over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. The orchestra also will present the overture to Beethoven's "Prometheus" and Franck's tone poem, "Les Eolides."

Ozzie Nelson Show Is Back on WBBM Today

The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet, comedy vehicle which stars Ozzie Nelson and his wife Harriet Hilliard in a dramatization of the the trials of a young band leader and his wife in their struggles to achieve success for themselves and security for their family, resumes on WBBM-CBS at 5 p. m. today.

He Told Me We'd Just...Taxi!

And . . . that's how I started to fly at Pal-Waukee Airport! Jim, my heavy sweet, just out of the Air Force, knew I was scared-to-death to go up in a plane. In fact, I had a fear of even riding in an elevator. But . . . before I knew it Jim had that plane off the ground and there wasn't anything I could do about it but go along . . .
In fifteen minutes I lost all fear of flying. In exactly one-half hour I had fallen in love with being up there soaring along like a bird in the breeze. When I came down, Jim arranged to have me take lessons from one of Pal-Waukee's former Navy flight instructors. Today . . . I'm flying all by myself. Gals, and you guys, too, come on out to Pal-Waukee . . . THE AIR'S SWELLEGANT!
ONLY PAL-WAUKEE OFFERS ALL THESE ADVANTAGES
1. Pal-Waukee is one of the highest rated Airports on Chicago's North and Northwest side.
2. Pal-Waukee is a private Airport, conveniently located. Buses run to and from the city frequently.
3. Pal-Waukee has three gravel-paved run-ways, large enough to facilitate handling of most types of planes.
4. NIGHT FLYING INSTRUCTIONS (EVERY FRIDAY NIGHT).
5. Threee big complete equipped hangars.
6. Complete ground school facilities for all C.A.A. courses.
7. LINK TRAINER for instrument instruction.
8. Fifteen trainers, Cruisers and other models for flying pleasure.
9. NEVER ANY WAITING.
10. All equipment is maintained in the very best condition by licensed aircraft technicians.
11. Instructors are all former Navy and Army Instructors.
12. Easy payments on lessons can be arranged.
13. Comfortable lounge and recreation facilities.

MAD ANTHONY'S ROLE IN GAINING CHICAGO TOLD

Historical Society Recalls Greenville Treaty

Remember the treaty of Greenville? Well, the Chicago Historical society does. Thru this document the United States acquired from the Indians, among other lands, 36 square miles of what is now the heart of Chicago.

The society, at Clark st. and North av., is exhibiting thruout this month, pages from the original document which was signed at Greenville, O., Aug. 3, 1795. The Chicago cession be believed to have been the first recognition by the American government of the importance of the site of Chicago.

Mad Anthony Gains Treaty

The treaty was negotiated by Mad Anthony Wayne with various Indian tribes after their defeat in the battle of Fallen Timber Aug. 20, 1794. In that battle, the left wing of Wayne's army was commanded by Col. John F. Hamtramck, who later was one of the conceivers of the idea of Fort Dearborn. Also serving with Wayne was Capt. John Whistler, builder and first commander of the fort.

By the treaty the Indians relinquished all claims to a large section of the present state of Ohio and to outposts which the American government wanted for frontier defense.

Tell Story in Diorama

The Chicago cession was described as "one piece of land six miles square, at the mouth of the Chicago river, emptying into the southwest end of Lake Michigan, where a fort formerly stood."

While the tract never was surveyed formally it extended approximately from Fullerton av. on the north to 31st st. on the south and from Lake Michigan to 48th st. on the west.

Commemorating the 150 year old event, the Historical society also will display a painting of the signing of the document. The Greenville treaty is the subject of one of the society's permanent Chicago dioramas.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL

Fred Miller

Nearly 1,000 men and boys and girls will take part in drills, baton twirling and drum corps exhibitions Saturday night at the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival to be held in Soldiers' field, beginning at 7 o'clock. Fred Miller, 601 Deming pl., who for 16 years has been field supervisor of the Tribune festivals, will be in charge of this part of the program.

Miller is an authority on field pageantry and has been identified with drum corps activities for many years. In 1927 he went to Paris with the drum and bugle corps of Kankakee, Ill., then the Illinois Legion's championship corps. He managed the American Legion national drum and bugle corps contest in Chicago in 1933. In addition to taking part in drum corps exhibitions he has written several manuals on baton twirling and drill and drum corps maneuvers.

Corps to Open Program

Seven Chicago drum and bugle corps will open the festival performance. The players will enter Gate 0 at the south end of the field, preceded by a massed assembly of 100 Cook county American Legion colors, under the command of John S. Cusack, commander of the Cook county council and Ellidor Libonati, Americanism chairman of the council.

Among the posts represented in the opening parade will be Square post, Giles, Melin-Romer, Logan Square, North West Cadets, a junior corps, sponsored by Portage and Glendale posts.

Harold Todd, a member of the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps, will assist Mr. Miller in the presentation of the opening pageant.

All Baton Twirlers Invited

All baton twirlers in Chicago are invited to take part in the big exhibition which will be staged later in the evening. In order to receive their instructions and tickets of admittance they should attend the festival rehearsal at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Soldiers' field. The festival contest finals for baton twirlers will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Soldiers' field.

A special exhibition also will be given during the performance by the Knights Templar of Humboldt commandery, No. 79. The commandery has headquarters at 2410 N. Kedzie blvd. The 125 men in the corps and drill teams are attired in dark blue uniforms with plumed hats and flashing sabers. Richard C. Loewe is drill master and George W. Patton is corps manager. Carl Schultz is commander of the Knights Templar group.

South side baton twirlers who will take part are:

Alice Olson, 10053 Forest av.
Joan Roberson, 151 E. 118th pl.
Donna Mae Sanders, 10057 Prospect av.
Dolly Tegtmeyer, 10159 S. La Salle st.
Joyce Van Coevolden, 20 E. 101st pl.

Harry Ashack, 8729 Burley av., has entered the juvenile boys' division.

Miller also will have charge of hundreds of dancers who will take part in the Buckingham Fountain dance pageant and in the Alice in Wonderland pageant. He estimates that nearly half of the entire program will be devoted to field presentations.

CIVIC EDUCATION MEETINGS BEING HELD ON S. SIDE

Representatives of neighborhood improvement and other civic organizations are participating in a series of monthly meetings on civic education sponsored by the Chicago Urban league in its south side offices, 3032 Wabash av. The meetings are being held to acquaint community leaders with the techniques used by the league in its five year plan for civic education and to stimulate discussion of better ways to carry out the program. They are intended to give an over-all approach to the problems of neighborhood improvement.

Children Give Convincing Demonstration of Just How to Have a Good Time

"Ladeez and gentlemen . . . in the left corna-ah we have Battlin' Bob-Loglar, 7624 Essex av., and in the right cornah we have Harold (The Horror) Tafel, 6736 East End av., in one of the major light flyweight bouts of the season." The season in this case is from July 2 to Aug. 10 when the summer recreation school at the South Shore Y. M. C. A., 2320 E. 75th st., was open. A major part of the balanced program offered the youngsters was athletics, supervised by George L. Anderson, boxing instructor, and J. N. Elliott, playground coach.

Lives there a boy who doesn't thrill to model airplane making skill? At this stay at home camp craft instructors report that youngsters never seemed to tire of making planes. Results of their efforts were demonstrated recently before parents in a program given by the youngsters. Two of the intense young plane makers are Philip Stough (left), 8829 Kenwood av., and Tom Jensen, 8823 Kenwood av. Because of so much rainy weather plane output this summer was unusually high.

South Shore Y is located not too far from the beach and a not uncommon sight to residents of the area is a group of youngsters, complete with towels, bathing caps, and camp leaders, wandering toward the lake. Between dips the youngsters build pyramids, play ball, and make it known that the "Hobby and Play Day" group has arrived. Age range of the group generally is between 8 and 13, with the older ones helping to keep an eye on the juniors.

It takes more than a mere photographer to make youth untangle itself from the exciting adventures found between comic book covers. Stopping only to swap books were (left to right): Marjorie Evans, 1528 E. 69th pl.; Sally Simison, 2202 E. 75th st., and Maryjane and Marjorie Brain, 7349 Clyde av. "Wherever there are youngsters," laughed Jean Hurt, camp director, "there are comic books . . . seems inevitable."

Maybe Susybell won't sew a stitch at home, but just place her with a group of other little girls who are sewing and watch the change. Susie Spaerston (left), 8142 Luella av., puts the finishing touches on an apron which was exhibited at the parents' night program, while Janice McMahon, 1627 E. 84th st., completed a piece called paper pottery, pieces of which closely resemble a patchwork quilt glued on a plate.

HOBBY AND PLAY DAYS CLOSE AT SOUTH SHORE Y

75 Youngsters Agree It Is Fun

In one corner of the large, sparsely furnished room two small boys earnestly sparred to the cheers of others. In another, a group of girls lustily sang around an old piano, no two in the same key it seemed. In still other parts of the room groups quietly read, played checkers, or contentedly worked on a craft.

The scene was South Shore Y. M. C. A.'s Hobby and Play Days in action, a summer group so named because it combined play and recreation, and training in various skills.

To the parents of 75 children attending, this five day a week summer session which ended last week was a big help. To the children, however, it was just plain fun. Terms like "balanced program, wholesome recreation, and craft training" were mere words to the youngsters.

Keep Active With Crafts

Age range of the "students" was from 8 to 13 years. Young girls took to apron making with a zeal. Paper pottery making and leather jewelry work seemed to satisfy others, to judge from the quantities made.

"One reason for so much handwork this year," reported Miss Jean Hurt, camp director, "is the number of rainy days we've had. Rainy days are craft days here."

For the boys, it seemed the most important thing to make was model airplanes, all sizes, shapes, and models. How the boys knew just which blueprint made what from all those spread on the work table was a mystery—some times even to the instructors, Mrs. Jullianee Regennitter and John Wyandt—but the models usually came out letter perfect.

Show Parents Their Work

At the final session last week the 75 youngsters, tanned from frequent trips to the beach and participation in sports, proud of its aprons and paper pottery, model airplanes, and boxing ability, showed parents the fruits of their labors at a parents' night program.

Other instructors were Jean Dori, George L. Anderson, and J. N. Elliott. Carol Edwards, Daphne Jackson, and Russell Robert were camp leaders.

Mrs. Watkins and their two children live with the lieutenant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, at 7660 Essex av. The young fighter enlisted two and a half years ago. He won two battle stars with the 44th infantry division in Europe.

CHATHAM PARK RESIDENTS WILL HOLD FESTIVAL

Vets to Get Proceeds from Event

Residents of the Chatham Park apartment homes will hold their 5th annual field day and festival Saturday and next Sunday in Chatham park. Howard Wilkinson and George Peterson are chairmen of the event.

Proceeds from the festival, which is given by the 550 families living in the privately owned apartment project at 83d st. and Cottage Grove av., again will be turned over to service men's organizations and hospitals.

Will Sell Tags

Last year the affair netted nearly $1,100, the chairmen reported. As in other years, the Chatham Park Minute Maids will conduct the tag day, which proved to be the chief fund raising activity at the festival.

Produce from more than 300 war gardens cultivated by families in the project will be judged at a garden show. Classes also will be arranged for canned vegetables. Canning demonstrations will be held and flowers also will be judged.

List Events Scheduled

Other activities scheduled are track and field events for children, outdoor dancing, movies, community singing, children's parades, pony rides, and canteens. Sunday evening the band and entertainers from the naval air technical training center, 2106 E. 87th st., will perform.

Sports events will include a softball game, exhibition amateur tennis matches by Dr. Omar Fareed, John Fowler, Gene Quinn, and John Kriet, and a horseshoe pitching match between John Lindmier and Ellis Cobb.

Honorably Discharged

Sixty-one south siders were among those recently discharged from the army at the Fort Sheridan separation center. They are as follows:

MISS VICTORY TO BE CROWNED IN BRONZEVILLE

Dr. James M. Scott, mayor of Bronzeville, and seven past mayors, will sponsor their second annual Miss Victory contest, climax of which will be a tea next Sunday at the Pershing palace. Each mayor will back a candidate. The candidate who brings in the largest amount of money will be crowned Miss Victory at the tea.

Proceeds will be given to the South Side Community committee, 3458 State st., for use in combating juvenile delinquency. The committee, for which the state furnishes staff members, must raise its own funds. In addition to conducting four recreation centers with a new one opening shortly, the organization sends 600 boys and girls to camp each summer.

Past mayors taking part in the contest are James Knight, Robert H. Miller, Joseph Hughes, and William Little. Two other former mayors will be represented by County Commissioner Sneed and Robert A. Cole. S. B. Fuller is president of the South Side Community committee, Golden B. Darby is consultant director, and Mrs. Warren B. Douglas is assistant director.

Sinai Men's Club to Hold Annual Picnic Wednesday

The Sinai Men's club will hold its annual picnic at 1 p. m. Wednesday in the Jackson park picnic grounds, 63d st. and the lake. The program will include games, contests, and a stage show. Maury Lieber is president of the group and Bud Singman is picnic chairman.

LET'S TAKE OUR VACATION TRIP THRU UNIVERSE

No Ticket Priority Needed Here

[The ninth in a series of articles telling of interesting places available to Chicagoans who are vacationing at home due to war time travel restrictions.]

BY ONEY FRED SWEET

During the vacation month of August the Adler planetarium expects to entertain its five millionth visitor. In a time of travel restrictions the tantalizing demonstration topic for the month is "Other Worlds." But these astronomical journeys need not be postponed by Chicagoans. The only requirement is that they arrive at the museum at the scheduled starting time for trips thru the universe.

The planets—the only known other objects like our earth—can be distinguished from the stars by their motions. With the unaided eye we may watch these apparent motions which seem complicated. As explained at the planetarium the real motions of the planets are simple.

Now to Meet the Planets

First we are made acquainted with the five planets that can be seen by the unaided eye—Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and Mars. Then we are shown those planets that cannot be seen except with telescopes — Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto.

We learn something of what conditions are like in these far off worlds and the possibilities there of the existence of life.

Location of the planetarium on an island in Lake Michigan is suitable to a summer vacation experience. As you approach the museum from the west, Chicago recedes to a blurred skyline and you become absorbed in the blue of the lake. Walks and roadways of the broad esplanade flank a series of 12 shallow pools symbolic of the months of the year that prepare one's attitude for the adventure ahead.

Gives Air of Detachment

The upper promenade deck of the copper domed, granite building affords further opportunity to enjoy the scene of detachment from the city. Air conditioning gives the planetarium chamber, itself, an evening cool temperature.

Those who vacation in September and include the planetarium in the "musts" of their itinerary will appreciate a demonstration, "The Southern Cross."

Visitors first will be made acquainted with their home sky—objects that are visible, and their motions. They will then be transported to the skies of the East Indies and the smaller islands of the Pacific which have become familiar to our service men on duty in this part of the world. There will be a stopover to observe how the motions of the stars and planets have changed.

Now to the Pacific

The next step of the journey will be to the islands of the South Pacific, Australia, and New Zealand, as far south of the equator as Chicago is north of it. Strange things will be seen. The sun will be in the northern sky at noon and many constellations of the home sky will be upside down. Stars never visible at home, like those of the Southern Cross, will be high in the sky.

The trip will continue to the skies of the South Pole before the traveler is returned home.

Said Max Adler when the museum was dedicated: "The popular conception of the universe is too meager; the planets and the stars are too far removed from general knowledge. In our reflections we dwell too little upon the concept that the world and all human endeavor within it are governed by established order, and too infrequently upon the truth that under the heavens everything is interrelated even as each of us to the other."

Portraits of the Moon

On niches in the museum walls are 72 large transparencies from negatives made with the world's largest telescopes. You see the pitted surface of the moon, the sun in eclipse, closeups of famous comets, and the Milky Way.

A superb collection of astronomical instruments is on display, and among them is the 6 inch reflector made by Sir William Herschel, a duplicate of the one with which he discovered the planet Uranus.

These exhibits may be visited either before or after the sojourn to starland made possible by a complex instrument into which optical technique, mechanical skill, and astronomical knowledge all have been merged.

Hear Chorus of "Awes"

Seated comfortably in the central, circular hall visitors express their awe in chorus as darkness descends, the sky stretches into the infinite, and the big instrument with its many projectors reproduces the intricate phenomena of the heavens—the stars, sun, moon, and planets—all in their proper places for any instant of any year for any terrestial position.

As explained by the demonstrator the ancients were not fitting figures to the stars when they placed the first constellations in the sky. They were naming groups of stars for their heroes and divinities in the legends and myths. We do the same today with our geographical names, but the state of Washington is not expected to look like George Washington. In some cases, the figures do fit the stars, but in learning the constellations it is easier, at first, to look for the simple geometrical

FIGHTERS EARN SILVER STAR BY AIDING BUDDIES

Citations Tell of South Siders' Gallantry

When his platoon was halted by a hidden enemy machine gun on its flank, Pvt. Gregory Boyce, whose wife, Winifred, lives at 6907 Dorchester av., voluntarily moved out alone to detect and destroy the enemy resistance.

Altho under direct observation and subjected to intense enemy fire, he moved to within 30 yards of the enemy position. Rising in full view of the hostile gun crew, he threw two hand grenades, killing two Germans and capturing one in the gun crew. For this gallantry while serving with the 5th army in Italy, Pvt. Boyce was awarded the silver star medal.

Aids Wounded Comrades

A similar award was given Sgt. Dan C. Yercich, brother of Miss Catherine Yercich, 2552 Wentworth av., for gallantry with an infantry division in Germany. When his platoon was pinned to the ground by enemy machine gun fire in open terrain, two of his comrades were wounded by mortar shells. Sgt. Yercich "immediately rushed to one of the wounded soldiers and carried one to the cover of a ditch 75 yards away where he was given treatment and evacuated," the citation said.

Sgt. Yercich, previously was awarded the Purple Heart for a wound received during fighting at Normandy. He wears the combat infantry man's badge and has been in service since October, 1940.

Refuses to Quit Post

The PT boat on which Joseph Gigac, torpedo man 2d class, was serving was ordered to enter a strait off Leyte to harass enemy shipping. While in the narrowest part of the strait at a point where evasive action was impossible, his boat and another were attacked by four enemy planes.

Two near misses were scored on his boat, killing eight men and injuring all but one. Gigac received severe wounds on the head, back, and legs. Despite his injuries he crawled back to his post at a 20 millimeter gun and fire the weapon until he fell unconscious. For this gallantry in action he received the silver star. Gigac, son of Mrs. Mary Gigac, 10312 Avenue M, was overseas 10 months and also wears the Philippine liberation ribbon.

Directs Artillery Successfully

Despite intense enemy fire, Capt. Andrew R. Johnson, whose wife, Evelyn, resides at 7557 Wabash av., directed artillery fire so accurately that a German attack on his sector was broken up. For this action at Hanover, Germany, the combat officer was awarded the silver star.

Capt. Johnson, who recently was home on leave after more than a year overseas, has fought thru the crossing of the Seine river and the clearing of the Compiegne forest in France, the Bastogne, Belgium, battle, the capture of Coblenz, Germany, and the bridging of the Elbe river. Prior to V-E day, his division was credited with being the nearest allied unit to Berlin. Capt. Johnson wears the bronze star and the Purple Heart.

Wounded Aiding Comrade

While battling in Germany, the infantry regiment of which Pvt. Charles Klupelis was a member, was pinned down by enemy fire and suffered several casualties. Pvt. Klupelis, whose mother, Mrs. Anna Klupelis, lives at 10109 Commercial av., despite protests from other members of the platoon, went to the assistance of one of the wounded men. He moved the soldier to a safer position and while doing so was wounded.

He continued to treat his comrade, and not until he had completed this task did he seek cover and medical treatment for his own wounds. For this "outstanding bravery and unselfish concern for the welfare of a fellow comrade," he was awarded the silver star medal.

2 MORE U. OF C. MEN TO TEACH GIs IN EUROPE

Two University of Chicago professors have received appointments at the United States army university of American soldiers and WACs at Biarritz, France.

They are John Dale Russell, 6532 Kenwood av., professor of education and dean of students in the social science division, and S. William Halperin, 5344 University av., associate professor of modern history. Russell will be dean of the army university, and Halperin will conduct classes in European history.

Classes will begin Aug. 20. Students will be lodged in de luxe hotels and faculty quarters and classrooms will be in villas of the resort. "High school students are eligible for the school," commented Dean Russell. "We expect to rotate 4,000 persons in eight week courses."

Mrs. Millie Cronin, 7754 Chappel av., is chairman of the arrangements committee. Assistants are Miss Marie Tobin, 1500 E. 72d st., Miss Marion Bruesow, Southmoor hotel, and Miss Bette Wittlieb, 7041 Crandon av.

How to Get There

Chicago Motor coaches will take you directly to the door of the Adler planetarium. Transfer from elevated or surface lines to route 26 bus at Jackson blvd. or at 7th st. and Michigan blvd.

Two South Side Troops Join Girl Scouts' Chorus

Singing in the recently organized city wide Girl Scout chorus, which meets weekly at Garfield park, are girls from two south side troops. Both troops meet at Corpus Christi hall, 4900 South Parkway, and are led by Mrs. Alice Clark, 4941 Indiana av., and Mrs. Loneta Anderson, 4920 Vincennes av. The chorus is rehearsing for their first official appearance on Sept. 29 which will be the 25th anniversary dedication program of the Girl Scouts of Chicago.

BRONZE STAR, PURPLE HEART RECEIVED BY PVT. IRVING KAPLAN

Pvt. Irving Kaplan, 2451 E. 78th st., received two awards recently at a mass presentation of Purple Hearts to 250 liberated prisoners of war at Miami Beach, Fla. Pvt. Kaplan, who served with the 101st air borne division in Europe, was awarded the bronze star medal in addition to the Purple Heart. He was a prisoner of war for four months.

figures which are obvious to every one.

Ancient Stars Inspire Moderns

Those who have been content to consider the conspicuous Big Dipper as a constellation learn that it is but part of Ursa Major, the Great Bear, whose head and feet are marked by fainter stars below the bowl of the Dipper. The Dipper itself forms the hind quarters of the Bear, while the handle forms an impossibly long tail. There are many stories and legends concerning the Great Bear.

"These stories which inspired the ancients to name the star groups are not old and dead," Director Wagner Schlesinger tells his listeners. "They live on today and inspire moderns to some of their greatest works in painting, sculpture, and music just as the sky on a beautiful, clear dark night is an inspiration to any one who stops to contemplate the glory overhead. Nor does this familiarity with the stars dull this inspiration. Rather, it increases it.

"It is not difficult to learn the stars and constellations. An hour or two each month for a year is sufficient time to learn them so well they will never be forgotten. Learning the constellations is like making a new set of friends who will be with you no matter where you may go on the earth, no matter how long you live!"

Adler Planetarium One of World's Best

The Adler Planetarium and Astronomical museum, which opened its doors to the public in 1930, contains the finest collection of antique instruments in the world as well as exhibits to illustrate modern developments in the science of astronomy. Many large transparencies, illuminating photographs of the heavens made with great telescopes, also are on view.

Seated within the planetarium chamber one sees a portrayal of the sky with all its changes as time passes. The changes are due to the earth's motions. Each month a different drama of the heavens is presented.

The museum is open on week days from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; on Sundays, 2 to 5 p. m. It is closed on Mondays. Planetarium demonstrations are at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. on week days; 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. on Sundays. Admission is free on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays. Other days 25 cents plus 5 cents federal tax is charged. School children are free mornings. Children under 5 are not admitted to the planetarium chamber. The planetarium instruments may be seen only during the time of demonstration.

Church Carnival

St. Cyril Carmelite church will hold its annual carnival for one week beginning next Sunday in the St. Cyril school playground, 64th st. and Dante av. Harry Shmeltzer is chairman.

Master of Baton

CAP 8 WOMEN FROM S. AREAS AS NURSES' AIDS

Eight south side women recently were capped as Red Cross volunteer nurse's aids at County and Michael Reese hospitals. They are Nancy Lee Jobusch of 8216 Paxton av., Betty Morris of 1755 E. 55th st., and Mrs. Otto Spitzer of Drexel av., from the County chapter, and Mary Hoernemann of 7321 South Shore dr., Mrs. Franklin Evans of 6714 Bennett av., Mrs. Willis Fischer of 2900 Cottage Grove av., and Mrs. F. Stuart Ham of 4818 Lake Park av., from Michael Reese chapter. New classes are being formed and will begin Aug. 22.

HOLD BASEBALL CLASSES, GAMES IN JACKSON PARK

More than 100 boys, 12 to 17, from Hyde Park, Woodlawn, and South Shore districts have been attending baseball school and playing a regular schedule of games daily as members of the Jackson Park Boys Baseball league.

The classes are sponsored by the Woodlawn Business Men's association in conjunction with the Woodlawn Boys' club. They are conducted by Henry H. Schultz, baseball coach at Hyde Park High school and scout for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Woodlawn teams are the St. Cyril Pirates and the Holy Cross Shamrocks; Hyde Park teams are the Hyde Park Bluebirds and the Hyde Park Barracudas, and the four teams representing the South Shore are the South Shore Yankees, O'Keefe Playgrounds, the Kayes, and the South Shore Panthers.

CHICAGO A. OF C. TO HONOR FIRE FIGHTING TOWNS

The Chicago Association of Commerce, in conjunction with Fire Prevention week, Oct. 7 to 13, again will sponsor fire prevention contests in towns, villages, and unincorporated areas of Cook county. Plaques will be awarded communities judged to have contributed most to fire prevention and a grand award will go to the community doing the best work in the county.

To be eligible for the award, a community must conduct a fire prevention week program and submit a report of its activities. Judging will be on the basis of community inspections of homes, stores, building, and factories; training of school children in fire prevention; work of civic and business organizations, and publicity received on the program.

Among those south side communities taking part will be Calumet City, Burnham, Calumet Park, Lansing, South Holland, and Thornton. Last year Harvey won the south division plaque.

All the world admires a Zircon, a genuine mined gem and not a simulated diamond, although it is the only gem that compares with the genuine diamond in its brilliance, in its fiery sparkle. The Zircon is mined in the mystic East where our finest gems come from, and like the diamond its LUSTRE IS EVERLASTING. And remember, we offer you only the best, finest quality stones.

IRISH TO MARK ANNUAL FEAST DAY WEDNESDAY

Open Program at 4 P. M. at Harms Park

The McGillicuddies, Hooligans, O'Reillys, and O'Tooles will again gather for their annual celebration of Irish day at 4 p. m. Wednesday at Harms park, 4207 N. Western av. This gathering of the clans marks the traditional Irish feast day, "Our Lady Day in Harvest."

Speakers will be Bishop Sheil and the Rev. James J. Mertz, founder of the Madonna Della Strada chapel at Loyola university. The lighter side of the celebration will include competitions in Irish music, singing, dancing, games, and athletics, exhibitions of dancing and baton twirling, a stage show, and the crowning of a queen from among 30 candidates from all over the city.

Among those taking part on the program will be Anne Marie Duffy, 7942 Drexel av., who was runner-up as pianist and accordionist in a recent national Irish feis held in New York City. Chaplain of the day will be the Rev. Richard J. Wolfe, pastor of St. Patrick's church, 718 W. Adams av.

James J. Doody, 9153 S. Ada st., high treasurer of the Catholic Order of Foresters, will be officer of the day. South siders acting on the various committees are Capt. Andrew Barry, 1310 E. 72d pl.; Michael O'Sullivan, 8746 Blackstone av.; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Fanning, 7952 Langley av.; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Connor, 8209 Indiana av.; Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Regan, 7604 Evans av.; Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Walters, 8256 Harper av.; Dorothea Fairfield, 8142 Dorchester av.; Mrs. John Nolan, 8138 Dorchester av., and Patricia Concannen, 7426 Rhodes av.

Officers of Annual Irish Day, Inc., sponsors of the outing, are John J. Hurley, president; Patrick Bonner, vice president; Edward B. Dwyer, secretary, and Stanley O'Sullivan, treasurer.

De La Salle Mothers Club Will Give Party Thursday

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About People You May Know

JOHN TANTILLO, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Tantillo, 17 year old baritone and protege of Carl Craven, sang recently at a Jackson park concert. His next appearance will be on the concert program tomorrow night at Palmer park, 111th st. and South Park av. Tantillo is a senior at South Shore High school.

Mary Yarnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Yarnell, 6132 Greenwood av., recently was graduated from Moody Bible institute. She completed the general Bible course.

HELEN FOSTER ANDERSON, 5000 East End av., author of "Enchanted Valley," a child's book published in 1941, this fall will have another book for children, "The Cousins." Miss Anderson has been a nurse in Chicago for the last 30 years.

Two south siders recently were retired from Commonwealth Edison company. They are Charles H. Morhard, 7544 East End av., and William W. Felty, 435 E. 82d st. Morhard started with the company in 1921 as a teller in the treasury department and became supervisor of branch office tellers. Felty, spent his 35 year career with that company in the service and repair department where he was employed as a senior electrical repairman. Each received a war bond as a farewell gift.

Dance Team Returns from Europe

MELBA RODEGHIER AND PHILIP CONSOLO

Philip Consolo, 2410 Wentworth av., and Melba Rodeghier, 9243 Greenwood av., a ballroom dance team, have returned after two years entertaining front line troops in France, Germany, Australia, Belgium, Holland, and Czechoslovakia. The dancers went into Normandy two months after D-day and were entertaining in Austria on V-E day. The worst time, Miss Rodeghier recalled, was "that first three months in France, living in tents, digging our own foxholes and getting strafed every day." Home for a rest, they have been invited by the U. S. O. to tour the Pacific war zone. [TRIBUNE Photo]

NURSERY HOME SEEKS FUND FOR PLAY EQUIPMENT

Parents Plan Series of Activities

Parents of children attending the Parkway War Nursery school, 5120 South Park way, recently organized to raise funds for nursery school equipment. The school, financed by the government under the Lanham act, offers care and recreation for children 2 to 5 whose parents are working. It is open from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. six days a week.

"The nursery's greatest need is modern play equipment," said Mrs. Frances Reese, director, "particularly for outdoor recreation. There is also a need for educational toys, furnishings for our rooms, and toy vehicles." At present 50 children are cared for by the nursery.

Heading the sponsoring committee, which will arrange with other organizations to sponsor fund raising events, is Mrs. Jacob Bruton. She will be assisted by Mrs. Peter J. Frances, Mrs. William Thomas, and Mrs. Robert Adams. Mrs. Adams also will head the donations committee, which will solicit contributions directly. She will be assisted by Mrs. Annie Hollins, Mrs. Joseph Ferguson, Mrs. Edward Baker, Mrs. Velma Berry, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Nellie Smith, and Mrs. Andrew Washington.

Serving on the entertainment committee, which will plan activities to raise funds, are Mrs. Samuel Davis, chairman; Mrs. Warren Harper, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Ed Washington, Mrs. Daniel Kirk, and Mrs. Joseph Blackburn.

3 South Siders in U. of C. Play Friday and Saturday

Three south siders will appear in the University of Chicago's production of "Death Takes a Holiday," at 8:30 p. m. Friday and Saturday in Mandel hall, 5714 University av. They are Dawn Pfeiffer, 6024 Woodlawn av.; Robert Voas, 5486 Greenwood av., and Frances Carlin, 5823 Dorchester av.

WOODLAWN MEN SEEK $100,000 FOR BOYS' CLUB

Twenty-seven Woodlawn business men recently were appointed to a special gift committee to help the community raise $100,000 for a new boys club. The campaign, which opened in June, will continue until its goal has been reached. The gifts committee, headed by Clarence A. Beutel, includes Henry J. Beutel, Henry T. Boberg, Carman S. Brown, Dr. Robert C. Caldwell, E. Hector Coates, R. M. Coleman, John Cosmas, James M. Earle, Joseph H. Grayson, John Hayes, Leo T. Heid, Leo May, Leo Meyers, Donald Murphey, Dr. Neis R. Nelson, J. Leonard O'Brien, Allen Osherman, Robert Phelps, Mrs. Howard L. Ray, Moses M. Shaw, James J. Shortall, Roger V. Swift, Richard B. Truitt, Willis Van Pelt, William H. Watson, and Bernard L. Webber.

ALL WOODLAWN PLANTS MUMS IN SEPTEMBER

The first distribution of chrysanthemums under the Woodlawn Property Owner league's five year project to make that area a "chrysanthemum community" will be done early in September, John L. Sharpe, president, has announced.

Approximately 6,000 cuttings will be delivered to participants who have been requested to loosen their ground so that the plants may be set in immediately. Of a hardy, frost resistant type, the plants are expected to bloom into late November.

This type of plant was developed by the botany department of the University of Chicago. Plants were set out in the lots at 60th st. and Dorchester av., and 61st st. and University av. last winter by league gardeners. Inasmuch as each plant is capable of producing 25 plants for the succeeding year, it is expected that at the end of five years there will be millions of flowers in bloom on south side lawns and parks.

As added incentive, the Woodlawn Business Men's association will offer prizes totaling $1,000 at the end of the five year project to participants who have developed the finest displays.

Sand Modelers Vie Tomorrow in Jackson Park

Children who have been practicing sandcraft in south side parks will display the best of their talents when they compete for the championship of the south and southwest sides tomorrow at 63d st. beach in Jackson park.

Approximately 30 teams, each representing a park, will compete for gold, silver, and bronze badges. A picnic lunch, games, contests, and swimming will complete the program.

One of the most enthusiastic teams will be the four girls and two boys chosen from among 55 contestants from Tuley park, 90th st. and St. Lawrence av. Competition was so keen among the sand modelers, their teacher, Miss Ruth Feaman said, that a semi-finals contest was necessary. An expertly designed insignia of the army air forces won the contest for Lillian Soroka, 638 E. 92d pl.; Norma Kornya, 527 E. 91st st.; Collette Nossem, 524 E. 90th st.; Doris Henderson, 537 E. 80th pl.; John McGuire, 609 E. 90th pl.; and Jim Sands, 605 E. 90th pl.

Here's Lineup for Miss Langford's Show

Frances Langford will devote a portion of her show on WMAQ-NBC at 7 o'clock tonight to singing "I Got It Bad," "Sentimental Journey," and "Lonely Love." Spike Jones and his City Slickers will entertain with novelty arrangements of "Hawaiian War Chant" and "McNamara's Band."

Discuss Potsdam on Review Stand Today

The significance of the Potsdam conference will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand over W-G-N-Mutual at 10:30 a. m. today. Prof. Hans J. Morgenthau and William Stokes will participate.

GIVE FESTIVAL BROADCAST ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Stars, Chorus Will Sing from 9 to 10 P. M.

Solos by Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett will be heard on the broadcast portion of the Chicago Music Festival over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network Saturday night from 9 to 10 o'clock. Miss Swarthout will be heard in Youmans' "Thru the Years," "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen," and "Dancing in the Dark" from "The Band Wagon" by Dietz. Selections to be offered by Tibbett include "Di Provenza" from Verdi's "La Traviata," Wolfe's "De Glory Road," and "One Alone" from Romberg's "Desert Song."

Philip Maxwell, director of the festival held annually at Soldiers' Field, will be master of ceremonies for the program. Music will be provided by a 110 piece orchestra, under the baton of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N.

A chorus of 4,300 voices, directed by Dr. Edgar Nelson, will open the broadcast with the "Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Weber will conduct the orchestra in Chabrier's "Espana."

Dr. Nelson also will lead 1,500 Lutheran church choristers in "The Wondrous Things the Lord Hath Done" by Christiansen. John G. Rieck will direct a Lutheran children's chorus of 750 voices in a cappella presentation of Kremser's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and Bortniansky's "Jubilate, Amen."

Some worthwhile radio fare is in store for drama lovers starting Sept. 9, when The Theater Guild will begin airing plays Sunday nights from 9 to 10 o'clock via WENR-ABC. Theater Guild successes will be highlighted on the series, but scripts also will be built around productions not sponsored by the Guild. In as many instances as possible, the original casts will act in the radio adaptations. When one considers that Eugene O'Neill, Franz Werfel, Sidney Howard, Philip Barry, and the team of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. are all Guild playwrights, one can anticipate an hour of entertaining listening.

Off a live mike: When Amos 'n' Andy were entertaining troops in Germany, souvenir saver Andy snagged a piece of tile from Hitler's bathtub at Berchtesgaden . . . "The Ernie Pyle Infantry Song" will be given its radio premier on the Army Hour over WMAQ-NBC at 3 p. m. today . . . Tonight Tommy Dorsey will be host to Marguerite Chapman, screen star, on WMAQ-NBC at 7:30 o'clock.

PHILHARMONIC SOLOIST TO BE GEORGE SANDOR

George Sandor, pianist, will be soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos, on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Sandor will play Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C minor. The orchestra will play Vaughan Williams' Symphony No. 4 in F minor.

Play Brahms Symphony Over W-G-N Tuesday

The Chicago Philharmonic orchestra, under direction of Henry Weber, will highlight Brahms' Symphony No. 4 in E minor over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. The orchestra also will present the overture to Beethoven's "Prometheus" and Franck's tone poem, "Les Eolides."

Mystery House Drama

"Whistle for a Hearse," drama starring Forrest Lewis and Nannette Sargent, is scheduled for presentation on Mystery House over W-G-N at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

QUIZ KIDS MUFF A FEW NOW AND THEN, IT SEEMS

The Quiz Kids, who juggle posers Sunday nights at 6:30 o'clock on WENR-ABC, aren't so smart, sometimes. Like all youngsters, they make mistakes now and then. There's the time Richard Williams visited an automat, slipped in a nickel for cocoa and failed to provide a glass for the beverage, which spurted over him.

Harve Fischman

When the Kids were in Victoria, Canada, they were entertained at the government house, where Ruthie Duskin sat quietly looking into space. "A penny for your thoughts," offered her hostess. Ruthie replied, "I was playing a little thinking game that I always play when I'm not having a good time."

During a bond tour in Richmond, Va., Joe Kelly's gang was to meet for luncheon on the mezzanine floor of their hotel. Harve Fischman strolled in to find the mayor and other city officials gathered for what he thought was the Quiz Kid shindig. Harve ate his lunch, made a speech, and had a wonderful time only to discover he had attended a luncheon given by the Richmond Musical society to boost its membership.

Offer Bach Work on NBC Symphony Program

Movements from the unaccompanied violin sonatas of Bach have been arranged by Frank Black into a Suite for Strings, which the NBC Symphony orchestra will play under his direction on WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. The orchestra also will present Tschaikowsky's Andante Cantabile from the Fifth Symphany in E minor, the Overture to Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol."

BE SURE, BE SAFE WITH FHA LOANS
TO BUY OR REFINANCE
Safety and security in the matter of loans are the two things you'll look for first if you're buying or refinancing a home. And, you'll find them both in FHA Loans—with low, easier payments.
FHA Loans are surer and safer because they are U. S. Government investigated and approved. You are protected in another way, too. The government approves the valuation of the property—and arranges payments to suit your pocketbook. Under no circumstances will they allow you to take an obligation in excess of your ability to pay—which means freedom from all financial worries.
FHA Loans are the streamlined loans! Any of the officers of this bank will give you full particulars if you drop in. On the other hand, if you can't come in during banking hours, phone us. We'll gladly call at your home in the evening. There will be no obligation.

GARDEN EXPERTS BLOSSOM WITH CROPS ON S. SIDE

'Fair Year' Forecast at East End Av. Plots

It's all over but the shouting—that is, spring planting and summer cultivating—and such phrases as, "those radishes are all of 4 inches," or "looks like my cabbages are a mite larger than yours," soon will be flying across back fences.

Many people believe that war gardens have fishing beat a mile when it comes to a little harmless boasting. In fact, one heretic was heard to remark that if film were available, a lot of people instead of having their pictures taken with their prize muskies would have themselves snapped beside their asparagus or corn. "And, brother," he punned unkindly, "some of it sure is corn!"

Three Gardeners Go to Work

A prime example of what the city gardener can do once he learns to handle a hoe is the war garden project at 79th st. and East End av. This lot, divided into three plots, has been cultivated by James Lewis of 7921 East End av., Gilbert Ford of 7930 Ridgeland av., and Timothy F. McInerny of 7919 East End av. And a good job it is, too, if the boys do say so themselves—and they frequently do around their homes.

These city squires first decided to dip their thumbs in green paint in 1942. At that time, they declare, the lot was covered with quack grass, rooted all of 6 inches. "It really was nothing but a dumping ground," McInerny said. "The first thing we had to do was get rid of the tin cans, ashes, and auto parts. It was an awful mess, but we pitched right in and did it!"

Off to a Good Start

Taking everything 'nto consideration, they assert, they did very well that first year. When the second year rolled around the gardeners became a bit bolder. They added corn, potatoes, and cucumbers. How did this venture turn out? "The New Zealand spinach that year," suggested McInerny, "was excellent."

The vegetarians report that in 1944 the crops were not up to par. One suspects them of being modest, however, for mention creeps out of ribbons won on vegetables as well as flowers at various shows and exhibits. They overcame such obstacles as bugs and anemic ground.

Praise for Each Other

This year, it is agreed, prospects at 79th st. and East End av. are again but fair. Each of the three, however, gallantly praises the other's fine talent. They unselfishly proclaim that Ford's tomatoes are excellent, that Lewis has good parsnips, carrots, and swiss chard, and McInerny is a whizz bang with rutabagas, cabbage, onions, and the hardy New Zealand spinach.

Again there were obstacles to overcome. Somebody's tomatoes were sprayed too heavily and lost, the corn borer made hay with some one's corn, and another's flowers stubbornly refusing to look life in the face.

"All things considered, however," they concluded, "things aren't too bad." They're hoping to win some prizes at the War Garden festival of Grand Crossing, Avalon, and South Shore, to be held Aug 25 and 26.

TWO JOIN STAFF OF SOUTH SIDE ART CENTER

Lethal Harding, 224 E. 60th st., and Samuel Nichols, 3735 South Park way, advanced commercial art students at Dunbar Trade school, recently joined the staff of volunteer instructors at the South Side Community Art center, 3831 Michigan av. The boys will conduct children's classes in drawing and painting at 10 a. m. Monday thru Friday.

The center has announced a souvenir program cover and poster design contest for the 8th annual Artist and Models ball. A prize of $15 will be given for the winning cover design and $10 for the poster. Aug. 20 is the last day for entries.

Outdoor flowers should be at their best at this time, especially those known as bedding plants. These include such kinds as the geranium, Canna, Verbena, sweet Alyssum, Ageratum, elephant's ear, and other well known kinds.

They will need an abundance of water, altho the geranium flowers best when not kept saturated at all times. Cannas require a lot of water but soaking the soil only once or twice a week should suffice, depending on the character of the soil.

Tuesday, Aug. 14

If you are interested in seeing the newer varieties of the popular gladiolus, visit the gladiolus show at Garfield park conservatory. If is the top show of the kind in the middle west.

Water lilies should be at the height of their flowering season at this time, especially the beautiful tropicals with their immense flowers and fine colors. Among the varieties that are well adapted for small pool use are August Koch, pink pearl, Chicago [pink], and all hybrids originating at Garfield park conservatory.

Wednesday, Aug. 15

It is time to examine the pots of house plants that were plunged in the garden during the summer. Any plants that need repotting or shifting should receive attention. Large tubbed plants may be top dressed with rich soil which makes it unnecessary to shift into larger containers.

Frequently plants in too large pots or tubs are grown indoors. It is much better to discard excessively large plants and replace them with medium sized plants—more kinds can occupy the space of a single large plant.

Thursday, Aug. 16

Keep the vegetable garden cultivated and free from insect attacks. It will be necessary to apply water at least once a week. Water the shrubs, trees, and perennials. It is a fine time to cut out deadwood, for it is easily distinguished at this time.

Friday, Aug. 17

The attacks of insects have been most serious this season. Many cocoons are seen fastened to the trunks and branches of trees. Collect and destroy all these that can be reached. When the larvae changes into flying butterflies or moths which lay their eggs on vegetation more and more of their kind are produced to consume and mutilate foliage that grows later on.

Saturday, Aug. 18

Keep seedlings well watered, for if they are allowed to dry out they will be checked in their growth. They should be given every opportunity to grow into good, husky plants for later planting in the borders.

Get the cold frames in condition by reglazing the sash, painting and repairing the frame. Anchusa will grow from root cuttings. Plant oriental poppies for next year's bloom. There are many fine sorts.

Keep the grass cut at 2 to 3 inches and do not allow crab grass to form seed. Turn over the compost heap that was started earlier.

Pastor from Kansas City to Speak in Hyde Park

The Rev. W. C. Burton will speak at the 11 a. m. service today at The United Church of Hyde Park, 53d st. and Blackstone av. His subject will be "Today and Tomorrow Challenge the Church."

V. F. W. Appointment

Nelson R. Knudsen, 5338 Drexel av., has been named to represent the Illinois department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in the G. A. R. Memorial associatiion.

GI JEROME FLIES HOME FREE; IT'S OLD ARMY GAME

Brass Hats Don't Know He Is Aboard Plane

When the plane left England, there was among the 20 passengers abroad but one named McLaughlin [or so the authorities thought]. When it landed in this country, lo—two clambered out. One was the pilot, Lt. Richard, the name already registered. The other was his brother, Lt. Jerome, a stowaway.

The story goes like this: When the war in Europe was over, Lt. Richard McLaughlin, pilot on an 8th air force Flying Fortress, was assigned to ferrying troops and prisoners from France and Germany to England. Wandering one day among a group of released prisoners awaiting transportation, he bumped into Jerome, also a lieutenant with the 8th air force, who had been downed some 17 months before over France and had been taken prisoner.

Brothers Given Leave Together

Special permission was gained for the brothers to have time together in England, but Richard was scheduled to bring a plane and 20 passengers to this country when he received his leave. Jerome was to return to France and make the trip home by boat. "We just took on one more passenger than was listed," grinned Richard, "and got Jerry home at least a couple of weeks earlier than otherwise. If I hadn't done it, we probably wouldn't have had our leaves together."

Arrival of the two brothers was just about the last thing needed to complete the happiness in the McLaughlin home at 8448 Michigan av., for Mrs. R. F. McLaughlin, their mother, reported that Bill, a third brother who has been in Gardiner hospital, is receiving his medical discharge shortly. "Now if only Hank was home . . ." she began, speaking of her daughter's husband. "Sorry," Richard interrupted with a smile, "I couldn't pick him up mom. He's a navy man."

Have Tales to Tell

The new arrivals had many tales to tell—Jerome of his long months in the pirson camp at Barth, Germany; Richard of his numerous trips in Germany and of his collection of souvenirs, and Bill of his experiences with an armored tank division in the European theater.

Jerome, who has a 75 day furlough, related how he parachuted when his plane was damaged to land on a small French farm. He and his buddies hoped to get to Paris where they could locate the French underground, but they were found by French police and turned over to German authorities. With other prisoners the bombardier was taken to Frankfurt where for six days members of the group were kept separated and questioned intensively.

From there he was sent to the prison camp about 125 miles north of Berlin, where, if it hadn't been for the Red Cross food packets, meals would have consisted mostly of meager portions of black bread and soup."

"Time sure hung heavy on our hands," he commented. "Even then some of the guards assured us bitterly that it was but a matter of time until Germany was beaten." The camp was freed last May by Russian soldiers.

Momentos brought home by Richard include several German guns, including a Luger; a German officer's hat, sword, insignia, and arm band, German money, an elaborately embroidered Austrian flag, and a copy of "Mein Kampf" in it's original language prefaced with a picture of its author.

1,000 BATONS WILL FLASH AT FEAST OF SONG

Stress Field Events for Festival

Festival Reserved Seats Are Available

Reserved seats for the Chicago Music Festival are on sale for 80 cents and $1.25 each, tax included. They may be purchased at The Chicago Tribune's public service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st., and in the lobby of Tribune Tower or by mail. Money orders or checks should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and sent with stamped self-addressed envelope to Festival Ticket Manager, Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL

Fred Miller

Nearly 1,000 men and boys and girls will take part in drills, baton twirling and drum corps exhibitions Saturday night at the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival to be held in Soldiers' field, beginning at 7 o'clock. Fred Miller, 601 Deming pl., who for 16 years has been field supervisor of the Tribune festivals, will be in charge of this part of the program.

Miller is an authority on field pageantry and has been identified with drum corps activities for many years. In 1927 he went to Paris with the drum and bugle corps of Kankakee, Ill., then the Illinois Legion's championship corps. He managed the American Legion national drum and bugle corps contest in Chicago in 1933. In addition to taking part in drum corps exhibitions he has written several manuals on baton twirling and drill and drum corps maneuvers.

Corps to Open Program

Seven Chicago drum and bugle corps will open the festival performance. The players will enter Gate 0 at the south end of the field, preceded by a massed assembly of 100 Cook county American Legion colors, under the command of John S. Cusack, commander of the Cook county council and Ellidor Libonati, Americanism chairman of the council.

Among the posts represented in the opening parade will be Square post, Giles, Melin-Romer, Logan Square, North West Cadets, a junior corps, sponsored by Portage and Glendale posts.

Harold Todd, a member of the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps, will assist Mr. Miller in the presentation of the opening pageant.

All Baton Twirlers Invited

All baton twirlers in Chicago are invited to take part in the big exhibition which will be staged later in the evening. In order to receive their instructions and tickets of admittance they should attend the festival rehearsal at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Soldiers' field. The festival contest finals for baton twirlers will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Soldiers' field.

A special exhibition also will be given during the performance by the Knights Templar of Humboldt commandery, No. 79. The commandery has headquarters at 2410 N. Kedzie blvd. The 125 men in the corps and drill teams are attired in dark blue uniforms with plumed hats and flashing sabers. Richard C. Loewe is drill master and George W. Patton is corps manager. Carl Schultz is commander of the Knights Templar group.

West siders who will take part are:

JUNIOR GIRLS
Betty Brierty, 4342 Wilcox st.
Dolly Gates, 333 N. Karlov av.
Marilyn Hedburn, Westmont.
Marilyn Miller, 638 N. Latrobe av.
Roberta Patterson, 334 N. Lockwood av.
Dolly Pemberton, La Grange.
Dorothea Peters, 5828 Washington blvd.
Patricia Podd, La Grange.
JUVENILE GIRLS
Barbara Ann Bird, La Grange.
Lucille Brierty, 4342 Wilcox st.
Patricia Ann Graham, 904 N. Lawler av.
Carol Moeller, Forest Park.
Wyneta Thoren, 5430 Cortez st.
Myrna Wiegman, 337 N. Long av.
Dorothy Ann Woods, 4217 Roosevelt rd.

Miller also will have charge of hundreds of dancers who will take part in the Buckingham Fountain dance pageant and in the Alice in Wonderland pageant. He estimates that nearly half of the entire evening's program will be devoted to field presentations.

STOCK ENTERED IN SECTIONAL FAIR IN GENEVA

Blue ribbon live stock from Kane, Kendall, Du Page, McHenry, and Lake counties will be brought to the Northeastern Illinois fair to be held Thursday on the athletic field of Geneva High school. The Future Farmers of America event will be held in conjunction with the Kane county 4-H show. Before the war, the attraction was known as the Elgin Farm fairs. John W. Schaff is general fair manager.

The fair will start at 9 a. m. and continue until 4 p. m. with judging of swine, sheep, beef, and dairy products. The same judges will check both the FHA and 4-H entries.

Carl Lewis of Hampshire will be general superintendent of the fair. Paul Whalen of Marengo will be general clerk.

Baile and Tostadas Make Grande Fiesta at Mexican Civic Center

Whirling skirts and twinkling heels accentuate the rhythm of the Mexican hat dance performed by Elsie Bustos, 12, at the Mexican Civic center, 868 Blue Island av. The center was established in 1943 to enable Americans of Mexican descent to study common problems and attempt to solve them thru their own community resources. Elsie is wearing a hand embroidered China Poblana costume which, according to legend, was introduced into Mexico centuries ago by a Chinese princess. The princess was captured by pirates and rescued by a Mexican land owner, who later adopted her as his daughter.

Tostadas, a Mexican delicacy of pinto beans, chopped onions, tomatoes, pork, and lettuce on crisp tortillas, are eaten with relish by the family and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Lopez, 8643 S. Marshfield av. Guests at the evening meal include Sgt. Enemecio Tienda (standing, left), who recently returned to the United States after nine months overseas, and Pvt. Charles T. Gomez, standing between Mr. and Mrs. Lopez. He is stationed at Camp Hood, Tex. Seated (left to right) are Raymond Villar, 6; Roger Chavez, 7, and the four Lopez children, Hilda, 7; Bobby, 3; Ramon, 8, and Betty, 13.

No matter what the problem is, members of the Mexican civic committee attempt to help those who call on them for aid. Recently they came to the rescue of a group of braceros, Mexican workers brought to the United States under a six month contract to help in war work. Stranded in Chicago without funds, the braceros were given food and lodging at the center until their difficulties were adjusted. They dine with Antonio Islas (second from the left), member of the Mexican consulate in charge of imported Mexican workers. The braceros are now doing agrcultural work in South Bend, Ind.

THIRD CONCERT OF BOYS CLUB TO BE TUESDAY

Community singing by the audience in the street, and in the doorways and windows of neighboring houses, will be a feature of the Chicago Boys' Clubs, Inc., concert Tuesday night at 1300 S. Newberry av. Taking part in the organization's third concert of the summer season will be a choral group from the Valentine club, an orchestra from the Woodland club, and the Old Town club's rhythm band. Ramon Girvin will lead the orchestra.

TWO OAK PARK BLOOD DONORS GIVE 17TH PINT

Two west suburban residents each donated their 17th pint of blood recently to the Red Cross blood bank. They are Margaret Wilson, 929 N. Oak Park av., and Mary Eustace, 1108 S. Elmwood av., both of Oak Park.

Sid Berteau, 414 N. Elmwood av., Oak Park, has given his 16th pint of blood. Gertrude Koepple, Berkley, and Edward P. Wade, Batavia, are 15 time donors.

ASKS RIVERSIDE DELAY VOTE ON BABSON ESTATE

Demand that the vote on converting the Babson estate into a recreation center in Riverside be postponed 60 days to permit wider study of the project is made by Eugen Kuhne, who heads a group of taxpayers that has asked for a hearing tomorrow night at the regular meeting of the Riverside board of trustees.

Kuhne contends the suburb has been without a recreation center for years and that it will harm no one to have another two months to explore other angles. The danger lies, he says, in the fact the zoning law enacted in 1922 has placed the Babson estate, and all property for 1,500 feet and more from any part of it, in a district limited to residential purposes of a single family only on each lot.

Neither a clubhouse nor a recreation center, Kuhne holds, can be classed as a single family residence. Sale of refreshments would, he says, represent retail business. On these counts, a taxpayer, he claims, could ask for an injunction and stop the sale of bonds.

Kuhne has worked out a plan for a self-supporting recreation center and has had 5,000 copies of it printed for distribution. The plan suggects acceptance of the Babson gift on the condition that the estate be resubdivided by the village, and that the recreation center building be placed adjacent to the library and near the Des Plaines river.

SGT. HOWARD W. BUCK, SAX MAN, IN QUARTET TOURING PACIFIC BASES

Howard W. Buck

Sgt. Howard W. Buck, 3416 Walnut st., is in a quartet of soldier entertainers which recently left Hawaii for a series of performances in forward areas of the Pacific.

A saxophonist, Sgt. Buck is a featured player in the comedy sketch, "Winged Pigeons," a humorous take-off on the army air force play and movie, "Winged Victory."

Sgt. Buck's troupe will appear in the Marianas Islands, Iwo, and at new bases in the Okinawa area. Buck formerly appeared in a number of army air force musical productions in the United States.

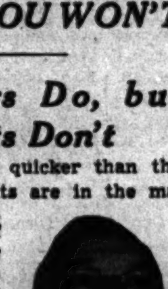
Youngsters Do, but Adults Don't



Henry E. Ore

"The hand is quicker than the eye" when adults are in the magician's audience. Youngsters of Boy Scout age are more alert in catching on to sleight of hand tricks. Those of Cub Scout age make it toughest for those who practice the art of legerdemain. So says Henry E. Ore, La Grange, who has made magic a hobby for 13 years.

All ages enjoy the magician's show, Ore has found, and letters from the heads of veterans' hospitals tell how thoroly responsive the patients have been to his programs of entertainment arranged by a bureau of the Red Cross. The performances have been especially enjoyed by those unable to leave the hospital wards.

Knows Several Hundred Tricks

Ore, a veteran of the sales promotion department of Crane company, became interested in magic during the depression when people were in a none too happy mood. He knew a few tricks and he discovered the universality of the popularity of this form of diversion. Today, there are several hundred tricks in his repertoire, including more than 200 card tricks.

Members of Ore's family and persons he called upon in business were his first audiences. He says his wife was one of his best critics. Tommy, 10, assists at times and, on occasions, plays the piano for accompaniment. Florence, 8, is sometimes the girl who escapes from a locked trunk.

Harlan Tarbell, well known magician, and a resident of Elmhurst, gave Ore lessons. Ore studied books on the subject of magic. He constantly perfected new acts. He be-

The west side unit of the Chicago Urban league has moved into new quarters at 2200 Warren blvd., Mrs. Rachel Ridley, director of activities, has announced.

LET'S TAKE OUR VACATION TRIP THRU UNIVERSE

No Ticket Priority Needed Here

[The ninth in a series of articles telling of interesting places available to Chicagoans who are vacationing at home due to war time travel restrictions.]

BY ONEY FRED SWEET

During the vacation month of August the Adler planetarium expects to entertain its five millionth visitor. In a time of travel restrictions the tantalizing demonstration topic for the month is "Other Worlds." But these astronomical journeys need not be postponed by Chicagoans. The only requirement is that they arrive at the museum at the scheduled starting time for trips thru the universe.

The planets—the only known other objects like our earth—can be distinguished from the stars by their motions. With the unaided eye we may watch these apparent motions which seem complicated. As explained at the planetarium the real motions of the planets are simple.

Now to Meet the Planets

First we are made acquainted with the five planets that can be seen by the unaided eye—Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and Mars. Then we are shown those planets that cannot be seen except with telescopes — Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto.

We learn something of what conditions are like in these far off worlds and the possibilities there of the existence of life.

Location of the planetarium on an island in Lake Michigan is suitable to a summer vacation experience. As you approach the museum from the west, Chicago recedes to a blurred skyline and you become absorbed in the blue of the lake. Walks and roadways of the broad esplanade flank a series of 12 shallow pools symbolic of the months of the year that prepare one's attitude for the adventure ahead.

Gives Air of Detachment

The upper promenade deck of the copper domed, granite building affords further opportunity to enjoy the scene of detachment from the city. Air conditioning gives the planetarium chamber, itself, an evening cool temperature.

Those who vacation in September and include the planetarium in the "musts" of their itinerary will appreciate a demonstration, "The Southern Cross."

Visitors first will be made acquainted with their home sky—objects that are visible, and their motions. They will then be transported to the skies of the East Indies and the smaller islands of the Pacific which have become familiar to our service men on duty in this part of the world. There will be a stopover to observe how the motions of the stars and planets have changed.

Now to the Pacific

The next step of the journey will be to the islands of the South Pacific, Australia, and New Zealand, as far south of the equator as Chicago is north of it. Strange things will be seen. The sun will be in the northern sky at noon and many constellations of the home sky will be upside down. Stars never visible at home, like those of the Southern Cross, will be high in the sky.

The trip will continue to the skies of the South Pole before the traveler is returned home.

Said Max Adler when the museum was dedicated: "The popular conception of the universe is too meager; the planets and the stars are too far removed from general knowledge. In our reflections we dwell too little upon the concept that the world and all human endeavor within it are governed by established order, and too infrequently upon the truth that under the heavens everything is interrelated even as each of us to the other."

Portraits of the Moon

On niches in the museum walls are 72 large transparencies from negatives made with the world's largest telescopes. You see the pitted surface of the moon, the sun in eclipse, closeups of famous comets, and the Milky Way.

A superb collection of astronomical instruments is on display, and among them is the 6 inch reflector made by Sir William Herschel, a duplicate of the one with which he discovered the planet Uranus.

These exhibits may be visited either before or after the sojourn to starland made possible by the complex instrument in which optical technique, mechanical skill, and astronomical knowledge all have been merged.

Hear Chorus of "Awes"

Seated comfortably in the central circular hall visitors express their awe in chorus as darkness descends, the sky stretches into the infinite, and the big instrument with its many projectors reproduces the intricate phenomena of the heavens—the stars, sun, moon, and planets—all in their proper places for any instant of any year for any terrestrial position.

As explained by the demonstrator the ancients were not fitting figures to the stars when they placed the first constellations in the sky. They were naming groups of stars for their heroes and divinities in the legends and myths. We do the same today with our geographical names, but the star of Washington is not expected to look like George Washington. In some cases, the figures do fit the stars, but in learning the constellations it is easier, at first, to look for the simple geometrical

West Side Irish to Take Part in Two Harvest Day Festivals

West siders have taken prominent parts in planning the two celebrations of the Irish harvest festival to be held Wednesday at Harms and at Pilsen parks. Details follow:

West side Irish will be in the majority when Irishmen from all parts of the city attend Ireland's national Feis from noon to midnight Wednesday in Pilsen park, 26th st. and Albany av., under the auspices of the Harp and Shamrock club.

The festival, consisting of 50 contests in ancient Irish music, dance, and song, will be held on Ireland's national holiday, Lady Day in Harvest. Pat Roche, 3240 Harrison st., is the club's president.

1,512 Years Old

Oldest of Ireland's festivals, the Feis is 1,512 years old. The first was held on the Hill of Slane in Ireland where, legend tells, St. Patrick kindled the paschal fire which brought Christianity and culture to the Emerald Isle.

Contests will open the festival at noon. They will include jigs, reels, and hornpipe dancing; instrumental and vocal solos; essays, poems, recitations, and speeches pertaining to Ireland, and original costumes of ancient Celtic design. An Irish beauty queen will be selected from among girls of Celtic origin.

The Rev. Patrick J. Molloy, pastor of Annunciation church, 1650 N. Paulina st., honorary chairman of the Feis, will be assisted by William F. Clarke, dean of the De Paul university law school; Roche, chairman of the Feis committee, and Joseph F. McLaughlin of Fordham university, New York City.

Name West Side Participants

West siders taking part will include John A. Kerr, 5449 Monroe st.; F. J. Mulvihill, 2830 Adams st.; Frank Mulvihill, 3927 Lexington st.; John J. Brennan, 4251 Monroe st.; Edward Hefferman, 4907 Van Buren st.; Val Connolly, 351 S. Cicero av.; Don McKillop, 5251 Lexington st.; Edward Sammon, 4414 Van Buren st.; Patrick Ruane, 4839 Adams st.; John Moriarty, 132 S. Whipple st.

Kostner av.; Philip Dolan, 5305 Monroe st.; Patrick Devitt, 128 N. Leamington av.; John Clohessy, 4833 Gladys av.; Joseph Cunningham, 408 S. Kilpatrick av., and James Bowler, 4916 Congress st.

The Green Jackets orchestra, composed of club members, will play for dancing beginning at 8:30 p. m. Entries for Feis contests may be made with J. P. Raftery, 711 S. Dearborn st.

Our Lady Day in Harvest, traditional Celtic feast dating from medieval times, will be celebrated Wednesday at Harms park, 4207 N. Western av. More than 10,000 Chicagoans of Irish descent are expected to participate in the event.

Speakers will be Bishop Sheil and the Rev. James J. Mertz, S. J., of Loyola university.

The celebration, which will start at 4 p. m., to the sound of warpipes, accordions, and flutes, will include games and athletics. There will be exhibitions in dancing and baton twirling by 300 pupils of nine Irish dancing schools, and a stage show under the direction of Maurice Lynch.

Flute Band to Play

Directors of the dancing school program include Mae Kennedy Kane, Paul Dillon, Madonna Gaffney, Mary and Lucille Lynch, Rose Ann Smith, Theresa Prendergast, Marge Corrigan, and Mary Terese O'Malley.

In addition to music for modern dancing by the Thomas Lennon orchestra, Irish melodies for square dances and reels will be furnished by the Star of Freedom Irish Flute band. Special numbers will be played by Bob Flatley and Edward Luekin. A queen will be chosen from among 30 candidates from all sections of the city.

Chaplain of the day will be the Rev. Richard J. Wolfe, pastor of St. Patrick's church. The Rev. E. Oliver Boyle of St. Barnabas church will be moderator.

West Siders to Assist

James J. Doody, treasurer of the Catholic Order of Foresters, will be officer of the day. Officers of Annual Irish Day, Inc., sponsors of the outing, are John J. Hurley, president; Patrick Bonner, vice president; Edward B. Dwyer, secretary, and Stanley O'Sullivan, treasurer.

17 GIRL RESERVE VOLUNTEERS WIN BLUE TRIANGLES

For service during the summer months in hospitals and at Y. W. C. A. centers, buttons with blue triangle designs bearing the insignia of the Girl Reserve Service volunteers have been awarded 17 west siders.

Seven girls earned awards by working in the record library at County hospital. They are Charlene and Gwendolyn Hamm, 1708 Maypole av.; Wanda Hartwell, 1607 Walnut st.; Etta Killingsworth, 1930 Maypole av.; Norma Myles, 315 N. Loomis av.; Joanne Wood, 1046 Gunderson av., Oak Park, and Annie Laurie Westbrook, 322 N. Claremont av.

Make Bandages for Ill

Another group made bandages and dressings for the Field Army for Prevention of Cancer. They include Madlin DeMaria, 2129 Congress st.; Greta Johnson, 2504 Fulton st.; Jessie Stevens, 230 N. Campbell av., and Shirley Williams, 216 N. Campbell av.

The bandage making project was supervised by Miss Esther Rau of the West Side Y. W. C. A. She was assisted by Miss Eve Henry and Miss Mary Bravo.

Need Buttons for Clothing

Another activity, which is still in progress, is the sorting for size and color of 100,000 buttons for the American Friends Service command. The buttons were collected by a unit of Girl Reserves in Owassa, Mich., and turned over to Chicago headquarters. The buttons will be used on garments made by the clothing committee.

Button sorters are Charlene Hamm; Marie Malello, 2015 Grenshaw av.; Elsie and Irene Schreiner, 2021 Grenshaw av.; Delfina Reyes, 1743 Roosevelt rd.; Stella Washington, 1132 Lake st., and Rosetta Wiseman, 1140 Lake st.

Create Crocodile Quickly

SAND MODELERS TO SHOW SKILLS ON WEDNESDAY

Children representing approximately 30 west side parks will compete for the championship in sand sculpture Wednesday at a picnic holiday at the North av. beach.

The park teams, each composed of six members, have practiced their art all summer under the tutelage of park district sandcraft teachers. Judges will select first, second, and third place winners who will receive gold, silver, and bronze badges, respectively.

Following the contest the competing teams will have picnic lunches supplemented by a special treat provided by the park district. Swimming and games will follow.

The picnic will be the 10th annual outing of the sandcraft workers, but the first in which handiwork is judged and prizes awarded.

TELL EVOLUTION OF LANDSCAPE IN DU PAGE TODAY

Naturalist Will Talk in Morton Arboretum

"The Story of Our Native Landscape" will be the subject of an illustrated lecture by Mrs. Raymond Watts at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Thornhill building of the Morton arboretum near Lisle. Mrs. Watts is naturalist at the arboretum.

The lecture will be presented at the midsummer open meeting of the Du Page County Historical society and the theme will be the prehistoric Du Page area and its present natural beauties rather than the pioneer and later historic times in the county.

Directors of the Historical society extend an invitation to interested citizens of the area to attend the meeting which is designed to add to the enjoyment of out of door Du Page, and is, therefore, particularly timely in this "stay near home vacation" summer.

Will Trace Nature's Work

Mrs. Watts will show how nature in the course of time has operated to form the topography and native landscape of the region.

The lecture will be supplemented by the display of two relief maps of the area recently completed by Mrs. Theron Wasson of River Forest, who will explain her mapmaking.

It is the desire of the Historical society directors that residents of the county who have not become acquainted yet with the Thornhill building attend the meeting and see the building. The building is a recent addition to the unique arboretum that has given Du Page county one of the most outstanding arboricultural, horticultural, and scenic institutions in the entire country.

Many Things to See

Visitors may arrive early to enjoy the Thornhill building's various rooms with their fascinating exhibits of the natural history of trees and flowers, birds, and other native wild life. With their attendance at the lecture, visitors may also combine a drive thru the extensive arboretum grounds or walk on one of its many trails.

The arboretum is located on Illinoise state highway 53, south of Roosevelt and Butterfield rds. and north of Ogden av., United States route 34. Thornhill building is in the section of the arboretum west of highway 53.

Children Like Dove Trick

Acts that delight audiences include the restoration of a severed rope, the continual pouring of water from a flower vase, the emptying of seven 40 inch lighted lanterns from a waste basket.

The white rabbit that is taken from a high silk hat, the traditional trick, is kept in the Ore garage along with the white doves that appear and disappear at the wave of a wand. When the rabbit gets too fat it must be replaced by a leaner animal actor.

Children applaud most the trick in which the white doves are the result of candy making, the ingredients of which are pins to make it sticky, nails to make it hard, and buttons for lumps. When the pie is opened out comes the candy and the doves.

No New Tricks

Ore said that at times he thought he had originated a new trick only to learn, after a talk with the professionals, that it wasn't new. There are no new tricks, he was told—simply old tricks dressed up.

Magicians fool each other. And the good magician must be able to take advantage of every situation—even having a heckler try to expose a trick. He must have an "out" when things go wrong.

Praises County Hospital Army Medical Group

In a recent letter to Gen. Manus McCloskey, warden of County hospital, Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, chief surgeon of the European theater, commended the 297th General hospital staff composed of doctors, nurses, and technicians from County.

The unit has operated a 1,000 bed institution in England two years, and has received cases from France and other combat areas.

Gen. Hawley wrote: "The County hospital can be very proud of the 297th, which rendered valuable services to our country. As one of your old friends I congratulate you on providing the medical department with such a fine unit."

When the unit was formed, a regular army medical officer was placed in command. However, doctors of the County hospital staff headed various sections. Dr. Chester G. Guy is head of the surgical section; Dr. George F. O'Brien, medical service; Dr. H. L. Ubl, dental, and Dr. Alex Ragins, pathology.

Altho some of the experienced staff have been detached and sent to other hospital units, it is expected that the remainder of the hospital personnel will be returning to the United States in the near future, Gen. McCloskey said.

OAK PARK FORUM TELLS PLANS OF 1945-'46 SEASON

Residents of Oak Park, River Forest, and adjacent suburbs will be in attendance at the opening of the 45th season of the Oak Park community lectures Oct. 15. The forum, developed from its early beginnings as a University of Chicago extension lecture, is operated by residents of west side suburbs.

These subscribers elect officers and a managing committee. Each year they indicate the type of speaker they prefer. Altho the programs have the reputation for presenting information on current events, the lighter side of entertainment has not been neglected.

Koo to Open Forum

The 1945-'46 program will include 13 lectures in the Oak Park-River Forest High school auditorium.

Opening the season will be Dr. T. Z. Koo, secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation, who will speak at 8 p. m., Oct. 15, on "China's Place in the New World Order." On Oct. 22 Lt. John Mason Brown, U. S. N. R., author, will speak on "What We Should Have Learned from the War."

Among the other speakers will be Rep. Judd [R., Minn.], former medical missionary to China; Burton Holmes, travel lecturer; William Yandell Elliott, Harvard university professor; Adm. Standley, former United States ambassador to Russia; William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., and George and Helen Papashvily, co-authors of a recent best seller.

Elect New Officers

Officers for the 45th season are Wayne Hanson, chairman; Mrs. Arthur M. Houser Jr., vice chairman; Everitt A. Sherwood, secretary, and Harold H. Metcalf, treasurer.

Members of the managing committee include F. B. Crum, Mrs. Donald F. Duncan, Robert P. Heald, Miss Kathryn Ross McDaniel, Mrs. Roy Sorenson, Mrs. Dwight W. Follett, Mrs. Paul Gebhard, Roderick M. Grant, R. N. Ketcham, the Rev. Lynn J. Radcliffe, Mrs. Ben H. Badenoch, Elmer S. Grable, G. W. Hales, Chester C. Johnson, and A. Wesley Roehm.

Altho more than half of the available seats have been sold, orders are still being received by Everitt A. Sherwood, 719 Keystone av., River Forest.

BERWYN'S NEW SCHOOL LEADER STARTS DUTIES

Kenneth L. Preston has assumed his new duties as superintendent of school district 100 in Berwyn which has seven schools and 82 teachers. For 18 years, Preston was principal of Piper school in the district.

A native of Wisconsin, Preston's first teaching assignment was at Amhert, Wis., where he taught English and was coach in the high school. Previous to coming to Berwyn, he was principal of the Amherst school. Continuing his own education, Preston earned his Ph. B. degree from the University of Chicago in 1931, and his masters degree from Northwestern in 1935.

Preston has been active in Berwyn's civic and social life. During the last year he was president of the Berwyn club.

Recipients are Sgt. Ira E. Schlientz, 4705 Maypole av.; Sgt. Edward F. Bush, 1821 S. Spaulding av., and Lt. Louis Adamec Jr., Cicero.

The arrowhead was awarded for participation in the D-Day amphibious assault in southern France.

LAUDS CHINESE AS TENACIOUS, BRAVE FIGHTER

The Chinese soldier is a brave and tenacious fighter and more than a match for the Jap if he has weapons, Corp. William Finkelstein, 21, Chicago Tribune editorial department copy boy on military leave, said. Corp. Finkelstein recently returned to Chicago on furlough after more than two years of service in Africa, India, and China.

"The Chinese learn quickly, too," Corp. Finkelstein said. "Even those who had never seen an automobile or American comics learned how to drive Gen. Sherman tanks and read Terry and the Pirates—and fast. The Chinese also love our pin-up girl pictures."

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Finkelstein, 1652 S. Homan av., Corp. Finkelstein is a member of an army communications service unit which has won the meritorious service award.

Discuss Potsdam on Review Stand Today

The significance of the Potsdam conference will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand over W-G-N-Mutual at 10:30 a. m. today. Prof. Hans J. Morgenthau and William Stokes will participate.

ON SHORT WAVES

LONDON

The North American service of the BBC from London includes the following programs today. The frequencies [in megacycles] employed after 4:15 p. m. are: 11.93, 9.58, 9.82, 6.11, 7.26, 9.81; 4:45 p. m.—News. 6:30 p. m.—Radio newsreel. 8:15 p. m.—Sunday Service. 11:30 p. m.—News reports.

GIVE FESTIVAL BROADCAST ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Stars, Chorus Will Sing from 9 to 10 P.M.

Solos by Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett will be heard on the broadcast portion of the Chicago Music Festival over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network Saturday night from 9 to 10 o'clock. Miss Swarthout will be heard in Youmans' "Thru the Years," "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen," and "Dancing in the Dark" from "The Band Wagon" by Dietz. Selections to be offered by Tibbett include "Di Provenza" from Verdi's "La Traviata," Wolfe's "De Glory Road," and "One Alone" from Romberg's "Desert Song."

Philip Maxwell, director of the festival held annually at Soldiers' Field, will be master of ceremonies for the program. Music will be provided by a 110 piece orchestra, under the baton of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N.

A chorus of 4,300 voices, directed by Dr. Edgar Nelson, will open the broadcast with the "Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Weber will conduct the orchestra in Chabrier's "Espana."

Dr. Nelson also will lead 1,500 Lutheran church choristers in "The Wondrous Things the Lord Hath Done" by Christiansen. John G. Rieck will direct a Lutheran children's chorus of 750 voices in a cappella presentation of Kremser's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and Bortniansky's "Jubilate, Amen."

Some worthwhile radio fare is in store for drama lovers starting Sept. 9, when The Theater Guild will begin airing plays Sunday nights from 9 to 10 o'clock via WENR-ABC. Theater Guild successes will be highlighted on the series, but scripts also will be built around productions not sponsored by the Guild. In as many instances as possible, the original casts will act in the radio adaptations. When one considers that Eugene O'Neill, Franz Werfel, Sidney Howard, Philip Barry, and the team of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. are all Guild playwrights, one can anticipate an hour of entertaining listening.

Off a live mike: When Amos 'n' Andy were entertaining troops in Germany, souvenir saver Andy snagged a piece of tile from Hitler's bathtub at Berchtesgaden . . . "The Ernie Pyle Infantry Song" will be given its radio premier on the Army Hour over WMAQ-NBC at 3 p. m. today . . . Tonight Tommy Dorsey will be host to Marguerite Chapman, screen star, on WMAQ-NBC at 7:30 o'clock.

Ozzie Nelson Show Is Back on WBBM Today

The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet, comedy vehicle which stars Ozzie Nelson and his wife Harriet Hilliard in a dramatization of the the trials of a young band leader and his wife in their struggles to achieve success for themselves and security for their family, resumes on WBBM-CBS at 5 p. m. today.

IT SAYS HERE THAT QUIZ KIDS AREN'T SO SMART—SOMETIMES

The Quiz Kids, who juggle posers Sunday nights at 6:30 o'clock on WENR-ABC, aren't so smart, sometimes. Like all youngsters, they make mistakes now and then. There's the time Richard Williams visited an automat, slipped in a nickel for cocoa and failed to provide a glass for the beverage, which spurted over him.

Harve Fischman

When the Kids were in Victoria, Canada, they were entertained at the government house, where Ruthie Duskin sat quietly looking into space. "A penny for your thoughts," offered her hostess. Ruthie replied, "I was playing a little thinking game that I always play when I'm not having a good time."

During a bond tour in Richmond, Va., Joe Kelly's gang was to meet for luncheon on the mezzanine floor of their hotel. Harve Fischman strolled in to find the mayor and other city officials gathered for what he thought was the Quiz Kid shindig. Harve ate his lunch, made a speech, and had a wonderful time only to discover he had attended a luncheon given by the Richmond Musical society to boost its membership.

Spitalny's Girls Will Play and Sing Old Favorites

Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra and chorus will offer selections from their Hour of Charm record album on WMAQ-NBC at 9 o'clock tonight. A presentation of Steffe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the orchestra and chorus will open the program. Molloy's "Love's Old Sweet Song," Nevin's "The Rosary," the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," and other favorites will be heard.

Goes to New Church

The Rev. Robert B. Clark, assistant pastor of First Congregational church, Oak Park, has accepted a call to become minister of First Presbyterian church, Carthage, Ill.

PHILHARMONIC SOLOIST TO BE GEORGE SANDOR

George Sandor, pianist, will be soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos, on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Sandor will play Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C minor. The orchestra will play Vaughan Williams' Symphony No. 4 in F minor.

Play Brahms Symphony Over W-G-N Tuesday

The Chicago Philharmonic orchestra, under direction of Henry Weber, will highlight Brahms' Symphony No. 4 in E minor over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. The orchestra also will present the overture to Beethoven's "Prometheus" and Franck's tone poem, "Les Eolides."

Mystery House Drama

"Whistle for a Hearse," drama starring Forrest Lewis and Nannette Sargent, is scheduled for presentation on Mystery House over W-G-N at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

3 FROM ROSARY LAUNCH STREET PREACHING TOUR

Three Rosary college students, accompanied by two Dominican sisters, have left for Waynesville, N. C., where they will do street preaching during the summer. Mary Con Woods, a June graduate, and Helen McGrath, a senior who preached last year, are joined this summer by Marjorie Malay, a junior.

Using a station wagon, the girls will travel daily into the hills. Setting up their microphone on the back platform of the car, they will speak on a variety of religious subjects and answer questions of the audience.

Here's Lineup for Miss Langford's Show

Frances Langford will devote a portion of her show on WMAQ-NBC at 7 o'clock tonight to singing "I Got It Bad," "Sentimental Journey," and "Lonely Love." Spike Jones and his City Slickers will entertain with novelty arrangements of "Hawaiian War Chant" and "McNamara's Band."

ELGIN'S GARDEN CLUB TO HOLD SHOW AUG. 25, 26

Floral Entries to Vie with Fruits and Vegetables

The Fox river valley's bumper war garden harvest will vie with floral arrangements and table settings for blue ribbon awards and prizes on Aug. 25 and 26 when the Men's Garden club of Elgin plays host at its third annual War Garden and Flower show. The event will be held in the Elgin Masonic temple.

Robert Winn

Howard A. Strohm and Albert H. Burger, co-chairman of the general committee, are forecasting an entry list of approximately 1,000 exhibits from the Elgin, Barrington, Elmhurst, St. Charles, Geneva, and Woodstock communities. Last year's show attracted 875 entries.

Stress Floral Entries

Specimen flower entries and floral arrangements are being stressed this year, as well as fruits of war gardens.

The Men's Garden Club of Elgin conceived and sponsored the harvest event as a means of stimulating war garden culture. The first show was presented in 1943 and proved so successful that the event has been placed upon the club calendar each year since.

Teacher Is Club President

Robert T. Winn, Elgin High school teacher, is president of the club. Richard E. Schultz is vice president; Gordon W. Ettner, secretary, and Ray W. Senger, treasurer.

Heads of show committees include: Richard E. Schultz, classifications; Fred C. Churchill, publicity; Stanley W. Porter, judges; Frank S. French, tickets and awards; Lester A. Cronk, properties; Joseph W. Day, decorations and layout; Gordon W. Ettner, registration, and Ray W. Turner, educational exhibits.

Illinois Legion Essay Medal Given West Sider

Golf Tournament

The Holy Name Society of St. Angela's church, Potomac and Massasoit avs., will hold its annual golf tournament today at Mohawk Country club, Bensenville.

How to Get There

Chicago Motor coaches will take you directly to the door of the Adler planetarium. Transfer from elevated or surface lines to route 26 bus at Jackson blvd., or at 7th st. and Michigan blvd.

Adler Planetarium One of World's Best

The Adler Planetarium and Astronomical museum, which opened its doors to the public in 1930, contains the finest collection of antique instruments in the world as well as exhibits to illustrate modern developments in the science of astronomy. Many large transparencies, illuminating photographs of the heavens made with great telescopes, also are on view.

Seated within the planetarium chamber one sees a portrayal of the sky with all its changes as time passes. The changes are due to the earth's motions. Each month a different drama of the heavens is presented.

The museum is open on week days from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; on Sundays, 2 to 5 p. m. It is closed on Mondays. Planetarium demonstrations are at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. on week days; 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. on Sundays. Admission is free on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays. Other days 25 cents plus 5 cents federal tax is charged. School children are free mornings. Children under 5 are not admitted to the planetarium chamber. The planetarium instruments may be seen only during the time of demonstration.

Women's Wear Makers Endow Mount Sinai Ward

A ward at Mount Sinai hospital, California av. at 15th pl., has been endowed by the Women's Wear Manufacturers of Chicago in memory of the industry's war heroes. Members of the war memorial fund committee are A. O. Gilbert, Henry Schneider, Max Reich, Nathan Susman, William Rosenthal, A. J. Wolff, Albert A. Steinberg, and Morris Mendelson.

figures which are obvious to every one.

Ancient Stars Inspire Moderns

Those who have been content to consider the conspicuous Big Dipper as a constellation learn that it is but part of Ursa Major, the Great Bear, whose head and feet are marked by fainter stars below the bowl of the Dipper. The Dipper itself forms the hind quarters of the Bear, while the handle forms an impossibly long tail. There are many stories and legends concerning the Great Bear.

"These stories which inspired the ancients to name the star groups are not old and dead," Director Wagner Schlesinger tells his listeners.

Outdoor flowers should be at their best at this time, especially those known as bedding plants. These include such kinds as the geranium, Canna, Verbena, sweet Alyssum, Ageratum, elephant's ear, and other well known kinds.

They will need an abundance of water, altho the geranium flowers best when not kept saturated at all times. Cannas require a lot of water but soaking the soil only once or twice a week should suffice, depending on the character of the soil.

Tuesday, Aug. 14

If you are interested in seeing the newer varieties of the popular gladiolus, visit the gladiolus show at Garfield park conservatory. It is the top show of the kind in the middle west.

Water lilies should be at the height of their flowering season at this time, especially the beautiful tropicals with their immense flowers and fine colors. Among the varieties that are well adapted for small pool use are August Koch, pink pearl, Chicago [pink], and all hybrids originating at Garfield park conservatory.

Wednesday, Aug. 15

It is time to examine the pots of house plants that were plunged in the garden during the summer. Any plants that need repotting or shifting should receive attention. Large tubbed plants may be top dressed with rich soil which makes it unnecessary to shift into larger containers.

Frequently plants in too large pots or tubs are grown indoors. It is much better to discard excessively large plants and replace them with medium sized plants—more kinds can occupy the space of a single large plant.

Thursday, Aug. 16

Keep the vegetable garden cultivated and free from insect attacks. It will be necessary to apply water at least once a week. Water the shrubs, trees, and perennials. It is a fine time to cut out deadwood, for it is easily distinguished at this time.

It is not too early to take critical notes for changes in the garden plan for next season. Rearranging shrubbery borders, the elimination of too much shade, changing the layout into a better design and all other practices that intrigue the gardener may be made on paper.

Friday, Aug. 17

The attacks of insects have been most serious this season. Many cocoons are seen fastened to the trunks and branches of trees. Collect and destroy all these that can be reached. When the larvae changes into flying butterflies or moths which lay their eggs on vegetation more and more of their kind are produced to consume and mutilate foliage that grows later on.

Saturday, Aug. 18

Keep seedlings well watered, for if they are allowed to dry out they will be checked in their growth. They should be given every opportunity to grow into good, husky plants for later planting in the borders.

Keep the grass cut at 2 to 3 inches and do not allow crab grass to form seed. Turn over the compost heap that was started earlier.

MEXICAN CENTER SMOOTHS WAY IN A STRANGE LAND

Helps Adopt Heritage to New Environment

Like a glimpse of Mexico on fiesta day is the dancing class which meets twice a week at the Mexican Civic center, 868 Blue Island av. Brown eyes dance and skirts twirl to the lively music of the hat dance or to gay melodies of the Chipanescas, traditional folk dance of southwestern Mexico.

Or drop in any morning and you will see 23 earnest heads bent over their lessons at the Escuela de Espanol, the Spanish school conducted by Mrs. Asseneth Bustos, volunteer teacher. Lessons range all the way from stories of "El Dragon de Oro" [The Golden Dragon], delight of younger scholars, to language classes of more serious import designed to help students bridge the gap between their Mexican heritage and American environment.

Wide Scope of Activities

Dancing and language classes are only two of many projects sponsored by the Mexican civic committee at the Blue Island av. center. Other activities include Scouting, hiking, and camping for boys, as well as crafts, sewing, and cooking for girls.

Altho many aspects of its program are recreational, the Mexican civic committee's services have a wider scope, since its members are working for the welfare of the Mexican-American community as a whole.

"The center is a refuge for Americans of Mexican descent with any kind of problems," says Rafael Perez, activities director.

Teach American Way

"It's not merely a question of taking youngsters to the beach or teaching them useful arts and crafts. The problem is much more serious. We're trying to help children and adults make successful adjustments to the American way of life. But such adjustment is complicated by inadequate housing, lack of recreational facilities, and all the disadvantages that come with living in so-called slum areas."

As Perez and other members of the committees see it, no one can save the Mexican people but themselves. Leadership, they feel, must come from within the group. Perez himself is the only salaried member of the committee. Other workers give freely of their time, talents, and frequently of their money.

Launched in Washington

The Mexican Civic committee was formed in March, 1943, when the office of the coördinator of inter-American affairs granted $10,000 to the Chicago area project for the development of a center for Americans of Mexican descent.

If it were not for the volunteer work of the staff it would be impossible to balance the budget, Perez says. As it is, the free services of the committee have become one of the greatest assets of the center, he said.

"Our work has become a community project where we can draw from the best for an unselfish purpose," Perez said recently.

Aid Stranded Workers

At times the committee is called upon to deal with problems of a wider-than-neighborhood scope. An instance of this kind occurred recently when 20 braceros were stranded in Chicago.

The braceros, Mexican workers brought to the United States under a six months' contract to help in war work, were part of a contingent recruited by the war man power commission and the war food administration. When they arrived in Chicago almost a month after they had left Mexico City, they were without funds and had not yet been assigned to jobs.

For almost a week Perez and his committee kept the braceros at the center, providing them with lodging and food until their difficulties could be straightened out. The group is now in South Bend doing agricultural work.

Many in Service

The Chicago area has more than 30,000 Americans of Mexican descent, all of whom have been brought closer to their adopted country by the impact of the war. "There is hardly a family," says Perez, "that does not have a father, brother, or sweetheart in active service."

Military personnel from the area have distinguished themselves in combat. Many have won the Purple Heart. Among those who have outstanding records is Pvt. Manuel Perez, paratrooper, 3511 Roosevelt rd., who was awarded the congressional medal of honor posthumously for destroying 12 pillboxes and killing 75 Japanese on Luzon.

The patriotism displayed in combat is an index of the feeling of Mexicans for their adopted country, Perez says. "We are proud of our Mexican heritage," he declared, "and loyal to the United States. There is no conflict between the two."

BY PHILIP MAXWELL

Fred Miller

Nearly 1,000 men and boys and girls will take part in drills, baton twirling and drum corps exhibitions Saturday night at the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival to be held in Soldiers' field, beginning at 7 o'clock. Fred Miller, 601 Deming pl., who for 16 years has been field supervisor of the Tribune festivals, will be in charge of this part of the program.

Miller is an authority on field pageantry and has been identified with drum corps activities for many years. In 1927 he went to Paris with the drum and bugle corps of Kankakee, Ill., then the Illinois Legion's championship corps. He managed the American Legion national drum and bugle corps contest in Chicago in 1933. In addition to taking part in drum corps exhibitions he has written several manuals on baton twirling and drill and drum corps maneuvers.

Corps to Open Program

Seven Chicago drum and bugle corps will open the festival performance. The players will enter Gate 0 at the south end of the field, preceded by a massed assembly of 100 Cook county American Legion colors, under the command of John S. Cusack, commander of the Cook county council and Ellidor Libonati, Americanism chairman of the council.

Among the posts represented in the opening parade will be Square post, Giles, Melin-Romer, Logan Square, North West Cadets, a junior corps, sponsored by Portage and Glendale posts.

Harold Todd, a member of the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps, will assist Mr. Miller in the presentation of the opening pageant.

All Baton Twirlers Invited

All baton twirlers in Chicago are invited to take part in the big exhibition which will be staged later in the evening. In order to receive their instructions and tickets of admittance they should attend the festival rehearsal at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Soldiers' field. The festival contest finals for baton twirlers will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Soldiers' field.

A special exhibition also will be given during the performance by the Knights Templar of Humboldt commandery, No. 79. The commandery has headquarters at 2410 N. Kedzie blvd. The 125 men in the corps and drill teams are attired in dark blue uniforms with plumed hats and flashing sabers. Richard C. Loewe is drill master and George W. Patton is corps manager. Carl Schultz is commander of the Knights Templar group.

Northwest siders who will take part are:

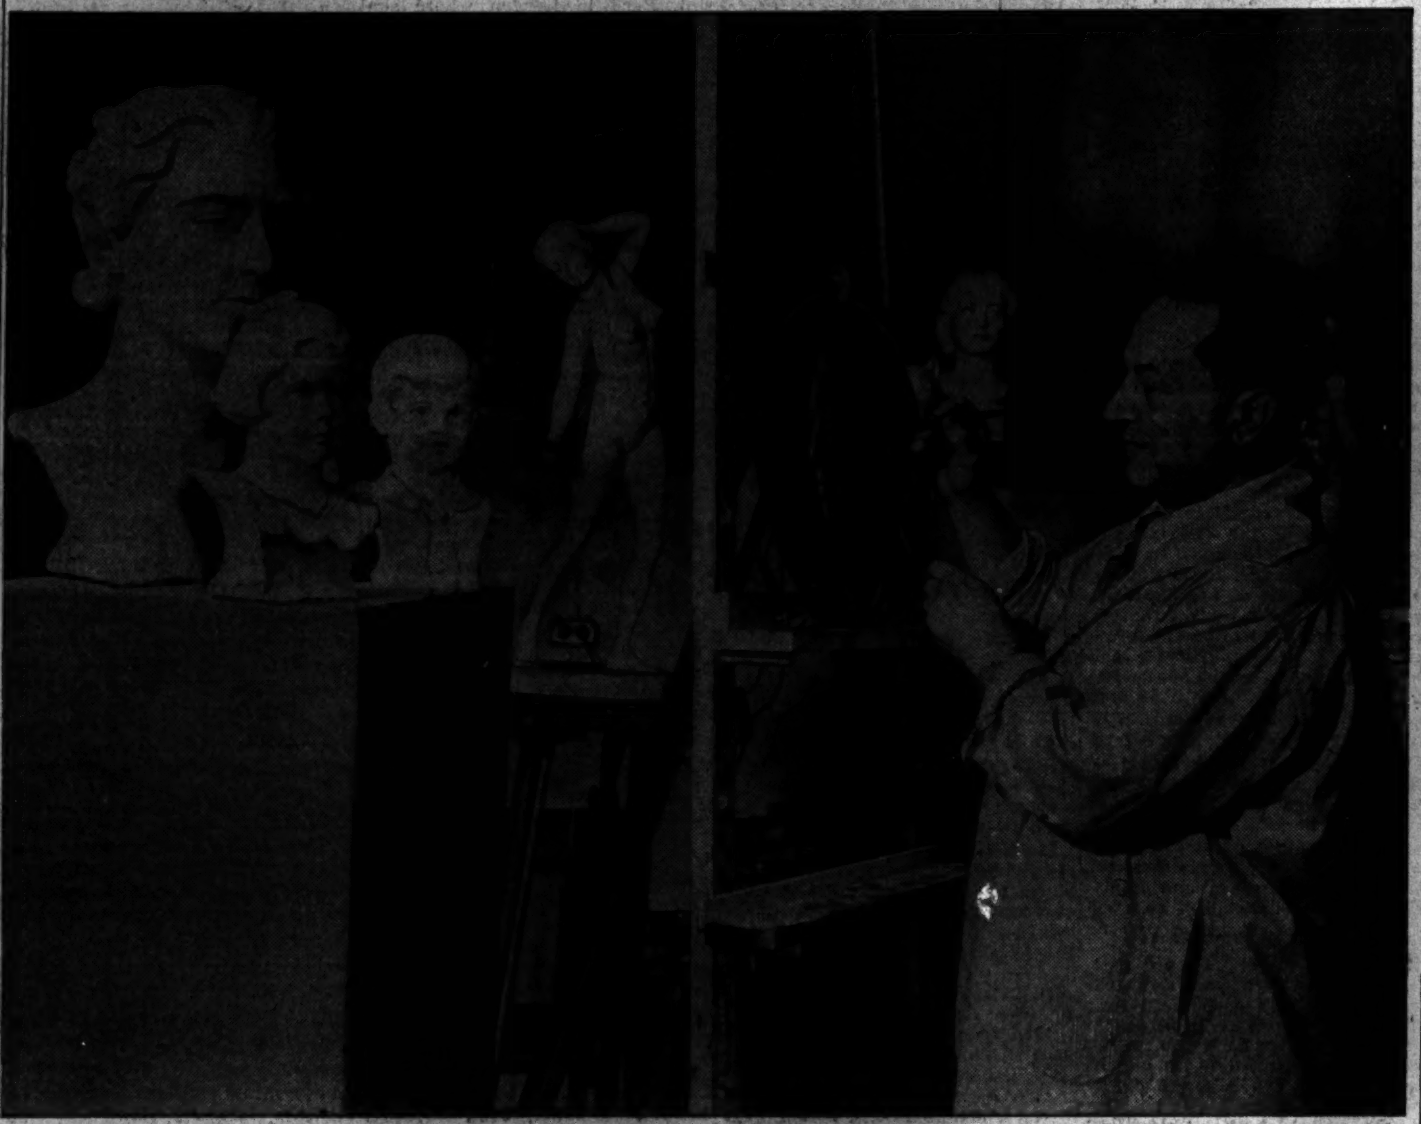
Romeo Scorns Stage to Create His Most Dramatic Work in Back Yard Studio



Like the mailman who walks on his day off, Eugene Romeo, an architectural designer, spends his spare time in his back yard studio modeling with clay. Romeo is finishing a plaque of Mrs. Louisa Harris, 1528 Thorndale av. He offered his work as a prize in a Chicago Artists association contest. Some of his other spare time work are heads of his wife, Jane (extreme left), and his niece and nephew, Virginia and Don Parsons.

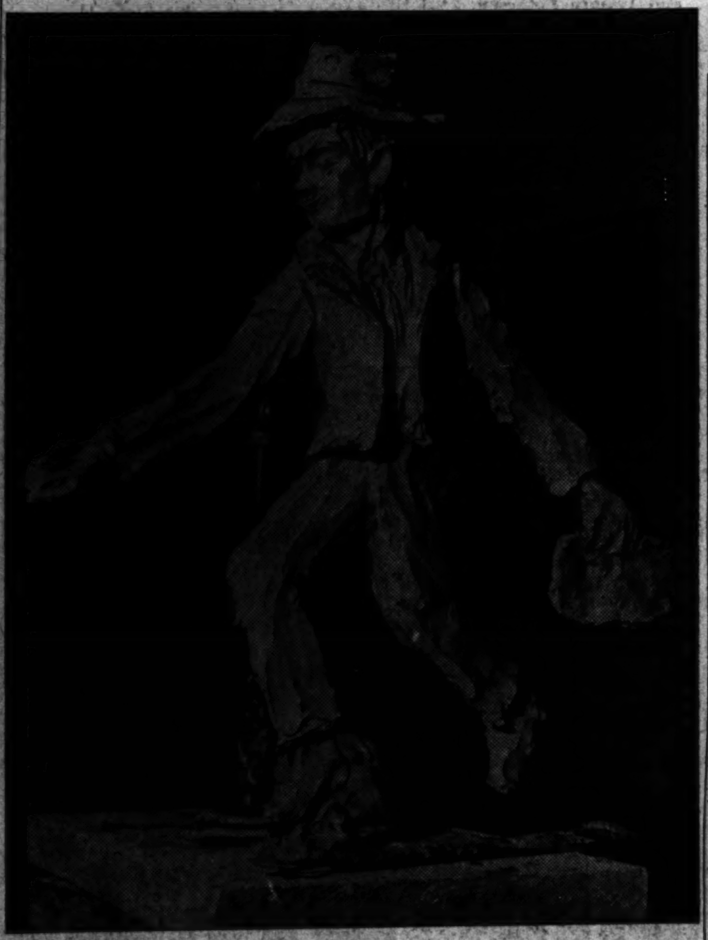
Working out a commercial design, Romeo first sketches the design on a board spread with clay, fills in with more clay and finally, with deft touches of his home made modeling tools, shapes the leaves and flowers.



Romeo likes to keep his hands busy and while he's talking to you he will limber up a gob of clay, slap it on the armature, jab his thumb here, his forefinger there, and behold! We have a caricature of his neighbor, Samuel Wilson, 222 Courtland av., Park Ridge, racing for the 8:25 train.

Pick a Hobby—It's Probably One of Curt's

Name a hobby, any hobby, and chances are that Curt A. Mundstock, 54, 5141 N. Christiana av., has had a fling at it.

He differs from the ordinary hobbyist who spends a lifetime pursuing one interest. He works at top speed, absorbing the possibilities of one hobby, then moving on to others.

A few of the works he has accomplished expertly include the tooling of leather with self-carved brass tools; weaving and dyeing of oriental rugs; celestial photography; making of jewelry from such mundane material as peach stones, plastic, and horn and coconut shell; writing poetry for radio programs, and lecturing on astronomy using slides which he painted in glowing colors.

Follows Monastic Artistry

Most consuming of all interests, however, is his handpainting and lettering of illuminated manuscripts such as monks in ancient monasteries spent lifetimes perfecting. He works on heavy cardboard with water colors and gold leaf. A massive Roman arch is sketched as a frame for the scrip within. Then the painstaking detail is begun.

Within tiny spaces of the 16 by 23 inch outer design mosaics are sketched and tooled with agate points. The whole is painted with water colors and highlighted with gold. The impressions of the tooling accomplish facets for the seemingly metallic and jeweled surface.

Mundstock's most ambitious manuscripts is enscribed with the Lord's Prayer on which he worked 172 hours. It will be presented to North Park college, Foster and Kedzie avs., his alma mater, this fall. An unfinished manuscript, lacking only the center lettering, took 115 hours of work on the mosair. His first attempt at the art form, a manuscript treatment of one of his own poems, required only 80 hours work.

Honored in World War I.

First recognition of his artistry came from the army. In World War I. he enlisted from medical college and was set to work in the medical corps drawing and painting illustrations for the army manual on X-ray.

After the armistice in appreciation of the work the army sent him to the Academie Julian and the Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris.

Despite his multitudious interests, Mundstock has retained his amateur standing. His business for 25 years has been the marketing of surgical fittings. His most important work, aside from hobbies, has been masonry. In 1942 he retired as sovereign prince of the Chicago council of Princes of Jerusalem, Ancient Accepted Order of the Scottish Rite.

CAP 9 WOMEN OF N. W. AREAS AS NURSES' AIDS

Nine northwest side women recently were capped as nurses' aids in ceremonies at Red Cross chapter headquarters at 529 S. Wabash av. The course consists of 40 hours of lectures and demonstrations of nursing procedures and 45 hours of supervisory practice in wards of designated hospitals. Those capped were Marjorie Kroon, 4243 N. Keeler av.; Donna and Dora Bastiani, 6227 N. Nordica av.; Anna Haas, 6315 Henderson st.; Ellen Malina, 2603 N. Kostner av.; Mrs. June McAdams, 5878 Forest Glen av.; Hermina Oakhill, 4950 Dakin st., and Henrietta Van Delft, 3610 N. Luna av.

DONALD QUINN WINS PURPLE HEART AND BRONZE STAR MEDAL

Pvt. Donald W. Quinn, son of Mrs. Emma C. Quinn, 2011 N. Leamington av., has made a habit of heroism—a habit which has acquired for him the bronze star medal and a bronze star medal and a Purple Heart.

Donald Quinn

The bronze star was awarded for successfully evacuating a number of wounded men near Munster, Germany, last April. He procured a horse and wagon and advanced under heavy mortar and sniper fire to bring the wounded back to safety. During a similar rescue effort in January, 1944, Quinn was wounded and received the Purple Heart after the ambulance which he was driving struck a mine.

As a member of an air borne division, Quinn took part in sealing off the Ruhr valley in Germany, enabling the troops to capture Von Papen, German diplomat.

SAND MODELERS TO SHOW SKILLS ON BEACH FRIDAY

Park Teams to Vie for Badges

The businesslike jeep built by sandcraft workers of Mozart park, 2036 N. Avers av., is just a sample of the production that will transform the North av. beach into a magic land next Friday as children from the north and northwest sides compete for the area championship.

Approximately 30 teams, each representing a park, will compete for first prize gold badges. Originality of theme and excellence of workmanship will be judged by a jury of park district recreational workers. Second and third place winners will be rewarded with silver and bronze badges, respectively.

The sandcraft contest will be only half the fun, however. Picnic lunches will be brought by the children who plan to make an all-day celebration of the contest with games and swimming. Recreational workers will supervise the outing.

The final contest for the area was preceded by elimination contests during the last two weeks in which parks selected their best teams of modelers.

FRANLIN PARK TAKES LEAD IN BUILDING UNITS

Franklin Park led all other communities and towns of the Chicago area in building units for the first half of 1945, the Chicago housing authority has reported. Franklin Park constructed 213 homes valued at $1,108,700.

The total cost of units in the Chicago area for the six month period is $36,509,411 as compared with $76,842,110 for all of 1944. The construction of home units so far this year is at a higher rate than last year as to cost but much lower in number, the report indicated.

Total cost of homes on the northwest side amounts to $2,226,335. Arlington Heights' 55 units are estimated at $331,350. Others are Bensenville, 51 units at $281,950; Palatine, 50 units, $267,775, and Des Plaines, 45 units, $236,560.

$15,000 SOUGHT 'TO KEEP CAMP FOR CHILDREN

Kiwanis Plans Drive in Ravenswood

A $15,000 drive to keep Camp Kiwanis North for the 1,000 underprivileged children who invade its woods each summer has been opened by the Kiwanis club of Ravenswood. Major activity of the group is supporting the camp near Rand rd. on the outskirts of Des Plaines.

The camp site covers 13 acres near the forest preserves along the Des Plaines river. Clarence S. Wille, president, said the property has been rented on a monthly basis, but the owner wishes to sell. Unless the club buys the land it will lose the camp and the $7,000 already invested in buildings and improvements. The purchase price asked is $15,000.

John S. Kurtz is chairman of a fund raising committee which plans a canvass of north side organizations and individuals before the drive closes Oct. 1.

Pick Team Leaders

Captains of canvassing teams, each consisting of five men, are Dr. Dr. Otto Bersch, Camp Director William Y. Brownlie, W. Frank Donaldson, Richard Teising, Walter Radig, John C. Herrig, Melvin A. Nelson, Thomas A. Oswald, Winard G. Olson, Jacques Saikin, and Frank W. Schauler.

The camp is under supervision of trained leaders and is available for outings and week-ends to children under 14 from such organizations as Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, church groups, orphanages, and civic clubs.

It was built in 1936 by club members, who with their own hands dug the foundations, poured concrete, laid stone and brick, and performed all carpentry. The camp centers about a main lodge and an assembly hall that has 24 double deck bunks at each end.

Dig Artesian Well

There also is a kitchen, dining room, a tool shed, and a small sleeping cabin. A recent improvement is the installation of an artesian well, 540 feet deep, with an electric pump. Children have access to the Des Plaines municipal swimming pool, two blocks from camp.

Other officers and directors of the club are Jack T. Haynes, immediate past president; C. G. Schwabe, vice president; A. J. Schroeder, treasurer; Edwin A. Koch, secretary, and G. H. Smith, Alvin Tagge, Charles Drake Jr., and John Bobzien, directors.

LASALLE DEMICHAELS GETS MEDAL; HELPED CAPTURE NAZI SHIPS

LaSalle DeMichaels Jr., 3102 N. Francisco av., whose father is superintendent of the county recorder's office, recently was awarded the air medal for aiding in the capture of three German trawlers in the arctic region. DeMichaels and seven other Illinois service men received the medal at the Elizabeth City, N. J., coast guard station. An aviation machinist's mate 1st class, DeMichaels was a crew member of a coast guard patrol which sighted the enemy ships. He was graduated in 1936 from Lane Technical High school where he was lieutenant colonel of the R. O. T. C.

28,000 Buttons Add Missing Link to History

BY NORMALEE RUGAN

Some students have an intense dislike for homework when it comes time for opening history textbooks. Avis Freedlund, Taft High school senior, used to be one of them. But not any more. She found the cure in buttons.

She admits her collection of 28,000 buttons didn't start because of her disinterest in history. Rather, when the church she attends put on a hobby show five years ago and she didn't have anything to enter, the 17 year old gathered together some of today's buttons lying around her home at 4918 N. Tripp av., sewed them on cards, and won a prize.

Her friends started saving them for her and the collection grew by leaps and bounds. It wasn't long before she had developed a genuine interest in the history of each. Now her collection, many of which are picture buttons, tell stories dating before Christ.

Of Romulus and Remus

In metal, glass, tortoise shell, sea shell, china, and other materials Avis has stories of Romulus and Remus, the Madonna and Child, Ben Hur, the Albatross, and Hansel and Gretel up to the present day one of Tom Sawyer loitering home from school. "History naturally became more interesting. It wasn't just a matter of remembering dates any more. Most of them I can connect with a certain button," she explained.

Her collection hasn't cost a penny. Friends and button collectors hearing of her enthusiasm have given her buttons out of sewing machine drawers or traded for one not in their collections. Many of them have come from members of woman's clubs, PTAs, and church groups where she has lectured.

Comes Home with Prizes

The first time she entered the National Antiques Exposition and Hobby fair held annually in Chicago she walked away with three prizes. The next year she took two first prizes and one second.

Most of the buttons are mounted on cards according to their composition or age. Those of the Civil war era are sewed on a black silhouette of Abraham Lincoln. Sea shell buttons adorn a water color of a fish. Calico dress buttons are sewed on a gingham cat.

A velvet button decorated with glass insets and worn by Queen Elizabeth is Avis' favorite. It was given her by a great-niece of the owner of Savoy palace from which Bess made her escape from Mary Queen of Scotts. The button supposedly came off her cape during her flight from the palace.

Brothers at War Help

Her three service men brothers help the collection along, too. Several unusual sea shell buttons from the Philippines have been sent by Spencer, aviation machinist's mate 1st class. Ensign Warren, a naval air pilot in the South Pacific, is sending some he has carved out of cocoanut and sea shells. Reginald Jr., a B-29 bombardier, has been too busy over Tokyo to send anything to date.

Particularly interesting is her group of foreign uniform buttons. They are from garments worn by a Spanish infantryman in 1898, national guardsmen of France, the Norwegian and Canadian air forces, Canadian engineers, Chinese and Japanese armies, and the German army in World War I.

Shoe buttons, paperweight buttons, wedding gown buttons, Czechoslovakian buttons, they're all there, and many more. So if you're a collector and in a mind for a trade, contact Avis.

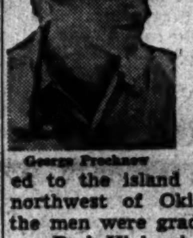
Park Ridge Methodist Church to Give Concert

A vocal concert will be held at 4 p. m. next Sunday in Park Ridge Methodist church. Prof. Gustav A. Lehman of the Colgate-Rochester [N. Y.] Divinity school faculty will conduct the program. Mrs. Virgil Moser will be accompanist. The public is invited.

TWO SCHOOLMATES OF KELVYN PARK HIGH REUNITED IN PACIFIC

Coast Guardsman George Prochnow, 21, seaman 1st class, part of the crew of an LST boat landing troops on Pacific islands, found a schoolmate of Kelvyn Park High school days among his marine corps passengers recently.

Raymond Kersten



George Prochnow

The marine, Pvt. Raymond Kersten, 4249 Overhill av., was being transported to the island of Iheya Shima, northwest of Okinawa. Both of the men were graduated from Kelvyn Park High school in 1942.

Prochnow wrote to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Prochnow, 4302 Fullerton av., "To see some one you haven't seen in two years is really wonderful!"

80 GIRL SCOUTS SING IN CHORUS MONDAY NIGHTS

More Than Half of Group from Area

Girl Scouts living on the northwest side compose more than half of the membership of the city-wide chorus recently organized.

Organized by Miss Gretchen Reighardt, field staff member of Girl Scout headquarters, the chorus of 80 members meets from 6:45 to 7:45 p. m. every Monday at Garfield park, 100 N. Central Park av., to sing old songs and learn new ones. Dr. Francis William Bergmann, assistant director of music for the Chicago park district, is director.

It is the first time an all-city chorus has been organized for Girl Scouts in Chicago, Miss Reighardt said. Previously the girls' group singing had been confined to troops. Besides singing "just for fun" the scouts will earn points for a group music badge, which will be awarded individually.

Will Sing Sept. 29

Their first official appearance will be made on the 25th anniversary of the Girl Scouts of Chicago dedication program Sept. 29 at Medinah Temple. Later performances will be given before civic and church groups and woman's clubs.

Northwest side members in the chorus include: Nebo Lutheran church troop, Dakin st. and Menard av.—Jean Christensen, Phyllis Kidd, Diane and Arlene Conville, Nora Lou Leff, Dolores Woodrow, Grace Wille, and Nancy Forehlich. Gethsemane Evangelical church troop, 3617 Belle Plaine av.—Joyce Barry and Barbara Wischowfer.

Portage Park troop, 4100 Long av.—Anna Marie Jordan, Rose Mary Mathews, Claire and Joanne McBride, Catherine Sullivan, Shirley Almqust, Joanne Tamala, Rosemary Reiss, Joanne Reiter, Geraldine Wagner, Patricia Mathews, and Mary Jane Bartman.

St. Priscilla School Unit

St. Priscilla school troop, 7001 Addison st.—Rosalyn Halaska, Kathleen Carlin, Mary Catherine Sunich, Eunice Szwajkart, Roberta Scheussler, Carol Van, Hildegard Catino, Marilyn and Barbara Dixon, Phyllis Cyllick, Betty La Bosh, Patricia Dietzler, Lois Hanson, Joan Sheridan, Gerry Welter, and Marilyn Tauber.

Our Lady of Mercy church troop, 4522 N. Troy st.—Bonita Wydra and Bernadette Hausman. River Park troop, 5100 N. Francisco av.—Polly Andros, Gloria Reahfeldt, Roberta Stout, and Lenore Rugquist; and Hamlin Park troop, Hoyne and Barry avs.—Mary Ann Sandeen, Diane Spersrud, Jeanne Ann Clarke, and Margaret Carlson.

LET'S TAKE OUR VACATION TRIP THRU UNIVERSE

No Ticket Priority Needed Here

[The ninth in a series of articles telling of interesting places available to Chicagoans who are vacationing at home due to war time travel restrictions.]

BY ONEY FRED SWEET

During the vacation month of August the Adler planetarium expects to entertain its five millionth visitor. In a time of travel restrictions the tantalizing demonstration topic for the month is "Other Worlds." But these astronomical journeys need not be postponed by Chicagoans. The only requirement is that they arrive at the museum at the scheduled starting time for trips thru the universe.

The planets—the only known other objects like our earth—can be distinguished from the stars by their motions. With the unaided eye we may watch these apparent motions which seem complicated. As explained at the planetarium the real motions of the planets are simple.

Now to Meet the Planets

First we are made acquainted with the five planets that can be seen by the unaided eye—Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and Mars. Then we are shown those planets that cannot be seen except with telescopes — Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto.

We learn something of what conditions are like in these far off worlds and the possibilities there of the existence of life.

Location of the planetarium on an island in Lake Michigan is suitable to a summer vacation experience. As you approach the museum from the west, Chicago recedes to a blurred skyline and you become absorbed in the blue of the lake. Walks and roadways of the broad esplanade flank a series of 12 shallow pools symbolic of the months of the year that prepare one's attitude for the adventure ahead.

Gives Air of Detachment

The upper promenade deck of the copper domed, granite building affords further opportunity to enjoy the scene of detachment from the city. Air conditioning gives the planetarium chamber, itself, an evening cool temperature.

Those who vacation in September and include the planetarium in the "musts" of their itinerary will appreciate a demonstration, "The Southern Cross."

Visitors first will be made acquainted with their home sky—objects that are visible, and their motions. They will then be transported to the skies of the East Indies and the smaller islands of the Pacific which have become familiar to our service men on duty in this part of the world. There will be a stopover to observe how the motions of the stars and planets have changed.

Now to the Pacific

The next step of the journey will be to the islands of the South Pacific, Australia, and New Zealand, as far south of the equator as Chicago is north of it. Strange things will be seen. The sun will be in the northern sky at noon and many constellations of the home sky will be upside down. Stars never visible at home, like those of the Southern Cross, will be high in the sky.

The trip will continue to the skies of the South Pole before the traveler is returned home.

Said Max Adler when the museum was dedicated: "The popular conception of the universe is too meager; the planets and the stars are too far removed from general knowledge. In our reflections we dwell too little upon the concept that the world and all human endeavor within it are governed by established order, and too infrequently upon the truth that under the heavens everything is interrelated even as each of us to the other."

Portraits of the Moon

On niches in the museum walls are 72 large transparencies from negatives made with the world's largest telescopes. You see the pitted surface of the moon, the sun in eclipse, closeups of famous comets, and the Milky Way.

A superb collection of astronomical instruments is on display, and among them is the 6 inch reflector made by Sir William Herschel, a duplicate of the one with which he discovered the planet Uranus.

These exhibits may be visited either before or after the sojourn to starland made possible by a complex instrument into which optical technique, mechanical skill, and astronomical knowledge all have been merged.

Hear Chorus of "Awes"

Seated comfortably in the central, circular hall visitors express their awe in chorus as darkness descends, the sky stretches into the infinite, and the big instrument with its many projectors reproduces the intricate phenomena of the heavens—the stars, sun, moon, and planets—all in their proper places for any instant of any year for any terrestial position.

As explained by the demonstrator the ancients were not fitting figures to the stars when they placed the first constellations in the sky. They were naming groups of stars for their heroes and divinities in the legends and myths. We do the same today with our geographical names, but the state of Washington is not expected to look like George Washington. In some cases, the figures do fit the stars, but in learning the constellations it is easier, at first, to look for the simple geometrical

EUGENE ROMEO FINDS HIS JULIET IN SCULPTURING

You've Seen Lots of His Work in Chicago

BY EDNA CARROLL

Eugene Romeo's Juliet is his sculpturing. It's the work he likes to do, and the only thing he says he's been trained to do. When he's not doing architectural modeling at his downtown studio in the McNulty Brothers company office, he's shaping heads from clay or making caricatures of his neighbors in his little back yard studio in Park Ridge.

An energetic man who has to keep his hands busy, Romeo will limber up a gob of clay while he's talking to you, slap it on the armature, and with a few jabs of his thumb and a couple of smooth strokes, produce the head of Lincoln, or the corner hardware man, or a caricature of his neighbor, Samuel Wilson, racing for the 8:25 train, satchel in hand.

First Sketches in Clay

Working out a commercial design, such as for the Shedd aquarium or the Rosenwald museum, which are some of his numerous Chicago works, he first sketches the design on a board in clay. Then he gives it shape by filling in the design with more clay and finally, with some deft touches of his homemade modeling tools, he shapes up the little cupids and makes the rosebuds bloom.

To give permanency to the work, he makes a mold to reproduce the model in plaster. On large commercial jobs, the help of nine or 10 casters is needed to prepare and lift the molds in his studio.

Father His First Teacher

Romeo comes from a long line of sculptors in Italy. One of nine children, he was brought to this country at the age of 5. Almost before he could write, he remembered, he was trying to draw, and his father gently guided him into his career as a sculptor.

The fundamentals he learned in New York at the Cooper Union and the Art Students league. The fine points he learned from Eugene Rochette, French sculptor, to whom he was apprenticed, after much pleading, at 25 cents a week. For this sum, he recalled, he was not only allowed to stand beside the noted sculptor while he worked, but also carry groceries and run errands for him.

World War I. interrupted his career when he joined the navy as a sea diver, an experience which gives him, he says, the right background to do fish.

Many Works in Chicago

Among Romeo's works, which Chicagoans pass daily, are the reliefs on the Ashland av. viaduct, the interior reliefs of the Stevens hotel, and those of the Board of Trade building and Merchandise Mart. He also did much of the decorative work for the World's fair, the new courthouse in St. Louis, the Fisher theater in Detroit, and on buildings in many other cities.

Like the clerk in Canterbury Tales, "gladly wolde he lerne and gladly teche." He helps a class of neighbors on Wednesday nights and strives for patience with a children's class on Saturdays, this, in addition to weekly trips with his wife, Jane, to Vaughan General hospital, to teach his art to the wounded.

Tuition Grants Given 27 N.W. Siders by N. U.

Twenty-six scholarships and one fellowship to Northwestern university have been awarded northwest side residents.

The fellowship, for graduate study in economics, was given Lewis G. Kahn, son of Rabbi Moses Kahn, 1233 N. Hoyne av. Kahn received his bachelor of science degree in economics from the University of Chicago in 1942.

The scholarships ranging in value from $100 to $850, were awarded to Charles Bachman, 6905 Odell av.; Marion Butler, 5939 Roscoe st.; Ralph Carlson, 5341 N. Newcastle av.; Lois Casperson, 5031 Wellington av.; Eleanor Chakolan, 5104 N. Leavitt st.; Doris Cliff, 3828 N. Mozart st.; Cynthia Cline, 7629 Greenview av.; Ann Haizlett, 6465 Greenleaf av.

Edward Henze, 4903 N. Tripp av.; Lois Johnson, 7006 Olcott av.; Robert Jorgensen, 5539 N. Linder av.; June Keeler, 5656 School st.; Arlene Lundberg, 2422 Orchard st.; Ruth Mansfield, 5206 School st.; Kenneth Mortonson, 5885 N. Harlem av.; Joy Salness, 5122 Waveland av.; Dorothy Sharman, 6520 Chicora av.; Carlyle Weichman, 4025 N. Tripp av.; Mildred Williams, 5632 N. Spaulding av.; Richard Williams, 6014 Nickerson av., and Janet Zawislak, 5712 Meade av.

Northwest suburban residents who received scholarships are Arthur Anderson and William Barkell of Des Plaines; Kathryn MacDonald, Dundee; Lillian Tipshus, Elmwood Park; Robert C. Shaull, Park Ridge, and Martha Ann Hill, Woodstock.

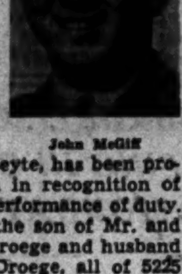
With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Walter Brudzinski

Promotion to captain has been achieved by Walter M. Brudzinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Brudzinski, 2053 Division st. In the India-Burma theater 15 months with the air forces, he has flown more than 400 combat hours on 155 missions. His awards include the distinguished flying cross with cluster, Presidential citation, and the air medal with three clusters.

Two northwest side physicians have been promoted to majors at the army's 108th General hospital, Paris. Joseph P. Cascino, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cascino, 1924 Grand av., has been recognized by the army as a specialist in brain surgery. He was graduated from Illinois Research hospital. Nathan Falk, whose wife, Mrs. Blanche Falk, lives at 3411 McLean av., received his medical degree from Loyola university in 1935.

The medical badge, in recognition of work performed by medical personnel with infantry units, has been awarded Capt. Alfred P. Jason, 5651 Henderson st., and Pvt. William F. Klemmer, 3233 Fullerton av., both of whom are with the same infantry regiment in Austria.



John McGiff

Marine Lt. John J. McGiff, son of Mrs. Tobias McGiff, 5712 Kimball av., is a torpedo bomber pilot with an aircraft carrier group. He was commissioned Aug. 7, 1943.

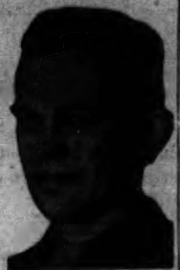
Arthur J. Droege, who was awarded the bronze star medal for leading his company's tanks when his company commander was killed near Leyte, has been promoted to captain in recognition of his outstanding performance of duty. Capt. Droege is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Droege and husband of Mrs. Sophia Droege, all of 5225 N. Parkside av.

Walter Smorowski

Walter H. Smorowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smorowski, 2843 N. Mason av., was commissioned a second lieutenant recently at the New Orleans [La.] officers' candidate school of the transportation corps.

Two northwest siders are in China with the 14th air force. They are Lt. William C. Kellerman, 3853 N. Kedvale av., and Lt. Robert F. Ebner, 5150 N. Moody av.

Sgt. Leon A. Jarosz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Jarosz, 918 N. Wolcott av., is teaching at Bovington college, a GI school established near London as a special service project of the air forces. Sgt. Jarosz was graduated from De Paul university, where he majored in accountancy and economics.



Gordon Amos

A commission as second lieutenant has been awarded Staff Sgt. Gordon H. Amos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Amos, 5512 Cortland st., while in St. Germain, France. Lt. Amos is assigned to the adjutant general's section of the air forces.

Five northwest siders recently began training at the army air field in Gulfport, Miss. They are Sgt. Edward J. Refka, 4928 Grace st.; Corp. Raymond Galenski, 1008 N. Hoyne av., and Privates Harold Bockhold, 4727 Kiona av.; Gerald Suchau, 5113 Cicero av., and Arthur Zabinski, 2253 N. Springfield av.

Gunnar Madsen

Aviation Cadet Gunnar Madsen, 5538 Cortland st., has been transferred to the naval air training center at Pensacola, Fla., upon completion of training at Glenview naval air station. A graduate of Austin High school, he began his training at Chapel Hill, N. C.

Arthur W. Zielinski, 3843 Addison st., has been promoted to sergeant and assigned to the military police unit at the Portland [Ore.] army air base. Two brothers, Privates Philip and Vincent, are in the European theater.

Three northwest side service men are homeward bound after being liberated from German prison camps. They are Privates Richard R. Suchor, 3755 Palmer st., and Everett E. Schroeder, 4341 N. Kilbourn av., both of whom were imprisoned five months, and Richard Susral, 3514 Lowell av., a prisoner eight months. Another recently liberated is Corp. Max Marcus, 1221 N. California av.

College Music Chairman to Speak at North Park

Sven Lekberg, chairman of the music department at Simpson college, Indianola, Ia., will speak on the folksong as an expression of Swedish temperament at 8 p. m. Tuesday at North Park college, Foster and Kedzie avs. His lecture will close the series of talks on Swedish life and culture presented this summer at the college.

PARKS CARRY ON COLLECTION OF WASTE PAPER

Since the closing of schools collection of waste paper by children has been shifted to the day camp programs of the city parks. Income from the salvaged paper is being used for prizes, clubroom equipment, and in one instance, materials for a junior Red Cross unit.

At Kosciuszko park, 2732 N. Avers av., Herbert Buell, supervisor, reports 58,000 pounds have been collected since the beginning of the drive July 1. More than 2,000 pounds of the park's total has been brought in by Robert Inorio, 2858 N. Avers av. Boys and girls attending the day camp collected 25,000 pounds in a curb pickup in a single day recently.

Outfit Teen-Age Club

Part of the proceeds will buy game equipment and a radio for the quarters of a teen-age club organized by 20 boys in the day camp. Annual and semi-annual passes to a local theater will be awarded to collectors having the highest poundage of scrap paper at the close of the drive, Aug. 25.

Emil Meier, supervisor of Jefferson park, Long and Higgins avs., reported that Jefferson's total exceeds 50,000 pounds. Approximately 40 boys and girls of the day camp are contributors. A part of the proceeds is being used to buy materials for afghans being made for convalescent soldiers by the Junior Red Cross unit of the camp. Highest contributor is Eileen Kania, 5472 Higgins av.

Youngsters at Humboldt park, 1400 N. Sacramento av., have collected 20,000 pounds of scrap paper in the last month, Ernest Useman, supervisor, said. Biggest collections have been made by Edwin Stranski, 1626 N. Francisco av., and Louise Wilczak, 1626 N. Campbell av.

Kelvyn Collection Soars

Day campers at Kelvyn park, Kostner and Wrightwood avs., take one afternoon off each week from their activities to help boost the waste paper drive for which they already have collected 14,000 pounds, Lawrence Bol, supervisor, said. Raymond Andre, 4524 Wrightwood av., has made the highest collection with a total of 1,038 pounds. Judy Carsten, 4437 Wrightwood av., is head of the girls in collections.

Other outstanding collectors are Jimmy Marcotta, 4342 Wrightwood av., and Lenore Petersen, 2426 Kilpatrick av. Prizes will be tickets to movies and ball games.

Most of Portage park's paper contributions came from the 800 boys and girls who frequent the swimming pool and day camp. Of the 6,500 pounds taken in at the park at Irving Park rd. and Central av., George Koppe, supervisor, credited Stanley Kleszyk, 5838 Dakin av., with 1,250 pounds.

Uses "Bombs Away" Plan

Emil De Julio, supervisor of Mozart park, Armitage and Avers avs., has kept the scrap paper rolling in to the tune of more than 3,000 pounds a week by his "bombs away" plan. Each youngster who has brought in 100 pounds is given a cardboard plane which is mounted on a large chart with the country of Japan drawn on it.

For each additional 20 pounds a bomb is added to the plane. Those who contribute 1,000 pounds are given a silver star for their plane. A gold star is given for each ton of paper brought in.

Highest collections have been made by Arthur Venhuizen, 3954 Shakespeare av.; George Grimelli, 2037 Avers av., and Wilbur Jankowski, 3815 Armitage av.

FIGURINE MAKER MODELS WORLD'S GREAT WOMEN

Snow White Her First Heroine of 1,000

Seventy-four years ago in a small city of southern Germany, a kindergarten teacher related the fairy tale of Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs to her pupils. One little girl, enchanted with the story, went home and created a miniature Snow White. Showing the finished doll to her mother, the 5 year old begged her to make the seven dwarfs, but the mother, forced to work ceaselessly to make ends meet in the large family, was too busy.

Then her grandmother said: "Make them. I will help you." Within the week seven dwarfs emerged, each with a small potato for the body, sticks for legs, wire for arms, a carved chestnut for the head, and gray wool for hair and a beard.

This childhood pleasure led to the career of Mrs. Minna Moscherosch Schmidt, the making of figurines representing outstanding men and women since the time of Babylon. She has become a godmother to thousands of Chicagoans because of her costume studios.

More than 1,000 Figurines

Mrs. Schmidt, 1945 N. Kildare av., is 79. She has made more than 1,000 figurines in her lifetime. Systematically grouped according to periods of history, they have been used by Mrs. Schmidt to illustrate historic lectures thruout the country.

Here can be found hostesses of the White House, women benefactresses in art and education, explorers from 1000 to 1927, important Indians from the time of Hiawatha, personages from the court of Louis XV. and from the Turandot Chinese legend of the 15th century, heroes and heroines of opera, women warriors, Columbus and the court of Ferdinand and Isabella, and famous twins starting with the Dromios and the merchants in Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors."

New additions to her ever growing collection will include dramatic artists of the last 60 years, outstanding sculptors since Michelangelo, and the Russian court and peasants of the 18th century.

Came to America When 20

Oldest child in a family of 17, Mrs. Schmidt realized early in life that the only way to get what one wanted was to work for it. That desire was to come to America and teach its people what she knew of Europe. By her 20th birthday she had saved enough money to make the trip. She came to Chicago as a governess. Her sweetheart followed her to America and they were married in 1887.

Teaching, dancing, rehearsing amateur plays and pageants, making costumes for her pupils for plays, and translating fairy tales kept her busy. Renting costumes and wigs for her plays left her little money. An assistant did the teaching to enable Mrs. Schmidt to devote more time to planning and supervising.

In 1915 at 920 N. Clark st. she erected one of the first buildings in the country wholly devoted to the costume business. Her stock included costumes for almost every type of play or pageant. If the costumes necessary to produce ancient or medieval pageants could not be obtained in America, she made trips abroad and purchased originals which she duplicated in detail. It was Mrs. Schmidt's idea to educate the public's taste in period costumes. In addition she taught costumology at the University of Chicago. Until last year when forced to retire because of her health, she had told the story of coming pageants and holidays for 28 years in her show windows.

$5,000 Collection on Display

While studying and gathering facts, Mrs. Schmidt used her knowledge to design and dress figurines of historic persons. She has given away some of the groups. A collection valued at $5,000 of 60 wax replicas of famous women of Chicago history can be seen on the second floor of the Chicago Historical society.

In 1929 she gave the Illinois State Historical library 129 figurines depicting famous Illinois women. Probably her most valuable collection is that of 400 figurines of prominent women of the world, created for the Century of Progress and now housed at Trinity college, Washington, D. C. Selection of characters was made thru the embassies at Washington and the consulates in Chicago.

Recently she presented the remaining groups to Holy Family academy, 1446 Division st., for use in history classes. Mrs. Schmidt goes to the academy three or four times a week to tell the sisters the story of each figurine. Beginning next fall Holy Family students will hear the stories along with their studies in history and literature classes.

Her Latest Bruenhilde

Each figurine stands about 20 inches high and is made of a plaster and cement mixture. She has tried not only to duplicate costumes of the period but has sought to gain verisimilitude thru facial features. Materials for many of the costumes were purchased on trips to European countries, Palestine, and Egypt.

Today she creates and dresses the figurines as avidly as she did the Snow White doll. A bit of tulle and yellow wool crepe rope for the wig, a crocheted string hat treated with silver paint, a flowing white crepe skirt, a circular cape of red wool felt, and a length of wire covered with silver ribbon for a staff; there you have Bruenhilde of Wagner's opera, "Die Walkure."

DU PAGE COUNTY FAMILY SERVICE PLEDGED FUNDS

Bensenville, Bloomingdale, Itasca, and Roselle have promised to meet their War and Community fund quotas for the Family Service association of Du Page county for 1946, Dr. Timothy Lehmann of Elmhurst has reported. The money will be raised in October. "If each of the 28 communities in the county meets its quota, it will be unnecessary for Family Service association to conduct separate, independent campaigns," Dr. Lehmann said. "The association operates entirely on voluntary contributions."

'TIS SON OF ERIN WHO WILL BE OUT THIS WEDNESDAY

If the breeze carries the whisper of the little people; if the grass is grener and sky more deeply blue next Wednesday, sure, and it's because the Irish of Chicago will be finding it a bit of old Erin, just for the day.

More than 10,000 are expected to gather in Harms park, 4207 N. Western av., to celebrate Irish day, officially proclaimed by the city council last month. For many years, however, the clans have gathered in the park on Aug. 15 to observe Our Lady Day in Harvest, traditional Irish feast day.

Many Events Scheduled

Bishop Sheil and the Rev. James J. Mertz, S. J., Loyola university, will be principal speakers. Also part of the celebration, beginning at 4 p. m., will be Irish music, played on war pipes, accordions, and flutes; singing, dancing, games, and athletics. A baton twirling contest will be staged, by 300 pupils from the Irish dancing schools of the city, and a stage show will be presented by participants in the radio program, Irish Hour.

To reign over the festivities a queen will be selected from 30 contestants who were chosen from all parts of the city. Winner will be selected by the plaudits of the audience.

Will Play Irish Music

Music for modern dancing will be supplied, while Irish melodies for square dances and reels will be furnished by a flute band.

Northwest siders who will serve on committees are Patrick Enright, Park Ridge; Edward Hegart, 2505 Cullom av.; John Kelly, 4135 N. Richmond st.; Patrick O'Connor, 4859 N. Talman av.; John Hartigan, 1453 N. Lockwood av.; A. J. Le Velle, 4506 N. Artesian av.; Patrick O'Donnell, 2751 Arthur av.; Elizabeth Holland, 3413 Lincoln av., and Mary Hanlon, 4926 Warwick av.

CLUB OF FOREST GLEN WILL HOLD OUTING TODAY

Forest Glen Progressive Men's club will hold its annual basket picnic today in the forest preserve area, Catalpa and Forest Glen avs.

A prize will be awarded for the first identification of "Mr. and Mrs. Forest Glen." Baseball, races, and other sports are planned for the afternoon.

The club president, George Harker, was assisted in planning the picnic by committees directed by Raymond Pentz and Herbert M. Jenssen.

Hermosa Group Will Emphasize War Activities

Preparatory to the opening of the club season members of Hermosa Woman's club are completing plans for the year's program. At each meeting war service activities, religion, and international relations will be stressed, Mrs. Orrin P. Catlin, president, said.

The first meeting will be held at 1:30 p. m. Oct. 5 at the Hermosa park fieldhouse, Kilbourn and Belden avs. Other meetings are scheduled for the first Friday of each month at the fieldhouse. Speakers and artists for programs will be announced.

Appoint Department Chairmen

Department chairmen appointed recently include: Mrs. C. H. Ordas and Mrs. Walter A. Graebe, citizenship; Mrs. G. M. O'Brien and Mrs. Roy A. Anderson, American home; Mrs. Monroe E. Cotes and Mrs. H. H. Herlach, art.

Mrs. Maxwell P. Risser and Mrs. George Uding, better films council; Mrs. Victor A. Olander and Mrs. Eva Wiersum, civil service; Mrs. Albert H. Weeg, drama and literature; Miss Lena L. Kleinschmidt and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, education; Mrs. O. R. Schoenrock, federation news.

Ancient Stars Inspire Moderns

Those who have been content to consider the conspicuous Big Dipper as a constellation learn that it is but part of Ursa Major, the Great Bear, whose head and feet are marked by fainter stars below the bowl of the Dipper. The Dipper itself forms the hind quarters of the Bear, while the handle forms an impossibly long tail. There are many stories and legends concerning the Great Bear.

"These stories which inspired the ancients to name the star groups are not old and dead," Director Wagner Schlesinger tells his listeners. "They live on today and inspire moderns to some of their greatest works in painting, sculpture, and music just as the sky on a beautiful, clear dark night is an inspiration to any one who stops to contemplate the glory overhead. Nor does this familiarity with the stars dull this inspiration. Rather, it increases it.

"It is not difficult to learn the stars and constellations. An hour or two each month for a year is sufficient time to learn them so well they will never be forgotten. Learning the constellations is like making a new set of friends who will be with you no matter where you may go on the earth, no matter how long you live!"

Ruth Shmigelsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shmigelsky, 2644 N. Western av., has been awarded a one year fellowship in stagecraft at the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C. A June graduate of Mundelein college, she was stage technician and designer there for two years. She is a member of Kappa Gamma Pi, national Catholic honorary society.

Adler Planetarium One of World's Best

The Adler Planetarium and Astronomical museum, which opened its doors to the public in 1930, contains the finest collection of antique instruments in the world as well as exhibits to illustrate modern developments in the science of astronomy. Many large transparencies, illuminating photographs of the heavens made with great telescopes, also are on view.

Seated within the planetarium chamber one sees a portrayal of the sky with all its changes as time passes. The changes are due to the earth's motions. Each month a different drama of the heavens is presented.

The museum is open on week days from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; on Sundays, 2 to 5 p. m. It is closed on Mondays. Planetarium demonstrations are at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. on week days; 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. on Sundays. Admission is free on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays. Other days 25 cents plus 5 cents federal tax is charged. School children are free mornings. Children under 5 are not admitted to the planetarium chamber. The planetarium instruments may be seen only during the time of demonstration.

ANNUAL GARDEN SHOW WILL BE HELD IN SUBURB

Arlington Heights Garden club will hold its 10th annual show Sept. 8 at Arlington Heights fieldhouse. The show will be open to the public.

Mrs. James Sommer, general chairman, specified that exhibits will be divided into six classifications: Individual flowers, flower arrangements, table settings, shadow box arrangements, individual vegetables, and vegetable arrangements. Ribbons will be awarded first, second, and third places in each classification.

Will Give Best Exhibit Award

A special award will be given for the best exhibit in the show. The National Garden bureau, 407 S. Dearborn st., has presented the club with a bronze medal to give to the entrant displaying the finest home grown vegetable.

Committee chairmen who already have begun work on the show are: Dr. Edward J. Hunsinger and James E. Wood, house; Clyde L. Emrick, decorations; Paul E. Patrick, lighting and shadow boxes; Ira S. Parker, judging and awards; Mrs. Parker exhibits; Charles H. Doellefield, commercial exhibits; Mrs. Doellefield, group exhibits; Mrs. Ben K. Babbitt, publicity, and Nan Sommer, hostess. High school girls will preside at the refreshment table.

Name Officers to Preside

Officers presiding at the show will include C. A. Hughes, president; Ed Minteer, vice president; Mrs. Doellefield, secretary, and Mrs. Paul Patrick, treasurer.

Proceeds will be used to obtain speakers for club programs next winter. Eugene Pfister of Mundelein and Mrs. A. R. Moreen of Palatine have been invited to judge the exhibits.

OKINAWA FINDS ITS EDISON IN DES PLAINES VET

Out on Okinawa the boys consider Sgt. Thomas P. Carson of Des Plaines another Thomas A. Edison. For the Okinawa campaign the marine camera man installed and operated a 90 hour portable sound recorder in a machine gun cart, designed and helped build an air-conditioned photographic darkroom, and built his own power station from a discarded generator.

A technician for the 1st marine division's battle broadcasting unit, Carson also is considered the Okinawa authority on the repair of Japanese radios. He once reconditioned a movie projector for field hospital patients. Radio recording of the battle of Peleliu was made possible when Carson repaired a broken film recorder. The machine arrived without wire diagrams. Carson tore it down, diagrammed and rebuilt it with washing machine and jeep motor parts for the generator.

Carson enlisted in the marine corps for four years in 1936 and served in China during the Sino-Japanese hostilities. Before his reenlistment in 1942, he was employed in the industrial control shop of the General Electric company, 800 S. Clinton st.

Hold Edison Park's 6th Pet Show on Thursday

The sixth annual pet show for children of Edison Park will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at Brooks park, Odell and Estes avs. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded by the Edison Park Community council. Dogs, cats, turtles, and rabbits are among the eligible entrants.

N. W. SUBURBAN SCOUTS TO GET HIKING MEDALS

Ten Boy Scouts of Mount Prospect who recently hiked the Lincoln trail between New Salem and Springfield will be awarded medals in the court of honor this fall.

Scouts were started off in pairs at 10 minute intervals. They were warned by Russell Smith, Scoutmaster, that no "lifts" would be allowed. At the half way mark Scout rations were handed out. The entire hike was completed in less than eight hours. Among the points of interest visited at Springfield were Lincoln's tomb, home, and church.

Those who made the trip were Carlyle Roderick, Loren Hollemback, Richard von Kampen, James Keithley, James Clemens, John Le May, Willard Rassmusen, Burton Lessman, Kenneth Rash, and Theodore Schulze.

Wins Scholarship

Robert C. Shaull of Park Ridge has been awarded a scholarship in the school of journalism at Northwestern university. He will enroll as a freshman this fall.

GIVE FESTIVAL BROADCAST ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Stars, Chorus Will Sing from 9 to 10 P. M.

Solos by Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett will be heard on the broadcast portion of the Chicago Music Festival over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network Saturday night from 9 to 10 o'clock. Miss Swarthout will be heard in Youmans' "Thru the Years," "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen," and "Dancing in the Dark" from "The Band Wagon" by Dietz. Selections to be offered by Tibbett include "Di Provenza" from Verdi's "La Traviata," Wolfe's "De Glory Road," and "One Alone" from Romberg's "Desert Song."

Philip Maxwell, director of the festival held annually at Soldiers' Field, will be master of ceremonies for the program. Music will be provided by a 110 piece orchestra, under the baton of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N.

A chorus of 4,300 voices, directed by Dr. Edgar Nelson, will open the broadcast with the "Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Weber will conduct the orchestra in Chabrier's "Espana."

Dr. Nelson also will lead 1,500 Lutheran church choristers in "The Wondrous Things the Lord Hath Done" by Christiansen. John G. Rieck will direct a Lutheran children's chorus of 750 voices in a cappella presentation of Kremser's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and Bortniansky's "Jubilate, Amen."

Some worthwhile radio fare is in store for drama lovers starting Sept. 9, when The Theater Guild will begin airing plays Sunday nights from 9 to 10 o'clock via WENR-ABC. Theater Guild successes will be highlighted on the series, but scripts also will be built around productions not sponsored by the Guild. In as many instances as possible, the original casts will act in the radio adaptations. When one considers that Eugene O'Neill, Franz Werfel, Sidney Howard, Philip Barry, and the team of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. are all Guild playwrights, one can anticipate an hour of entertaining listening.

Off a live mike: When Amos 'n' Andy were entertaining troops in Germany, souvenir saver Andy snagged a piece of tile from Hitler's bathtub at Berchtesgaden . . . "The Ernie Pyle Infantry Song" will be given its radio premier on the Army Hour over WMAQ-NBC at 3 p. m. today . . . Tonight Tommy Dorsey will be host to Marguerite Chapman, screen star, on WMAQ-NBC at 7:30 o'clock.

QUIZ KIDS MUFF A FEW NOW AND THEN, IT SEEMS

Harve Fischman

The Quiz Kids, who juggle posers Sunday nights at 6:30 o'clock on WENR-ABC, aren't so smart, sometimes. Like all youngsters, they make mistakes now and then. There's the time Richard Williams visited an automat, slipped in a nickel for cocoa and failed to provide a glass for the beverage, which spurted over him.

When the Kids were in Victoria, Canada, they were entertained at the government house, where Ruthie Duskin sat quietly looking into space. "A penny for your thoughts," offered her hostess. Ruthie replied, "I was playing a little thinking game that I always play when I'm not having a good time."

During a bond tour in Richmond, Va., Joe Kelly's gang was to meet for luncheon on the mezzanine floor of their hotel. Harve Fischman strolled in to find the mayor and other city officials gathered for what he thought was the Quiz Kid shindig. Harve ate his lunch, made a speech, and had a wonderful time only to discover he had attended a luncheon given by the Richmond Musical society to boost its membership.

Discuss Potsdam on Review Stand Today

The significance of the Potsdam conference will be discussed on the Northwestern Reviewing Stand over W-G-N-Mutual at 10:30 a. m. today. Prof. Hans J. Morgenthau and William Stokes will participate.

PHILHARMONIC SOLOIST TO BE GEORGE SANDOR

George Sandor, pianist, will be soloist with the New York Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Dimitri Mitropoulos, on WBBM-CBS at 2 p. m. today. Sandor will play Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto No. 2 in C minor. The orchestra will play Vaughan Williams' Symphony No. 4 in F minor.

Spitalny's Girls Will Play and Sing Old Favorites

Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra and chorus will offer selections from their Hour of Charm record album on WMAQ-NBC at 9 o'clock tonight. A presentation of Steffe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic" by the orchestra and chorus will open the program. Molloy's "Love's Old Sweet Song," Nevin's "The Rosary," the Bach-Gounod "Ave Maria," and other favorites will be heard.

Offer Bach Work on NBC Symphony Program

Movements from the unaccompanied violin sonatas of Bach have been arranged by Frank Black into a Suite for Strings, which the NBC Symphony orchestra will play under his direction on WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. The orchestra also will present Tschaikowsky's Andante Cantable from the Fifth Symphany in E minor, the Overture to Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol."

Here's Lineup for Miss Langford's Show

Frances Langford will devote a portion of her show on WMAQ-NBC at 7 o'clock tonight to singing "I Got It Bad," "Sentimental Journey," and "Lonely Love." Spike Jones and his City Slickers will entertain with novelty arrangements of "Hawaiian War Chant" and "McNamara's Band."

This Week in the Garden

Outdoor flowers should be at their best at this time, especially those known as bedding plants. These include such kinds as the geranium, Canna, Verbena, sweet Alyssum, Ageratum, elephant's ear, and other well known kinds.

They will need an abundance of water, altho the geranium flowers best when not kept saturated at all times. Cannas require a lot of water but soaking the soil only once or twice a week should suffice, depending on the character of the soil.

Often the gardener believes that a daily soaking will promote a stronger and healthier growth, but such is not the case. When soaking is constant the roots cannot function properly. Let the soil dry out but not to the extent that the plants wither for a lack of moisture.

Tuesday, Aug. 14

If you are interested in seeing the newer varieties of the popular gladiolus, visit the gladiolus show at Garfield park conservatory. It is the top show of the kind in the middle west.

Water lilies should be at the height of their flowering season at this time, especially the beautiful tropicals with their immense flowers and fine colors. Among the varieties that are well adapted for small pool use are August Koch, pink pearl, Chicago [pink], and all hybrids originating at Garfield park conservatory.

Garden [hardy] chrysanthemums will soon be in bloom and continue until after frost in October. Stop disbudding and give an application of plant food when the buds show. They are gross feeders. Tie up the tall sort.

Wednesday, Aug. 15

It is time to examine the pots of house plants that were plunged in the garden during the summer. Any plants that need repotting or shifting should receive attention. Large tubbed plants may be top dressed with rich soil which makes it unnecessary to shift into larger containers.

Frequently plants in too large pots or tubs are grown indoors. It is much better to discard excessively large plants and replace them with medium sized plants—more kinds can occupy the space of a single large plant.

In many cases, plants can be easily propagated by placing cuttings in a bottle of water. Among these are the shoots from the screw pine [pandanus], English ivy [Hederal], Coleus [foliage plant], grape ivy [vitis], wandering jew [tradescantia], African violet [saintpaulia], German ivy [senecio], and Chinese evergreen [aglaonema simplex].

Thursday, Aug. 16

Keep the vegetable garden cultivated and free from insect attacks. It will be necessary to apply water at least once a week. Water the shrubs, trees, and perennials. It is a fine time to cut out deadwood, for it is easily distinguished at this time.

It is not too early to take critical notes for changes in the garden plan for next season. Rearranging shrubbery borders, the elimination of too much shade, changing the layout into a better design and all other practices that intrigue the gardener may be made on paper.

Food must continue to be grown in 1946, according to government authorities, and if more space is desired it should be arranged for as soon as possible. But in any event do not attempt more than can be cared for.

Friday, Aug. 17

The attacks of insects have been most serious this season. Many cocoons are seen fastened to the trunks and branches of trees. Collect and destroy all these that can be reached. When the larvae changes into flying butterflies or moths which lay their eggs on vegetation more and more of their kind are produced to consume and mutilate foliage that grows later on.

Watch for aphids and spray with a contact material, such as nicotine, rotenone or pyrethrum. Larger flowers of dahlias may be enjoyed by disbudding. Do not allow phlox to form seed or a mixed lot will be had next season. Remove all seed pods but cutting back the flower stems.

Keep evergreens well watered. Collect and burn diseased leaves of the hollyhocks.

Saturday, Aug. 18

Keep seedlings well watered, for if they are allowed to dry out they will be checked in their growth. They should be given every opportunity to grow into good, husky plants for later planting in the borders.

Keep the grass cut at 2 to 3 inches and do not allow crab grass to form seed. Turn over the compost heap that was started earlier.

Get the cold frames in condition by reglazing the sash, painting and repairing the frame. Anchusa will grow from root cuttings. Plant oriental poppies for next year's bloom. There are many fine sorts.

ORGANIZE GIRL SCOUT CHORUS FOR JUBILEE

In preparation for their 25th anniversary celebration Sept. 29, Girl Scouts of Chicago have organized a chorus which rehearses at 6:45 p. m. each Monday in Garfield park, 100 N. Central Park av., under leadership of Dr. F. W. Bergmann, assistant director of music for the park district and director of the Pullman choir.

All Girl Scouts who like to sing are urged to join. The group music badge will be awarded for regular attendance.

North side girls in the chorus are Roberta Stout, Polly Andros, Gloria Reahfeldt, and Lanore Burgquist, all of River park troops, 5100 N. Francisco av., and Mary Ann Sandeen, Diane Sperarud, Jeanne Ann Clarke, and Margaret Carlson, all of West Lake View troop, Hamlin park, Hoyne and Barry avs.

Play Brahms Symphony Over W-G-N Tuesday

The Chicago Philharmonic orchestra, under direction of Henry Weber, will highlight Brahms' Symphony No. 4 in E minor over W-G-N, WGNB at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. The orchestra also will present the overture to Beethoven's "Prometheus" and Franck's tone poem, "Les Eolides."

Ozzie Nelson Show Is Back on WBBM Today

The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet, comedy vehicle which stars Ozzie Nelson and his wife Harriet Hilliard in a dramatization of the the trials of a young band leader and his wife in their struggles to achieve success for themselves and security for their family, resumes on WBBM-CBS at 5 p. m. today.

Mystery House Drama

"Whistle for a Hearse," drama starring Forrest Lewis and Nannette Sargent, is scheduled for presentation on Mystery House over W-G-N at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

SWIMS TO SAVE CREW TRAPPED IN CRASH AT SEA

Other Acts of Heroism Bring Bronze Stars

Sgt. Harold E. Tindall, 1005 N. California av., who is among northwest side service men who have received the bronze star, received additional honors when the 422d infantry regiment paraded in his honor at Bad Ems, Germany, at the ceremony.

Sgt. Tindall swam 300 yards off the beach of Sicily to a crashed plane and freed the trapped paratroopers from the fuselage. He towed the injured men to shore with the aid of several others who joined him in the rescue work as the plane was sinking.

Also receiving the award for rescuing trapped soldiers, Lt. Whitman M. Smith was cited for leaving his tank under heavy fire to rescue two wounded men in a burning tank near Wannderheide, Germany. Lt. Smith is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Smith, 2421 Dakin st.

Plan Operations for Patton

High ranking officers from the northwest side who received the award included Lt. Col. Charles H. Gardner, 5129 N. Kildare av. Lt. Col. Gardner, the citation said, successfully planned operations for troops of Patton's 3d army breakthru into Austria.

Lt. Comdr. John Blake Carroll, 4522 N. Albany av., was awarded a gold star in lieu of a second bronze star medal for meritorious service in operations against the enemy in the Okinawa-Formosa-Philippine Islands area. He commands a destroyer.

Maj. Ivan F. Kovac, who accompanied Gen. Clark on his return to the United States, was awarded the bronze star for his part in the Vosges mountain campaign in northeastern France. Thru questioning of prisoners he obtained information of enemy plans and lines, the citation said. Despite difficult terrain he kept the troops well informed of the enemy's positions. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Stefan Kovac, 5412 Leland av.

Trio Receive Melads

Three northwest siders, all members of the 91st division in Italy, to receive the award are Pvt. John A. Oplawski, whose mother, Mrs. Sophie Oplawski, lives at 854 N. Elston av.; Pvt. Leo S. Waksmundzki, 956 N. Racine av., and Pvt. William J. Ciezadol, 2458 N. Lockwoow av.

Pvt. Oplawski replenished his company's ammunition by crossing in full view of the enemy to an ammunition dump and returning with his arms loaded while snipers fired at him. Pvt. Waksmundzki, with two companions, rapidly overpowered four positions of the enemy by hand to hand fighting as his company advanced. His group was saved and 15 enemy soldiers captured. Pvt. Ciezadol received his reward for heroic achievement in action.

Honor Purple Heart Wearer

Pvt. Kenneth J. Ruth, holder of the Purple Heart, received the bronze star for withdrawing a number of troops under heavy enemy fire near Ilshofen, Germany. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ruth, 3145 N. Lawndale av.

For performing valiantly in the face of unusually heavy enemy fire, four others were given the award. They are Sgt. Walter S. Price, 1917 Dickens av.; Lt. William E. Brekke, 1010 N. Latrobe av.; Pvt. Lawrence J. Hansen, 3922 N. Mozart st., and Sgt. Laurance J. McAdam, 4825 Fletcher st.

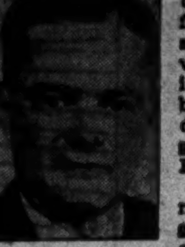
Sgt. and Mrs. E. L. De Ment

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Baird, 5708 Cornelia av., announce the marriage of their daughter, Lois Mae, to Sgt. Edward L. De Ment, son of Mrs. Edwin Stade of 5730 Cornelia av. Both are graduates of Foreman High school. Sgt. De Ment has reported to the army air field at Miami, Fla., for reassignment. He holds the Purple Heart, Presidential citation, and air medal. He recently was released after 14 months in a German prison camp.

ELMWOOD PARK PICNIC TO HONOR J. A. CULLERTON

John A. Cullerton, village president of Elmwood Park for 11 years and Democratic committeeman for Leyden township for 10 years, will be honored in a picnic celebration next Sunday at Garden grove, Franklin Park.



John Cullerton

The noon to midnight program will feature games and dancing, and prizes including two war bonds, two bicycles, and $200 in cash. Co-chairmen of the picnic are K. E. Gunderson and Leonard Kulpinski.

This 11th annual outing has been termed "Johnnie Cullerton Day."

SIMPLE RULES EASE PAINTING CANVAS ITEMS

Essential to Remove Dirt and Dust First

BY LOUISE BARGELT

There are only a few simple rules to follow if one is applying special paints to canvas, but these rules are well worth heeding.

For furniture and equipment it is important that dust and dirt be removed by thoro brushing. Then any one of 10 and more colors can be applied. The strokes should be even and the pressure on the brush steady.

Paint should not be applied with an overloaded brush. After the painting the article should be placed in the sun to dry. If another coat seems necessary, paint should not be applied until the first application has dried.

Test Paint First

Leatherette and other coated fabrics sometimes can be freshened with this type of paint, but because of the unknown chemical content in such articles it is well to test the paint on an inconspicuous spot. Test for drying and chipping before going ahead with the complete job.

There is an overcoating available, a clear liquid, which can be applied over the paint to seal in the pigments. This is especially recommended for porch chairs, gliders, and canvas articles subject to rubbing. To make canvas articles water repellent and mildew proof and give them longer life there also is available a special clear liquid.

If you have covered a grass or fiber rug with this paint, go over the rug when it is dry with a scrubbing brush to restore gloss. If you are using the rug in any spot exposed to unusual wear the above overcoating is advised.

For Stripe Effects

Often the question comes up as to how to paint an awning, chair, or umbrella which is striped. One coat of paint will cover bold contrasting stripes so that they appear in a pleasant tone effect. If they are to be completely covered, however, it may be necessary to apply a second coat.

To achieve a stripe effect on plain colored canvas, rule off the stripes with a pencil and mask the edges of the light stripe. Paint the dark stripes first and when this has thoroly dried continue with the light stripes.

1,000 BATONS WILL FLASH AT FEAST OF SONG

Stress Field Events for Festival

BY PHILIP MAXWELL

Fred Miller

Nearly 1,000 men and boys and girls will take part in drills, baton twirling and drum corps exhibitions Saturday night at the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival to be held in Soldiers' field, beginning at 7 o'clock. Fred Miller, 601 Deming pl., who for 16 years has been field supervisor of the Tribune festivals, will be in charge of this part of the program.

Miller is an authority on field pageantry and has been identified with drum corps activities for many years. In 1927 he went to Paris with the drum and bugle corps of Kankakee, Ill., then the Illinois Legion's championship corps. He managed the American Legion national drum and bugle corps contest in Chicago in 1933. In addition to taking part in drum corps exhibitions he has written several manuals on baton twirling and drill and drum corps maneuvers.

Corps to Open Program

Seven Chicago drum and bugle corps will open the festival performance. The players will enter Gate 0 at the south end of the field, preceded by a massed assembly of 100 Cook county American Legion colors, under the command of John S. Cusack, commander of the Cook county council and Ellidor Libonati, Americanism chairman of the council.

Among the posts represented in the opening parade will be Square post, Giles, Melin-Romer, Logan Square, North West Cadets, a junior corps, sponsored by Portage and Glendale posts.

Harold Todd, a member of the Commonwealth Edison post drum and bugle corps, will assist Mr. Miller in the presentation of the opening pageant.

All Baton Twirlers Invited

All baton twirlers in Chicago are invited to take part in the big exhibition which will be staged later in the evening. In order to receive their instructions and tickets of admittance they should attend the festival rehearsal at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in Soldiers' field. The festival contest finals for baton twirlers will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning in Soldiers' field.

A special exhibition also will be given during the performance by the Knights Templar of Humboldt commandery, No. 79. The commandery has headquarters at 2410 N. Kedzie blvd. The 125 men in the corps and drill teams are attired in dark blue uniforms with plumed hats and flashing sabers. Richard C. Loewe is drill master and George W. Patton is corps manager. Carl Schultz is commander of the Knights Templar group.

Baile and Tostadas Make Grande Fiesta at Mexican Civic Center

Whirling skirts and twinkling heels accentuate the rhythm of the Mexican hat dance performed by Elsie Bustos, 12, at the Mexican Civic center, 868 Blue Island av. The center was established in 1943 to enable Americans of Mexican descent to study common problems and attempt to solve them thru their own community resources. Elsie is wearing a hand embroidered China Poblana costume which, according to legend, was introduced into Mexico centuries ago by a Chinese princess. The princess was captured by pirates and rescued by a Mexican land owner, who later adopted her as his daughter.

Tostadas, a Mexican delicacy of pinto beans, chopped onions, tomatoes, pork, and lettuce on crisp tortillas, are eaten with relish by the family and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Lopez, 8643 S. Marshfield av. Guests at the evening meal include Sgt. Enemecio Tienda (standing, left), who recently returned to the United States after nine months overseas, and Pvt. Charles T. Gomez, standing between Mr. and Mrs. Lopez. He is stationed at Camp Hood, Tex. Seated (left to right) are Raymond Villar, 6; Roger Chavez, 7, and the four Lopez children, Hilda, 7; Bobby, 3; Ramon, 8, and Betty, 13.

Mexican costumes are treasured heirlooms in many families. The two girls are wearing China Poblana dresses, while the male members are dressed in Charro costumes, native to central Mexico. Ready for a stroll (left to right) are Lupe Garcia, 8; Ector Munoz, 4; Violet Villarreal, 9; Marcial Villarreal Jr., 3, and Marcial Villarreal Sr. On his shoulder Villarreal is wearing a hand woven woolen serape in vivid shades of turquoise, yellow, orange, green, purple, and scarlet.

No matter what the problem is, members of the Mexican civic committee attempt to help those who call on them for aid. Recently they came to the rescue of a group of braceros, Mexican workers brought to the United States under a six month contract to help in war work. Stranded in Chicago without funds, the braceros were given food and lodging at the center until their difficulties were adjusted. They dine with Antonio Islas (second from the left), member of the Mexican consulate in charge of imported Mexican workers. The braceros are now doing agrcultural work in South Bend, Ind.

The efforts of volunteer workers are largely responsible for the success of the center. Rafael Perez (extreme right), activities director, is the only salaried member of the group. Other workers are Mrs. Asseneth R. Bustos (front row, left) and Mrs. Lupe Gallardo. In the second row (left to right) are Jose T. Rico, Miss Mary Vargas, Marcial Villarreal, Edward Haydon, representative for the Chicago area project; Miss Lucy Solano, Juan Esquivel, and Mrs. Ramon Lopez.

LOVE SONGS BORN IN THROB OF WAR DRUMS

George Walter

Scarcely conducive to rhyming June and moon, battlefields in Germany and Belgium served as the spots where George Walter, tech. 5th grade, and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Walter, 3416 83d pl., and his buddy, Sgt. Harold Winger of Robinson, Ill., composed their two love songs. The compositions, recently accepted for publication by the Nordyke Publishing company of Los Angeles, Cal., are "A Dream Was Born Last Night" and "This Is a Story Book Ending."

Walter, who is in the railroad transportation corps, wrote his parents the songs were written during their spare moments and in battle lulls in the boxcar which served as their barracks.

A graduate of Calumet High school, Walter was first trumpeter in the high school band and orchestra and studied composition and harmony at the Chicago Conservatory of Music before going into the service.

He met his co-author, Winger, when he was inducted in October, 1942.

NAVIGATOR IN BOMBER AWARDED D. F. C. FOR ATTACKS ON GERMANS

Edward Kenny

For "extraordinary achievement while serving as a navigator of a B-17 in bombing attacks over Germany," 1st Lt. Edward K. Kenny has been awarded the distinguished flying cross.

LET'S TAKE OUR VACATION TRIP THRU UNIVERSE

No Ticket Priority Needed Here

[The ninth in a series of articles telling of interesting places available to Chicagoans who are vacationing at home due to war time travel restrictions.]

BY ONEY FRED SWEET

During the vacation month of August the Adler planetarium expects to entertain its five millionth visitor. In a time of travel restrictions the tantalizing demonstration topic for the month is "Other Worlds." But these astronomical journeys need not be postponed by Chicagoans. The only requirement is that they arrive at the museum at the scheduled starting time for trips thru the universe.

The planets—the only known other objects like our earth—can be distinguished from the stars by their motions. With the unaided eye we may watch these apparent motions which seem complicated. As explained at the planetarium the real motions of the planets are simple.

Now to Meet the Planets

First we are made acquainted with the five planets that can be seen by the unaided eye—Mercury, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and Mars. Then we are shown those planets that cannot be seen except with telescopes — Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto.

We learn something of what conditions are like in these far off worlds and the possibilities there of the existence of life.

Location of the planetarium on an island in Lake Michigan is suitable to a summer vacation experience. As you approach the museum from the west, Chicago recedes to a blurred skyline and you become absorbed in the blue of the lake. Walks and roadways of the broad esplanade flank a series of 12 shallow pools symbolic of the months of the year that prepare one's attitude for the adventure ahead.

Gives Air of Detachment

The upper promenade deck of the copper domed, granite building affords further opportunity to enjoy the scene of detachment from the city. Air conditioning gives the planetarium chamber, itself, an evening cool temperature.

Those who vacation in September and include the planetarium in the "musts" of their itinerary will appreciate a demonstration, "The Southern Cross."

Visitors first will be made acquainted with their home sky—objects that are visible, and their motions. They will then be transported to the skies of the East Indies and the smaller islands of the Pacific which have become familiar to our service men on duty in this part of the world. There will be a stopover to observe how the motions of the stars and planets have changed.

Now to the Pacific

The next step of the journey will be to the islands of the South Pacific, Australia, and New Zealand, as far south of the equator as Chicago is north of it. Strange things will be seen. The sun will be in the northern sky at noon and many constellations of the home sky will be upside down. Stars never visible at home, like those of the Southern Cross, will be high in the sky.

The trip will continue to the skies of the South Pole before the traveler is returned home.

Said Max Adler when the museum was dedicated: "The popular conception of the universe is too meager; the planets and the stars are too far removed from general knowledge. In our reflections we dwell too little upon the concept that the world and all human endeavor within it are governed by established order, and too infrequently upon the truth that under the heavens everything is interrelated even as each of us to the other."

Portraits of the Moon

On niches in the museum walls are 72 large transparencies from negatives made with the world's largest telescopes. You see the pitted surface of the moon, the sun in eclipse, closeups of famous comets, and the Milky Way.

A superb collection of astronomical instruments is on display, and among them is the 6 inch reflector made by Sir William Herschel, a duplicate of the one with which he discovered the planet Uranus.

These exhibits may be visited either before or after the sojourn to starland made possible by a complex instrument into which optical technique, mechanical skill, and astronomical knowledge all have been merged.

Hear Chorus of "Awes"

Seated comfortably in the central, circular hall visitors express their awe in chorus as darkness descends, the sky stretches into the infinite, and the big instrument with its many projectors reproduces the intricate phenomena of the heavens—the stars, sun, moon, and planets—all in their proper places for any instant of any year for any terrestial position.

As explained by the demonstrator the ancients were not fitting figures to the stars when they placed the first constellations in the sky. They were naming groups of stars for their heroes and divinities in the legends and myths. We do the same today with our geographical names, but the state of Washington is not expected to look like George Washington. In some cases, the figures do fit the stars, but in learning the constellations it is easier, at first, to look for the simple geometrical

PURPLE HEARTS GIVEN TO MANY S. W. AREA VETS

Honor Sgt. W. T. Barrett Posthumously

Among a large group of southwest side service men awarded the Purple Heart recently was Tech. Sgt. William T. Barrett, who was awarded the medal posthumously.

Pvt. Budding

Sgt. Barrett.

Barrett, son of Mrs. William T. Barrett, 6128 S. Massasoit av., was killed in action over Germany on Oct. 3. A radio operator on a B-17, he previously had been awarded the air medal with oak leaf cluster. He attended Lindblom High school for two years and was graduated from Kirkwood [Ill.] High school. He was employed by the National Livestock Commission company before enlistment. His sister, Lt. Virginia M. Barrett, is a nurse at Camp Hood, Tex.

An oak leaf cluster in lieu of a second Purple Heart was awarded Pvt. William V. Dezulskis, 3535 Wood st., recently at Bruns General hospital, Santa Fe, N. M.

Wounded as Platoon Scout

Dezulskis received his first Purple Heart for severe injuries inflicted by German mortars while acting as first scout for his platoon near Philipsburg, France. The cluster was awarded when he was wounded a second time near Saarbrucken, Germany, while charging an enemy hill in a bayonet attack.

Two navy men receiving the award are Chester W. Kaczorowski, radarman 3d class, son of V. J. Kaczorowski, 2131 52d pl., and Coxswain Edward Block, brother of Mrs. Agnes Kreydish, 10420 Christiana av. Kaczorowski, a veteran of two years in the Pacific, was wounded at Okinawa. He has earned seven stars for battles in the Philippines, Marianas, and Okinawa. His brother, Sgt. Victor Kaczorowski, is in Paris with the army. Block, a veteran of action in the Marshalls, Caroline, and Marianas Islands, and Guam, was wounded at Leyte. He entered the navy in February, 1940.

Honored at Great Lakes

Four marines have been given the awards in ceremonies at the naval hospital, Great Lakes. They are Pvt. Edward R. Budding, son of Mrs. Mary Budding, 8834 Talman av.; Lt. Rudolph W. Moffler, brother of Mrs. Helen Tinich, 518 W. 117th st.; Lt. Henry Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry James Crawford, 11826 Bell av., and husband of Mrs. Jean Crawford, 2410 E. 77th st., and Pvt. Matthew A. Cozzi, 8630 Carpenter st. Budding was presented a gold star in lieu of a second Purple Heart.

Awarded the medal for injuries received in battles in Germany were Pvt. John Bandise, 6455 S. Claremont av.; Corp. Herman F. Peczkowski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Peczkowski, 5016 S. Paulina st.; Pvt. Kenneth A. Evans, son of Harry Evans, Blue Island; Sgt. Clarence S. Campbell, 6018 S. Paulina st.; Pvt. Charles A. Drozda, husband of Mrs. Eleanor P. Drozda, 5250 S. Mason av., and Lt. Thomas W. Smallwood, son of Mrs. Della Smallwood, 7133 Harvard av.

Pvt. Duly L. Hulsey, husband of Mrs. Helen Hulsey, 2100 51st st., received the medal for wounds at Livergnano, Italy. An automatic rifleman, Hulsey was wounded by hand grenade fragments as he was attacking a German bunker.

Wed in London

Pvt. and Mrs. Angelo Baio

The former Marjorie Dean became the bride of Pvt. Angelo R. Baio in a ceremony solemnized recently in London. She is the daughter of Mrs. J. T. Dean of Sydenham, England. Baio's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Baio, live at 2828 Wallace st. After the war the couple plans to live in Chicago.

figures which are obvious to every one.

Ancient Stars Inspire Moderns

Those who have been content to consider the conspicuous Big Dipper as a constellation learn that it is but part of Ursa Major, the Great Bear, whose head and feet are marked by fainter stars below the bowl of the Dipper. The Dipper itself forms the hind quarters of the Bear, while the handle forms an impossibly long tail. There are many stories and legends concerning the Great Bear.

"These stories which inspired the ancients to name the star groups are not old and dead," Director Wagner Schlesinger tells his listeners. "They live on today and inspire moderns to some of their greatest works in painting, sculpture, and music just as the sky on a beautiful, clear dark night is an inspiration to any one who stops to contemplate the glory overhead. Nor does this familiarity with the stars dull this inspiration. Rather, it increases it.

"It is not difficult to learn the stars and constellations. An hour or two each month for a year is sufficient time to learn them so well they will never be forgotten. Learning the constellations is like making a new set of friends who will be with you no matter where you may go on the earth, no matter how long you live!"

Adler Planetarium One of World's Best

The Adler Planetarium and Astronomical museum, which opened its doors to the public in 1930, contains the finest collection of antique instruments in the world as well as exhibits to illustrate modern developments in the science of astronomy. Many large transparencies, illuminating photographs of the heavens made with great telescopes, also are on view.

Seated within the planetarium chamber one sees a portrayal of the sky with all its changes as time passes. The changes are due to the earth's motions. Each month a different drama of the heavens is presented.

The museum is open on week days from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; on Sundays, 2 to 5 p. m. It is closed on Mondays. Planetarium demonstrations are at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. on week days; 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. on Sundays. Admission is free on Wednesdays, Saturdays, and Sundays. Other days 25 cents plus 5 cents federal tax is charged. School children are free mornings. Children under 5 are not admitted to the planetarium chamber. The planetarium instruments may be seen only during the time of demonstration.

Others from the Area Give Also

Two men, each with 17 pint blood donations to his credit, were among southwest siders who visited the Red Cross blood bank recently. They are Henry Stell, Oak Lawn, and Bernard H. Kaycki, 4937 S. Keeler av.

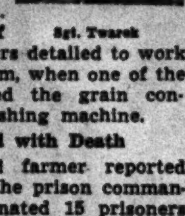
Dorothy Hoogstra, 6901 Albany av., has given 15 pints and Albert Tatge, Matteson, donated 14. Lillian Urlis, 6041 S. Albany av., and David W. Palmer, Oaklawn, have given 13 times and Mary Been, Blue Island, has given 12.

Stanley P. Fortuna, 2959 43d st.; Blanche M. Vondrasek, 2432 46th st.; Alfred O. Davies, Palos Park, and Herman R. Klann, Tinley Park, gave 11 pints apiece.

Ten time donors are Joseph Beck, Blue Island; Orin H. Gray, Homewood; Anna Vojtech, Oak Forest; Robert J. Minogue, 6033 Wood st., and Ruth Flaig, Chicago Heights.

GI TRADES BELT FOR HIS LIFE ON GERMAN FARM

His belt was the price Sgt. Fred Twarok, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Twarok, 2542 45th st., paid for his life in Germany.



Sgt. Twarok

Twarok, who is now at Miami, Fla., redistribution center after a 60 day rest furlough, was captured last December during the battle of the bulge at Bastogne, Belgium. He was one of 110 Yank prisoners detailed to work on a German farm, when one of the prisoners slashed the grain conveyor on a threshing machine.

Threatened with Death

The infuriated farmer reported the incident to the prison commandant, who nominated 15 prisoners to be executed if the guilty man did not confess. Twarok was one of them. The guilty man confessed, but the German officer declared the 15 prisoners would be executed anyway.

Twarok and the 14 others were in the barn awaiting the firing squad when the officer reappeared, announcing their pardon if they would donate their belts to the farmer to repair the conveyor. Twarok remembered "we didn't waste much time ripping them off and handing 'em over."

In Action Nine Days

Twarok was captured nine days after he went into action as a rifle squad leader in the 1st army. He was among seven men cut off by German tanks. His helmet was shot off, the bullet grazing his head.

After working on the farm, the sergeant was placed in a prisoner column marching to Lindhurst, where it was liberated by engineers of the 30th infantry division.

EXPECTS BEEFS; SURPRISED WITH GIFT OF CHICKEN

Col. Oliver G. Cellini, 3811 63d pl., stared thru the rain spattered window of group headquarters of the West China Raiders to see a wet and bedraggled procession of Chinese trudging toward the building. He stepped out to hear their routine complaints.

Instead he received four boxes of Chinese pastries, four chickens, several bottles of rice wine, a basket of eggs, and a couple of bouquets. They were meant, according to a letter also pressed in his hand, for their good friend, Capt. Thomas D. Harrison of Clovis, N. M., who had crash landed in a Thunderbolt fighter damaged in a Jap fight. The flyer had been given first aid by the Chinese while a messenger was sent to the American air field.

The gifts, said the letter, expressed appreciation for the flyer's friendship and courage in fighting for China. Cellini promised to send the gifts to Harrison who had been evacuated to a hospital.

IF OUIJA BOARD SAYS OK SAILOR DOESN'T WORRY

Predicts Success of Pacific Landing

Lawrence Santini, seaman 1st class of Joliet, and his Ouija board have all the answers aboard a landing ship in the western Pacific.

Whenever a rumor spreads about the ship, its truth is tested by Santini's Ouija board. Thus far, say his shipmates, it has not failed.

The LSM on which Santini serves is credited with landing the first heavy American artillery on Japanese soil. The guns were disembarked on Kamiyama Island, six miles off the Okinawa mainland, the day before the main invasion forces hit the beach. But Santini and the boys weren't worried.

"The Ouija board assured me we'd come thru safely, and it was right, as usual," he remarked.

His wife, Lucille, and two children, Lawrence, 7, and Lydia, 19 months, live in Joliet. His brother, Nando, ship's cook 2d class, is in the Pacific also.

ORGANIZE CLUB TO SPUR PAPER DRIVE AT PARK

Members Must Turn in 500 Pounds

To spur the collection of waste paper a new organization, The 500 club, has been organized at Palmer park, John R. Dalenberg, supervisor, announced recently. Applicants must turn in at least 500 pounds of paper to be admitted. About 100 boys and girls are expected to qualify before the summer salvage campaign is over, he said.

As an additional incentive, Dalenberg announced that Civil Air Patrol squadron 613 from Harvey will award plane rides to the six children bringing in the most paper to the park. The rides were arranged by Dr. Neil Kingston, captain of the squadron.

High ranking members of the new club are Kenneth La Plante, 13, 341 E. 116th st., who collected 1,004 pounds in one day and Donald Isenhart, 8, 11428 St. Lawrence av., youngest member, who collected 2,042 pounds since July 1.

Palmer park's total collection so far is about 32,000 pounds, Dalenberg said. Drive workers recently were rewarded with a party at the Breakfast club broadcast and a tour of Tribune Tower.

GROUPS TO BUILD WAR MEMORIAL IN TINLEY PARK

Twenty-one business and social organizations of Tinley Park recently united to raise funds for the purchase of land for use as a recreation park and memorial to the community's service men and women.

First of the fund raising activities will be a box picnic today at Tinley Park Creek woods, at which home-made box lunches will be auctioned off.

House to house canvassing for individual contributions to the fund also will be solicited by a committee from the Tinley Park recreation committee. The drive will end Sept. 30.

PARTY MARKS GOLDEN YEAR OF S. W. SIDE COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Theodore Windchy, 7346 Harvard av., recently celebrated their golden wedding at a party in the River Forest home of a daughter, Mrs. William F. Brown.

Windchy, born in Kalmar, Sweden, in January, 1866, came to America in 1890 and lived in Denver before settling in Chicago in 1894. Mrs. Windchy was born in Varmland, Sweden, in December, 1874, and came to Chicago in 1893.

With the exception of a visit to Sweden in 1926, Mr. and Mrs. Windchy have spent their married life here. They have two sons, O. Eugene Windchy, a tax consultant, and Fred D. Windchy, vice president of Willoughby and company, realty brokers, and the one daughter.

SAND MODELERS VIE TOMORROW IN JACKSON PARK

Picnic, Swimming to Follow Contests

The fun of modeling sandy creatures will become a serious business tomorrow when children of the south side meet on the Jackson park beach at 63d st. to compete for the championship of the area.

Each park of the area will send a team of sandcraft modelers to seek gold, silver, and bronze badges that will be awarded the winners. A picnic lunch, games, and swimming will follow the contest.

The day will be the 10th annual outing of the sandcraft classes, but the first in which teams have competed for a championship. Sandcraft teachers who tutored the teams will accompany them to the picnic, but will not coach their proteges after the contest begins.

The contest will bring together approximately 30 teams, each composed of six members. Boosters from each local park will attend the picnic with their recreational director.

TRUCKS TANGLE PHONE WIRES TO NIPS' ADVANTAGE

Corp. William I. Power, 1908 Monterey av., a marine lineman, has been commended by his commanding officer on Ie Shima for keeping the wires open despite Jap snipers, bombs, torrential rains, and an occasional typhoon.

Power said it wasn't "much fun" repairing lines in the driving rain or with Jap planes hanging around to drop bombs, but declared his biggest trouble came from our own bulldozers and big trucks.

"They always manage to come lumbering along just when you've finished getting all your lines nicely spliced and laid out, and they tear out the whole works," the lineman wrote friends recently.

GIVE FESTIVAL BROADCAST ON W-G-N SATURDAY

Stars, Chorus Will Sing from 9 to 10 P. M.

Solos by Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett will be heard on the broadcast portion of the Chicago Music Festival over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual network Saturday night from 9 to 10 o'clock. Miss Swarthout will be heard in Youmans' "Thru the Years," "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen," and "Dancing in the Dark" from "The Band Wagon" by Dietz. Selections to be offered by Tibbett include "Di Provenza" from Verdi's "La Traviata," Wolfe's "De Glory Road," and "One Alone" from Romberg's "Desert Song."

Philip Maxwell, director of the festival held annually at Soldiers' Field, will be master of ceremonies for the program. Music will be provided by a 110 piece orchestra, under the baton of Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N.

A chorus of 4,300 voices, directed by Dr. Edgar Nelson, will open the broadcast with the "Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Weber will conduct the orchestra in Chabrier's "Espana."

Dr. Nelson also will lead 1,500 Lutheran church choristers in "The Wondrous Things the Lord Hath Done" by Christiansen. John G. Rieck will direct a Lutheran children's chorus of 750 voices in a cappella presentation of Kremser's "Prayer of Thanksgiving" and Bortniansky's "Jubilate, Amen."

Some worthwhile radio fare is in store for drama lovers starting Sept. 9, when The Theater Guild will begin airing plays Sunday nights from 9 to 10 o'clock via WENR-ABC. Theater Guild successes will be highlighted on the series, but scripts also will be built around productions not sponsored by the Guild. In as many instances as possible, the original casts will act in the radio adaptations. When one considers that Eugene O'Neill, Franz Werfel, Sidney Howard, Philip Barry, and the team of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II. are all Guild playwrights, one can anticipate an hour of entertaining listening.

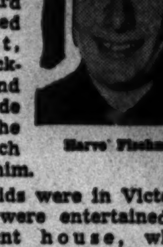
Off a live mike: When Amos 'n' Andy were entertaining troops in Germany, souvenir saver Andy snagged a piece of tile from Hitler's bathtub at Berchtesgaden . . . "The Ernie Pyle Infantry Song" will be given its radio premier on the Army Hour over WMAQ-NBC at 3 p. m. today . . . Tonight Tommy Dorsey will be host to Marguerite Chapman, screen star, on WMAQ-NBC at 7:30 o'clock.

IT SAYS HERE THAT QUIZ KIDS AREN'T SO SMART—SOMETIMES



Harve' Fischman

The Quiz Kids, who juggle posers Sunday nights at 6:30 o'clock on WENR-ABC, aren't so smart, sometimes. Like all youngsters, they make mistakes now and then. There's the time Richard Williams visited an automat, slipped in a nickel for cocoa and failed to provide a glass for the beverage, which spurted over him.

When the Kids were in Victoria, Canada, they were entertained at the government house, where Ruthie Duskin sat quietly looking into space. "A penny for your thoughts," offered her hostess. Ruthie replied, "I was playing a little thinking game that I always play when I'm not having a good time."

During a bond tour in Richmond, Va., Joe Kelly's gang was to meet for luncheon on the mezzanine floor of their hotel. Harve Fischman strolled in to find the mayor and other city officials gathered for what he thought was the Quiz Kid shindig. Harve ate his lunch, made a speech, and had a wonderful time only to discover he had attended a luncheon given by the Richmond Musical society to boost its membership.

Offer Bach Work on NBC Symphony Program

Movements from the unaccompanied violin sonatas of Bach have been arranged by Frank Black into a Suite for Strings, which the NBC Symphony orchestra will play under his direction on WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. The orchestra also will present Tschaikowsky's Andante Cantabile from the Fifth Symphony in E minor, the Overture to Smetana's "The Bartered Bride," and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol."

Here's Lineup for Miss Langford's Show

Frances Langford will devote a portion of her show on WMAQ-NBC at 7 o'clock tonight to singing "I Got It Bad," "Sentimental Journey," and "Lonely Love." Spike Jones and his City Slickers will entertain with novelty arrangements of "Hawaiian War Chant" and "McNamara's Band."

BE SURE, BE SAFE WITH
FHA LOANS
TO BUY OR REFINANCE

Safety and security in the matter of loans are the two things you'll look for first if you're buying or refinancing a home. And, you'll find them both in FHA Loans—with low, easier payments.

FHA Loans are surer and safer because they are U. S. Government investigated and approved. You are protected in another way, too. The government approves the valuation of the property—and arranges payments to suit your pocketbook. Under no circumstances will they allow you to take an obligation in excess of your ability to pay—which means freedom from all financial worries.

FHA Loans are the streamlined loans! Any of the officers of this bank will give you full particulars if you drop in. On the other hand, if you can't come in during banking hours, phone us. We'll gladly call at your home in the evening. There will be no obligation.

BLIND GARDNER HAS DESIGN FOR WAR BOND SALES

Uses Crops to Spell Out Appeal to Buy

Altho the 7th war loan drive has closed, Emiel Soldan, 61 year old blind gardener, 7405 S. Western av., continues his one man war bond publicity campaign. His advertising medium is his war garden vegetable crop on the southwest corner of Western av. and 74th st. It was planted to spell "Buy Bonds."

Soldan lost the sight in his left eye in a saw mill accident about 30 years ago and the use of his right eye in 1936. Able to distinguish only light and dark, Soldan laid out the designs with white stakes and rope. His lettering experience stems back to his years of lettering circus wagons.

With his billboard refurbished by a second crop of vegetables, he has formed the "Buy" with beets, lettuce, and carrots, and the "Bonds" with beans and carrots. In the center of the letters he has planted cucumbers, tomatoes, and corn to obtain the greatest utilization of the land for his war garden.

Soldan also has two neat rows of cabbage, tomatoes, and corn, dewormed with a spray gun. His prize possession is a letter from Gov. Green on his accomplishment.

Soldan turns over most of the produce to Mrs. Rosie McGinnis, who owns the lot. Her husband, Michael, is in the service.

This Week in the Garden

Outdoor flowers should be at their best at this time, especially those known as bedding plants. These include such kinds as the geranium, Canna, Verbena, sweet Alyssum, Ageratum, elephant's ear, and other well known kinds.

They will need an abundance of water, altho the geranium flowers best when not kept saturated at all times. Cannas require a lot of water but soaking the soil only once or twice a week should suffice, depending on the character of the soil.

Tuesday, Aug. 14

If you are interested in seeing the newer varieties of the popular gladiolus, visit the gladiolus show at Garfield park conservatory. It is the top show of the kind in the middle west.

Water lilies should be at the height of their flowering season at this time, especially the beautiful tropicals with their immense flowers and fine colors. Among the varieties that are well adapted for small pool use are August Koch, pink pearl, Chicago [pink], and all hybrids originating at Garfield park conservatory.

Wednesday, Aug. 15

It is time to examine the pots of house plants that were plunged in the garden during the summer. Any plants that need repotting or shifting should receive attention. Large tubbed plants may be top dressed with rich soil which makes it unnecessary to shift into larger containers.

Frequently plants in too large pots or tubs are grown indoors. It is much better to discard excessively large plants and replace them with medium sized plants—more kinds can occupy the space of a single large plant.

Thursday, Aug. 16

Keep the vegetable garden cultivated and free from insect attacks. It will be necessary to apply water at least once a week. Water the shrubs, trees, and perennials. It is a fine time to cut out deadwood, for it is easily distinguished at this time.

Friday, Aug. 17

The attacks of insects have been most serious this season. Many cocoons are seen fastened to the trunks and branches of trees. Collect and destroy all these that can be reached. When the larvae changes into flying butterflies or moths which lay their eggs on vegetation more and more of their kind are produced to consume and mutilate foliage that grows later on.

Saturday, Aug. 18

Keep seedlings well watered, for if they are allowed to dry out they will be checked in their growth. They should be given every opportunity to grow into good, husky plants for later planting in the borders.

Get the cold frames in condition by reglazing the sash, painting and repairing the frame. Anchusa will grow from root cuttings. Plant oriental poppies for next year's bloom. There are many fine sorts.

Keep the grass cut at 2 to 3 inches and do not allow crab grass to form seed. Turn over the compost heap that was started earlier.

4 BOYS, 3 GIRLS BRAINERD PARK PAPER LEADERS

Four boys and three girls were high ranking collectors for the first three weeks in the scrap paper drive at Brainerd park. —Do You Remember in History was one of the important battles of the American revolution. In it General Stark who was leading the colonial troops defeated a detatchment of Hessians under the command of Colonel Baum. The German soldiers fled to the woods with Colonel Baum mortally wounded. General Clark then turned on a re-enforcement of 500 troops, who were going to the aid of Col. Baum's forces.

The Battle of Bennington

MEXICAN CENTER SMOOTHS WAY IN A STRANGE LAND

Helps Adopt Heritage to New Environment

Like a glimpse of Mexico on fiesta day is the dancing class which meets twice a week at the Mexican Civic center, 868 Blue Island av. Brown eyes dance and skirts twirl to the lively music of the hat dance or to gay melodies of the Chipanescas, traditional folk dance of southwestern Mexico.

Or drop in any morning and you will see 23 earnest heads bent over their lessons at the Escuela de Espanol, the Spanish school conducted by Mrs. Asseneth Bustos, volunteer teacher. Lessons range all the way from stories of "El Dragon de Oro" [The Golden Dragon], delight of younger scholars, to language classes of more serious import designed to help students bridge the gap between their Mexican heritage and American environment.

Wide Scope of Activities

Dancing and language classes are only two of many projects sponsored by the Mexican civic committee at the Blue Island av. center. Other activities include Scouting, hiking, and camping for boys, as well as crafts, sewing, and cooking for girls.

Altho many aspects of its program are recreational, the Mexican civic committee's services have a wider scope, since its members are working for the welfare of the Mexican-American community as a whole.

"The center is a refuge for Americans of Mexican descent with any kind of problems," says Rafael Perez, activities director.

Teach American Way

"It's not merely a question of taking youngsters to the beach or teaching them useful arts and crafts. The problem is much more serious. We're trying to help children and adults make successful adjustments to the American way of life. But such adjustment is complicated by inadequate housing, lack of recreational facilities, and all the disadvantages that come with living in so-called slum areas."

As Perez and other members of the committees see it, no one can save the Mexican people but themselves. Leadership, they feel, must come from within the group. Perez himself is the only salaried member of the committee. Other workers give freely of their time, talents, and frequently of their money.

Launched in Washington

The Mexican Civic committee was formed in March, 1943, when the office of the coördinator of inter-American affairs granted $10,000 to the Chicago area project for the development of a center for Americans of Mexican descent.

If it were not for the volunteer work of the staff it would be impossible to balance the budget, Perez says. As it is, the free services of the committee have become one of the greatest assets of the center, he said.

"Our work has become a community project where we can draw from the best for an unselfish purpose," Perez said recently.

Aid Stranded Workers

At times the committee is called upon to deal with problems of a wider-than-neighborhood scope. An instance of this kind occurred recently when 20 braceros were stranded in Chicago.

The braceros, Mexican workers brought to the United States under a six months' contract to help in war work, were part of a contingent recruited by the war man power commission and the war food administration. When they arrived in Chicago almost a month after they had left Mexico City, they were without funds and had not yet been assigned to jobs.

For almost a week Perez and his committee kept the braceros at the center, providing them with lodging and food until their difficulties could be straightened out. The group is now in South Bend doing agricultural work.

Many in Service

The Chicago area has more than 30,000 Americans of Mexican descent, all of whom have been brought closer to their adopted country by the impact of the war. "There is hardly a family," says Perez, "that does not have a father, brother, or sweetheart in active service."

Military personnel from the area have distinguished themselves in combat. Many have won the Purple Heart. Among those who have outstanding records is Pvt. Manuel Perez, paratrooper, 3511 Roosevelt rd., who was awarded the congressional medal of honor posthumously for destroying 12 pillboxes and killing 75 Japanese on Luzon.

The patriotism displayed in combat is an index of the feeling of Mexicans for their adopted country, Perez says. "We are proud of our Mexican heritage," he declared, "and loyal to the United States. There is no conflict between the two."

'Carmen Jones' Coming to Erlanger Theater Aug. 25

WHEN IT'S LILAC TIME IN 'DEAR RUTH'

Lilac time in "Dear Ruth" stirs various emotions in these members of the Harris troupe—left to right, Leslie Litomy, the rival suitor; Betty Burghardt, who just has to find a place to put the flowers; Leona Powers, who secretly thinks it's romantic, and William Harrigan, who is trying to look like an impartial judge

[Voldiamm Photo]

Cast of Billy Rose's Musical Little Changed

By Claudia Cassidy

Ellen J. Warren

"Carmen Jones" is actually coming to town, tho it may arrive in wheelbarrows unless Billy Rose and the office of defense transportation can see sleeper jump to sleeper jump in the matter of railroading. At any rate, Saturday night, Aug. 25, is set aside at the Erlanger, and Net Alvord is in town beating preliminary drums, a particularly enticing sight in mid-August because Mr. Alvord is a sartorial stickler and his sole concession to the thermometer is to have his cutaway tailored of striped seersucker. This really cuts a swath in traffic, to the delight of the Deacon, who is undeniably the most picturesque character in show business, next to or alongside W. C. Fields.

Time was, before the war, when the Deacon roamed the orient plastering highways and byways with some of the most luridly convoluted prose in the history of the art of printing. This, combined with the cutaway, the shorn head and the gleeful hope of being mistaken for a sucker, may well be what gave the Japs the idea they could get away with Pearl Harbor.

So it is no surprise to me to discover in one of the Deacon's "Carmen Jones" heralds this succulent sequence, "On the esthetic side eminent critics have pronounced it one of the major cultural contributions to the stage in modern times." Or, "Again Iconoclast Rose shattered the idol of conformity. Heretic that he is, Rose did not hold with the school of traditionalists that lovers of fine music must be exposed to the stodgy librettos, stuffy productions and pedestrian tempo of classic opera. Leaving the immortal Bizet's score intact [hey, how about those "Orchestral arrangements by Robert Russell Bennett"?], Oscar Hammerstein II. fabricated a new book as celeritous and brilliant as his contribution to 'Oklahoma!' Hassard Short tossed out time hallowed operatic techniques that have endured since the middle ages."

Maybe he isn't entirely kidding at that. Remember when "Carmen Jones" opened in New York and Virgil Thomson wrote a piece suggesting the Metropolitan fire Edward Johnson and hire Billy Rose instead? And when Chicago was looking around for an impresario, didn't Sir Thomas Beecham suggest to me that we offer the job to that same Mr. Rose? True, Sir Thomas had turned down the privilege of conducting "Carmen Jones" because to him, as to me, it lacked the fire and brilliance of the real thing, tho it was an engagingly unorthodox carbon copy with hilarious variations. But what both Mr. Thomson and Sir Thomas were doing in their more belligerent styles was to echo Bruno Walter's "Routine is death." Mr. Thomson knows as well as any other reviewer that a saucy season makes better reading, and Sir Thomas is just a born windmill equipped with spiked gloves for shadow boxing.

It will be pleasant and no doubt educational to get another look at "Carmen Jones," because when I saw it the first time I had no idea I was witnessing a cultural contribution. It hadn't occurred to me that, compared with Mr. Hammerstein's dusky fiesta, the libretto of, say, "Der Rosenkavalier" was stodgy, or the Bruno Walter production of "The Marriage of Figaro" stuffy. And speaking of "the pedestrian tempo of classic opera" rather reminds of a concertgoer who recently told me why I was less than sold on Massimo Freccia's Brahms. It seems I am accustomed to Mr. Stock's classical Brahms while Mr. Freccia's Brahms is modern. Anyway, I am impressed by the achievement of Hassard Short, who "tossed out time hallowed operatic techniques that have endured since the middle ages." As the middle ages ended about 1400 and opera reared its head about 1600, that was quite a toss and should entitle Mr. Short to the undisputed championship.

If "Carmen Jones" seems a little late—it will be opening its third season in our midst—that is because Mr. Rose planned it that way. He says the original production cost him $250,000 and a duplicate would have cost no less. He also figured that the longer people outside New York had to wait to see it the more eagerly they would line up to storm the boxoffice. Maybe so. If it works, and so far it has worked, the idea comes under the head of eating your $250,000 cake and having it, too, while leaving fewer crumbs for the bureau of internal revenue. The cast, meanwhile, is little changed. Buck and Bubbles are new in the quintet, which is the best thing in the show from a transition point of view, but Muriel Smith, Napoleon Reed, Le Vern Hutcherson, Glenn Bryant, Elton J. Warren and Cosy Cole are still in their familiar roles.

At least, the Shuberts realize their peril. Advertising the impending opening of the Shubert [Majestic] in the "Good Night Ladies" playbill, they remark, "Olsen and Johnson will start wrecking this beautiful new theater when they open here shortly in their musical madhouse, 'Laffing Room Only'." And speaking of "Good Night Ladies," kindly count me out. It's a curious thing about that show. As long as I don't have to see it I grow quite indulgent about it, because, after all, you laugh in this business to keep from crying. And it's something, in a town starved for good theater, to be confronted with the 101st week of "Good Night Ladies." Maybe it is funny—the situation, I mean, not the show—but when I have to see it—the show, I mean, not the situation—I can't scrape up a smile in that welter of leers, epidermis, broken down bawdiness, bad acting and general gutter level of production. I still think it came to town by way of the sewage system.

Next Sunday afternoon, I'm told, there will be a radio preview of the songs from "Song Without Words," an operetta based on Tschaikowsky's life and music, to be sung by Felix Knight and Francia White. The operetta itself will be done by Margit Bokor, James Newell and Eric Blore, with Mia Slavenska dancing Anton Dolin ballets. The music? Just listen. "Kiss Me Tonight" is a tenor piece from the andante cantabile taken from the string quartet. "Night Wind" is the "Song Without Words." "Song of the Troika" is from "The Seasons," and nothing short of "Love Is the Sovereign of My Heart" is a blend of the "Pathetique" and the song, "Why?"

Annual Music Festival in Soldiers' Field Saturday

on the Aisle

by Claudia Cassidy

THE last songs of summer are about to be sung. The Chicago Symphony orchestra ends its season this afternoon, riding high on the crest of Pierre Monteux's intuitive brilliance, and Ravinia dips into a final week of chamber music with the Pro Arte quartet. The Grant Park Symphony plays its farewell concert next Sunday night, and on Saturday night the 16th Chicago Music Festival strikes matches and other sparks at Soldiers' field. Summer, which so short a time ago was icumen in, will be, in less poetic terms, a'goin' out. And not all that has sung loudly has been cuckoo.

Cuckoo Season of Summer Music Is on Its Way Out

Yet summer is the cuckoo season. There was, for instance, the disappointed man who telephoned to state his case against the policemen who frustrated his desire to hear Izler Solomon's Sunday night concert at Grant park, the one where the rain fell steadily thru the performance, only to dry up neatly with the music. It seems that our telephone friend set out for Grant park fully equipped to withstand the elements. But when he arrived at Leif Eriksen drive the rain was coming down in torrents and he couldn't see what was happening at the band shell. So he asked the policemen on traffic duty if there was to be a concert. Now I assume they were new at the post, because they gazed in awe at our friend thru the streaming rain and inquired in simple eloquence, "Whaddayouthink?"

Naturally, he thought the same, and went away disconsolate, only to discover by next day's newspapers [ah, the indestructible reviewers!] that there was indeed a concert, and that a few bedraggled souls managed to enjoy it, if that is the precise word for making the best of a damp proposition.

But I wouldn't blame our friend for lack of tenacity, or our policemen for failing to understand that people who give and go to concerts are, to put it tactfully, a little odd. Accustomed as I am to Grant park's, not to say Ravinia's, determination never to cancel a concert while a customer remains undrowned, I approached the shell tentatively, sloshing water as I went, and was mildly surprised to have Walter Larsen say, "O, yes, we're just about to begin." And consider the case of Fritz Siegal, the concertmaster, who showed up blandly about a minute of eight without his fiddle, and had to sprint back to his car to get it. As for Mr. Solomon, those glances he occasionally threw over his shoulder weren't apprehensive, just astounded. He had to look now and then to be sure he actually was giving a concert and that those damp huddles out front were an audience. Fortunately, summer audiences are rather like sundials that count only the happy hours. They shed the weather with a shrug and concentrate on the music.

Swarthout and Tibbett Have Much in Common

The impending arrival of Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett as co-stars of the music festival reminds me that they have much in common with each other, as favorite American stars of opera, concert, radio and movies, and at least one thing in common with Paderewski. The great Pole ruefully told in his memoirs of realizing on the heels of his fabulously successful début, when engagements came pouring in, that he had no repertory beyond what he had just played. He slaved in the gloomy solitude of a piano warehouse to catch up with himself. Miss Swarthout, who began life gayly by being born on Christmas day, had a church choir post when her friends arranged an audition with the Chicago Opera. She won it, and everything was fine except that she knew no roles. She learned 23 little ones fast and made her début as the offstage shepherd in "Tosca," joining the ranks of fame with Groucho Marx, who is inordinately proud of having made his début as an offstage noise. But Miss Swarthout is at least one up on Groucho. She has half a "Carmen" shawl presented to her long ago by Mary Garden, who kept the other half, thus dividing it between "the great Carmen of the present and of the future."

Mr. Tibbett has neither shawl nor moustache, nor did he bow as an offstage noise of any kind. A Californian, he made his Metropolitan Opera début as the less vocal of the two monks at the inn in "Boris Godunoff," which is almost the same as an onstage silence. But one day he sang Ford in "Falstaff" and became not only a success, but a celebrity. He was a baritone star without the baritone repertory, but he learned fast. Considering the languages he got tangled up in, no wonder he has been ever since one of the outstanding boosters of opera in English.

Nijinsky at the Russian Campfire

Fiction can't hope to match fact in the strange and tragic story of Vaslav Nijinsky. What more fantastic figure than this "god of the dance" with his strange webbed feet, his fabulous elevation, his struggle to meet the world on terms he was not equipped to handle, his plunge into madness curiously illuminated by the swirling rhythms of his sketches, his withdrawal into silence, the shocking story of his murder by Nazis with other inmates of a Budapest sanitorium, and now the dramatic tale of his coming to life at a Russian campfire near Vienna, leaping into the circle of soldiers with that brief blazing reminder of what must have been unique brilliance? Nijinsky is 55 and he hadn't danced in a quarter of a century. But what would you give to have been at that campfire the night fate rolled back its sable curtain?

Interpolations and Cadenzas

"Incidentally," writes John Hervey, apropos of Arthur Meeker's letter about Sembrich, "will somebody kindly explain why it is that a famous violinist can interpolate an almost interminable cadenza in, say, the concerto for that instrument by Brahms, and a pianist do likewise in one by Mozart—nowadays, not 50 years ago!—and receive the most glowing encomia therefor from brahminical critics, while if a singer indulges in something not nearly so exaggerated, she [or he] receives the Bronx cheer? It doesn't seem to add up." In basic English, I suppose the answer is that singers so rarely are considered musicians. Early composers for instruments left cadenzas to the improviser, tho beginning with Mozart and Beethoven most of them were written in by the composer. Mozart was sometimes too busy to do more than indicate the piano part he himself would elaborate at performance, and Beethoven wrote cadenzas for Mozart's D minor concerto, tho he inserted his own in the "Emperor" to show what he wanted. Not that it did him any good, for every one from Moscheles and Brahms to Busoni wrote their own, anyway. Brahms asked Joachim to do the cadenzas for the violin concerto, but if you want "sugared frills" in violin cadenzas, try Paganini's—if you can keep a straight face even in good performance.

90,000 to See Colorful Fete; Cast of 6,000

By Albert Goldberg

What is probably the largest musical manifestation in these United States again will hold forth in Soldiers' field next Saturday night—the 16th annual Chicago Music Festival. The customary audience of 90,000 is already indicated, the participants will number 6,000, and the vast program is scheduled to crowd every second of the time from 8:45 p. m. to the closing "Star Spangled Banner" at 10:25. The only worry is Jupiter Pluvius and fingers are crossed on that score for that kindly deity has never yet in the history of the festival acted in an untoward manner. [Once it rained until 7, but the Tribune's circulation department solved that one by sending over 90,000 copies of the paper to cover damp seats.] Just in case, however, Philip Maxwell, the festival's director, has made arrangements to give the program the following evening without the alteration of a single 16th note.

As is customary in the festival scheme, musical celebrities will highlight the proceedings. Henry Weber again will conduct the festival symphony orchestra of 110 members and the star soloists will be Gladys Swarthout and Lawrence Tibbett. Each singer will appear twice on the program in solos and will combine forces in a duet, "Lover Come Back to Me," from Romberg's "The New Moon." Miss Swarthout's solos will be the Habanera from "Carmen," Youmans' "Thru the Years," and Schwartz's "Dancing in the Dark." Mr. Tibbett will sing "Di provenza" from "La Traviata," "De Glory Road" by Wolfe, and "One Alone," from Romberg's "The Desert Song."

Under Mr. Weber's direction the orchestra will play Chabrier's rhapsody, "España," during the one hour Chicago Theater of the Air broadcast of the festival from 9 to 10, during which time Miss Swarthout's and Mr. Tibbett's contributions also will be heard.

Another festival tradition is to honor as distinguished guests notable figures of the musical world, and this year the laurels will descend upon F. Melius Christiansen, for 33 years head of the music department of St. Olaf's college, Northfield, Minn., and director of the nationally famous St. Olaf's choir, and Mrs. Charles S. Clark, president of the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen. Several of Mr. Christiansen's compositions will be performed by festival choral groups.

Competitive contests form an important part of the festival plan and winners in the various groups—men's and women's voices, cornet, violin, women's, men's and mixed choruses—will be given opportunity to display their merits on the program. The vocal contests in past years have discovered several young men and women who have gone far in their profession and interest always runs high in this division. Three noted opera singers will serve as judges—Miss Swarthout, Mr. Tibbett, and Edith Mason.

Choral music, always a dominant factor in festival programs, will be stressed to the extent of organizations totaling 4,200 singers. All the festival choristers will sing the "Hallelujah" chorus from Handel's "Messiah" under Edgar Nelson as a tradition observed each year. Other choral groups to be heard include the Festival Lutheran choir, directed by Mr. Nelson; the Festival Negro chorus under the direction of J. Wesley Jones; the Festival Lutheran Children's chorus of 750 students from 50 Lutheran summer schools, directed by John G. Rieck, and a group of some 500 singers representing a combination of several established resident choral groups.

Bands will play their part in the big program with a band pageant of 1,200 members, consisting of 30 bands from the Chicago area, organized and directed by Howard Stube. The climax of this division will arrive when the conductor of the winning Class A band leads the combined group, deployed in the form of a human American flag, in George M. Cohan's "You're a Grand Old Flag."

The usual variety numbers will punctuate the program. There will be a Buckingham Fountain dance pageant with the symphony orchestra playing music by Delibes and Strauss, and there will be a professional "Alice in Wonderland" pageant with a theme song guaranteed to enchant all hearers—"Did You Ever See a Rabbit?" And among other items there will be a drum corps exhibition and drill, a baton pageant, a "barber shop" quartet and chorus, a cornet choir, Philip Maxwell's famous match lighting ceremony, with a display of fireworks to round off an evening that should already have held something for everybody.

Herbert Graf and Philip Fein, the former of the Metropolitan Opera and the latter of extended Chicago operatic experience, have been added to the stage directing staff of the Chicago Opera for next season. Lothar Wallerstein's engagement in a similar capacity already has been announced.

The DeMarlos Present a Fine Dance Routine

By Will Davidson

Jackie Miles has for a long time been to me one of the funniest gents in show business. With a very individual style, he approaches most closely of any one the inimitable Frank Fay. Perhaps it is his quiet, offhand manner of tossing away a line.

Cee Davidson
[De Haven Photo]

At any rate, he's been a strong comedian for years, and altho there are those who have to see him several times before they get the feel of his humor, his audience has been growing constantly. In his current visit to the Rio Cabana Jackie has taken a step that will help him more than anything else—he's leaving out most of the dirt. There still are bad moments when he ruins a wonderful song or gag with blue material, but at least on opening night he omitted the worst.

Jackie's pitchman skit, his seemingly aimless chatter, his wonderful handling of hecklers, is comedy of a high order. Since Patsy Kelly plays drums at the Palmer House I suppose it is all right for Jackie to do it at the Rio, and I must say he does a very fair job of it. Now if Krupa could only get some good comedy material.

Taking up where Jackie left off with the dirt is tall, handsome, deep voiced Jane Manners. Miss Manners' material sounds as if some one heard that Dwight Fiske used double entendre and said, "We'll slay 'em. We'll use DOUBLE, double whatever it is." At least Miss Manners is very good to look at.

Donn Arden seems to have the same blue mood, and insists on having his line girls recite ugly lyrics during some of their dance turns. The numbers otherwise are good, especially when Inez Clavijo is featured as soloist.

And now to a breath of clean fresh air. The De Marlos are beautiful dancers, with imagination, a lively sense of the dramatic, and an admirable attitude toward their work and the mentality of their audiences. They do an exquisite turn to "Liebestraum," the music for which is supplied by recordings. Another number has the accompaniment of a voice from the audience. In them all, the De Marlos are earnest and sincere, and convey the impression that they have something to say, and enjoy saying it thru the medium of the dance. Their work is excellent technically. I've ordered an extra large king size laurel for these kids.

Cee Davidson plays a good show—as always. The accompanying picture is printed so you can see Davidson.

Next Friday is the night that Dorothy Dorben launches her new show in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel. It is called "Laffiesta" and it stars Cantu, the magician who specializes in doves; the Pitchmen, a couple of very funny gents; Ray and Pedro, the comic acrobats; the D'Ivons, a popular dance team; Doris Briggs, harpist; the Boulevar-Dears in numbers starring Patsy Paulick, and Nanon Miller, and, of course, Clyde McCoy and his newly organized band.

The future looks very interesting, indeed. The Palmer House announces the complete lineup of its Aug. 30 show: Eddie Oliver and his orchestra, held over from the Fabulous Foursome show; Jack Durant, handsome comedian; Gerry McMahon, hoofer; Charles Sheldon, singer; John Sebastian, harmonica star; Paul Winchell, ventriloquist, and Marilyn Marsh, former Abbott dancer, now doing a single. They are the Superior Seven.

I haven't seen all the roller skating teams in the business, but neither have I seen one that can top Gaynor and Ross, now starring in the Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel. Their whirling, daring turns on a high platform are magnificent.

Helen Honan, impressionist, is the other "outside" act in the show. She does a standard Bette Davis, some typical inebriates on the distaff side, a satire on songstresses, and other similar numbers.

Emile Petti, wisely held over with his sparkling music and personality, offers his Six Singing Strings in a medley of old songs, and his vocalist, Linda Larkin, in very good versions of "There's No You" and "There Must Be a Way." Emile's bubbling personality sometimes tends to make him overdo the introductions, but how much better that is than a surly, dull refusal to give the acts a break!

Boswelling the Bistros:

An interesting future date to mark down is Oct. 12, when one of the most unusual performers in show business is scheduled to make his debut here at the Stevens. He is Bob Hall, the so-called "extemporaneous chap" of Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe. Bob's specialty is making up patter and songs about anything and everything that comes into his line of vision during his act—all on the spur of the moment. . . . On Aug. 31 Johnny Long's orchestra takes over in the Marine Dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel for two months, after which, I am told, Wayne King will return for the winter season. . . . And a good break for hot fans is the booking of Jess Stacy's new band into the Band Box in the loop on Sept. 7. This outfit is good, on recordings at least.

Not that I like the idea of anyone being ill, but it seems rather appropriate that the ailment which laid low Jim Keefe, space wangler for "Good Night Ladies," should be a strip throat. And speaking of ailments, it seems the Japs are suffering from atomic ache.

POPULAR 'CANDY'

They call her "Candy" out at Riverview park because that's her job and her favorite song. Jo Salerno makes and sells cotton candy, one of the most popular confections at the amusement park.

Four Theories of Education Are Defined

By John Astley-Cock

President Burrus Dickinson of Eureka college answers the question, "What curriculum should a college offer; what subjects should a student choose?" in a statement based on four educational theories—the Rigid Cultural, the Free Election, the Occupational and the Individual Guidance.

The first theory is founded on two assumptions: That the purpose of a college is to transmit a basic pattern of culture, and that the indoctrination of this cultural pattern is essential to the perpetuation of our civilization.

"Many of us are dismayed when he ask ourselves how any faculty can have the temerity to decide which details of our culture should be passed on," he says, "but most colleges do accept this theory to the extent of having certain general requirements which must be met by every student."

Dr. Dickinson points out that the more liberal arts curricula recently announced by several universities are evidence of a greater current emphasis on this theory.

The slogan of the Free Election theory is, "Let the student pick his courses and his teachers" which is what many colleges do. This theory, Dr. Dickinson asserts, works well when students select subjects interesting to them because then they put forth their best effort.

"But too often students make their selection on a follow-the-crowd basis, or make a choice which is so disappointing that they lose the interest supposed to arise from the free election process," he comments.

The Occupational theory also is based on two assumptions: That a student will do better if he has a specific purpose in college, and that this specific purpose should be preparation for an occupation.

"This is what the parents of many students want, and what many students themselves want. It often is the purpose in mind of those who provide funds for higher education; as where industrialists give money to establish engineering colleges, or churches allocate funds to educate ministers, and business men encourage the legislature to appropriate money for commerce schools."

That every college graduate who succeeds in an occupation attributes his success to his college education is an irrefutable fact. But, Dr. Dickinson contends, the really significant question is whether this success in life is best prepared for by a curriculum emphasizing the general intellectual skills or by more specialized technical curricula.

The Individual Guidance theory is held by that small minority of educators who recognize that people differ, and that the purpose of education should be to make them more different rather than more alike.

"Curriculum planning for this purpose is individualized," Dr. Dickinson continues. "It originates with the aptitudes, interests, and purposes of the student. There are no colleges which operate entirely on this theory, but some colleges try to individualize courses of study at many points, especially among the smaller colleges where the administrative faculty has the opportunity more intimately to know its students."

Speaking particularly for Eureka college, President Dickinson states that "we try to preserve the values of free election and individualization."

For his contribution toward the solving of problems of the homogenization and flavor of milk, Dr. Malcolm Trout, professor of dairy husbandry in Michigan State college, has been awarded the 1945 Borden award in dairy manufacture by the American dairy science association.

Drama Notes

Beginning today, "Good Night Ladies" will play nightly except Monday at the Blackstone, with matinées Saturday and Sunday.

Little theaters in and near Chicago offer this choice of productions: The Belfry Players at Williams Bay, Wis., present "Uncle Harry" nightly except Monday thru next Saturday; the office of dramatic productions at the University of Chicago presents "Death Takes a Holiday" Friday and Saturday evenings at Mandel hall; the Group Theater opens "Out of the '90s" at its playhouse, 640 N. State st., Saturday night.

"Anna Lucasta" must be indulging in double talk. The New York papers keep printing that a second company is being made ready to open here Sept. 24. Yet all the letters received by the Civic theater promise the original company for an unlimited engagement, and state that the second company will take over in New York.

A Little About the Movies on City's Screens

"Along Came Jones." A western film stars Gary Cooper in his 10 gallon hat as Melody Jones and Loretta Young in the role of Cherry, a rootin', tootin' cowgal who helps the cowboy and his friends catch an outlaw. Palace.

"A Bell for Adano." John Hodiak, an American major, is made the AMG administrator in a Sicilian town. There he assists the people back to peace time living by supplying food, water, and a new bell for the town. Gene Tierney portrays an Italian girl who has much to do with the plot. Roosevelt.

"Bedside Manner." Dr. Hedy [Ruth Hussey] on her way to Chicago stops to see her uncle, Charles Ruggles, also a doctor, in a small town, which now seems to be booming with war workers. Thru trickery performed by the uncle and a local test pilot [John Carroll] the lady doctor is persuaded to stay. Oriental.

"Incendiary Blonde." Texas Guinan, [Betty Hutton] the best bronco buster and rodeo star in the west, climbs the ladder to success as a Broadway star. There's a love story woven in with Arturo de Cordova the winner. Barry Fitzgerald, Albert Dekker, and Charles Ruggles are supporting players. Chicago.

"Valley of Decision." Marcia Davenport's best seller has come to the screen, and her outstanding characters are portrayed by Greer Garson as the Irish servant girl and Gregory Peck, her wealthy lover. Lionel Barrymore, Marsha Hunt, and Preston Foster, have prominent roles. State-Lake.

"Thrill of a Romance." Esther Williams and Van Johnson are the leading characters in this technicolor musical. Adding to the romance of the picture is Lauritz Melchoir of the Metropolitan Opera and the sentimental gentleman of swing, Tommy Dorsey. United Artists.

"The Picture of Dorian Gray." Hurd Hatfield, a wealthy Londoner, is granted a wish that he remain as young and handsome as his newly painted portrait. The story deals with the passing years in which Dorian Gray remains young as the portrait grows old. Other characters are played by George Sanders and Donna Reed. Garrick.

"That's the Spirit." June Vincent, much against her father's wishes, marries a flute player, Jack Oakie. But Jack is taken off to heaven by the angel of death and later is permitted to return to earth, invisible, of course, to help his daughter, Peggy Ryan, solve her problems. McVickers. Riviera.

"Horn Blows at Midnight." Jack Benny, a trumpet player, falls asleep during a broadcast and dreams. He dreams he is a member of heaven's celestial orchestra who falls in love with the chief's daughter. It's all in fun. Alexis Smith is leading lady. Rialto, Paradise.

"Murder, He Says." A wacky comedy starring Fred MacMurray as an investigator who journeys to the hillbilly country, there to become mixed up with the Fleagles, a slightly crazy family. Some of the leading players are Helen Walker, Marjerie Main and Jean Heather. Century, Norshore, Nortown, Pantheon, Tower, Congress, Gateway.

"Wonder Man." Portraying the roles of twin brothers, one a studious little man, the other a night club singer, is Funster Danny Kaye. Along with him is a large cast, including Virginia Mayo and Dancer Vera-Ellen. Woods.

Clare B. Luce Poor Actress, Critic Learns

By John Chapman

NEW YORK [Special] — Having witnessed the first performance of Clare Boothe Luce in "Candida," I am forced to agree with her political opponents in the state of Connecticut that it must have been more a political stunt than it was a theatrical enterprise—on her part.

As a theatrical enterprise on the part of Gus Schirmer Jr., director of the Stamford, Conn., Strand theater, it was a great success. A rousing SRO week was practically guaranteed before the curtain went up, for, apparently, everybody up and down the New Haven railroad's main line wanted to take a gander at Mrs. Luce. The opening night brought autograph hounds, photographers, and celebrities ranging from Mary Martin and Gen. Elliott Roosevelt to Gov. Raymond Baldwin and Lt. Comdr. John Lodge, the socialite cinema actor.

"Candida" was first produced in New York in 1903 by Arnold Daly and Winchell Smith, who did it on a shoestring. It started the Shaw vogue, and it has been one of the most durable vogues on the stage. An extremely simple triangle comedy, it possesses elemental good qualities which have kept it alive.

I had always thought the play fairly actor-proof, and the title role so artfully written that almost anybody could do it. I must now revise this opinion. In the hands of amateurs, or semi-pros, or in the necessarily sketchy production of a one-week stand in a summer theater, "Candida" shows its age.

'BELL FOR ADANO'

John Hodiak and Gene Tierney have important roles in the movie version of the popular "A Bell For Adano." (Roosevelt).

Two of the three leading roles seem almost shockingly quaint in the manner of their writing, and only the part of Candida herself hangs together as Shaw's "realest and noblest woman."

But even this realest and noblest woman needs some kind of playing, and Mrs. Luce wasn't the girl for it. I have admired her as a playwright and respected her as a representative. As a writer she has my profound attention. But she just can't act.

But, even on the stage, I admire her — for her courage. She must have known that practically everybody, including such theater wise men as Gilbert Miller, Lee Shubert, Max Gordon, and Lawrence Langner, would be there to give her the O-O. It must have taken physical courage for her to do what she did.

Her Candida had two faults, either of which would have ruined the performance. One was that she spoke exactly as tho she were reciting a memorized piece—and she spoke it too slowly with a total lack of color or inflection. The other fault was that she failed to give Candida warmth, and a cold Candida is cold comfort. The speech at the end in which she chooses to remain with her husband because he is the weaker of the rivals must have in it tenderness and understanding — or it's no soap. Shaw didn't write an actor-proof play, after all.

Nor did he write a deathless one, I am afraid. It will, I suppose, continue to be revived as a "classic" [high toned word for curio] or as a sample for students of Shaw at his best. But it is rather shocking to realize that "Candida" is showing its age and that much of its language is the simple, baldly punchy stuff of ten-twent-thirt drama or the captions on silent screens.

Quite early in the proceedings the Rev. Morell chides his amiably villainous father-in-law, Burgess, by exclaiming, "Confound your impudence!" I don't believe that even British curates say that any more.

AT ORIENTAL

"Bedside Manner" is the name of Ann Rutherford's latest film, now at the Oriental.

The role of the overwrought, effeminate, poetic Marchbanks, who is fond of crying "Horror, horror, horror!" is often, in the clear atomic light of 1945, close to burlesque.

Only the playing of a skilled and restrained actor can keep Marchbanks from sounding silly these days, and up in Connecticut Dean Harens wasn't the lad for the job.

"I'll force it into the light," threatens Marchbanks when he and Morell are beginning to discuss who loves Candida. "There is something that must be settled between us . . . I shall stagger you if you have a heart in your breast." These lines are pure captions from an old Biograph movie.

And there is, of course, the big moment. Do you remember the way G. B. S. wrote the line? He wrote it this way:

"She must choose between us now."

In contrast with the dramatic outbursts of these two men, everybody else in the play talks quite normally, even for these times. The character and speech of Candida are sure and steadfast, and the minor roles of Burgess and the comedy stenographer seem to have lost none of their value.

Notes of Music and Musicians

With Ravinia's Chicago Symphony concerts ending this afternoon with Pierre Monteux's last program, the 10th season of the north shore festival will come to an end with the now well established custom of a week of chamber music. The reconstituted Pro Arte quartet takes over for four concerts of string quartet music on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings, bringing the season to a close next Sunday afternoon, Aug. 19.

Tonight in the park the executive committee of the Ravinia Festival association will entertain as invited guests the trustees, guarantors, contributors, and chairmen of the coupon book sale committee with the annual "Musical Round-Up," in which Pierre Monteux, members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and probably the members of the Pro Arte will take part.

The Pro Arte quartet which will perform this week is in little more than name only the same group which inaugurated the Ravinia chamber concerts in 1940. Only one member of the original quartet remains, Germain Prevost, the Belgian violist who has played with the group since 1919. The first violinist now is Rudolf Kolisch, the Austrian violinist who toured Europe and the United States with his own quartet before the war, attracting unique attention to himself as one of the few violinists ever to achieve success by bowing with his left arm and manipulating the fingerboard with his right hand.

'SALTY O'ROURKE'

Alan Ladd and Gail Russell are a winsome twosome in "Salty O'Rourke," now at McVickers

Albert Rahier, the second violinist, was born in Belgium and for 12 years was concert master of the Brussels opera. Ernst Friedlander, the new cellist, is a Viennese who has served both as first cellist of the Vienna Philharmonic and as a member of the famous Rosé quartet. The members of the Pro Arte quartet have for the last two years been connected with the University of Wisconsin as associate members of the music school faculty.

Each of the four programs will contain a quartet by Mozart and Beethoven. Two of the Mozart quartets have not been heard at Ravinia before—the D major, Köchel 575, and the B-flat major, Köchel 589. The remaining two were heard last season from the Budapest quartet—the C major, Köchel 465, and the B-flat major ["The Hunt"], Köchel 458. The last three programs will embrace the cycle of Beethoven's three quartets dedicated to Count Rasoumowsky, also played last season in its entirety. The other Beethoven will be the early D major quartet, opus 18, No. 3, heard twice previously on Ravinia programs.

The in-between numbers on the programs will consist of Schubert's quartet in A minor, less well known than the famous "Death and the Maiden," and not heard before at Ravinia; Malipiero's "Rispetti e Strambotti," written in 1920, but not played before at Ravinia; Brahms' quartet in A minor, opus 51, No. 2, and Ravel's quartet in F major, each with a record of one previous Ravinia performance.

Grant park's final week of concerts begins tonight with an all-operatic program conducted by Paul Breisach of the Metropolitan and featuring two Metropolitan Auditions of the Air winners as soloists: Regina Resnik, who made a successful debut at the "Met" last winter and appeared at Grant park earlier in the season, and Thomas Hayward, a young tenor who has sung in opera with the New York City Center company, but whose "Met" debut is in the future. Each singer will be heard in several arias and together in duets.

Virginia Parker

Todd Duncan

Nicolai Malko returns to the Grant Park symphony to conduct its final three concerts on Wednesday, Friday, and next Sunday nights. With the exception of Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony and Prokofieff's "Lieutenant Kijé" suite on Wednesday night, the orchestra numbers are selected from the shorter and lighter repertoire. Todd Duncan, noted Negro baritone who created the role of Porgy in George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," will be Wednesday night's soloist, singing Handel's "Hear Me Ye Winds and Waves" and a group of songs, including two spirituals, "Ol' Man River" and "I Got Plenty o' Nuttin'."

Young Chicago artists will be the soloists on the remaining concerts. Virginia Parker, soprano winner of an Orchestra hall recital in last season's Adult Education Council award, and Saul Dorfman, young Chicago pianist, playing Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasy," will be heard on Friday night.

On Sunday night three young artists will assist in the presentation of a program popular in character: Dorothy Staiger, soprano, winner of a Kimball hall recital in a Society of American Musicians' contest; Carol Smith, soprano, winner of the Chicago Music Festival award last year, and Margaret Cree Evans, first cellist of the Grant Park Symphony orchestra.

Army musical forces will be heard in their final Grant park program on Thursday night, with Lt. Col. Howard Bronson, chief of the music section of the army's special services division, appearing as guest conductor in one number. Because of the Chicago Music Festival, there will be no Grant park concert on Saturday night.

BOOK NEWS AND REVIEWS

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

A SMALL boy sat in the audience of a Detroit theater, some 35 years ago, and watched an adroit gentleman in a white tie and black tails perform incredible feats of mystery on the stage. When the show was over, and his eyes had returned to their sockets, he went back into the workaday world vowing to become a magician himself, a better magician even than Howard Thurston, if that were possible. In this pleasing ambition he failed conspicuously, he cheerfully admits, but from that day to this he has been buying and reading books on magic, conjuring, and hugger-mugger of every description.

A number of years ago, realizing that he had the nucleus of an important library, and wishing to contribute something of his own to the literature of the subject he loved, Rex G. Conklin, now a successful Milwaukee business man, began actively to "collect" the rare volumes not already in his library, intending to compile and publish a definitive bibliography of—in his own words—"deception and human credulity." This prodigious work is still building and may keep him busy for the rest of his life, but in the meantime he has brought together one of the best specialized libraries in America, perhaps in the world. I made the trip to Milwaukee recently to see it, and it was a fascinating experience.

Desperately Rare Books

The two rarest books in the field are generally believed to be Samuel Rid's "The Art of Jugling or Legerdemaine," a black letter volume published at London in 1614, and Henry Dean's "Hocus Pocus Junior. The Anatomie of Legerdemain," a London publication of 1634. Both books are of quite desperate rarity; of the latter only two copies of the first edition are known, one of them owned in England, the other in America. Mr. Conklin does not have either of these volumes—he would mortgage the state of Wisconsin, I think, to acquire them—but there is little else of interest that has escaped his clutches.

The first historically important book in the field, by common consent, is Reginald Scot's "The Discoverie of Witchcraft," first published in London in 1584, an excessively rare volume that would distinguish any library. There are probably less than a dozen copies of the first edition in this country, and of these Mr. Conklin possesses two. Scot, an intelligent gentleman of the 16th century, who preferred to spell his name with one "t," was outraged by the cruelty of the witchcraft prosecutions of his time, and argued the absurdity of popular superstitions in his book. Learning the secrets of the conjurer's arts, he demonstrated that miracles as great as those attributed to witches and other familiars of Satan could be performed by normal and explainable means, and he revealed for the first time in print the principal tricks of the "juggling" fraternity. His book, which may have been known to Shakespeare, was denounced by James VI. of Scotland, who, in 1597, published a famous retort in his treatise on "Daemonologie," a work that professed his own belief in witches or enchanters and attacked Scot severely. When this old curmudgeon ascended the throne of England as James I. he ordered all copies of Scot's work to be burned by the common hangman—which accounts in some degree for the rarity of the first edition. Fortunately for Scot, perhaps, he was in his grave when this royal decree was uttered.

Other rarities in the Conklin collection are Lemme's "Les Occultes Merveilles," Paris, 1574; Loyer's "Treatise of Specters," London, 1605; Francis Potter's "Interpretation of the Number 666," Oxford, 1642; a "Poor Robin" almanac, London, 1678; a second edition [London, 1664] of Saunders' "Palmistry, the Secrets Thereof Disclosed"; an early "Malleus Maleficarum," London, 1620, and a remarkable run of editions of Dean's "Whole Art of Legerdemain," beginning with the second. The first treatise on conjuring and natural magic to be printed in the United States appears to have been a reprint of this Dean volume, published at Philadelphia in 1795; as such it is of considerable historical interest, and browsers will do well to rescue it from the 10 cent bins when they see it, altho the chances of their seeing it are pretty remote.

A Perfect Limited Edition

One of the rarest books in the field, oddly, is a volume published no longer ago than 1930. This is "The Annals of Conjuring," by Sidney Wrangell Clarke, of which only four copies were printed after its serial publication in a London journal. Mr. Conklin finds a large satisfaction in owning one of the four copies. When he asked me if I had ever heard of a severer limitation I could think of only one instance—and that didn't come off. Eugene Field, a noted collector in his day, once projected what he believed might be called the "perfect limited edition." It was to consist of three copies only, one for the author, one for the publisher, and "a third to be burned."

The Conklin library is rich in early chapbooks and almanacs, and some delightful stories are told of their makers; there is a famous story about John Partridge, a prognosticator of Queen Anne's London, who, in his "Almanack" for 1707, solemnly warned his readers against all "rivals and impostors." This was too much for the great Dean Swift, and he retorted in a pamphlet purporting to be the work of one Isaac Bickerstaff, a volume of "Predictions for the Year 1708." In it the author of "Gulliver's Travels," predicted that Partridge would die "of a raging fever" on the 29th day of March following, at 11 o'clock at night. Then, on the 30th, he issued a news letter portentously announcing the death of Partridge the night before. Various journals took up the joke and printed obituary notices of the almanac maker, who was ultimately obliged to issue a special pamphlet to prove himself alive. Swift countered with "A Vindication of Isaac Bickerstaff, Esq.," in which, in his turn, he "proved" Partridge to have been mistaken, since no man alive could have written such stuff as appeared in Partridge's almanacs. So great was the uproar and confusion that many persons probably read of the man's actual death, in 1715, with surprise. In any case the ridicule killed the victim's almanac business for a number of years.

It would appear that the words "hocus pocus," as a general term for the art of sleight-of-hand performers, and other mystagogues, were spread by the early popularity of the Henry Dean opus mentioned above, but the expression is supposed to derive from the name of an Italian juggler called Okos Bokos, who lived so long ago that nothing else is known about him.

KENNETH HORAN REVIEWS "THERE WAS A LADY," BY SARAH LITSEY

A NOSTALGIC STORY OF SMALL TOWN LIFE

A Realistic View of Future in United Nations Politics

"THE BIG THREE," by David J. Dallin. [Yale University Press, $2.75.]

Reviewed by William Henry Chamberlin

Author of "Russian Enigma," "The Ukraine."

The second World war is bringing America into a completely new era in international relations, an era of participation in world domination. The American people are still inadequately prepared by training and experience to play an intelligent part in this era, to make a constructive use of the enormous power which their country has attained. They are often lulled with soporific platitudes and blinded by the deliberate special interest propaganda of foreign powers.

There could scarcely be a more useful primer in the political realities of the shattered world that is to be run by the Big Three in the immediate future than this cool, honest, objective and often brilliant book. Dallin, a Russian by birth and a profound student of soviet development, has already published three of the few genuinely valuable books on soviet foreign and internal policy. His exceptional specialized knowledge of Russia is of great assistance in the present work; but he reveals himself a keen student of general history and politics by his penetrating analysis of British policy and his speculation on the use which America will make of its new power in Europe and in Asia.

Dallin is unsparing with pleasing illusions. The united nations, he says, will be as helpless to prevent wars as was the league of nations, except "in cases of conflicts among small nations which do not have the backing of one of the big." This ought to be obvious to any moderately intelligent student of the charter and of the discussions which preceded its ratification. But we live in an age of so much official and unofficial ballyhoo and propaganda that it is refreshing for a publicist to state this evident truth frankly and unequivocally.

The author also disposes effectively of the legend that some kind of mystical friendship has always characterized Russian-American relations. The course of Russian-American relations during the 19th century was smooth because the countries had extremely few points of contact. Since both stepped out on the world stage as major powers there have been many causes of friction. The author puts his finger on one of the gravest possible subjects of American-soviet disagreement when he suggests that American support of the Chungking government and soviet support of the Chinese Communists may lead to a partition of China.

Another cause of disagreement lies in the restless dynamism of soviet expansion. Here the author neatly punctures another illusion, that there was a bad man named Trotsky who wanted to spread revolution, while a good man named Stalin is only interested in maintaining Russian national interests. As Dallin shows, Stalin has merely substituted a more practical technique of revolutionism, the conquest of neighboring countries by the Red army and the imposition of puppet governments as a steppingstone to the introduction of communism for the earlier romantic method of throwing sparks of revolution into all countries, regardless of their geographical location.

There is interesting material, drawn from soviet publications, about the intention of the soviet government to build the strongest navy in the world—a development which, if carried out after the war, would certainly upset many customary calculations and assumptions.

The author suggests an interesting law of political expansion, inspired by the experience of Napoleon and Hitler. This is that, in Europe, once certain natural ethnographic and natural limits are overstepped, an aggresive power cannot stop. "What is at stake then is all or nothing."

Will Stalin be the next dictator to test the validity of this law? Mr.

Tragedy and Comedy in a Small Town

"THERE WAS A LADY," by Sarah Litsey [Bobbs-Merrill, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan

Sarah Litsey

Against the muted sounds of Sunday afternoon, with the trees glorious in autumn color, or the streets heavy with snow or hot with dust, a little Kentucky village basks in self-satisfaction. And with this for background there passes a procession of people who embody all the tragedy and comedy of life as it is lived on larger scales. Everything is to be found here that is inherent in a metropolis, but even more pronounced because of the smallness of its surroundings. Love and hate, life and death, youth and age need settings proportionate, yet in this nostalgic story they gain because their settings are small scale.

In the big Slattery house the Judge and his prim and determined little wife, their two daughters, May and Bess, grow up and their granddaughter, Cindy, adapts herself to Kentucky social life. The big richly furnished house, with its crew of darkey servants, stands for prestige and comfort. Into it walk those strange elements that arise from the humanness of human nature. Bess elopes with the bad man of the town, intent on ruining the beautiful Miss Cammy, who lends grace and wisdom to its people.

This group and their friends do all the small town things. They go to the Chautauqua and see the trained dogs and listen to the lady who has been to China, they give Bach festivals, and lawn fetes with orchestra and caterer imported from near-by Louisville. Yet they cannot keep at bay the awfulness of unrequited love nor the desolation of loss, altho they struggle for the pattern of happiness and contentment that is the main motif, among people who have known and loved each other well. They are like rivers that meander about and finally converge in a stagnant little pond of resignation.

This is a sensitively written romance, combining understanding and grace. Its only fault is the unresisted temptation of the author to philosophize. But even this cannot mar the implications of immortality in this story of a little town.

Sgt. Edward Tatum Wallace, whose first book, "Barington," is reviewed on this page by Fanny Butcher

A STAR TO STEER ME BY

By Carolyn M. Bludorn, U.S.N.R.

[This story was awarded the 1945 fiction prize of $150 given by the Chicago Tribune in connection with the recent Midwestern Writers' conference. Miss Bludorn, a lieutenant, junior grade, is attached to the publications division of the navy department in Washington, D. C. Her home is in Maywood, Ill. The contest was open only to men and women in the armed services of the United States.]

IT isn't as if anything is really changed, even if I feel so different tonight. It's just that this was so perfect, I wanted you to know. Understanding is one thing I love about you.

I was sailing today on the river that goes down to the bay. It was my first time in a sailboat. And it was the loveliest thing I've known. Sailing comes so close to being freedom, they say. But I wasn't free. All the time I kept thinking of you in different ways; when I tended the jib sail [isn't that the little one up forward?], I could feel the rope the way it would be in your hands [I should have called that rope a sheet, shouldn't I?], and how you would love it, hard against your palm and curled around your fingers . . . and when the big sail swung over—I forget the term for that, but it was only my first lesson—I could see you crouch down, not in an awkward "duck" like mine, but all in one fluid movement.

I wish you had been there.

You would like Bob, I'm sure. He's a marine, too. But his hair is dark brown, and it's grown out a little; so it's not like the short, stubby cut they gave you at O. C. school in Quantico. His eyes—well, I don't know. Mostly they were squinted against the sun; so I couldn't really see. But I know they're not blue like yours.

Isn't it strange how a few details come so clear while I'm lying here waiting for sleep? I don't suppose you had much time to lie there with the details all clear before the sleep came. I hope not, darling. Because there aren't many details that can be so clear and yet so without pain as these are.

But the sailing was perfect. I learned the names for parts of the boat, and how to come about—and, naturally, how to bail! I'm good at that. And some of the time I sat in the stern and held the tiller and looked at Bob, sprawled up forward: Perfectly relaxed, and sort of trusting me not to do anything too silly. Your kind of trusting. Remember?

I guess I can't make it as clear to you as I thought I might. It suffers like a foreign classic in translation.

We sailed all afternoon, with the September sun just warm enough, and a little breeze that was kind to the little boat. Once I saw a piece of wood sticking out of the water, and I called: "Submarine to starboard, sir!" That got Bob up, laughing, and he said: "Hold your pretty little breath, mate. I think you've run us aground." And then I saw the seaweed all around us. It was the first thing in that afternoon to remind me that we were really earthbound. But he took an oar and somehow got us out of that mess. And we laughed like goons

Memories of a Community in Arkansas

"BARINGTON," by Sgt. Edward Tatum Wallace. [Simon & Schuster, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher

"Barington" is a first book, one of Simon & Schuster's Venture Press selections, a new department of their publishing which consists of "firsts" which have, they think, unusual literary qualities. This story has one of the characteristics of almost all first books—nostalgia. It has few other common characteristics of "firsts," such as overwriting and preciousness. It is, for almost all of its 300 pages, overlaid with honesty and its most ostensible fault, it seems to me, is that the author thinks many things are funny which the reader won't. Perhaps that is because the book is so nostalgic. An obvious book of memory, the author's memory of the characters in it may be colored by the real human beings which he photographs. The reader, not blessed with their acquaintance in the flesh, is not, like the author, able to remember the comic expression on their faces when they were trying to be funny and does not always share the author's enthusiasm for his character's humor.

When Edward Tatum Wallace is writing about Lucinda, who was his grandmother, he is obviously moved by deep tenderness and the deep understanding which was between them. As he and his mother are walking thru the graveyard after Lucinda's death she says, "You and your grandmother were long before my time."

"Barington" is the record not only of what the child Debs saw and heard and felt but of the legends of the past which Lucinda told him, and of tales which were obviously part of the family stock, especially about his father Bart, who died when he was a little boy but lives in these pages.

Bart kept a hardware store in a little town in Seba county, Ark., as his father, Maj. Thaddeus Tatum of the Confederacy, had done before him. The book opens with a glance into that store which, before its close, was to come upon sad days. Many of the most amusing incidents of the book take place in that store, as do some of the most touching ones.

"Barington" is made up of three distinct kinds of reminiscences. There are the direct memories of little Debs, the family and town anecdotes, and the impressions of the town and its people. Mr. Wallace has chosen the patchwork quilt method of telling his story appropriately to the period. Incidentally, this tale is of a town before the days of automobiles and the coming of the first motor roads.

The book is divided into 74 chapters. The reader might never count them, but their brevity will long be remembered with pleasure. For in that brevity lies much of the book's impact. The vignettes are sharp because brief, many of them are in the funny story telling form, ending with the laugh line. Some of them are like a swift straight blow.

When reading or discussing a first book the reader involuntarily sees it as a promissory note, a promise of a future which will or will not pay off artistically. Mr. Wallace has, it seems to me, a distinct gift for the anecdotal form. He has also a keen eye for the detail which gives any form of writing style and reality.

Stories for Readers Who Discriminate

"THREE EXOTIC TALES," by Philip Freund. [Pilgrim House, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil

The genius of Philip Freund escapes the popular fancy. He probably will never write a best seller. He is one of those writers who address themselves to a small, select audience of readers who find their enjoyment in fiction on a cerebral plane. In that aim, he resembles Henry James, but not at all in style. Not for him are the involved sentences and bemused thinking of James. Freund's sentences are crisp, his thinking is clear, so clear as to seem, at times, rather shallow. But he probes deeply into the springs of human behavior, in spite of this seeming superficiality.

Philip Freund

Freund's book of last year, "The Young Greek and the Creole," contains a more varied lot of stories than his latest book. In the earlier book and elsewhere he has demonstrated that his range of interests is wide, but his chief interest is human nature, in whatever mode or manner he finds it.

The first of the three long short stories in the present book is a study of a young Latin American who, altho of a wealthy family, was careless with other people's money. The author labors too long over the motive of the young Latin's dishonesty, which appears to be nothing more than rebellion against family restriction, and scarcely so involved as Freund thinks it is.

The second story is about an unscrupulous promoter who sells unsuspecting people in other countries stock in his wildcat projects in South America. The promoter is really a complex character, and Freund makes the reader feel it.

The third and last story is the best. It tells of a lion let loose aboard a ship bound for South America, and how the principal characters reacted to the peril: the drunken lion tamer who let the lion out, who was concerned chiefly with the possible loss of his last animal; the chief engineer, the only man brave enough to face the beast, and the captain, who feared that his own inability to cope with the situation would ruin him.

Philip Freund's stories are for the discriminating. His quiet tone and casual manner, in writing about dramatic events, will win no applause from those who want plenty of vim and vinegar. But for those who like to explore the human mind, his tales are revealing and rewarding.

A Nostalgic View of Old Steam Cars

"STEAM MOTOR SCRAPBOOK," by Floyd Clymer. [Clymer, $2].

Add to Floyd Clymer's growing list of motor scrapbooks a fascinating one devoted exclusively to the steam cars. If you ever thrilled to stories about the fabulous Stanley Steamer, you'll find a boiler full of nostalgia in the articles, old ads, scraps of history, that make up this grand anthology of Americana. The story of the Stanley is told in full by the son of one of the brothers who invented that almost legendary car.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Delos Avery

THE Crerar library is perhaps the most serious minded library in the world. It is for specialists. It is where scientists consult rare tomes they cannot buy. It is where men of the learned professions keep abreast of the newest ideas in their fields. It is where Henry Wallace studies The Universe and What to Do With It. It is where Midget Fernekes, the bandit, learned how to commit suicide. And it is where I sometimes go to read the funnies. The funnies, I said.

For example, it was in the Crerar one afternoon last week that I found in an old issue of the Journal of Philosophy [January, 1924] the following:

To a Classroom Metaphysician Discussing the Nature of Reality

In the realm of metaphysics I enjoy a daily stroll
  Around the rim of Socrates' dominion,
Where philosophers, indulging in catharsis of the soul,
  Distinguish cosmic truth from mere opinion,
On the Nature of Reality these gentlemen are hot;
  Each local Plato pulls a solemn phiz
While discussing in his lectures the Nothingness of Not
  And the fundamental Is-ness of the Is.

O, the Is-ness of the Wasn't and the Wasness of the Ain't
And the Don'tness of the Doesn't makes my inner vision faint.
My tongue is thickly coated with a philosophic fuzz Gained by chewing on the problem of the Is-ness of the Was.

"Appearances are many, but Reality is One,"
  Is the essence of a hundred thousand pages.
When you learn this little formula you think your task is done,
  But you get a rude upheaval from the sages,
Who feel duty bound to ask you at the midsemester quiz,
  Without apparent vestige of a cause:
"Discuss the true conception of the Eleatic Is In connection with their doctrine of the Was."

O, the A-ness of the B and the P-ness of the Q
Open dialectic vistas the eye cannot see thru,
From whence loose metaphysics and syllogisms roll,
Deducing from its A-ness the nature of the Whole.

Let me recommend philosophy to those who rather doubt
  The appearances of seeming and of being;
If you really would decipher whatinell it's all about
  And learn the awful truth of what you're seeing,
You must decorate your discourse with a dualistic fringe—
  Ambiguous, equivocal—and pause
To assert in every sentence that reality must hinge
  On this dratted awkward business of the Is-ness of the Was,
  On the sempiternal Is-ness of the Was.

Don't ask me who wrote those hilarious rhymes. I don't know, and and neither did the editor of the Journal of Philosophy, who found them, unsigned, in the Spectator [student newspaper at Columbia university, Nov. 16, 1923]. My guess is that no student was the author, because a student would have signed. My second guess is that a faculty member was the guilty man, and that he chose to be anonymous for the sake of professional dignity. Could it have been Prof. Irwin Edman himself?

It wouldn't be the first time a professor had turned playful. Do you remember the reply sent by a certain mathematical lecturer when he was asked to contribute to a philosophical symposium? He sent them this quatrain:

And what mean all these mysteries to me,
Whose life is full of indices and surds?

$$x^2 + 7x + 53$$
$$= \frac{11}{3}$$

The same mathematician, in a burlesque essay entitled, "The New Method of Evaluation as Applied to Pi," began with these lines:

Little Jack Horner
Sat in a corner
Eating his Christmas Pi.

His name was Charles L. Dodgson to his students, but his pen name, when he wrote "Alice in Wonderland," was Lewis Carroll.

• • •

Quiller-Couch, too, liked to combine heavy mathematics with light verse, and I wish I had space for the whole of "A New Ballad of Sir Patrick Spens," in which two geometricians are rivals for the favor of a king, who exclaims:

"O wha will rear me an equilateral triangle
  Upon a given straight line?"

They both succeed and they both die in the ensuing duel over whose demonstration is the better, and the ballad ends:

But let us sing Long live the King!
  And his foes the Deil attend 'em:
For he has gotten his little triangle
  Quod erat faciendum!

Philosophers do have fun. There is Prof. Philip Blair Rice of Kenyon college, who sang:

"I am the square root of minus one in a cocked hat with my thumb to my nose . . ."

For the rest of that see the October number [1944] of Poetry: A Magazine of Verse.

A Primer in Reality of Big 3 Rule

Dallin hopes that this will not be the case, that the soviet leader will content himself with the reunion of the three main soviet ethnic groups, the Great Russians, Ukrainians, and White Russians.

It is questionable whether the Ukrainians of Galicia and some of the White Russians are not historically and culturally as akin to Poland as to Russia. And Mr. Dallin's suggestion that a free plebiscite in eastern Poland [which Stalin was conspicuously unwilling to hold] would be favorable to Russia if the soviet political system were different suggests the wisecrack that, if one had eggs, he could have ham and eggs, if he could find the ham. The book would have been strengthened if there had been more consideration of the economics of the post-war world; it is almost exclusively political.

But within this limitation it is an excellent work. Whenever newspaper headlines announce a new storm center, whether this may be in Germany, in eastern Europe, in China, in the near east, the reader can look up the relevant section in Dallin's book and be sure of finding accurate information and stimulating interpretation of the national rivalries and interests involved.

Story of a Negro Skipper and Ship

"ALL BRAVE SAILORS — the Story of the S. S. Booker T. Washington," by John Beecher. [Fischer, $2.50.]

The author—a descendant of the famous abolitionist Beechers; a great-grandnephew of Harriet Beecher Stowe, of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" fame, and related to the great preacher Henry Ward Beecher—has turned out a well written story of the first ship sent out by the United States merchant marine commission under a Negro skipper, with white, black, brown, and yellow men working together as officers and crew.

Beecher's story of his voyages as purser on this unique ship, appropriately named after a great Negro educator, is a collection of vivid sketches of the men on both the bridge and below decks. A provocative book.

The biggest news of the week in midwestern book circles is the appointment of William T. Couch as the new director of the University of Chicago Press, succeeding Joe Brandt. . . . Mr. Couch is from the University of North Carolina Press, with which he has been associated for 20 years, the last 13 of which he was director. . . . Rated as one of the most enterprising and successful of university press directors, Mr. Couch has made publishing history at Chapel Hill, N. C. . . . His practice of publishing books on the Negro, some of them written by Negroes, has won him both friends and enemies in the south. . . . Mr. Brandt leaves the Midway to take up his new duties as president of Henry Holt & Co. on Oct. 1, at which time Mr. Couch will take over in Chicago.

A newcomer in the juvenile publishing field is the Children's Press, a subsidiary of the Regensteiner Corp., Chicago printing house. . . . Editor of the new firm will be Margaret Friskey, a Chicagoan active in both the writing and the publishing of children's books. . . . She is the author of the popular Scuttlebutt juveniles and others. . . . Associated with her as vice president of the Children's Press will be Montrose Newman, who has teamed with her in the development of many successful children's books. . . . They plan to issue their first Children's Press books early in 1946.

Stanley W. Walker, known in Chicago and the midwest as a former representative of the firms of Holt, Dial Press, and McBride, has joined the D. Appleton-Century Co. as midwestern representative. . . . Mr. Walker has been out of the book field for some years.

A second Frederick Fell novel contest has been announced. The prize is $3,000 as an immediate advance against royalties. . . . Judges of the contest are David Appel, literary editor of the Chicago Daily News; Paul Jordan-Smith, literary editor of the Los Angeles Times, and Francis Ludlow, editor of the Retail Bookseller. Details of the contest can be obtained from Frederick Fell, 386 Fourth av., New York 16, N. Y. . . . Closing date is Sept. 30, 1945.

Interest in books of a religious nature rises to a peak about every 15 years, Prof. E. S. Fulcomer of New Jersey State Teachers' college told University of Wisconsin students in a recent lecture. . . . He also revealed that the best seller of musical literature is a song with a religious background, "Brighten the Corner Where You Are," which many people think of as a hymn, altho it isn't, strictly speaking.

Out this week is Donald Culross Peattie's "Immortal Village," the story of the little French village of Vence, which, in ages of warfare, has been repeatedly destroyed and rebuilt. . . . Its history, says Mr. Peattie, is Europe in microcosm. . . . The book, handsomely printed and bound, is a University of Chicago Press publication.

Tales of Frontier Days in Old West

"MEN WHO BUILT THE WEST," by Arthur Amos Gray. [Caxton, $3.]

Here are sturdy stories of intrepid explorers, trappers, fur traders, frontier soldiers, cattlemen, hunters, and others who wrote forceful history with the gun, lariat, trap, and sextant on the then almost virgin west. How they opened up the country for the flood of farmers, ranchers, and business men seeking wealth thru crops, cattle, furs, and gold, is told entertainingly by the author.

AL CHASE

THE JUNIOR BOOKSHELF

By Agatha L. Shea

TITLE	SUBJECT	VERDICT
"SCHOOL IN THE SKY," by Ruth Robinson Carroll and Latrobe Carroll. [Macmillan, $1.75.]	Fantastic tale of a group of children and their teacher who decide to learn about geography by flying around the world. They take their cow along for a milk supply, and all have great adventure together.	A humorous tale bordering on the ridiculous, which will furnish some children many laughs, while others will find it too extreme.
"THE LITTLE RED HEN," by Helen Dean Fish. [Houghton, 85 cents.]	This rebus version combines two old favorite tales of the little red hen as told to Miss Fish by her old nurse years ago.	An exceptionally attractive little book with clear-cut colored pictures and good sized type. For first grade or advanced nursery school children.
"GIVE ME LIBERTY," by Hildegarde Hawthorne. Pictures by Woodi Ishmael. [Appleton-Century, $2.50.]	Story of Patrick Henry from his 15th year thru his adult career as politician and orator.	A good presentation of Revolutionary times and events, altho somewhat slow reading. For junior high school age.

How Africa Appears to Two Writers

"AFRICAN JOURNEY," by Mrs. Paul Robeson. [John Day, $3.50.]
"CONGO," by John Latouche; photographs by Andre Cauvin. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $3.75.]

Reviewed by Paul Engle

John Latouche

In the Congo a death by obvious wound or by violent action is clear and understandable and does not cause terror. But a death by germ or inner injury is strange and malevolent, a secret disaster, the work of spirits. With that kind of belief, the contemporary native of Africa is being pushed into the machine age.

Men who carry amulets to guard against the evil spirits of the earth are mining copper a mile below the surface of the earth. A native says he wears a crucifix to remind him of how to act right, but he also carries a fetish of feathers to ward off the dark forces he cannot see and against which the crucifix is of no use at all. He prays in the village church, and then observes the tribal taboos on the way home. His father ate human flesh, but he drives a jeep, learns to operate mill machinery, to send and receive telegraph code. The hand that a few years ago stirred the pot in which the ritual bones of men were boiling now stirs the pot where copper ore is seething.

Both these books are about the dramatic and unpredictable nature of combining the newest phases of industrial society with people born into a wholly primitive society.

Mrs. Robeson's book is the story of a trip from England to Capetown by ship, up thru South Africa by automobile and train, along the coast of East Africa by ship, thence again into the interior, and back to England by plane. It is the first account I have ever read of how Africa looks to an educated American Negro. We are taken into the compounds where the natives live, into their hideous settlements in South Africa, into their cattle barns in East Africa, into the homes of their doctors and teachers.

The book is printed as the journal Mrs. Robeson kept, with the little remarks about travel and roads and weather any journal would have. I earnestly hope the author will remove the word "adorable" [used of anything small, lion cub or child] from her vocabulary for a long, long time.

Many of the observations are fresh and the information new, but on the whole there is a superficial air about the whole thing. In spite of her attempt to get into the "real" Africa, Mrs. Robeson leaves the reader with the feeling that she saw the dark continent too exclusively from the company of the European-educated native, the rare individual who had gone away and come back to teach or heal.

The photographs of "Congo" are superb, far superior to those in the Robeson book. The closeups of African faces are full of variety and detail and excitement. Latouche's text is a much more exact reporting of what a section of Africa is really like than anything put down by Mrs. Robeson. The author is driven into the amusing position of having to say good things for imperialism, after seeing the Belgian Congo, altho he had satirized it in earlier writings. The book is crammed with the most exact knowledge of what is happening in the Congo and in the lives of the people, and at every turn photographs clarify the text like an unreeling film.

Our Air Minded Youngsters Will Like This Series

"AVIATION SCIENCE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS," by Charles K. Arey. [Macmillan, $1.12.]
"THE MEN WHO GAVE US WINGS," by Rose N. Cohen. [Macmillan, $1.08.]

Altho these are readers designed for school libraries and supplementary reading, they are of sufficient merit in writing and structure to commend them for general juvenile reading on the 5th and 6th grade levels.

"Aviation Science" is for 6th graders. It explains, in simple language, the principles of flight and the operation of planes, with suggested experiments that can be performed with home materials to demonstrate the principles.

"The Men Who Gave Us Wings" is a history of aviation, from man's earliest attempts to travel thru the air down to the military and commercial planes of today.

The two books are part of a graded series of six published by Macmillan. The others are "Straight Up," and "Straight Down," by Henry B. Lent; "Planes for Bob and Andy;" "Airplanes at Work," by Gertrude Whipple. In view of the great interest in flying shown by boys and girls of today, the readers for grades 4, 5, and 6 in this series have been approved for use in the Chicago public schools.

Remember Alger? Here's Chance to Read Him Again

"STRUGGLING UPWARD, and other works," by Horatio Alger Jr. [Crown, $3.]

Lives there a man with soul so dead who had the chance yet never read Horatio Alger Jr.? If so, here is his chance to make up for lost time. Four representative Algers have been combined in this anthology — "Struggling Upward," "Ragged Dick," "Phil the Fiddler," and "Jed the Poorhouse Boy." The title piece is of all the 119 books written by frustrated, good hearted, untalented Alger perhaps the most perfect example of the formula he used to sell 200 million copies. It is the inspiring tale of Luke Larkin's rise from poverty to financial success. As isn't what Alger story.

"Ragged Dick" is the first Alger story, and one of the best. "Phil the Fiddler" is considered the most significant because it was an awkward attempt to correct a real social evil. "Jed" is just typical. As literature, Alger's stuff simply doesn't exist, but read it well and you'll find in it the fundamentals of every soap opera, the basic elements of practically every comic strip. Who are the critics of this day to sneer at those who read Alger so avidly years back?

Male Call
112 OF THE G I COMIC STRIPS BY THAT NAME FEATURING THE EFFORTLESS WAR ACTIVITIES OF MISS LACE
by MILTON CANIFF
SIMON AND SCHUSTER • NEW YORK

A million Generals have been waiting for this book

MAYBE you don't think there are a million generals. Well, "general" is Lace's word for any GI. And Lace is the GI's own pin-up girl whose lovely face, etc. has appeared on innumerable planes, tanks, and jeeps that have gone into battle bearing her name. In private life Miss Lace is the heroine of Milton Caniff's* MALE CALL. And a million is probably a flagrant underestimation of the number of GI's who have been waiting for MALE CALL. It is a book containing 112 er—well—strips that have run in "Stars and Stripes" and other service papers. ☛ Miss Lace awaits you—at your bookseller's—today.

*Caniff is, of course, creator of "Terry and the Pirates." All his royalties as well as all publisher's profits on MALE CALL are being turned over to Army Emergency Relief. Price $1.00 at the thought of spending the night in that little boat, grounded among seaweeds and gulls on the bay.

A STAR TO STEER ME BY

That's just the way it was. Not, I'm sure, the way it would have been with you. I know. Because a little boat with a red sail passed us once, with a man and girl in the stern. He had his arm close around her and she looked like a part of some wonderful scheme, happy and knowing. That's the way it would have been.

You always said, "I'll take you sailing this summer!"

There's something I never told you when you said that. I was ashamed, and I thought I would just wait until the time came, and maybe it would be all right. It was the fear of water, a consciousness of the depth beneath. It frightened me terribly, that depth. When I was a child I always thought, "Next time I won't be afraid." Or, "Next year it will be all right. Grownups aren't afraid." But each time near the water was the same. And I could feel the inside of me draw up into a tight, miserable little knot.

I felt that way last night, the minute he asked me to go sailing today. And all night I kept waking up to a gnawing little fear that knotted me up tighter than ever. When we got down to the river I still felt miserable. I had on the navy blue long-shorts you never saw and a long sleeved shirt, and the green moccasins you teased me about last fall before you left. Bob teased me, too. He said those were pretty fancy duds for a firstmate. So I took off my socks and shoes and left them on the dock. Then I rolled up my shirt sleeves, and Bob said I was beginning to acquire the proper weatherbeaten look.

It took that man quite a while to get the sails fixed to suit him; so I just sat on the dock and watched him work. Once he asked me if I had a knife handy, and I said: "Only this one sticking in my back, sir." I should have said: "This one sticking in my heart, sir." But how could I say heart to almost a stranger? Then I remembered seeing one down at the other end of the dock, an old rusty paring knife; so I ran after it. When I got back, he had the boat all ready. And he didn't need the knife. I guess I don't need it either. I guess I'm just used to the feel of it, buried to the hilt.

Bob looked up at me, smiling, and held out his hand. "Climb aboard, mate," he said. So I went aboard. I felt the old familiar fear again. But this is the strange part: it was so much less desperate. When a person has feared something so desperately, there's sometimes not much emotion left when the thing comes to pass. That's the way it was about you. That's why there weren't any tears then, you know. They'd all been cried before.

One of the decorations in "Rooster Crows for Day," by Ben Lucien Burman [Dutton], to be published Aug. 27.

"Back to the stern with you," Bob ordered, "and take the tiller in hand." Then he showed me how the boat would move according to the way I moved the tiller. And, before we were out on the river, I was sailing. I couldn't have imagined the absolute detachment and peace of it. But I guess you know more about both those things now.

It's curious how sharply carved the outlines of the afternoon are. Even the houses along the shore—ridiculously similar cracker boxes—looked completely individual. And when Bob asked me to aim for the house with the red roof, I was surprised to find myself saying, "Which one, sir?" as if one of them could possibly be identified separately!

I don't know just when it was that Bob told me about the girl. But some time during the afternoon he asked me what I thought about any one fool enough to go on carrying the torch. Me. He asked me, darling! I just looked at him, and for a minute I couldn't get my voice out past the hot tears in my throat. But you'd have been proud of me, I think. The girl, he said, was already engaged when he met her, three months ago. Naturally, she's too fine a girl to change her mind while her fiancé is overseas. I just looked at him while he went on telling me that he couldn't get her out of his mind, and all the outlines of that lovely day softened, and my eyes ached from the tears I was denying.

So I told him exactly what I knew you'd say. I told him that if the friendship meant something in its own right, and he could keep it on that basis, it might be worth enduring. But he's so terribly young. Aren't we all young right now? "Give yourself 12 months," I told him, "and look around. If you still feel the way you do now, I guess it might be all right for you to stage an all-out campaign." I asked, of course, why he chose me to do his personal counseling. And, darling, he said it was because he knew I was the kind of girl who wouldn't change her mind with her fiancé overseas. But he couldn't have known for how long.

Well, I can give myself 12 months, can't I? And then, if I still feel the way I feel now—

We got so wrapped up in that discussion and in sailing that we really forgot we hadn't eaten all day. And when we'd finally docked the boat and changed clothes and stood waiting for the bus back to town, I felt my knees shaking with tiredness. We sat down in a seat at the very front of the bus, and I could feel the other passengers' eyes focus on us now and then.

"Aren't they nice young people," these glances said, "that marine and his girl?"

That marine and his girl . . .

Suddenly I wanted to belong to some one so badly. I wanted to keep those glances warm and those people happy in observing that marine and his girl. So I did something rather silly, darling—the kind of thing you always trusted me against.

I pretended I belonged . . .

I smiled much more than I needed to; so, if my eyes were unusually bright, I don't think he suspected. Really, I don't. We laughed a lot, but not too much . . . and he brought his arm, draped across the back of the seat, in a little closer, and ran his thumbnail up and down my shoulder blade, once or twice. It felt so good, clear thru the wool suit.

It was just in that little world of the bus, so much larger and more crowded than the boat, that we belonged to each other, for such a short time. You know, darling, all time is really short. It's only when you have nothing ahead of you but time that it must seem empty and long. The time past is too crowded, but there's no going back or forward, is there? That must seem strange to you.

We ate when we got back to town, but I don't remember where or what. Food didn't seem to go down very well, even if I hadn't eaten since the night before. Fatigue does that, sometimes, and being excited. Then we walked over to the station, where he caught the bus for Quantico. There were hundreds of men in uniform in the station, and I caught myself looking at their faces hurriedly, the way I always looked for you in every crowd of service men, before I knew it was no use.

Bob shook hands with me and said he'd see me again, and then he got on the bus . . . and I got on a street car and came home. Bob will be around again. I know it almost as surely as I knew—that morning, even before your mother told me about the telegram. He will see me again.

It's being outdoors all day that makes me so healthily tired, I guess. I skipped the daily dozen, and I didn't put up my hair, either. But I felt this thinking was somehow important tonight. Sometimes when I think of you lying there, with only that crowded time past for company, it's beyond bearing. I want you to know the present, too. It helps to blur those sharply carved outlines of loss.

It isn't as if anything is really changed, I guess, even if I feel so different tonight. It's just that today was so perfect—and some kinds of life are still so beautiful—I wanted you to know. Understanding was one of the things I loved about you, darling.

Do you understand?

INSTALMENT VIII.

TOWARD the end of Miss Van Gynt's remark Diana was not paying attention. She had happened to glance across the hall to where Henri was talking to Rhoda. But he was staring over her head at Diana herself and Virginia. It occurred to Diana that he was getting a rather rough and tumble introduction into the family life of the Pyneglasses and she went over to him to guide him out of the fog if possible.

"Who is that?" he asked.

"Mr. Smith," she explained. "You met him downstairs."

"I mean the girl."

"O. Her name is Virginia Van Gynt."

"Van Gynt? Thanks."

"I'll see that you are introduced to her later."

"She's going to be here for the ceremony—yes?"

"Yes." Diana didn't know why it should make any particular difference to him. No matter if Virginia was a man-trap he was marrying Diana herself. So she stuck in a low feline crack. "Virginia is the niece of the cateress. She's startlingly lovely, I think—like a poster for a musical comedy."

Henri smiled at Diana. He got the idea. "She is striking as you say, rather than beautiful. Myself I like the woman who is more chic. But one does have to notice the explosion when it happens right in one's face." He turned back toward the room which had been assigned to him. "You told me to stay out of the way, my Diana, and I hasten to obey."

He did hasten, too. Diana stood watching him disappear and wondering if he had been hurt by her admonition to keep in quarters.

"Mutt," said a voice at her elbow, "I'm sorry your wedding preliminaries are so cluttered up with distressing incidents."

"Don't be sorry, father. It's the most interesting wedding a girl ever had. I'd thank you for everything that has happened so far if I thought you had planned it."

That was something she shouldn't have said. She knew the minute the words left her lips that if her father had had anything to do with the untimely taking off of Lady Baltimore it was a mistake to speak of it as if it were entertainment contrived to enliven the carnival of her nuptials. It was strange to feel no different toward her father now that she knew he might be accused of a capital crime. She was sure also that nothing would be different between them even if he were guilty. Theirs was the only solid relationship in her existence so far. Everything else, even her attachment to her late invalid mother, was, and always had been, a sort of temporary arrangement, a sea in a state of flux around an island on which her father and Diana, herself, alone maintained a firm foothold.

She looked forward to feeling the same way about her husband. So far she didn't feel that way but she trusted that it would come. She suspected that people who are merely engaged seldom know the deep down characteristics, good and bad, of each other. It's pretty much a guessing contest between a couple of masqueraders.

Diana's maid, Lydia, sweet and domineering, who was her mother's personal attendant before she was hers, came looking for her.

"Your dress is all ready, Miss Diana," she said firmly. Diana gathered that she was prepared to stuff her into it whether she liked it or not.

"How much time before the grand entry?" Diana asked.

"Not quite an hour."

"I'll be ready, Lydia, never fear. You know 10 minutes is always enough for me to get bathed and dressed."

Smith came to them with Virginia.

Mr. Pyneglass greeted her by her first name.

Smith pretended not to notice that damaging admission of familiarity. He asked, "May I have the use of a room with a door that locks?"

"A sort of a jail for Miss Van Gynt, you mean?" Diana asked innocently.

"No. I merely want to talk to her some place where I won't be interrupted."

"My brother-in-law apparently had the same idea."

Virginia regarded Diana with affectionate approval. "George is a nice boy, isn't he? I never dreamed that you two had even been engaged. He doesn't seem as if he would appeal to the intellectual type."

That, among women, is a blow south of the belt buckle.

"How would you know?" Diana asked.

Virginia chose to misunderstand. "I wouldn't except that he told me you two planned to marry—O, ages ago."

Diana assumed that anything George had recently communicated to Virginia had been via telepathy. His lips had certainly been occupied with diversions other than gossip when she saw them together. But she didn't say that. Her mind was concerned with Seven Smith's rather peculiar request for a room having a door with a lock on it for Virginia. What with one or two extra out of town wedding guests besides the family the house was pretty well filled up.

She referred the matter to her father. "How about letting Mr. Smith and Miss Van Gynt use mother's room?"

The only reason she asked him at all instead of making the decision herself, as she usually did in all household matters, was that her mother's room was pretty much the way it had been during her life time, even some of her clothes were still in the closets and her medicines and toilet articles in the bathroom cabinets. They had all been left for Mr. Pyneglass to sort over and so far Diana had not bothered him about it. The reminders might be too poignant.

But he was quite all right about having strangers cross the threshold. "Certainly," he said. "Let 'em use it. Why not?"

Diana was glad he was sensible about it. To Smith she said, "You can have that second room down the hall for your conference."

As they started away Virginia asked, "Is there any one among the servants who could mend the sleeve of my dress?"

"My maid is just aching for something to do," Diana said. "Lydia, go with Miss Van Gynt and attend her wants."

Virginia thanked her.

When they were gone, father and daughter walked together toward his room and hers which were in the west wing around a corner from the others. Originally his quarters had been next to his wife's—the room Henri was using—but when she died he had moved into the other wing.

Her father dropped into step with Diana and put his arm across her shoulders. She didn't ask him how he knew Virginia but he explained anyway. "As I think you may have heard, I furnished the capital to start the first and original Lady Baltimore tearoom. Virginia was an orphan living with her aunt at the time and I even helped educate her."

Well, that accounted for everything in a nice way. In too nice a way if anybody should ask you. Diana wanted to believe it but she couldn't.

Still, she had to give him credit for trying. She also had to admit that everything he ever did up to and including homicide [if it had to include that] was to help somebody else.

As, for instance, Seven Smith.

At her father's door—her own was farther on—Diana paused a moment. "You set Detective Smith up in business, too, didn't you, Jeff? How come?"

"That wasn't anything. He has paid back nearly everything now. He used to be a lieutenant on the metropolitan police but he forgot to play politics and landed outside one day sitting on his own hat which they had thrown out first. I found out about it some way, I've forgotten just how, and made him a proposition. We'd had some trouble with the private detective agency that furnished watchmen for our docks and warehouses and I offered him that contract as a starter for a company of his own. That was all there was to it. He had the right kind of stuff in him and I furnished the chance. And at the same time I bought watchman service for about half of what I'd been paying before."

"Got any kind of an idea what he thinks of you?"

"Just roughly." Her father looked at her sharply to see what she meant. "But don't believe everything Smith says. He's probably been filling you up with a little exaggerated bunk about your old man, knowing darn well you'd bring it to me. The lad is a fox, isn't he? But I'm onto him. It won't get him a thing."

"No," she said, "it won't get him anything—unless perhaps an introduction to death which I think he would face cheerfully on your account."

"Whoa!" ordered her father. "When and how did you get an appointment as press agent for a man who stands pretty well with me already? Is there something here which does not meet the jaundiced eye of a moderately fond parent?"

"Not a thing—unless it is that he reminds me of you. You're a kind of fanatic on going the limit for any one you care about, and so is he."

"I wish, Mutt, that you would either shut up or tell me what you're talking about. Am I in some danger that you and your new found friend are going to rescue me from just before the bomb goes off?"

"Don't you know?" Diana demanded.

"No."

"If you don't know about it then you're not in any danger and I've been barking up the wrong redwood." Diana disengaged herself from his arm but kissed him, lather and all, as she did so. "I love you anyway, stranger, and I'd give you my best hoss and rifle only the hoss needs a coat of paint and I've lost the cork that goes in the end of the rifle barrel to make it pop."

Diana walked on toward her own room wondering which one of them was taking the other for a ride. That explanation about Virginia fitted in too pat, plugged too many gaping holes all at once. It accounted for the financial arrangements mentioned in those half-burnt letters—$35,000 for capital to start Lady Baltimore in business and a monthly allowance for Virginia's education. Diana did not think it was because he had read her mind that her father had been so thoro in clearing up everything. On the contrary, she believed that he had been thinking about the situation himself and had put in his own explanation quickly with the idea of heading off a possible request for a more logical one.

But, if her father was guilty why had he hired a detective to work on the solution of the crime? Was it because he couldn't help himself when Seven Smith walked right in on the scene down in the hall when they were first viewing Lady Baltimore's body. Some way Diana didn't believe that was the answer. More likely he had asked Smith to take charge because he knew of the younger man's loyalty to himself, knew that Smith would protect him rather than try to prove him guilty as the regular police would have to do.

That, however, didn't quite match in with her estimate of her father's character. Suppose, she said to herself, he really was guilty of doing away with Lady Baltimore. If that were the case she was willing to bet that he would have stepped forth and taken the consequences.

Unless he thought he was protecting some one else.

All right. Concede that. Now that his wife was dead for whom would he be so quixotic?

The only answer was Diana herself.

And that left her with the circumference of the circle still whirling around her while she stood in the center trying to count the number of revolutions. All she really knew was that Lady Baltimore was dead and that in some way that fact was tangled up with her own fortunes and future.

Thinking about her father and Smith and Henri [she didn't know just how Smith had gotten into the list] Diana entered her own room.

There, sitting erect in her most uncomfortable chair, was Donna Diego. The chair might just as well have been the throne of Spain—in the old days, that is, before the Republicans and the Nationalists began using it for target practice—and Donna Diego could easily have been Isabella, the lady who gave so much trouble to Ferdinand.

Diana knew she was in for something. Donna Diego didn't ordinarily come to see people; they went to her.

"Diana," she began, "I have brought you my personal wedding present. I did not put it with the others in the library downstairs because I want you to wear it as I did myself on my own wedding day."

Diana stifled the impulse to say, "No, Donna Diego, not that!" which came to her lips. For she recognized the black leather case which lay in her grandmother's lap and knew what it contained. The Andovallo ruby necklace!

Those oriental chunks of congealed pigeon's blood had already cost half a million dollars and half a dozen lives and she didn't want any part of them. Diana had never cared for jewelry, and that particular string of trouble did not fit in with her scheme of life.

Still, one doesn't reject the gifts of royalty. So when Diana took the case and opened it she made her gasp of dismay sound like one of breathless admiration. "O, Donna, they are lovely," she whispered. "I never dreamed——"

"Tut, tut, child," her grandmother interrupted brusquely: Donna Diego did not know what to do about gratitude either.

She turned her cheek to Diana. That meant that she was permitted to kiss her, had meant that ever since Diana was a child. Her skin where Diana's lips touched it was dry and not warm. Life in Donna Diego had retreated to the inner defenses of the citadel; the outer works had been abandoned to the enemy.

Something akin to that train of thought must have been passing thru the old tyrant's mind. "I'm not interested in the damn beads any more. They need the background of a clear skin to set them off. Your husband admired them when I showed them to him the other day. He will like to see you wear them."

"Now," Donna Diego said with a quick resumption of her usual quarter deck manner, "there is something I want to give you your final instructions about." She looked around. "Where's Lydia?"

"I loaned her to Miss——er——to a guest for a few moments."

"Good. This is something for your private ear. What I want to tell you is this: When you get to England or wherever you finally land, just forget about everything that has happened here. I don't think it will get into the foreign newspapers anyway——"

"My wedding?" Diana laughed. "Of course it won't be mentioned in the newspapers on the other side. With the war going on there won't be any publicity about my marriage except in the local press."

"I didn't mean your wedding. What I referred to was this matter of the woman downstairs—the cateress. I've been thinking it over and I've reached the conclusion your father killed her."

That was the identical conclusion to which cold logic had driven Diana also. Still, to hear Donna Diego state it baldly and in so matter of fact a tone chased a very depressing chill up her spine.

"Not that I blame him," Donna Diego hastened to add. "He probably had a good reason."

"You mean that you think father might be convicted of murder and executed?"

"Nonsense. They don't hang a man in this state just for getting rid of a mistress, do they?"

The old lady's brain might be medieval in its methods but it certainly was working with uncanny clarity. Diana didn't know how she had contrived to draw the inference that Lady Baltimore had been more to her son-in-law than met the eye. That was Diana's own suspicion but she had had considerably more of a foundation for her deductions than Donna Diego had—the burned letters. Her grandmother continued, "Very likely he couldn't make her shut up any other way."

"What could that woman possibly have had to tell that would make any difference to any one?"

"Something about you. You're the only person he cares for now that my daughter is gone."

Again her thought coincided with Diana's own. It must be an idea that was in the air. Diana carried it one step further. She noticed that Donna Diego spoke of "my daughter" and not "your mother." Suppose that Lady Baltimore were actually her mother—Diana's? That was absurd. Well, why was it absurd? Suppose that Mrs. Pyneglass' baby had died. Suppose, further, that Mr. Pyneglass had substituted Lady Baltimore's without his wife being any the wiser? In that case, perhaps Donna Diego had suspected all along that there was something not quite regular about Diana's membership in the family. That might account for the anxiety which both she and Mr. Pyneglass had shown about getting Diana married and off to a foreign country before anything came out to ruin her chances.

She shook her head to see if it would jar the pieces of the puzzle into place. It didn't.

Lydia came in. That put a period to their discussion, even tho the train of thought which Donna Diego had started kept on reeling along in Diana's brain like an express that has run thru its block signals.

"So," said Donna Diego as if continuing a perfectly normal conversation, "I trust that you will so conduct yourself that any sacrifice your father may have made will not be in vain." Her tone changed sharply. "Lydia, what's that thing you have over your arm?"

"It's Miss Van Gynt's dress; I'm mending it," Lydia replied patiently. She had been thru 20 years of astringent association with Donna Diego.

"Who is Miss Van Gynt, and how did her dress get torn?"

It seemed best to Diana to do the explaining herself. "Miss Van Gynt is a guest for the wedding. Her dress got torn a little after she arrived."

"O," said Donna Diego, "and she's waiting out in the hall in her petticoat, I suppose, while Lydia——"

"She doesn't wear a petticoat," Lydia interrupted briefly.

"And she's waiting in the Redwood bedroom and not out in the hall," Diana supplied.

"I wore four petticoats on my wedding day." Donna said that as if that in itself constituted a rebuke.

"Miss Van Gynt," Diana reminded the old lady, "isn't the one who is getting married, so naturally she isn't wearing any petticoats." She hoped that added a little to the confusion. To Lydia she said, "Mr. Smith has finished talking to her, then?"

"No. He seemed to have something especially private to discuss so he sent me out. That's why I came back here to finish up."

What Has Gone Before

On her wedding day Diana Pyneglass slips down the back stairs to burn old love letters. Wedding preparations under the supervision of Lady Baltimore, cateress with a mysterious past, and her assistant, Arthur Weeks, are under way. Diana finds some one has been burning papers before her. Back in her room, her father is sprawled on her bed. Diana notices his shoes are wet. After her mother's death her Spanish grandmother, Donna Diego, who rules the family, comes to live with them and plans to bring about Diana's marriage to some one socially eligible. Diana's fiance, Henri de Bayonne, a Frenchman entrusted with a secret mission to the United States, meets with the grandmother's approval. Donna favors an early marriage, but Diana's father would prefer to have her wait. Lady Baltimore is found strangled. Arriving to guard the presents, Detective Seven Smith and his assistant, Horace Morse, are called upon to solve a murder. Donna insists the wedding go on, no mention to be made of the murder until the ceremony is over. Smith agrees. Diana's sister, Rhoda, arrives with her husband, George Angell. Rhoda, who snatched George away from Diana, is jealous of George, believing he is still in love with Diana. Diana finds Smith questioning Arthur Weeks, partner of Lady Baltimore. Virginia Van Gynt, attractive artist niece of Lady Baltimore, arrives and learns of her aunt's death. She is questioned about a photograph missing from a frame in her aunt's apartment. Smith feels reasonably sure of the solution but not the motive. In the incinerator he finds some half-burned letters referring to a settlement. Diana recognizes her father's handwriting.

They Could Love Without Restraint But Marriage Would Have Been Scandalous!

He was madly in love with beautiful Luisa, daughter of the wealthy Marquis de Carvajal—but the call of adventure ran riot in his blood. Casting aside his heart's desire, young, handsome, aristocratic Pedro de Vargas set sail for the New World, in search of gold and glory, intending to claim his prize upon his return. His wits, his sword and his courage were the weapons he successfully used to fight intrigue, hardship, and death. Only his heart was vulnerable—and Catana, the poor dancing girl won it—the hard way—against the most formidable odds! It was a matter of course that she be his mistress—but it was scandalous to think of marrying her instead of suitable, adorable Luisa! Don't miss "Captain from Castile", by Samuel Shellabarger! Club Founder to Be Cited at Festival Lunch

By Irene Steyskal

One of Brayton Eddy's delightful nature books carries this inscription: "To Mrs. Charles S. Clark—the creator of opportunities."

In that dedication is compressed the story of a unique organization in this city, the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen, and of its founder, Myrtle Dean Clark, whom the Chicago Music Festival designates this year as its honored guest. Mrs. Clark shares the distinction with Frederick Melius Christiansen of St. Olaf Lutheran college, founder and until recently, when his son assumed his place, director of the student choir that made the Minnesota school famous.

The dynamic Dr. Christiansen, "father of a cappella music in America," and Mrs. Clark, conference president and creator of opportunities, will be cited at the Music Festival luncheon Friday in the Stevens hotel, the large, informal party compounded of fun, food, and good fellowship in music, which annually preludes the Festival on the following night in Soldiers' field.

If there are gates to opportunity that move on grudging hinges, it is a different story with Mrs. Clark's talent clearing house. So smooth an action has her conference door that operation by a magic spring is suggested. Literally thousands of aspiring artists and lecturers from all parts of the country and from almost every land on the globe have knocked on Mrs. Clark's door to find a welcome always to an enlightening experience and, more often than not, to a successful career.

Close to 10,000 artists have met more than 20,000 club presidents and program chairman thru Mrs. Clark's organization, it is estimated by Margueritte Harmon Bro and recorded in her book, "Thursday at Ten," a history of conference published in the silver anniversary of the conference in 1942. She tells further that "Around $100,000 has passed thru the treasurer's books on its way to many destinations, and scores of sound and worthy causes have been given a boost."

The conference, having some 1,600 members, serves almost 300 clubs—women's clubs, travel, study, church, professional, college, business, patriotic, literary, drama or art groups, parent-teacher associations, and a score of other types—in four states.

When Mr. Eddy dedicated his book to the conference president in grateful praise of her as a creator of opportunities, his title for Mrs. Clark rose from a personal experience. Gaily recounted in the Bro history, that experience serves well to epitomize the spirit of helpfulness seasoned with humor with which Mrs. Clark has endowed her organization, the conference's cosmopolitan interests, and those overtones of human relationships that can give an organization a vibrant personality.

Eddy had a great deal at stake the day he appeared before the conference. If he could present his scientific story in a manner to interest the club women in Chicago, there was a well known lecture agency in New York that would hire him, and if he were hired he could marry his sweetheart, whose name was Robin.

The young scientist talked to the conference on insect lore. "He showed pictures of the insects he talked about," Mrs. Bro relates, "and he knew his hexapoda. He showed the little plant lice domesticated by certain ant tribes, which yield a sweet honeydew flow of milk . . . which no Jersey or Guernsey has ever matched proportionately. He presented the insects being stabled underground for the winter, to be brought out again in the spring and put to pasture, skillfully herded by ant cowboys."

Eddy "went over" at the conference. He got the job. He married Robin. They had a baby whom they named Zim. On Zim's birthday

Horticultural Unit to Continue Series of Public Lectures

The Chicago Horticultural Society will continue its current series of free public lectures at the Chicago Public library with a program tomorrow on "Perennials, the Gardner's Standby." The speaker will be J. J. Grullemans of Mentor, O. Mr. Grullemans will be presented at 2 o'clock in G. A. R. Memorial hall.

Mrs. Albert D. Farwell of Lake Forest is scheduled for a talk on "Garden Herbs—a 'Must' in Every Garden," on Tuesday, Aug. 28. Subsequent programs will be on "Dahlias, the Gardener's Friend," a lecture by Dr. Stanley D. Tylman of Lombard on Monday, Sept. 10; "Early Hardy Chrysanthemums," with Prof. E. J. Kraus of the University of Chicago as the speaker, on Friday, Sept. 21; "Gardens in Color—the Magic of Kodachrome," a program by Dr. C. O. Schneider on Monday, Oct. 8, and "Colorful Flowers for Cutting and Home Decoration," lecture by James Sykora of Elmhurst on Friday, Oct. 19.

Recently reorganized, the Chicago Horticultural Society has set up a garden center in the main library just inside the Randolph st. entrance.

Chicagoan to Be Honored at Pittsfield

PITTSFIELD, Mass. [Special]—Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs, Lake Forest, is to be honored on Tuesday when the Richmond Garden club, which she founded and of which she has been the only president, is to celebrate its 30th anniversary in a log cabin at Gravesleigh, Pittsfield estate of Mr. and Mrs. Merle D. Graves. There will be an informal program in keeping with the current war tempo and Mrs. Gibbs may read one of her own poems as she did at the 25th celebration.

For many years Mrs. Gibbs has been a leader in garden club organization and civic improvement. She and Mrs. E. Parmalee Prentice [Alta Rockefeller], a member of the club, have urged tree and floral roadside planting, thus adding to nature's generous gifts to Berkshire. At Rock Ridge farms, in nearby Richmond, Mrs. Gibbs has a garden that has been in continuous cultivation for 160 years. Her summer home, built in 1785 by David Chapin, with its palladium window, is a gem of colonial architecture.

In this war Mrs. Gibbs has been chairman of all the Richmond war bond campaigns; she has been at the forefront in Red Cross work and canning projects; she is first vice president of the Berkshire Garden center; she has written two volumes of poetry and edited a number of books. Two years ago Dickinson college conferred upon Mrs. Gibbs the honorary degree of doctor of humane letters for her interest in the cause of student education. She restored one of the old Shaker buildings at Mount Lebanon, N. Y., just over the mountain from Rock Ridge.

The former Rebecca McClure Whitehead, Mrs. Gibbs is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elisha P. Whitehead of Chicago. Her maternal grandfather, George H. Laflin, a Chicago pioneer, in 1890 built a palatial summer home, the Gables, at Pittsfield. Mrs. Edward De Witt Shumway of Lake Forest, is a sister of Mrs. Gibbs.

Last night and this afternoon mark the final concerts given by Boston Symphony orchestra, Dr. Serge Koussevitzky, conductor, in the current Bach-Mozart three weekend festival at Tanglewood, midway between Lenox and Stockbridge. There have been large overflow audiences with many picnickers on the sun flecked lawn beneath the giant pines and elms overlooking Lake Mahkeenac.

Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, Lake Shore dr., is having as guests for the concluding concerts, Mrs. Alice Higinbotham Patterson of Chicago with her daughter, Mrs. Donald Baker, and granddaughter of Greenwich, Conn.

Mrs. McPherson was on the reception committee of this week's members' night at the Berkshire museum, Pittsfield, which marked the opening of an exhibition by seven Berkshire painters and sculptors.

With Mr. and Mrs. William Felton Barrett [Margery Barker] at last night's concert was Mrs. Giovanni Cardelli [Ruth Lamson] of Chicago and New York, for whom Mrs. Barrett is having a luncheon party next week at her summer home, Sky farm, North Egremont.

On Wednesday Mrs. Barrett entertained at a picnic lunch for Mrs. Cardelli at Berkshire Garden center, Stockbridge, of which she is president, following a garden party given by Miss Mabel Choate, president of Lenox Garden club at her summer home, Naumkeag [Indian Haven of Peace]. Miss Choate has the only Chinese garden and real Chinese temple in the Berkshires, and various Chinese floral and shrub symbols were explained by Fletcher Steele, Boston architect, who assisted Miss Choate in planning her Indian mission house and gardens.

Fresh from the Hills . . . . . By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm . . . . . Ex-White Collar Girl

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

If I had some way of keeping this story about Eleanor Moss from her mother I could tell it so much more happily. You see Eleanor's mother, Mrs. A. S. Loomis, 685 Central av., Highland Park, Ill., doesn't know Eleanor stays alone down here on her Ozark farm. Ever since the enlistment of her husband, Frank, Eleanor has kept up a nice little fiction about Emma Annie, a high school girl, staying with her just to keep her mother from worrying. A couple of years ago there was an Emma Annie. However, most of Eleanor's days were spent in cooking, washing, and sewing for the girl, who was doubtful company at best, so Eleanor decided that Emma Annie was more trouble than she was worth. "And anyhow," said Eleanor, as we looked at her house, barn, and chicken house standing like three Babes in the Woods, "what is there to harm me here?"

When tales are told of war wives and their work, I hope mention will be made of Eleanor Moss. Truly she is keeping the home fires burning while Frank is away. If she had left their mountain home, all their investment, all the work that went into their house and other buildings would have disappeared, board by board, window by window! Because of Eleanor's loyalty and willingness to share the load when the going is tough, Frank will find everything he left ready and waiting for him to take up right where he left off.

In Chicago the Mosses lived at 2804 Logan blvd., and Eleanor worked at the Chic-Nepon Millinery company, while Frank, formerly a golf pro, was an office worker at the Greenebaum Tanning company. Neither had ever lived on a farm, but when they made a vacation trip thru the Ozarks in 1936 they decided country life was their dish. They certainly went all the way in making the shift from urban to rural life. Not for them the more sophisticated regions, with paved roads and the whistle of trains beyond the ridge. They bought 43 acres of wooded hills in Newton county, Ark., the county in which there is neither railroad nor paved road. Their farm lies like a triangular peninsula with a creek on all three sides. Near the base of the triangle, which is only 200 yards wide, they set their house, the small building with the crescent in the door, and the chicken house. Closer to the creek at the base line they built their barn. A road, of sorts, comes in at the point of the triangle. Even in good weather timid motorists do not attempt it, for a creek, noisy and bubbling, must be forded. In bad weather even the trucks which haul stock feed over the most wretched roads in the mountains cannot make it. "In weather like that," said Eleanor blithely, "everybody just stays at home." That includes Eleanor herself.

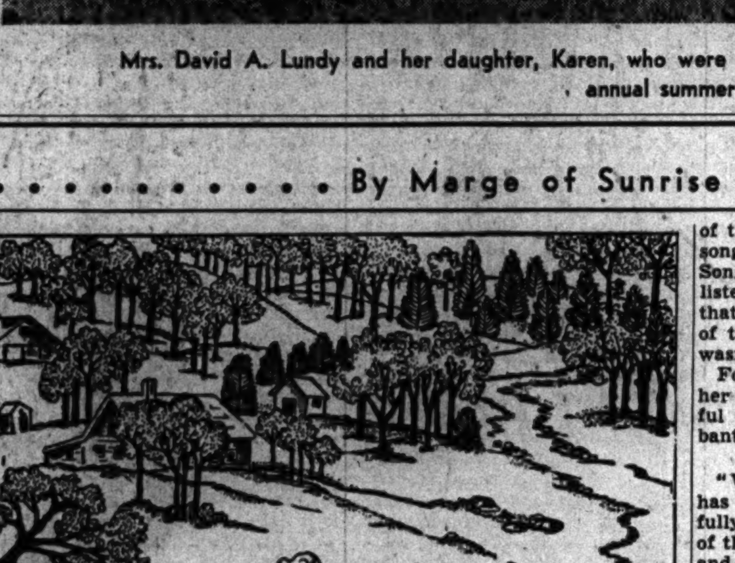
Eleanor does not drive. When she comes out for groceries and mail, as she does three times a week, she walks down past the barn, takes off her shoes and stockings, and wades the creek. Then she clambers up the steep river bank, winding thru the dense underbrush which always grows along our southern streams, climbs a six-rail fence, walks thru a watermelon patch, a cornfield, and a patch of weeds, opens a stock gate, and is on the highway. There she flags a mail truck or a truck of any kind, and rides seven miles over the stony roads to Jasper, the nearest town. She buys groceries until she has all she can carry, then she stops buying. She rides back to the stock gate and retraces her way over melon patch, fence, mountainside, and creek.



Her nearest neighbors, the Riggses, are a half mile away thru the woods, and in the Ozarks that is equivalent to a mile walk over the rocks of the breakwater along Lake Michigan. Only the breakwater doesn't have trees and poison ivy and snakes to slow one down. On the evening when Addie Barlow and I went to visit Eleanor, Mrs. Riggs had come down to buy another dozen of eggs from her. It was the fifth dozen at 30 cents per dozen that Mrs. Riggs had bought since she last paid, said Eleanor pointedly, but Mrs. Riggs made no reply. Later, when she started to walk off with the eggs, on the spur of the moment she made up a long song to the tune of the "Prisoner's Song" and sang it to us. As I listened hopefully for the rhyme that never came in the entire course of the song I wondered if Eleanor wasn't selling her eggs too cheaply.

For companionship, Eleanor has her big dog, Jerry; a cat, 50 beautiful white Giant hens, 16 speckled bantams, and 15 goats.

"We have eight kids that Frank has never seen," said Eleanor wistfully as we patted the velvety heads of the soft-eyed Toggenberg nannies and their babies. "Frank will be 40 in November, and we are hoping he will be released then. When he comes home we will put up fences and finish fixing up our farm."

"Couldn't you have bought a farm just a bit . . . er . . . less remote?" I asked, trying to put the question tactfully.

"Of course we could," returned Eleanor. "But we are both quite self-sufficient. We don't need a lot of people about us. We didn't have any trouble at all becoming adjusted here, except in little things. For instance, neither of us had ever milked a cow. But we just bought a cow and learned on her. Then when Frank was planning on enlisting we sold her and bought the goats because I can handle them more easily. The goats stay close to the house, so I have no trouble with them. For a time, hawks were getting my little chickens, but I put them upstairs in the barn, and they will soon be big enough to take care of themselves. One learns! Frank learned carpentry work after we came down here. I think he did a wonderful job building our house."

Any one would agree. The house is composed of three big rooms, with deep built-in closets and a screened back porch with a built-in woodbox. Each room is paneled with golden pine that glows with a rich lustrous warmth in the lamplight. At the front, a rock retaining wall hems in a narrow porch almost within touching distance of a majestic oak tree towering high above the house. Massive stone steps, dug from the mountainside, lead down to what will be a rock paved patio when Frank comes home. There Eleanor has lived alone for two years with hope in her heart and the song of the creeks forever in her ears.

Many of Eleanor's white collar habits are carried over into her mountain housekeeping. Her house is as spotless and dustless as the finest skyscraper office. Her soft dark hair is a fluffy cloud tied back with bright ribbons. Her clothes are the neat size 12 numbers that a business girl would wear to an office on a summer day. She keeps books on the cost of everything, as well as the price brought by the baby male goats she sells to the butcher, and the eggs she sells to Mrs. Riggs. Her canned goods are recorded by a perpetual inventory. When she cans huckleberries and blackberries which she gathers in the woods, carrots and peas from her own small fenced-in garden, poke and lambs'-quarters from the scant clearing, and an occasional baby goat, she makes a record of each can in a card index file. When a can is opened she puts a slanting line thru its number to show that can is out of stock.

Her woodpiles are neatly ricked, so she can tell at a glance how much wood she has on hand. That is important when one does her cooking on a woodburning cook stove. Even her groceries are neatly gauged, so she can order flour at the same time she orders goat and chicken feed and have it brought out on the same truck. This is perhaps four times a year, for the truck line charges 15c a hundred for the haul. Eleanor's greatest need is electricity. That would provide refrigeration for the goat milk, which she must now put into water from the spring so it will keep sweet until morning. And certainly a radio would make the long evening less lonely, with an orchestra drowning out the call of the hoot owl.

But Eleanor would never wish to drown out the sound of the three creeks for, in her solitude, each has become a vivid personality to her. Flat Rock creek at the right is a headlong, noisy bobby soxer who gets in her own way. The creek at the left is a sly, crafty young hoodlum who seems to enjoy overflowing the spring from which Eleanor gets her drinking water. When Frank comes home, at some point nearer the house they will tap the spring which gushes in a great crystal clear stream from the base of the mountain. Mill creek, the grandmother of all the creeks which forms the base of that triangular farm, is a wide, clear beauty with just enough rush to add interest to wading.

We asked Eleanor how she crossed that creek in winter as we prepared to wade into the water, icy on that July night, by the light of the mountain moon and Eleanor's electric lantern.

"It isn't really any colder in winter than it is now," she replied. "It is spring-fed, and springs do not vary in temperature. But, of course, the air is colder. So in winter I always bring a towel to dry my feet.

Eleanor took us all the way thru the dark woods of the river bank, the cornfield, the melon patch, and over the six-rail fence to our car at the roadside. Then she frugally turned off the lantern and started back alone in the moonlight to the pine paneled house where she would be lulled to sleep by the song of the three creeks. Don't worry about her, Mrs. Loomis! Nothing can harm so gallant a spirit.

The Red Cross Asks for More Blood Donors

By Kathryn Loring

There was a lull in activities at the Chicago Red Cross blood donor center last week, a disquieting lull.

Missing was the usual busy hum that pervades the reception room when a full quota of prospective donors are being directed by the immaculately uniformed nurses and nurses aids. A faithful few donors were there, but only a handful, and looking strangely alone in the waiting room.

Because a limited number of blood donations can be taken at one time, donors always have been urged to make appointments before coming to the center. But the appointment bulletin board was open every day of last week—the first full week since the center opened in February of 1942 that this has been true.

With the close of war in Europe, Chicago became the only city of the middlewest charged with responsibility of supplying blood and plasma to the Pacific. Nineteen blood centers were closed at that time. The 11 which the Red Cross decided should remain open were chosen because of proven ability to produce, and because of excellent transportation facilities. However, for the past few weeks, Chicagoans have fallen further and further behind their quota of 2,500 pints of blood per week. Last week's tabulation has not been completed, but during the week ending Aug. 4 only 1,868 pints were given.

Ralph A. Baier attributes the lag in donations largely to favorable war news, which apparently causes the public to decide there is no further need for plasma or blood.

"Despite the atomic bombing—even tho the war should be ended at once—the blood is desperately needed by our fighting men in the Pacific," said Mr. Baier. "Until recently, the people of Chicago have done a magnificent job in this respect, and there is no reason why they shouldn't continue to do so."

More than 80 per cent of the present donors are "repeaters," those who have given before. It always is surprising to the ones who give a pint of blood time and again that others do not come. There are no ill effects, they claim, and the process is painless. About 45 minutes' time is involved, counting the minutes spent in registration and in the canteen afterward.

"It's such a little thing to do!" is their refrain.

At the center one day last week was Miss Lorraine Trent of 2718 Nelson av., young, blonde, and pretty, who just had given her seventh pint of blood. "My brother was killed in North Africa," she explained simply. "That happened on March 26, 1943, and that's why I'm here." Near her was another young woman, Miss Mary Beebe of 1211 N. La Salle st., who had given her third pint of blood. "I want to help in some way," she said, "Just call it patriotism!" She had no relative or sweetheart in service.

Ralph Rueschau of 910 Waveland had made his sixth trip to the center. His brother, Robert, is serving as a corporal in the field artillery in the Philippines, and he himself expects to be drafted soon. And there was Edward C. Preston of Palos Heights, a veteran of the last World war, who just had received a silver button for his third blood contribution.

BETROTHED

Miss Norma Laura Zak, whose engagement to Staff Sgt. Sybrand D. de Vries of the army air forces, son of Mrs. Martha de Vries Lipke of Hamlin av., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Zarzycki of Mason av. Sgt. de Vries, who was shot down on his 22d mission, was a German prisoner for 14 months before being liberated May 2. He was wounded twice and holds the distinguished flying cross, a Presidential Unit citation and the air medal with three oak leaf clusters. He will report to Miami Beach, Fla., Aug. 25 for reassignment.

Thomas McCastland of 1741 E. 93d st. was making his eighth gift in the name of a brother, Paul, who has served three years with the marines, 16 months in the Pacific.

Among the most enthusiastic donors, according to Red Cross officials, are uniformed men who have been on duty overseas, particularly men who have been in prison camps.

Honors for giving blood the greatest number of times, with the regulatory 10 weeks elapsing between donations, go to Jack A. Aronfeld of 594 Dakin st. His record is 21 pints. Nineteen men and eight women have given as many as 20 pints.

The center at 5 N. Wabash av. is open from 9 until 5 o'clock daily, and until 4 o'clock on Saturdays. It usually is advisable to telephone for an appointment. Donors should be between 18 and 59 years of age, inclusive, and weighing 110 pounds or more. General good health is a requisite for acceptance, and a donor should postpone an appointment if a cold develops. Six months should elapse following a major operation. Pregnant donors are not accepted, nor a donor who has had a child within the last nine months.

John R. Winterbotham is chairman of the Chicago service.

Geneva Summer Missions School Will Close Today

The Geneva Summer School of Missions will close its 27th annual week-long session with devotional services today. Fifteen Protestant denominations are participating in the school, which is being conducted at Conference Point, Williams Bay, Wis.

There will be a consecration service at 9 o'clock this morning, and at 10:30 o'clock the worship hour will be conducted by the Rev. Harry K. Zeller Jr., minister of the Brethren church of Elgin. His sermon topic will be "Returning from the Mountain Top."

Dr. Peter P. Person, dean of students of North Park college and minister of the Evangelical Mission Covenant Church of America, will be in charge of the closing communion service.

each year Eddy sends Mrs. Clark a card.

The conference's Thursday mornings at the Art institute have seen across the stage of Fullerton hall a procession of the great in literature, art, music, science, philosophy. There was the Abbe Dimnet, "frail of form," ascetic of face, reminiscent of St. Francis in his simplicity and sedulous passion for truth, whom the conference remembers as more compelling than anything he wrote. There were John Cowper Powys, J. P. McEvoy, Barclay Acheson, Paderewski, Harriet Monroe, Mary Hastings Bradley, Carl Sandburg, Vachel Lindsay, Carrie Jacobs Bond, Katherine Cornell, Gutzon Borglum, Rockwell Kent, Charles Wakefield Cadman, to name but a few in a haphazard roll call from memory.

But the great and the famous are not counted the brightest jewels in the crown of a conference seriously dedicated to service. Mrs. Clark and her associates on the conference board have been coach, monitor, friendly critic to many an unknown young person whose talent has blossomed thru the sympathetic understanding and shrewd advice given behind the scenes before ever the hour came for that all-important first appearance before the conference audience.

So much for the conference, an organization unmistakably stamped with the strong and gracious personality of the woman who founded it and has served continuously as its president. "The conference is Mrs. Clark," say her associates.

Her personal biography would note that Mrs. Clark is a proud product of the middle west. Here she was born and in this vicinity she spent her childhood. She was educated to teach in the Normal college when Col. Francis Parker was its head. Before her graduation, Mrytle Dean had become engaged to Charles S. Clark, but before her marriage Mrs. Clark put her training to practical use, teaching for a year in the Chicago Latin school.

When they were married, Mr. Clark already was publishing grain journals and was well started on his successful career, which was to include organizing the Grain Dealers' Mutual Fire Insurance company, of which he is still chairman of the directors' board. The Clarks still live in the house which has been home since the early days of their marriage—7130 S. Princeton av.

In the Clark's immediate family circle were two daughters, the late Catherine Clark Martin and Laura Clark Westcott, now of Erie, Pa., and a son, Dean. There are two young Westcotts, a boy and a girl, and the Dean Clarks, who live in Winnetka, have a grown son, who is a navy flyer, and an 8 year old daughter.

Mrs. Clark will be introduced at the Festival luncheon by a friend of long standing, Miss Herma Clark, Tribune writer and novelist.

Juanita Stapp Bride of George R. Turley

Miss Nettie Bell Stapp announces the marriage Aug. 4 of her sister, Miss Juanita Stapp of 6150 Kenwood av., to George Richard Turley of Chicago. The ceremony took place at Fiesta farm in Valparaiso, Ind., the country home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Holliday. The bride is the director and owner of the Hyde Park School for Little Children.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Aug. 6, 1945

Dear Tribune Friends: If you come to Guatemala, you will want to visit Chichicastenango, one of the most picturesque villages on earth. You will stay at the Mayan Inn, which is a dream come true for the lover of antiques. The door of your room has come from some early grandee's home. The lovely chest which holds the wood for your fire once contained the hand woven coverlets of a bride newly come from Spain to Central America. The antique chairs are upholstered with the hand woven wool fabric of the region. The Indian room boy who builds your fire is wearing the costume of the village—black short trousers, with embroidered flaps, and a gorgeous coat, whose embroidered figures tell of his personal history, to the initiated.

The road from Guatemala City to Chichicastenango is full of hairpin curves and interest. Skilfully guiding the car thru the mountains, Ed Engel, our guide, tells us about the people we overtake. Barefooted Indians in picturesque costumes trot along the road, bearing their heavy loads on a cacaxte, or a carrying-frame.

At the Mayan Inn, we meet a Chicago boy, Lt. William McManaman, on leave from some undesignated naval station. He is a graduate of Loyola university and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McManaman of E. 63rd st.

On Sunday morning Chichicastenango is alive with Indians. Look from your window and you will see them coming over the mountain roads. How small they look, weighted down by their burdens of pottery, wood, vegetables, or furniture. Sunday brings the great market day here, and 5,000 Indians will crowd the plaza.

We take an early breakfast, served by Pedro, our handsome Indian boy, in the embroidered costume of the village, topped with a purple turban, and then hurry out to the plaza, where tents are being set up. Pigs are squealing, but this is the only discordant note, for the Mayan Indians are quiet folk. Vendors do not cry their wares. Many do not even show them, until you ask: "Cuanto?"

The great snow white church, where Father Rossbach officiated for so many years, has high steps and our eyes turn here to watch the Indians burning pom, the incense their Mayan gods prefer. Inside the church they seem to transfer their allegiance, and the Shaman [village priest of the Mayans] goes the rounds with little groups, praying before the pictured saints as fervently as they had prayed outside to their forefathers' gods. The Shaman holds an offering of two ears of corn [this region, you remember, is the home of our maize] and the woman kneeling beside her husband, a candle in her hand and a baby on her back, kisses the offering devoutly, as the prayers are mumbled. Women's prayers are of no account, in the Indian estimation, says our guide, and we notice there are many more men than women in the church. It's still a man's world, in the Indian village.

We visit Father Ladislaw Pineda, who since the death of Father Rossbach has been priest in charge of this strange parish. He recently has come from Mexico, and tho he smiles graciously, we feel that this work must be a burden on his young shoulders.

In the afternoon we are led up a mountain to an Indian shrine where, we are told, there will be some sort of ceremony. Here stands a Mayan idol, and we find the rites already in progress. A Shaman is burning candles and praying before this idol, while, a few feet away, before a Christian cross, there are candles lighted, too, as if the newer faith must not be neglected.

The Shaman's wife kneels beside him, swinging the incense pot, from which comes the heavy smoke of the capal, whose scent had filled the market place in the morning. The purpose of the prayers seems to be the exorcising of evil spirits in two Indians — men — who are present. Spirits are inhabiting them, but quite evidently the trouble is aguardiente, the local fire water, which is the undoing of their race.

The Shaman and his wife pay no attention to us, and one Indian is too far gone to notice us, but the other stands glaring at us, and finally the atmosphere becomes so charged with hostility, we decide to beat a retreat. As we leave, we hear the Indian say, in Spanish: "You think you are people and we are beasts," and we feel ashamed that we have hurt them by our curiosity, even tho we have tried to be respectful.

Our visit to Chichicastenango over, we drive down to Lake Atitlan, called the most beautiful body of water in the world. It is 5,000 feet above sea level, and surrounded by gigantic volcanoes, around whose heads wreaths of clouds float.

We stay at comfortable Casa Contenta, where fellow guests are Mr. and Mrs. William J. Nieman of Chicago, taking color pictures which they will show next winter.

We have tea with friends at Hotel Tzanjuyu on the lake, enjoying the marvelous view, and several times we take the mailboat or a private launch to visit the small villages which border the water. Your editor feels shamefaced when, just after she has clambered awkwardly down from the dock into the boat, the same steps are negotiated swiftly and easily by a barefooted Indian trader, who has a cacaxte filled trader, who has a cacaxte filled with

As Miss Helen Grant of Chicago and I wander along the streets of San Lucas, residents beckon us into their gardens and offer us flowers and fruit. We taste for the first time the beautiful and delicious petaya, green outside, fuchsia colored inside.

At the little village of San Pedro next day we find the wife of the native pastor of the little Evangelical church. The pastor himself is away for the day, but we are welcomed into the thatched hut, which is what at home we should call a parsonage. Here all is clean and neat. Cupboards, a desk, and a sewing machine are part of the furniture, and a clean baby lies in a hammock asleep, instead of being carried on the mother's back.

In these Indian villages, women tourists bargain for the native hand woven trousers worn by the Indians. These can be made into women's skirts and the style is fashionable in southern resorts. Your editor was tempted to buy, too, but something whispered that shades of the Victorian era would disapprove if she appeared on Michigan boul in such garb.

Four days at beautiful Lake Atitlan, and then we leave for Guatemala City, winding down in a comfortable car for three hours, along the rugged way, with purple mountains and white or sombre clouds forming pictures such as artists love to paint.

State Legion Women Plan Token Meet

At headquarters of the American Legion Auxiliary of Illinois program plans have neared completion for the department's 25th annual convention, an abbreviated "token" meeting set for Sunday and Monday, Aug. 25 and 26, in the Morrison hotel. Patriotically curtailed to 50, attendance will include state officers, state chairmen, and directors of the department's 25 districts. Mrs. John Shimkus of Westville, department president, will conduct the sessions, which will open at 10 o'clock Sunday.

Here as a special guest at the gathering will be Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert of Norwich, Conn., head of the national auxiliary. Mrs. Gilbert is scheduled to arrive in Chicago on Sunday and will address the assembly on Sunday evening at a dinner given for her. Among other distinguished guests who will extend greetings at the Sunday night session will be Arthur E. Canty, department commander of the American Legion; Joseph Toale, who heads the Legion's Forty and Eight society; and Mrs. George Speir, department head of the corresponding women's organization, Eight and Forty.

The state meeting culminates a series of district token meetings, at which authorized delegates cast ballots for state officers and took action on state legislation, and one of the highlights of the state sessions will be the counting of these ballots, which were sealed and forwarded to state headquarters at the close of the respective district gatherings.

Attention will be directed to the nominations for the department officers at the convention's opening session and results of the ballot will be announced on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Earle Eldridge of Greenview is the unopposed candidate for incoming state president, and Mrs. Robert Stack of Chicago, unopposed for office of first vice president.

Interest on Sunday morning also will be focused on presentation of Miss Betty Swanson, youthful winner of the state auxiliary's 1945 Americanism essay contest. Miss Swanson, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Swanson, both are active in American Legion and American Legion auxiliary work, is a former "Quiz Kid." As state essay winner her entry will be considered by the national auxiliary for its grand prize of $100.

Mrs. Mary O'Brien, general chairman of the convention, will give the welcoming address, and others who will speak on Sunday morning will include Mrs. Stack; Mrs. Mildred R. Knoles, department secretary; and Mrs. James Milner, rules committee chairman.

Polls will be open on Sunday afternoon and Monday sessions will be devoted to chairmen reports and presentation of various contest awards. A memorial service also is scheduled for Monday morning under the leadership of the chaplain, Mrs. Walter J. Hoffman.

Church Women Will Mark Old Irish Festival

Because a large number of its members are of Irish ancestry, it has become a practice with the Catholic Woman's league to observe Lady Day in Harvest, most ancient of Irish festivals. With Mrs. Edward F. Bourke in charge of arrangements, plans have been completed to celebrate Wednesday with a full day of festivities. Mrs. Martin P. Murphy, retiring president, is designated for special guest honors.

The day will begin with a 10 o'clock mass at historic St. Mary's church of the Paulist Fathers at 9th st. and Wabash av., after which there will be a breakfast-lunch at the league's lounge and Curtiss hall in the Fine Arts building. The afternoon will be given to games and other entertainment.

Lady Day in Harvest is linked with a legand of St. Patrick, recalling his lighting of the Pascal fire on the Hill of Slane in 1433, which marked Ireland's conversion to Christianity. It is customary to celebrate the "feis" with contests in ancient Irish-instrumental music, singing, and dancing.

On the committee assisting Mrs. Bourke with arrangements for the league party are Mrs. John P. Lavin, Miss Frances Fitzgerald, Mrs. John Leddy, Miss Loretta Fitzgerald, Miss Frances Mitchell, Miss Geraldine Hogan, and Mrs. Loretta Kilburn. Also taking an active part in the preparations is the newly elected president, Mrs. John E. Anderson.

Elaine Fammeree Bride of Lt. Philip K. Cox

Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Fammeree of 875 N. Sacramento blvd. announce the marriage June 8 of their daughter, Elaine Jeanette, to Lt. Philip K. Cox of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cox of San Angelo, Tex. The bride attended the American Conservatory of Music and was graduated from the dental hygiene school at Northwestern university. Lt. Cox, who attended the University of Texas, is stationed at Walker air field, Victoria, Kas.

Child Players to Present 2d Monday Show

Back in his younger days when his back was stronger and he had to carry heavy loads for his living, the donkey always had felt that he had talents for other things—that he was, in fact, an artist at soul and something of a gypsy at heart and, only given the opportunity, he could have been a fine operatic baritone. So when his owner dismissed him as too old to work, he set out for Bremen, determined upon a musical career.

Tomorrow night, fresh from the enthusiastic reception of their first show last Monday, boys and girls of the Children's Civic theater will enact the engaging Grimm fairy tale, "The Traveling Musicians." The Children's theater plays in Thorne hall, Lake Shore dr. and Superior st. Curtain is at 8:15 o'clock, with doors opening for free admittance at 8. Early admittance is by ticket, but seats are not held for the ticket holders after 8.

As might be guessed from the title, the donkey is not the only frustrated singer in the story of "The Traveling Musicians." On his way to town he meets, and takes along as troubadour companions, a disconsolate dog, a cat who, no longer nimble at catching mice, has a face as gloomy as three rainy days, and the rooster, who escapes with the party only in time to save his neck, so ill appreciated is Screech Throat's clarion tenor by the farmer and his wife.

The part of the donkey will be played by Moreen Rogers; Ronald Cermak will be the dog; Ileen Orrens will take the part of the cat, and Dianne Barcley of the rooster. Cast in other leading parts are Alen Alton, as the farmer, Joan Desmond as the wife, and Michael Filey as the robber chief. In the play also are choruses of dairy maids and robbers.

Miss Catherine Geary is director of the show, and Miss Lela Hanmer has charge of the incidental music.

Walter Camryn will present his dance wing of the theater in "Luck of the Irish," a lively pantomime threaded to "Come Back to Erin," "Wearing of the Green," and other Irish tunes, and old favorites such as "East Side, West Side" and "The Bowery," reminiscent of an earlier New York. Paula Roeder, one of the high school group's "veterans" in the theater, has a solo. Four other seasoned troupers, Billy Reilly, Darrell Notarro, John Sharp Jr., and Kenneth Vogt, appear as a barber shop quartet.

The Children's theater is supported by the city and sponsored by the Chicago Drama league. Free tickets for the two remaining shows of the season—Aug. 20 and 27—may be procured by sending a request with stamped addressed envelope to the Chicago Drama league, 410 S. Michigan av.

Bonnie Choyce Is Bride of Lt. Howard Cosyns

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anthony Mercadal of 7555 N. Claremont av. announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Gay, to Dr. Raymond G. Connor, son of Mrs. William Connor of Wilmette. The wedding will take place in the fall. Miss Mercadal attended the Marywood school in Evanston and has been doing volunteer nurse's aid work. Her fiance, who was graduated from the medical school of Loyola university, is associated with St. Francis hospital in Evanston and Mercy hospital.

Sheil School Art Exhibit Opens Today

By Eleanor Jewett

This afternoon the third annual art show sponsored by the Sheil School of Social Studies opens at the school headquarters, room 602, 31 E. Congress st. The exhibition features work by Catholic artists thruout the country. The graphic arts, plastic art, and crafts give variety and interest. One of the most beautiful objects submitted is a silver tabernacle. A set in plaster of the stations of the cross is another item of interest. In the oils and water colors there are religious and secular pictures. The majority of the work follows the traditional, but now and then a particular dignity, beauty, and sensitiveness lift a conception above the commonplace.

The exhibition will be continued well into September; the hours are from 1 to 7 p. m. The public is invited.

Sheil school is a member of the Catholic Art association and has by various activities thru the years attempted seriously to familiarize its students and the public with the best in modern art, both painting and sculpture, by religious and lay artists. Among the exhibitors in the current show are Sister Mary Thomasita, O. S. F., art instructor at St. Mary's academy, Milwaukee; Sister Mary Felix, O. P., of Rosary college, and Ann Grill, art instructor at the Chicago Art institute and at Sheil school, and head of the art department in Barat college, Lake Forest.

The exhibit ties into the war effort in a recognizable way with the presence of the tabernacle designed by Sister Mary Felix for the chapel in Vaughan General hospital.

A group exhibit of oils, water colors, and pastels is the current show at the South Side Community Art center, 3831 S. Michigan av. Among the exhibiting artists are Walton Woolfork, Margaret Taylor Goss, Wayne Terry, Rex Goreleigh, Lawrence Bryant, and Carlos Del Ruy. The exhibit will continue thru the summer.

Remahl's Little gallery, 3962 N. Clark st., one of those choice tiny art centers where the unexpected often turns up, offers during August a two man show of water colors by John F. Stenvall and prints by Helen West Heller.

Comdr. Arthur A. Gilbert, U. S. N. R., recently returned from duty in the Central Pacific and is now at Great Lakes. Comdr. Gilbert brought with him 18 landscapes which he painted in Hawaii. Until he can arrange an exhibit of the paintings in Chicago, they are being used [and enjoyed] as bulkhead decorations for the lounge of the commissioned officers' mess at Great Lakes, and in the dental clinic at building Y.

Comdr. Gilbert showed one of the paintings, "Shore Leave," this winter in the annual no jury show of the Association of Honolulu Artists in Hawaii and received much favorable comment on the canvas, including a critic's opinion praising his "clarity and realistic perception." The artist is a Chicagoan; in the last war he was a flying cadet in Texas, later taking his D.D.S. at the University of Illinois. Dr. Gilbert has the further distinction of being the first reserve officer ordered to active duty from the state of Illinois in the present war.

Plans are on foot for a Chicago exhibit of Comdr. Gilbert's paintings early in the fall.

Nina K. Griffin, noted Chicago painter—particularly famous for her brilliantly decorative water colors of flowers and still life arrangements, water colors as large and compelling as oils—is exhibiting in two summer exhibits in the east. One painting was hung in the Allied Artists' show on Long Island and the second is in the Rockport Art association's summer show. This still life won the description "sparkling" from Dorothy Grafly's fluent pen. Mrs. Griffin has just sold a big calla lily picture and another of zinnias; both of these oils are decorative and finely handled.

Word comes that Anna Lynch has suffered a stroke. Miss Lynch is one of the best beloved woman painters in Chicago. Her humor and kindliness, her unfailing charity toward others, her quick wit, ready smile, and warm heart have endeared her to artists and laymen alike. Miss Lynch is a veteran Tree studio artist, one of the brilliant group of artists who shed the first and most lasting luster on that hive of studios on E. Ohio st. Pauline Palmer and Anna Lee Stacey, with Anna Lynch, composed the most distinguished trio of women painters in the building.

Miss Lynch is noted for her portraits, particularly her miniatures.

Mrs. Edwin N. Johnson, formerly president of the All-Illinois Society of Artists and director of exhibits, has returned to Texas. Mrs. Johnson was in Lake Forest for a few weeks in the early summer. Mrs. Nelly Deachman is now chairman of exhibits for the All-Illinois. The society is sponsoring two summer exhibitions by Illinois artists. The larger of the exhibitions is installed at the Stevens hotel and the smaller at the Drake. Both are proving popular with summer visitors.

Tomorrow the Associated American Artists galleries on N. Michigan av. will open its first show of a number of independent Chicago artists. This is the first time the galleries have exhibited the work of painters not members of its group. Among those whose canvases will be on view are Francis Chapin, Gertrude Abercrombie, the late Charles Biesel, and Rudolph Weisenborn. The show will close on Sept. 1.

TO BE MARRIED

Miss Thyra Gertrude Daniels' engagement to Corp. Carl A. Nelson of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nelson of N. Kedzie av., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Daniels of Park Ridge. Corp. Nelson is at home on furlough after 39 months in the South Pacific, to which he expects to return. He and his fiancee both attended Northwestern university.

Better Films Group Loses Services of Veteran Worker

Mrs. Richard M. McClure

When Mrs. Richard M. McClure left Chicago recently to accept a position as housemother in a girls' residence at Pomona college in Claremont, Cal., the Better Films Council of Chicago lost one of its veteran supporters and members.

It was back in April 1932 that Mrs. McClure, who then was serving as motion picture chairman for the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, conceived the idea of establishing the council as a means of promoting better films. Composed of around 20 members, the council originally functioned as a committee under sponsorship of the federation. Other clubs and societies soon became interested in the council's program of evaluating current movies, aimed particularly at assisting young persons in their film selections, and a rapid growth in membership warranted the establishment of the council as an independent organization. Around 350 delegate members now are enrolled with the council, whose president is Mrs. Joseph R. Chesser.

Mrs. McClure served as national motion picture chairman for the general Federation of Women's Clubs from 1933 to 1935.

Yacht Races at Marblehead Attract Fans

BEVERLY, MASS.

Race week with all its life, color and thrills has made Marblehead this week the mecca for Chicago colonists who are summering on the Massachusetts north shore. For seven days the Atlantic has been kaleidoscopic in its changes and settings for the marine picture painted when more than 300 craft, all the way from stately schooners to skiffs, hovered around the starting lines waiting for the guns signaling the start of the race.

The week has been a gay one not only from the racing but from social viewpoint. All of the Marblehead clubs had their race days, and the program was so carefully planned that there was no overlapping. There was much entertaining at the clubs and aboard ship. Luncheons, teas, dinners, and dinner dances, with band concerts were a regular daily and nightly feature of the social card. The racing brought many visitors to the north shore. The hotels were crowded, and the cottagers did much in the way of entertaining.

Announcement was made this week that the North Shore Kennel club would bench a dog show on the Polo field of the Myopia Hunt club in Hamilton on Saturday, Aug. 26. This is the first show held since the war, for the ODT banned travel permits for the past three years. This year the affair is planned as a local one, but the entry list is expected to be unusually large. The show always is an opportunity for much informal entertaining by the cottagers in the Myopia and north shore areas.

The world premiere of "Saturday Night," a new play by James Hagen, was presented to a north shore audience at the Bass Rock theater in Gloucester Monday evening. Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. of Chicago, who is at Castle Hill, Ipswich, for the summer, was among the first nighters.

The ranking tennis players of the nation will play in a tournament to be staged Saturday and Sunday afternoons at the famed Essex Country club courts at Manchester. Among those to play are Champion Pauline Betz, Louise Brough, Sarah Palfrey Cooke, Margaret Osborn, Dorothy Bundy, Virginia Wolden-den Kovacs, Patricia Canning Todd, Mary Arnold, Doris Hart, Shirley Fry, and Dorothy Head.

The Essex tennis committee consists of Howard O. Sturgis, chairman; Mrs. Nathaniel Winthrop, Mrs. Harvey P. Hood, Mrs. Charles Carney, Mrs. M. Bernard Fox, and Mr. Frederick MacGeorge Bundy. Since this is the first tournament at Essex since 1942, it is expected that there will be an unusual amount of interest in the event.

The Arthur G. Leonards of Chicago are at their lovely Eastern Point home in Gloucester for the remainder of the season. The Leonards were among the early Chicagoans to join the cottage owning colony and have been coming to the north shore for two generations.

Mrs. William K. Kenly of Chicago is at Hyghe Content cottage at West Manchester for the remainder of the season. Mrs. Kenly joined the cottage owning group three seasons ago and plans to be on the north shore until September.

Helen Hayes, of stage and screen fame, and her family are at Annisquam, where they have taken a cottage for the season.

Museum Continues Adult Series with a Program Today

The "Backgrounds of War and Peace" program series for adults at the Chicago Natural History [Field] museum will be continued with a motion picture at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, entitled, "Rediscovering South America," portraying developments in Latin American countries. Walt Disney's interpretative film, "The Amazon Awakens," also will be shown.

In the children's summer movie program a showing of "The Passing of Time," a film story based on the telling of time from the earliest days, will be presented at 10 and 11 o'clock Thursday morning. This series is sponsored by the James Nelson and Anna Louise Raymond foundation.

Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

Miss Gladys Swarthout

One of America's 10 best dressed women, Miss Gladys Swarthout, opera star, will appear at the Chicago Music Festival next Saturday night in Soldiers field. Clothes as versatile as the artist herself, and that can be called upon to perform many varied roles, form the basis of the war time wardrobe with which Miss Swarthout manages to "travel light" and at the same time maintain her sartorial reputation. One of her personal fashion laws is to choose each new costume, whether for street or concert wear, with a view to using it in different ways the year around. "One suit of a good, basic color can be transformed into many different costumes for different occasions" she points out, "while a simple, basic dress can appear in many different guises when highlighted by different accessories, such as vestees, belts, and gloves." Miss Swarthout also chooses clothes that she believes she looks and feels well in, and does not yield to the temptation to select a certain costume because it might "wow" the audience. She not only avoids "vogues," but when she finds a style which she considers particularly becoming, she has it repeated in several costumes, a custom she calls "variations on a single theme, carried out in terms of different fabrics and color combinations." For the concert stage, the noted designer, Valentina, has provided Miss Swarthout with a "uniform," a floor length gown with a round off the shoulders neck line, fitted elbow length sleeves, and a full skirt gathered in a straight line just above the hip. She wears it in white, accented by a 12 foot gold sash, which she sometimes wears as a turban; sometimes as a girdle, and on occasions as an entire bodice. A second version of the uniform is made in vibrant cardinal red, and with it Miss Swarthout wears a little heart-shaped matching pancake hat and a handsome, antique Russian diamond lavaliere suspended from a narrow band of black velvet about her neck.

Mrs. John C. Cushing

One of the first to experience a night time trip in a day coach since the new order removing Pullmans from runs of under 450 miles was Mrs. John C. Cushing. Having gone to Grinnell, Ia., to attend a wedding, Mrs. Cushing and her husband made the trip home catch as catch can, arriving here at 6 o'clock in the morning. Unbelievably, their most vivid remembrance of the trip was the air conditioned cold. Mrs. Cushing, who was traveling in a gabardine suit, wrapped its matching topcoat about her legs and froze as she dozed. The charming little hat she wore at the wedding, a crownless halo brim of white straw trimmed with little white flowers and tiny black velvet ribbons, bears the label of a famed pair of hatmakers. Looking exceedingly glamorous and somewhat Spanish senorita in a headgear she concocted herself was Mrs. John Webster at a cocktail gathering the other day. Mrs. Webster tucked a snowy white blossom into her raven locks above one ear, and added shawl fashion about her head an exquisite scarf of fragile white lace that had been made by her grandmother. And speaking of hats, the sale held by one of Michigan avenue's most fabulous and expensive milliners brought the usual avid crowd of customers into his shop at 5 o'clock in the morning. With every creation selling at $5, the bait brought at least two young Lake Forest matrons all the way in from the country at opening time, and a patron arriving as late as 6:15 found the sale practically over.

Costume of the week: A white eyelet embroidery pique dress worn by Mrs. John Mitchell Hutchins to the races at Washington Park. Mrs. Hutchins, whose collection of casual clothes has been noted with interest by other feminine race fans, added two white pique birds worn in her hair and white shoes as cool defense against a steaming day.

Mountain Bus Trips Popular with Visitors

WHITE MOUNTAINS, N. H.

Chicagoans spending the summer in the White Mountains resorts are fortunate in being able to visit their friends in surrounding resorts, owing to the excellent bus service maintained thruout the hills, and can even run down by bus for a shore dinner at Portland on the Maine coast.

Taxi service is available for shorter excursions, so that a pleasant interchange of hospitalities between hotels and summer homes is possible. One of the popular events during the week is the tea held on Saturdays on the terrace of the Mountain View house, Whitefield, where many plan their visits to attend and hear the excellent program by the Mountain View ensemble, all symphony orchestra members.

Motoring over to the Mountain View for luncheon this week were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift of Chicago, who are enjoying their sojourn at Peckett's on Sugar hill. Like most members of this colony, they are interested in the Memorial library at Peckett's, which has a fine collection of books for nature study.

The resort maintains two attractive camps, Black Brook camp, four miles from the hotel, and Coppermine camp, six miles distant. Fireplaces and grills are there for cooking al fresco meals, and "Father" Peckett delights in superintending the menus, broiling the unrationed chickens and lobsters himself.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gorman of Chicago arrived recently at the Mountain View house, Whitefield. Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Wright still are there, enjoying the unusual program of weekly events, which includes two evenings of games thru which the American Red Cross benefits, and lectures each Monday evening by a member of the faculty of Dartmouth college on current events or subjects with a war angle.

Mrs. Ernest Poole usually is in attendance at the annual White Mountain antique show, which is held at Littleton, near her Sugar hill summer home. This year it opens on Tuesday and continues for three days. Mrs. Poole, who has many lovely antiques, has a celebrated collection of hooked rugs, which she has collected in and about the White Mountains.

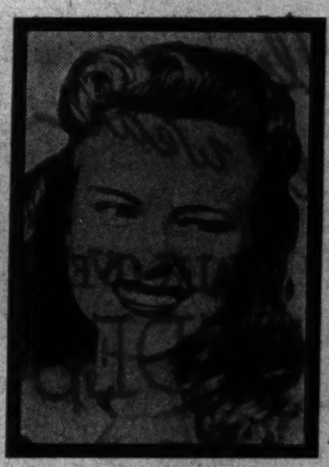
Mr. and Mrs. William M. Hoyt of Winnetka are at the Forest Hills, Franconia, with its beautiful views of Franconia Notch near by. Nearly every visitor to the White Mountains makes the thrilling ascent of Cannon mountain at the Notch, by the only aerial tramway in America, and a marvelous panorama of the White Mountains area is unfolded at the summit. In winter many of Chicago's younger set have skied down the four mile Richard Taft trail which starts at the mountain top.

Arriving this week at the Crawford house, historic hotel at the gates of Crawford Notch, were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Otis of Chicago.

Miss Florence D. Bartlett of Chicago drove over to Whitefield with Mrs. John Stuart Coonley and other friends from the Waumbek colony at Jefferson, calling upon friends at the hotel and lunching at the Mountain View house, on one of this week's beautiful days.

TO WED ENSIGN



Miss Laurette Hamilton, whose engagement to Ensign George Murrell of Glendale, Cal., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton of S. Pleasant av. Miss Hamilton is a student at DePauw university.

Park Ridge School Girls Hold Swim Meet Today

Life saving techniques will be demonstrated by students of the Park Ridge School for Girls at the school's annual swimming meet scheduled from 3:30 until 5 o'clock this afternoon as a part of the summer's recreational program. The school's outdoor pool will be the setting for the meet, to which parents of the students and members of the school board have been invited as special guests. The girls have been trained by Miss Donna Jean Hall, swim instructor, and Miss Nan McCollister of the water safety division of Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross. Mrs. Frederic C. Weinstock is director of summer recreation at the school.

Guests Enjoy Annual Races at Fish Creek

EPHRAIM, WIS.

Fish Creek held its annual regatta a week ago under a clear, blue sky and a hot sun. Unfortunately, the wind was poor, resulting in the sailboat races taking twice as long as expected. However, there was a good crowd of spectators on the dock by 10 o'clock, and by noon one saw everyone he ever knew down there. Picnics on the grass, and sandwiches and cold drinks sold on the dock, made the day a pleasant affair, and there were a few loyal souls who stuck it out until the end of the last sailing race which finished at 8 at night.

Three oldtime Fish Creekers, and enthusiasts, carried the burden of announcing events on the loudspeaker thruout the day. Ralph Friedmann of Milwaukee, Laurence Post of St. Louis, and Thomas Marshall of Chicago shared the honors, and managed, in spite of the sun, to inject humorous touches to the day's events.

The morning's race for seagull class sail boats was won by the Wind Bird of Fish Creek with George Clark as skipper and Mary Jane Rogers as crew.

One of the day's events, which had been carefully veiled in secrecy by the younger Fish Creekers, proved to be a colorful venture called "Sink the Dink," wherein six tiny rowboats took part. It looked more like a watery free-for-all, but was actually a scheme whereby the boat which was the last to sustain three hits from the tennis balls carried by the contestants won. It proved a tie between Lenny Apfelbach and Tommy Marshall.

Boys from Adventure Island camp put on a series of aquatic events, ranging from a watermelon race, to a "pajama race" in which three teams of relay swimmers had to swim the course in sopping pajamas, a definite feat in any man's lake, or be stripped for the next fellow on the team to put them on.

Not to be outdone, the girls from Camp Meenahga put on their own show of water stunts. They had several fancy divers of real skill and some clown divers who brought down the house [or the dock]. A Billy Rose-ish aquatic panorama wheel was the high spot of their show.

The day's chief event came in the afternoon with the running of the Green Bay championship sea gull race, open to each Green Bay yacht club having a seagull fleet. This year five clubs were entered, the Ephraim, the Fish Creek, the Escanaba, the Menominee seniors, and the Menominee juniors. The cup, a much fought over prize, is given by Alfred Henes of Menominee. Five heats were run, one for each entry, with the crews changing boats for each heat, and points being given to the winners of each heat. The crew from Escanaba, the winners, gathered 14¼ points.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Collins of Chicago and Fish Creek recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at their summer home just south of the village. A large and enthusiastic gathering assisted in the hilarious mock wedding ceremony. Thereafter, Mr. Collins, well known composer and pianist, played from Wagner down, with his customary gusto; Mrs. Collins danced discreetly, and the three children maintained the family musical atmosphere with sultry songs and nostalgic selections on the plaintive clarinet. The party broke up late and reluctantly.

ENGAGED

Miss Camille Ada Oliver, whose engagement to Paul W. H. Hoffmann Jr. of Chicago is announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. V. Oliver of Oak Park. Miss Oliver is a junior at Lake Forest college. Mr. Hoffmann a graduate of Princeton in the Navy V-12 program, is training at St. Albans, N. Y., until assigned to the navy medical school.

Club to Hear Talk on Mexico Wednesday

Miss Hazel Phillips' residence in Mexico will lend interest to a talk she will give on the family life of Mexican peoples at a meeting of the Chicago Woman's club, set for 11 o'clock Wednesday in Curtiss hall. Miss Phillips was in Mexico as a representative of the Pan-American Good Neighbor forum. She is president of the Illinois Council for Social Studies and is chairman of the Argo High school department of social studies. Mrs. Robert E. Lanestrem is in charge of the club's summer programs.

Club Women Urged to Can Surplus Food

Mrs. LaFell Dickinson
[Associated Press Photo]

Extension of community canning for war relief in behalf of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration was urged last week by Mrs. LaFell Dickinson, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in a special message addressed to state and territorial club federations.

Mrs. Dickinson called upon club women to help promote the program of increased canning of surplus fruits and vegetables "over and above home and domestic needs" to provide urgently needed food for war relief "not otherwise available." The project is undertaken in coöperation with the United States and state extension services, office of education, Girl Scouts, and Camp Fire Girls.

Further coöperation was suggested by Mrs. Dickinson by contributing or collecting surplus crops, assisting in canning, contributing tin cans, and helping in harvesting and transporting surplus crops.

Mrs. Dickinson emphasized in her message that in the canning work for UNRRA "only food packed in tins under qualified supervision at community canning centers, school lunch rooms, home economics kitchens, and custom canneries" could be accepted. She suggested that information be procured from teachers of home economics and agriculture, the local community canning supervisor, country agent or home demonstration agent, farm security supervisor, local nutrition committee, war garden committee, Girl Scout or Camp Fire Girl leader, Future Farmer or 4-H club leader, or by writing to the Community Canning Program for War Relief at 100 Maiden lane, New York 7.

The message was directed to eight department or committee heads of state federations, including gardens and international relations chairmen.

In this state, according to Mrs. Frederick W. Wilmot of Oak Park, garden chairman of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, club women are taking a leading part in war gardening and canning to relieve food shortages. Mrs. Dickinson's call for extension of this service to aid in war relief overseas, she says, will be relayed to all member groups in the Illinois federation.

Howard, a graduate of the University of Wichita, received his master's degree in business administration from Harvard university. Capt. and Mrs. Howard temporarily are at home in Chicago.

Misericordia Board Sets Date of Annual Benefit Breakfast

The board of the Misericordia hospital, which has elected Mrs. Michael F. McGuire as its new president, has set the date of its annual winter benefit for Sunday, Nov. 25. The party again will be a breakfast in the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Raymond P. Tennes is chairman, with Mrs. James B. McCahey as cochairman.

Breakfast benefits replaced the board's customary dinner-dances two years ago. The proceeds go to the maintenance fund of the hospital, which is a charitable maternity institution conducted by the Sisters of Mercy. The board recently organized a junior auxiliary to assist in present activities and whose members eventually will join the board. Mrs. John Henebry is honorary chairman of the auxiliary. Miss Rosemary Quinn and Miss Josephine McGuire are co-chairmen. Mrs. Alexander E. Burke is corresponding secretary and Mrs. Albert Dempsey, financial secretary, of the junior group.

Lady of the House

"Just hold that end from the wall till I match it up here."

The upper end of the wet strip of wall paper drooped over Aunt Ella's head; a rag hung from her apron pocket and an old brush teetered precariously on top of the stepladder, while she was using both hands to match the pattern of the paper to the strip already in place.

I grabbed the sticky floating end and steered it into position without saying a word. When Aunt Ella is intent on something she either talks volubly or not at all, so it was no use. "Sick of trying to get any help," she has become a devoted exponent of the do-it-yourself cult, which has kept her in a welter of paint, paper, brushes, and assorted stickums all spring and summer.

When the strip was smoothly in place Aunt Ella came nimbly down the ladder, waving her hand toward the fresh, clean wall. "That's what Hitler did to me. Made a paper hanger out of me! Come on down and we'll have coffee."

Down in the kitchen Aunt Ella's enthusiasm continued. "I'm going to do over the big chair, Maria."

I was on the point of throwing a wet blanket on the project when I recalled a chair of mine had gone to an upholsterer's last autumn and still was somewhere in the dim recesses of some "work" shop. So I let it go. It should be fun to watch Aunt Ella lick that job.

"What have they got that I ain't got?" she challenges in the words of the Cowardly Lion.

Pvt. Kenneth Sandberg, in his bunk at an embarkation point, pens—

My Gift

If some day I should come to rest
In the legendary Flanders Field,
It shall have been with gratefulness
That I had a life to yield;
For this spacious land of freedom
Where no man rules alone;
Where each one's thoughts are his to express,
To uphold and to condone;
A land where children laugh and play,
And have no thoughts of war;
Where, instead of doing goosesteps,
It's the jitterbug that we are for;
A land where we worship God,
And not a chosen man;
This is my America—
And I'm giving what I can.

Katharine Dignum, back from vacation, thinks of—

Streets

The city streets are hard and long
And stretch for miles away.
And on them pass a ceaseless throng
By night as well as day.

The learned, the illiterate,
Press forward row by row;
And sometimes those resigned to fate
Who have no place to go.

The village streets just curve and wind
In sheer simplicity,
And pulsing beauty there you'll find
Of bush and flower and tree.

Rose blooms along a garden side,
Delphinium so blue,
A graceful elm with branches wide
With sunlight glinting thru.

Men hurry down a city street
In thoughtful, earnest quest;
On village streets old friends you'll meet
Who wish for you life's best.

Catherine Gibbs, as she goes about her duties, indulges in—

Country Bus Wishes

I want to explore those offside lanes,
Or climb the stile topped by hollyhocks;
Then shed my shoes to go wandering
Down a creek bed dotted with stepping rocks.

I'd spy on the redbird stealing plums
Or lie in a hammock that barely swings,
While I drifted off for a summer nap,
To the tune the seven-year locust sings!

While Lilliam Oswald contemplates the city's—

Hobo District

So this is where the misfits sit and dream
Amid a city's rubble, where the weeds
Of mankind fail their warped souls to redeem;
Sharp contrast to the gentlemen in tweeds.
Garbed raggedly, their suffering red eyes
In penetrating discord idly stare
At others who, unpitying, disguise
The bitterness; no mortal seems to care
If failure roots of hopefulness decays;
Perhaps death is too good for useless clods;
It seems too late for them to mend their ways;
They always say against them were the odds;
The driven snow is stained by martyrs' blood;
The vernal leaf is trampled in the mud.

Enjoying my single stalk with its crown of 10 blossoms. I think of Ida Meyer's lines to—

Tiger Lily

Who will not remember
The tiger lily's flame,
Like a burning ember
When the summer came?

Who will not recall
Its burnished beauty glow
Along the garden wall
In tawny tinted show?

Who shall say there's richer gold
Anywhere on earth—
These amber cups must hold
A bronze of greater worth!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 club	Pass	2 clubs	2 hearts
2 no trump	3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of spades.

Certain leads, to the average bridge player, are anathema. When the opponents are scoring up a game that could easily have been defeated, partner is frequently heard to ask, "Why didn't you lead a spade? That would have set them." "I couldn't," is the quick reply. "I had the king [or the ace, or something else equally cursed]." When it takes spades to beat a hand, my advice is to lead spades, and when it takes diamonds it's a good idea to put your fingers on a diamond and keep them there until the back of the card has touched the table. And this advice applies even tho your holding in that suit is such that it would not normally be an attractive lead.

It is true that with certain holdings you should wait for partner to "come thru." This applies where you have an ace-queen combination and you are convinced that declarer has the king which can be captured. But on many hands there is no time to wait for partner to come thru, because in the meantime, declarer can obtain discards. At such times you must hasten to gather rosebuds while you may.

Today's hand provides a splendid illustration of this principle. Against the contract of four hearts doubled, South led the king of spades. Dummy played low, North followed with the three and East played the two. In an effort to get partner in, to "come thru" the diamonds, South led a low club. East won with the ace, laid down the ace of trumps and then took the finesse of the jack of spades which was a marked winner, discarding a losing diamond on the ace of spades. South's plaint that it was impossible to lead from the ace-queen of diamonds, was unwarranted.

When declarer refused the first spade trick, it became evident that he had just two spades. If he had three there would be no point in refusing the trick. He must therefore be planning to obtain a discard. What can he discard, that will do him any good? Surely not a club, since dummy has a singleton club. It must therefore be a diamond. If North has the ace of clubs, the declarer cannot possibly make the hand since he must lose one trick in each suit. But if East has the ace of clubs, which is a moral certainty, since he went to game voluntarily, North must have the king of diamonds for his raise. The proper play, therefore, is the ace of diamonds. North's discard to this trick will make the next play obvious. If North should play a discouraging diamond, South would still have time to cash the club trick if it were to be had.

Board of Woman's University Club to Plan Year's Work

China Takes to Air and Ocean in War Period

By Edith Weigle

Your Lenox china is flying in bombers!

Collectors of this ultra-fine American porcelain who are disappointed because they can't find their particular pattern or because they can't find enough plates or cups and saucers are not, perhaps, aware that the factory in Trenton is turning out thousands of items in ceramic equipment for communications and for radio and radar for the armed forces.

Twenty thousand square feet of floor space has been given over to the making of Lenoxite, a new, war-produced invention in insulating material. This super-fired, unbelievably hard-to-break and durable china is used to encase electric wiring because it is a nonconductor. In long, thin sphagetti-like strands it is used to protect this fine wire from leakage when it is strung between the enormous metal plates of battleships.

It also is used on bombers and planes. A few of the many different forms in which Lenoxite is molded are coil forms, sleeves, "sphagetti," and lighting fixtures. The formula and the entire manufacturing process of this new ceramic have been kept secret and only after the war is over will full information about it be made available.

It is a natural development for the Lenox plant to make this material for its dinnerware has been known for years for its durability as well as for its beauty. The result of many years of experimentation by the founder, this beautiful, creamy white porcelain is entirely an American product. It is not Beleek [the famous Irish china], tho Walter Scott Lenox was interested in this ware at one time and brought over two craftsmen skilled in its manufacture, nor is it similar to English bone china, with which he was also completely familiar.

In perfection of body and glaze it is the equal of any porcelain now being made anywhere in the world. And unlike the English ware with which we are all acquainted it is essentially American in design. It is not "made for the American trade;" it IS American and it expresses the taste of the times as no foreign porcelain can. That is why it will always be in demand here.

The lovely blues and the delicate tones of pink and rose with which many of the plates are bordered are colors worked out in special laboratory experiments made expressly for Lenox and are not duplicated elsewhere. In 1918 during the Wilson administration and again in 1933 dinnerware for the White House was designed and made by Lenox.

After the war full production of dinnerware and decorative objects will be resumed again. "In the meantime," says a spokesman for the company, "we are making all the Lenox china we can under existing conditions, keeping our same high standard of quality, skilled craftsmanship, design, and beauty."

Benefit Tennis Matches Being Held on Cape

CAPE COD, MASS. Early August is a quiet period in an otherwise busy summer season. The July guests have left, and the August guests have not arrived. Social activities are being planned for later in the month, and the only events are private cocktail parties and dinners given in colonists' homes.

Among those entertaining early August guests is Mrs. Robert M. Roloson of Chicago, at whose large summer home her daughter, Mrs. Richard Burnes and her three small sons are visiting for the month of August. Mrs. Burnes is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Carney of Worcester, Mass., and she is spending much time visiting her sisters, Mrs. John Theis and Mrs. Francis Devlin, and daughter of Lincoln, also guests at the Carney home.

Over at the Wianno club, the big news is the Red Cross benefit invitation tennis tournament being played over several weeks' time. Mrs. Harry Kimbark and Mrs. James H. Tatman of Chicago were in the women's singles, and also were in the women's doubles played yesterday, Mrs. Tatman and her daughter, Ariel, playing together. Another Chicagoan just arrived who entered the games was Miss Betty Vilas, who arrived at the Lawrence L. Vilas home last week-end. She will remain until about the end of August, later returning to Chicago. Her sister, Miss Marion Vilas, is working as a nurse's aid at the Cape Cod hospital for her third summer. Both Marion and Betty are among hostesses who are entertaining convalescent service men stationed at the Camp Edwards Convalescent hospital.

James H. Tatman arrived at the family summer home last week-end and will remain thruout this month. John Gant of Cincinnati, a student at Harvard under the R. O. T. C. plan, was a guest at the Tatman home recently. The Tatmans also were hosts at a cocktail party, with the Howard B. Whitehouses of Chicago and Mrs. Loring Collins, formerly of Chicago, as guests.

Mrs. Seymour Wheeler, another Chicagoan who summers at Wianno, is expected here this week for the remainder of the season.

Among events planned at the Wianno club later this month is a piano recital Aug. 23 by Mrs. Katherine Schaefer Foy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Schaefer of Pittsburgh. This will be one of the important August activities, and among those Chicagoans who have announced their intention of attending are the Whitehouses, the Tatmans, and Mrs. Vilas and her daughters. An impressive list of patronesses for this event has been announced, and it promises to be a highlight of the Wianno social season.

The always busy week-end calendar of sports at Wianno was at its midseason peak last week-end with the St. Mary's Island trophy tournament taking place at the golf club on Saturday and the Wianno invitation tennis tournament opening on Friday and continuing thru Sunday afternoon. Competitors in the tournaments, which are planned for most week-ends, go the rounds from one sport to another, from the sun baked tennis courts across from the club to the beautifully trimmed golf course, then on to the gray shingled yatch club on the bay. The ideal August day and the steadily increasing breeze made the Sunday afternoon ideal and gave the young sailing enthusiasts another opportunity to show their skill in handling their boats.

The buffet suppers, so decoratively planned for every other Sunday night, are becoming increasingly popular with the colonists, and there are always many groups, large and small, at the club for this event. Private dinner parties occupy sections of the dining room virtually every evening, and an especially gay group was noted when Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett of Chicago were among those entertained by Mrs. Gilbert Hitchcock of Washington, D. C.

Up in Buzzards Bay, one of the first colonies one finds in journeying down the cape, the Wilson T. Richardsons of Oak Park, Ill., have leased an old Cape Cod dwelling for the month of August. With Mr. and Mrs. Richardson are their daughter, Laurie, and Mrs. Richardson's mother. The family spends many hours sailing in nearby waters, all being devotees of the sport. Other leisure moments are spent swimming, sun bathing, and on the tennis courts.

LIVING IN SOUTH

Mrs. William Franklin McMahon has gone to Miami, Fla., with Lt. McMahon, where he will be stationed temporarily with the army air forces. She is the former Irene Mary Leahy, daughter of Mrs. James H. Leahy of Central Park av. Lt. McMahon, son of Mrs. Elizabeth McMahon of W. Elm st., recently returned to this country after four months' imprisonment in a German camp. He attended the school of the Art institute, and the former Miss Leahy was graduated from the Chicago Teachers' college.

[Carlos Photo]

Another greater Chicago family visiting in the Buzzards Bay sector includes Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grayleigh, their two sons, Billy, 9, and George, 5. In a few days they expect to entertain friends from their home town, Highland Park, the George Mahoneys, and the two Mahoney children, Marilyn and "Mickey."

The offerings of the summer theater in Provincetown are attracting good sized audiences each week. On the opening night of a new play a week ago, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reyfuss of Chicago were noted and also Mrs. Henry Stevenson, a summer resident of North Truro on Cape Cod, and a winter resident of Hillsdale, Ill. Mrs. Reyfuss was wearing a smart black jersey dinner gown accented with touches of crisp white. Mrs. Stevenson's frock was a multicolored cotton print, and the same material was used for a smart headdress.

Vacationing at Wellfleet, a community within easy reach of the famous Provincetown art colony, are Miss Patricia Donahue of Chicago, Miss Frances O'Malley of Oak Park, and Miss Rita Delaney, also of Chicago. The three young women, all classmates at Northwestern, are doing quite a lot of bicycling around the cape-tip area, ferreting out old landmarks and historic facts about the peninsula. Before returning to their homes, the trio anticipates spending a week on the nearby island of Nantucket, where two other of their classmates are guests.

Summer sales are occupying the attention of many colonists, and in some of the communities the summer residents are joining with the year round residents in helping to put the project across. Mrs. Foster Claybourn of Evanston and Mrs. James Forrester of Chicago, are among those helping with details for a bazaar in the town of Sandwich. The event will be held on the church lawn for the benefit of parish clock fund. There will be all types of gifts and handiwork for sale, including a large collection of hand-hooked and braided rugs, for which cape women have an enviable reputation. At night on the sale day there will be a bean and salad supper, followed by a Chinese auction.

Newcomers in the village of Cataumet are Mr. and Mrs. William Bradley. The Bradleys are residents of Highland Park, and came east especially to see their son, Sgt. William Bradley Jr., who is stationed at Camp Edwards in Falmouth after serving overseas.

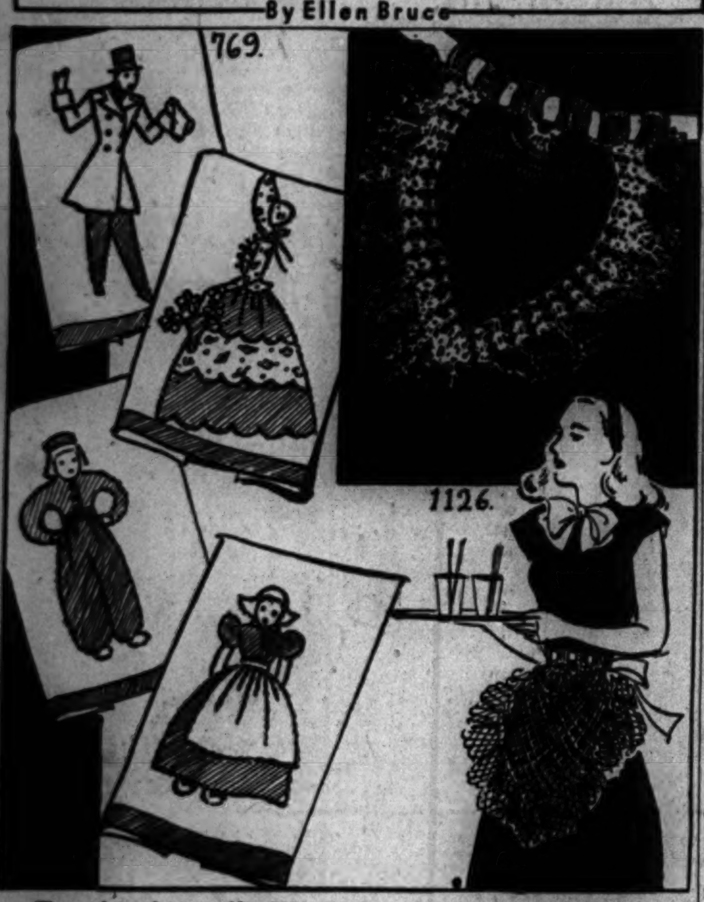
Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce



These four figures, No. 769, which are used in pairs are appliqued on tea towels or used for wall pictures, and offer an ideal way to use pretty pieces in the scrap bag. The hot iron transfer pattern contains four motifs, and they measure approximately 9 inches tall.

A lovely, lacy, crocheted tea apron, No. 1126, created in a pineapple design is simple to make and effective to wear. Fine white mercerized cotton is a perfect medium, and the ribbon which serves as a belt may be of contrasting color.

For instructions in making either of these items send 15 CENTS in coin [30 CENTS for both—wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Endocreme helps give most women a younger looking face and throat

Seems too good to be true, doesn't it. But it's a fact. ENDOCREME, can, for most women, help improve the skin itself, not merely its superficial appearance. For thousands ENDOCREME... with its 8-year record of success... is getting results hitherto thought impossible through use of cosmetics. This is because it contains ACTIVOL. ACTIVOL... a great modern achievement... is a scientific replacement for woman's own natural, skin-vitalizing substance. When ENDOCREME is absorbed by the skin, it helps to restore the normal growth of cells and tissues. Thus, most skins tend to take on new youthfulness, to become fresher, firmer, smoother, more alluringly beautiful again. Isn't this the best way you can invest your cosmetic dollars? Many report vast improvement in only 30 days.

Freezing Safe, Simple Way to Preserve Meat

By Mary Meade

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Meats are preserved much better by freezing than by any other method. Not only are the common cuts easily frozen but many meat products such as ground meats, liver, tongue, heart, and sweetbreads can be kept that way, too. Salty meats tend to become rancid in frozen storage and probably shouldn't be kept for more than a few weeks. Pork shouldn't be kept longer than six months because of the tendency for fat to become rancid. As for all other meats, it is safe to keep them frozen for one year at zero degrees.

These are some of the findings of home economists in Frigidaire's kitchen at Dayton, O., where I spent several days recently educating myself in the subject of frozen foods and helping Miss Verna Miller, home economics director, and her staff with some of their experiments.

Here are a few of the important steps in freezing which Miss Miller stressed.

1. Select meats or poultry of the highest quality and freeze as soon as possible after purchasing. The longer the delay, the poorer the product.

2. Wrap foods well in suitable moisture-vapor proof material, such as cellophane, heavy locker paper, heavily paraffined cartons.

3. Heat seal or lock seal so that moisture and flavor are not lost. Lock seal by holding ends of cellophane bag together and folding them over and over until they rest firmly on the meat.

4. Store packages in the refrigerator until all are ready to be placed in the freezer.

Wrap ground meat patties, steaks, and chops, in the same way as roasts, that is, allow enough cellophane to seal completely the patties, folding the ends so that they are tightly closed. Tie the package with string, label it, and slip into stockinet. Pack only the amount of pieces needed at one meal. It's a good idea to place a piece of cellophane between each two patties to prevent them from freezing together.

Meat loaf is frozen by Frigidaire's home economists this way: Follow a favorite recipe, omitting salt, pack in a glass baking dish, and wrap with cellophane and locker paper. When you are ready to use it, bake the loaf in the same container, or remove from the mold and bake in a shallow baking dish, without thawing.

Stews of all kinds [unsalted] are cooked before being frozen. Since potatoes don't freeze well it is better to add them later. To package stews, place a cellophane bag in a pint or quart size carton and fill with the cooled mixture. Press all air out of the container, heat seal with curling iron, fold the sealed edge down, and close the carton.

Fish, both fresh and salt water, is packaged and frozen by the same methods used for meat. To maintain quality, freeze fish soon after it is caught. All fish should be cleaned, then immersed for ½ minute in a salt water solution [1 1-3 cups of salt to 1 gallon of water] before packaging. Shell fish, such as shrimps and scallops, are handled in the same way but lobsters and crabs should be steam cooked first and then cooled before being frozen.

Food can be both frozen and stored in the same section of the freezer but placing warm food against cold food varies the temperature and probably lengthens the time for freezing. The packages to be frozen should be placed in direct contact with the surface of the freezing unit. In other words, place them along the bottom surface or along the side walls, so that one side of each package touches some part of the freezer. Freezing time varies for different foods, but it's a good idea to leave food in contact with the freezing unit overnight. As soon as the food is frozen, move to the other section of the freezer for storage until used.

See today's graphic section for pictures and information on freezing poultry.

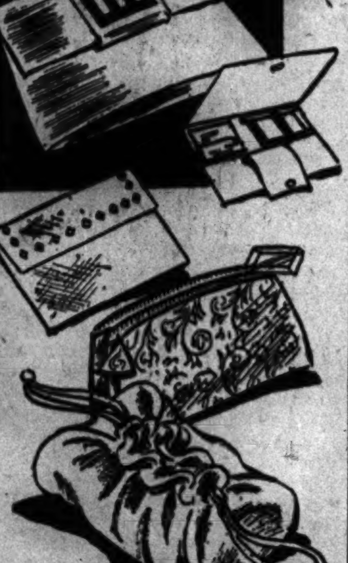
Fall purses promise to be exciting because of the variety of materials used, the shapes, and occasions for which they will be required. They are not only designed for the adult, but the school girl is considered as well.

The large, kelly green, felt envelope bag at top is designed especially for the teen-age miss. A contrasting red felt ornament fastens the flap, and concealed underneath but attached to the body of the purse is a slot which holds a pencil and pad of paper at one side and a mirror on the other side.

Strictly for sportswear is a flat, envelope slack bag, second from top, which measures 10 by 7 inches. The flap of the purse, which is available in patent, red, tan, and black pigskin, is trimmed with gold nailheads. Inside is a zipper closing across the top. Each bag has contrasting lining material.



The career girl will appreciate the tooled leather purse, third from top, because it is equipped with two separate sections, one for cosmetics, the other for billfold and change purse. Each section is identified by contrasting tabs, one of leather, the other of prystal. It is available in black, brown, green, and redwood.

This new fat and squatty drawstring bag of black, capeskin finished leather, has an oblong box bottom which allows it to stand straight instead of lolling. An oblong opening at top provides easy access to its cavernous insides.

The American Ort Federation Sends Supplies to Poland

The American Ort [Organization for Rehabilitation Thru Training] federation recently sent five tons of machines and tools to Poland, according to word received from World Ort headquarters by Mrs. Geraldine Friedman, executive secretary of the Chicago Ort council. Forwarded thru the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration in response to appeals from Dr. Emil Sommerstein, chairman of the Central Jewish Committee of Poland, the supplies include tailors' model sewing machines, tools for artisans and equipment for vocational schools. The tools—intended for shoemakers, carpenters, electricians, and masons—were manufactured by the Ort school in Montreal, Canada. A similar five ton shipment of supplies was sent from Canada to Poland last February.

Word also has been received that the Ort technical school in Budapest has been reopened with permission of the Hungarian government. Such schools are established by the federation thruout the world with a view of preparing Jews to be artisans in universally useful trades.

The American federation now is conducting a campaign for $1,550,000 with which to carry on its humanitarian program.

Make an Ally of Adolescent, Parents Told

By Gladys Huntington Bevans

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"He'll be a year old next week," said the baby's mother, with tears in her voice. "I can't bear to have him grow up; I wish I could hold on to each day."

It made me think of one day long ago when I stood in the park talking to an acquaintance. Both our children were at that heavenly age, 2½. I looked down at my own dark curly top, then at her sturdy little blonde girl.

"O," she said with crisp accents, "I'll be so glad when Imogene is in her teens. They're so much trouble at this age."

Some mothers and some fathers like to see their children grow up, but most parents who love and enjoy their children watch regretfully the indications that they are maturing by leaps and bounds. Still, they know it must come, and if they will only accept it and try to understand, everybody will be happier.

With adolescent boys and girls this applies especially, for one of their strongest urges is for independence, and this must not be constantly thwarted, but rather granted as far as is compatible with the health and general well-being of your son or daughter. Your children must stand on their own feet some day, and they cannot do it suddenly at some magical moment which you decide is the right one for them to be on their own.

Even if you think you know the right time for their self-reliance to begin, you forget this: That they're not always under your wing, your eye, or your influence when they get well into their teens. They have lots of occasion to think and act for themselves outside—in school and in their social contacts. They need to make decisions about smaller things quite early in their lives, and the habit of thinking these things out for themselves, making decisions fits them gradually for more important aspects of self-reliance.

Talking things over with a son and daughter as if they were grown and sensible is a fine way to settle lots of things with them. Let them see your side of it when you want them in at a reasonable hour, then get theirs.

Be quite frank if you have serious objections to some companions of theirs. You'll be surprised at how open-minded they can be, and how willing to compromise if they feel you're fair and reasonable.

In this way they're not always bursting with unspoken objections and resentments. In this way they get some idea of the thought and caring you put into their upbringing. And on certain occasions, if you can't convince them of the logic on your stand, you can ask them to do as you wish solely to relieve you of worry and anxiety, and they will agree.

Try not to be grudging in granting them the independence you do grant. And if you feel that your tall son or daughter is relying on you for every little thing, try to create opportunities to foster self-reliance.

But the basis for all this is good understanding, warm friendliness between son or daughter and father or mother. How much farther along any road two people can go if they walk hand in hand, rather than pulling against each other, you will realize if you stop to think about it.

A Friend in Need

[If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have household articles or clothing you no longer need, let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

By Sally Joy Brown

A vitally urgent request for artificial appliances, such as arms, legs, and braces, and for pamphlets or booklets which would be of aid to orthopedic surgeons, has been relayed to our department from a social worker in a rehabilitative center in Greece, thru a local organization which is interested in the welfare of the crippled, and we can not press too earnestly the necessity of the appeal.

The quarters, which are being developed as a center in that war torn country, will be used to provide a physical therapy and vocational training program for the civilian population, as well as for the veterans, and the training shops will be open not only to orthopedic cases, but also to the blind and deaf. According to our applicant, it might be many months before materials for the manufacture of artificial limbs will be available thru the regular channels set up for that purpose.

In the meantime, artificial legs for all degrees of amputations, or materials necessary for assembling them; appliances for above or below elbow amputations; braces or such aids, which for one reason or another our readers have stored or laid aside, could be put to excellent and immediate use as models for reproduction in Greece.

Tragic evidences of misery and cruelty are there everywhere, but the villages particularly show the ravages of suffering. In one community there have been two epidemics of infantile paralysis, and nothing could be done for the victims of the dread disease, because no braces or other necessary materials were to be had.

The number of amputees is unbelievable. Many lost arms or legs as long as five years ago and have endured their disabilities with pathetic forbearance thru war, occupation, and civil war. Liberation brings the hope of rehabilitation and relief.

The name and address of the assisting agency will be supplied upon request. Donations of appliances and related materials will be forwarded by the local office to Greece.

News Item on Keeping Your Hair in Place!

I think you'll agree with me that Miss "Hairfusser" should stay at home,—for that's where she belongs, rather than irritating people with constant fumbling at loose strands! Pardon me . . . maybe YOU offend, even though you're not conscious of it! So why not take this tip and make SURE your hair stays in place after you fix it? It's easy if you depend on GRIP-TUTH "Hairtainers" . . . guaranteed to give security for every hairstyle! "Hairtainer" is different from an ordinary comb in that it has special patented and exclusive spring-touch action which grips the hair gently, and yet so securely that you'll never have to bother about being a "Hairfusser"! A card of two (or one extra-length) costs just 25c at Beauty Salons and Notions Counters. Ask for GRIP-TUTH "Hairtainers"! I know you will be pleased!

MEMO—to the lady of the house

Let someone else choose your bridegroom? Of course not! Neither would the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. permit anyone else to select the barley which forms the malt "helpmeet" to be "married" to pure-culture yeast for their famous beer! They send experts to the nation's barley fields to find the finest top-quality barley,—then painstakingly convert it into malt right at the Milwaukee brewery. This helps assure perfect uniformity in SCHLITZ malt . . . which gives YOU the uniformity and fine quality of SCHLITZ Beer you serve in your home. SCHLITZ is one of the few breweries in America which makes its own malt . . . an important reason why SCHLITZ never lets you down from brew to brew, year-in, year-out. Watch next week for another example of SCHLITZ special "know-how" in making America's finest beer.

Why play Tug-of-War with your own skin? Sounds silly, but many of us do just that when we try to remove make-up. We pull and maul, scrub and rub . . . and so roughen and coarsen our complexions. Well, it's not necessary,—not even if you use a heavy cake make-up! TEN-O-SIX, the new liquid cleanser that's made by Bonne Bell, effectively and easily removes the most obstinate dirt and make-up. Just apply with damp cotton wrung out in cold water . . . and you'll chortle with joy at how the dirt and make-up rolls off . . . at the new smacked-and-scrubbed look your complexion wears! Your mirror will convince you if you'll just try wonderful Bonne Bell TEN-O-SIX Lotion! $1 and $2 (plus Federal tax). At Mandel Bros. or Carson, Pirie, Scott.

Avoid Painful Sunburn!

More than one person I know has come back from a vacation that would have been perfect IF . . . and then come tales of wicked sunburns and a thousand and one other small but pleasure-spoiling mishappenings. So here's a tip for those of you with holidays still to come . . . invest NOW in a jar of GOURIELLI'S ACTIVE OZONE Cream. Use it BEFORE exposure for lovely, comfortable tanning . . . or in case of overtiming, apply ACTIVE OZONE Cream to take away fiery burn and pain. Nascent oxygen is released the minute this cream is applied . . . and oil and moisture ingredients give the lubrication summer skins need. Cooling, soothing in action, ACTIVE OZONE Cream serves well in many minor skin-emergencies. Ask for it this week and avoid painful sunburn! Cost is $2 and $1.25 at smart shops; or at Gourielli, Inc., 16 East 55th Street, New York 22, N. Y.

For A Pretty Smile

"Look pretty, please!" And, Sister, that means smile! So for the smart gals who want to put their best smiles forward, I suggest LISTERINE TOOTH POWDER. But definitely! I'm simply delighted with it myself. That quick-foaming powder leaps into action and does a beautiful job of cleaning. Those satin-soft polishing agents set to work immediately to bring out the natural lovely luster of the enamel. Try LISTERINE TOOTH POWDER and see how much cleaner your teeth will look and feel! You'll really go for that new "postwar" container, too. Easy to pour the powder where you want it and as much as you want. The metal bottom (praises be!) won't wet through even if you leave it on the wet washstand!

NESTLE Baby Hair Treatment is such fun to use,—for the gentle business of training baby's hair into soft curls and ringlets becomes a pleasant ritual for any Mother. You begin when baby's second growth of hair is about one inch long . . . and the adorable, soft ringlets this lotion helps to give your pride and joy are rewards enough for the extra moments spent on baby's beauty. This product, you know, is commended by Parents' Magazine, and has been used successfully for over 30 years to make straight, wispy hair look thicker and more luxuriant. Ask for NESTLE Baby Hair Treatment at Drug Store, Beauty Shop or Baby Salon, or if you cannot find it locally, write me and I'll be glad to help you.

Time yourself when you polish your silver. Then try SILVO, the liquid Silver Polish that's made silver-polishing a speedy pleasure, instead of a chore. SILVO may be new to you,—but in England it has a tradition. It has cleaned the precious gold and silver services at Buckingham Palace for years. The efficiency and speed with which it works is a small miracle . . . brightening crevices and difficult places that used to take hours. Pour it on a soft cloth . . . rub lightly, and add a few easy strokes with the polishing cloth. Then look at your clock . . . all your silver gleaming and lovely in ONE-third the time it usually takes. Ask for SILVO at leading Dept. or Grocery Stores, or write to Nancy Sasser, 271 Madison Ave., N. Y. 16, N. Y. for nearest dealer.

Don't carry excess baggage on your summer trips! And why spoil your vacation by toting around excess poundage on yourself, either? The AYDS Vitamin Candy Reducing Plan should help you lose some of that excess weight. No laxatives, drugs or over-strenuous exercise. You follow the simple AYDS Diet Plan whereby you cut out no meals,—but simply cut them down. This is because AYDS, taken before meals according to directions, helps dull the appetite so that you crave less food. In clinical tests by Medical Doctors, more than 100 people lost 14 to 15 pounds average in a few weeks by following the Plan. A month's supply $2.25 . . . Money back if you don't get results on your first box! Try AYDS this week . . . ask at Netcher's Boston Store, The Fair, Mandel's, and leading Drug Counters.

Nothing has pleased me so much as the news I've reported about Baby Pants made of PLASTI-CLEER, the exciting new material developed by plastic chemistry. These baby panties give all the advantages of rubber, —without any of the disadvantages. Waterproof, yet transparent and light . . . strong as leather . . . wash beautifully . . . heatproof, resistant to acid and oil. Best of all . . . they won't chafe or irritate. Made by Goodyear Rubber Sundries, Inc., New Haven, Conn. Supply of PLASTI-CLEER Baby Pants is limited . . . alert shoppers will find some at Chain and Department Stores, or at Goldblatt Bros. or Madigan Bros.

She may be ever so beautiful, wear rings on her fingers and bells on her toes,—and still be slighted wherever she goes . . . IF she's careless about personal charm! That's why I repeat the story of AMOLIN Deodorant Cream as often as possible . . . for this smooth, petal-fresh cream goes on so easily, vanishes so quickly that it makes using a deodorant daily a pleasant ceremony rather than a necessity! AMOLIN gives an assurance of daintiness, for it deodorizes with real efficiency. Make AMOLIN Deodorant Cream your most reliable adjunct to personal charm . . . ask for it at your Druggist's . . . a Norwich product!

Ration-Point Problems? Here's A Tip!

"Sugar and spice and all that's nice" . . . remember? That rhyme is dated, of course, by present shortages. But you can come close to sweet-treats in delicious desserts . . . without using sugar if you use WELCH'S Orange Marmalade atop your fruit compotes or rolled into thin French pancakes, or as a chilled spread for plain pound cake. As for the butter crisis,—WELCH'S Orange Marmalade is so good as a bread-spread, it helps you forget butter! WELCH'S Marmalade lacks the long-cooked, more bitter and tart taste of English Marmalades . . . has the taste-thrill of FRESH oranges that's as American in appeal as a hamburger! Buy WELCH'S Orange Marmalade today . . . a wonderful ration point help!

When Johnny comes marching home, will he find you as he left you . . . as sweet, as dainty, and as fastidious about your little personal habits? The little feminine things will count with him! Watch even your smoking habits,—select a clean, mild cigarette that has no messy handicaps. My tip is VICEROYS,—deliciously blended from choice domestic and Turkish tobacco, and fitted with an extraordinary filter tip that keeps tobacco crumbs IN your cigarette instead of flecked untidily on your teeth or lips. This means it's easy to "housekeep" your purse . . . fresh-free from tobacco particles! The filter tip does a smooth super-straining job, too . . . checking resins, tars and other irritants.

Delight in Your Bath!

Revel in your bath, but revel with RESINOL Soap! . . . First, there's that nice woodsy fragrance about it, and a lather that's scrumptuous. But the important thing about using RESINOL Soap for the bath during these hot summer months is that it has so little free alkali, the property so hard on skin already dry from hours in sun and wind. Then, the ingredients used in RESINOL Soap are so mild that even the most delicate skins usually find it gentle and delightful. So DO be good to your skin and bathe with RESINOL Soap . . . ask for it at Drug Counters, and don't forget to stock up on RESINOL Ointment, too . . . invaluable for itching and burning of the many minor skin irritations!

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

Those of you whose love for the truly exquisite perfumes dates back well before this war, will probably remember the fabulous fragrance that was created in France many years ago, as a suitable elegant complement for the most opulent of furs. It didn't remain a "fur fragrance" for very long, for it is one of those rare scents that sings, with not the slightest resemblance to the shoddy perfumes whose acclaim shifts and dies with the years and the fashions. This became one of the exciting, perennially popular perfumes of sophistication.

Eventually the perfume had companion pieces, including a bath oil in the same fragrance that was superb. For a while this oil went into something of an eclipse, due to a warborn difficulty about essential oils, but now it's back—under a new name and with a new purpose in life—and we can hardly wait to tell you about it.

It's practically impossible to describe the fragrance. It's heady, almost heavy, and completely sophisticated. But NOT vulgar. It has suavity, even a certain rich sweetness, and above all it has elegance—nothing at all in common with house aprons or naivete. It's a scent you wear with your best, and your best feels even better for being surrounded with the aura of this.

The oil, in its new guise, is more than a sweet smelling substance to toss into a tub; its uses are many and varied.

Because it is an oil and will stain, it must never be applied or sprayed directly to fabric, but many's the wise woman who uses it as a perfume, touching it gently to the hair and the flesh. This is a wonderful way to use it, we think, and, of course, there are few oils that can match it as a tub fragrancer. Just a few drops in the water will make you feel fabulously luxurious—and if you don't almost swoon at the beauty of the fragrance we're no judge of feminine tastes.

Another thing you can do with this: Pour a few drops in the bottom of the tub, then turn the hot water on furiously. Hang the lingerie you plan to wear that day or even your dress [provided it's of a fabric that steam won't rumple, on a rod or hook directly above the steaming, scented tub. Some of the lovely fragrance will be imparted, evenly, delicately, to the fabric—and you'll love the effect.

PST! YOUR PETTICOAT'S SHOWING!

"SURE—ON PURPOSE!" SAYS FASHION-WISE YOUNGER SET

Maybe Grandma hid her Sunday best petticoat under a bustle, BUT—

Nowadays, a girl in the know wears hers out where it will show! As a full-fledged dress, believe it or not, the frilly "petticoat" is this summer's Younger Set favorite. And what a bright idea, too—so light, simple, right.

Just as bright, these same smart Juniors, when it comes to beauty care. No heavy, smeary creams for their skins, ever.

They keep looks glowing—fresh and clear—with YARDLEY "ENGLISH COMPLEXION" CREAM!

Famous guardian of lovely faces on both sides of the ocean, Yardley "English Complexion" Cream smooths in tenderly, tissues-off leaving a satin touch you'll feel instantly. Never too early, even if you're twenty or under, to start this sparkle-program! The jar, $1 and $2.

Debs may have little cause to fret about dry skin—but their mothers do! As time goes by, the natural oils that make young skins so supple go, it seems, right with it. You need, now, a rich aid to restore smooth, soft texture—and here's the exact ticket:

Yardley Dry Skin Cleansing Cream—especially in order these days when the sun adds its extra dehydrating influence. Give your face and throat a luxurious, all-out going over—once every single day—with this quick-acting lubricant. Note: the large $2 size spreads really far (though, of course, you may obtain a $1 jar for first-time trial).

While you're at the Yardley counter of your favorite drug or department store, be sure to ask for YARDLEY HAND CREAM — a lotion pink and fragrant as a bouquet of rosebuds. Extra concentrated, blessedly NON-sticky, and just 65c. All prices quoted plus tax.

Yardley products for America are created in England and finished in the U. S. A. from the original English formulas, combining imported and domestic ingredients. Yardley of London, Inc., 620 Fifth Avenue, Rockefeller Center, New York 20, N. Y.

NATURALLY! Clearer, Fairer Smoother Skin with Mercolized Wax Cream

DON'T try to hide darkened, discolored, or weathered skin with layers of foundation and powder. Thousands of smart women use Mercolized Wax Cream, for it contains a special "active" ingredient that really helps nature clear and lighten your skin, gives your complexion an extra translucence and depth, a lovelier natural coloring. Even freckles lighten and fade with Mercolized Wax Cream. You will discover a fairer, lovelier and truly younger looking skin, one that is smoother and firmer. Mercolized Wax Cream helps make and keep your skin looking as young and lovely as your skin can look. That is why faithful users would not trade their lovelier complexions with women years younger. Use only as directed.

STARTLE your skin to fresher loveliness with Saxolite Astringent. Temporarily contracts loose surface skin, reduces prominence of premature fine lines and wrinkles. Removes excess surface oil.

IS disfiguring facial hair one of your problems? With Phelactine Depilatory it stops being a problem. For Phelactine takes hair off and out. NO stubble. Reappearance of hair is delayed.

August Right Time to Hunt Fur Fashions

By Rea Seeger

Hunt your fur fashions in August. Armed with a good idea of what you need, come next winter, a sizeable amount of cash, a little definite knowledge of skins, colors, silhouette or style, and the rest is easy. So easy, that to shop for furs these days is to enjoy the coolest air-conditioned spots in the shops and stores. Even the bulky great coats of fine fur are extremely wearable and comfortable with the temperature sizzling outside. But get ready for fashion surprises.

Sleeves make all the style difference this year. Never have the sleeves been so ample, so round, and so lavish. Consequently, the shoulders of all coats with these large sleeves are much wider and bulkier. However, coats with wide shoulders and huge sleeves have been so skilfully worked that the weight is negligible, considering all the extra fur involved. But the coats with new sleeves usually are the seven eighths length or full length models, the better to dramatize the sleeves and to make such a coat well proportioned and flattering to wear.

Back lines are flared, usually in the triple fold formation. This three soft fold arrangement is managed in the cutting, not deliberately turned over, so that the shoulder lines are flat and simple, with the greatest width at the lower edge. A collar on any fur coat is sensational, since 99 per cent of all 1945 fur coats are deliberately collarless with the neck line high and snug, graciously curved up instead of the extra layer of fur.

The skill with which pelts are manipulated still is the distinguishing mark of a beautiful coat. No matter what kind of skins are used, the dramatic dark streaks are worked with effective results. These markings also are used with dressmaker softness in diagonal lines, curves, fascinating yoke shapes, big swirls, and scroll effects down the front or high around the shoulder lines.

Sleek, simple coats, ideal all-purpose models, are made with the same exact workmanship. Persian lamb in black, deep brown, and stunning shades of steel and silver gray are particularly effective designed and worked in a severely simple silhouette. Blending tones of crepe are used for linings. Sleeves are cuffless, straight, and long; arm holes are easy to slide into, and the width of the shoulders is high, wide, and handsome.

Luxury furs include the spicy glory of fine wild minks, the beautiful moire effects of fabulously marked broadtail, and deep, silky, lustrous beaver. The last is best for day by day wearing; the others are definitely for dress occasions. Short coats that swing at hip length, the 1945 versions of the popular "canadienne" or mackinaw in fur, the short jackets, and, smarter than ever this year, the many fur lined cloth coats, all are on parade in the August fur showings.

August is the time to order individual coats, smart new models already made, and also for the repairing and revamping of old or dated fur coats.

Sketched are fur and fabric coats to be found in a Chicago shop. For further information call Superior 0200.

Urban League Women Plan New Member Units

Many Guests from Chicago at Island Spa

MACKINAC ISLAND, MICH.

A Hollywood director making a sea picture featuring a real blow with pelting rain, and a gray-green sea with wind tossed whitecaps would have been happy on the island the forepart of the week, if we could have captured in film what islanders call a typical August storm.

When Mrs. William Barnes Jr., Gloria Barnes, and Mrs. William Barnes III. went down to the dock to meet Mr. Barnes the other morning he did not recognize them in their nautical sou'westers and Cape Cod fisherman's hats. The Barnes family left Friday to return to their home in Decatur, Ill., before Gloria leaves for New York where she occupies an apartment at the Surrey with Miss Katharine Firestone, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Firestone of Akron, O., in September. The Barnes have been the guests of Mrs. Barnes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Laforge who have one of the most attractive cottages on the West Bluff.

Georgette Burrows, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Burrows, has as her guest for 10 days Miss Nancy Hawthorn of Chicago, who is a classmate at Kemper Hall, Kenosha, Wis. Georgette, who has shown a marked talent for painting and design, is concentrating on painting roses, which are her favorite flowers. Incidentally, the beautiful garden of the Burowses is now a pink and blue garden and lovely to behold. Phlox, delphinium, and larkspur are adding their gay color to the foliage.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lanahan are at the Grand hotel for 10 days and are seeing a good deal of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hodgkinson. Mr. Hodgkinson is now commuting between Chicago and the island and had to stand almost all the way from Chicago his last trip up. But he reported that it was an interesting experience because so much always happens in a day coach."

Dr. and Mrs. John Favill, and their daughter, Barbara, of Winnetka, who are spending three weeks at the Grand, were among the guests the James C. Thompsons entertained at cocktails last Saturday in their garden. A number of the younger set attended as the guests of Mrs. Robert B. Smythe. Small Diane Smythe and 18 month old Juliet Dunshee, daughter of Mrs. William Dunshee, were the belles of the afternoon and had a wonderful time with their respective grandfathers, Mr. Thompson and Dr. Selim W. McArthur, paying them great attention.

On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Bruckner and Judge and Mrs. Paul M. Soder gave a cocktail party at the former's cottage, Green Gables. All the Chicago cottagers were present as well as the summer contingent from other cities.

John L. Cochran is expected to return to his cottage on the east bluff this week after several days in the city.

Early Stained Windows

Stained glass windows of the middle ages were made of pieces of different colored glass held together by strips of lead which also became a part of the design.

On the House

By Louise Bargelt

A free booklet which contains some 240 helpful ideas for your kitchen has been compiled by the manufacturers of ranges, stoves, and furnaces. . . . These ideas, gathered from architects, engineers, home decorators, and home economists, are practical guides to assist you in the arrangement of a kitchen which runs smoothly and scientifically and is so bright and attractive that the family drifts toward it on the slightest excuse. . . . Did you know that statisticians have figured that the average woman will spend some 10 years of her life walking around a kitchen? So with this in mind we want our kitchens as practical and pretty as possible. . . . This booklet includes ideas on how to decorate with color, as well as a host of cleaning short cuts in your plans for a new or remodeled kitchen.

Jot this down as news of helpful units which will be ready for your use when the war ends. . . . Two new lamp features, infra-red lamps, which will serve a variety of uses—they will dry your laundry, your hair, your finger nail polish, protect you and your plants from cold air drafts, and on cold mornings warm up the family car's motor.

CAMPUS FASHION CENTER

TO CHOOSE YOUR COLLEGE CLOTHES

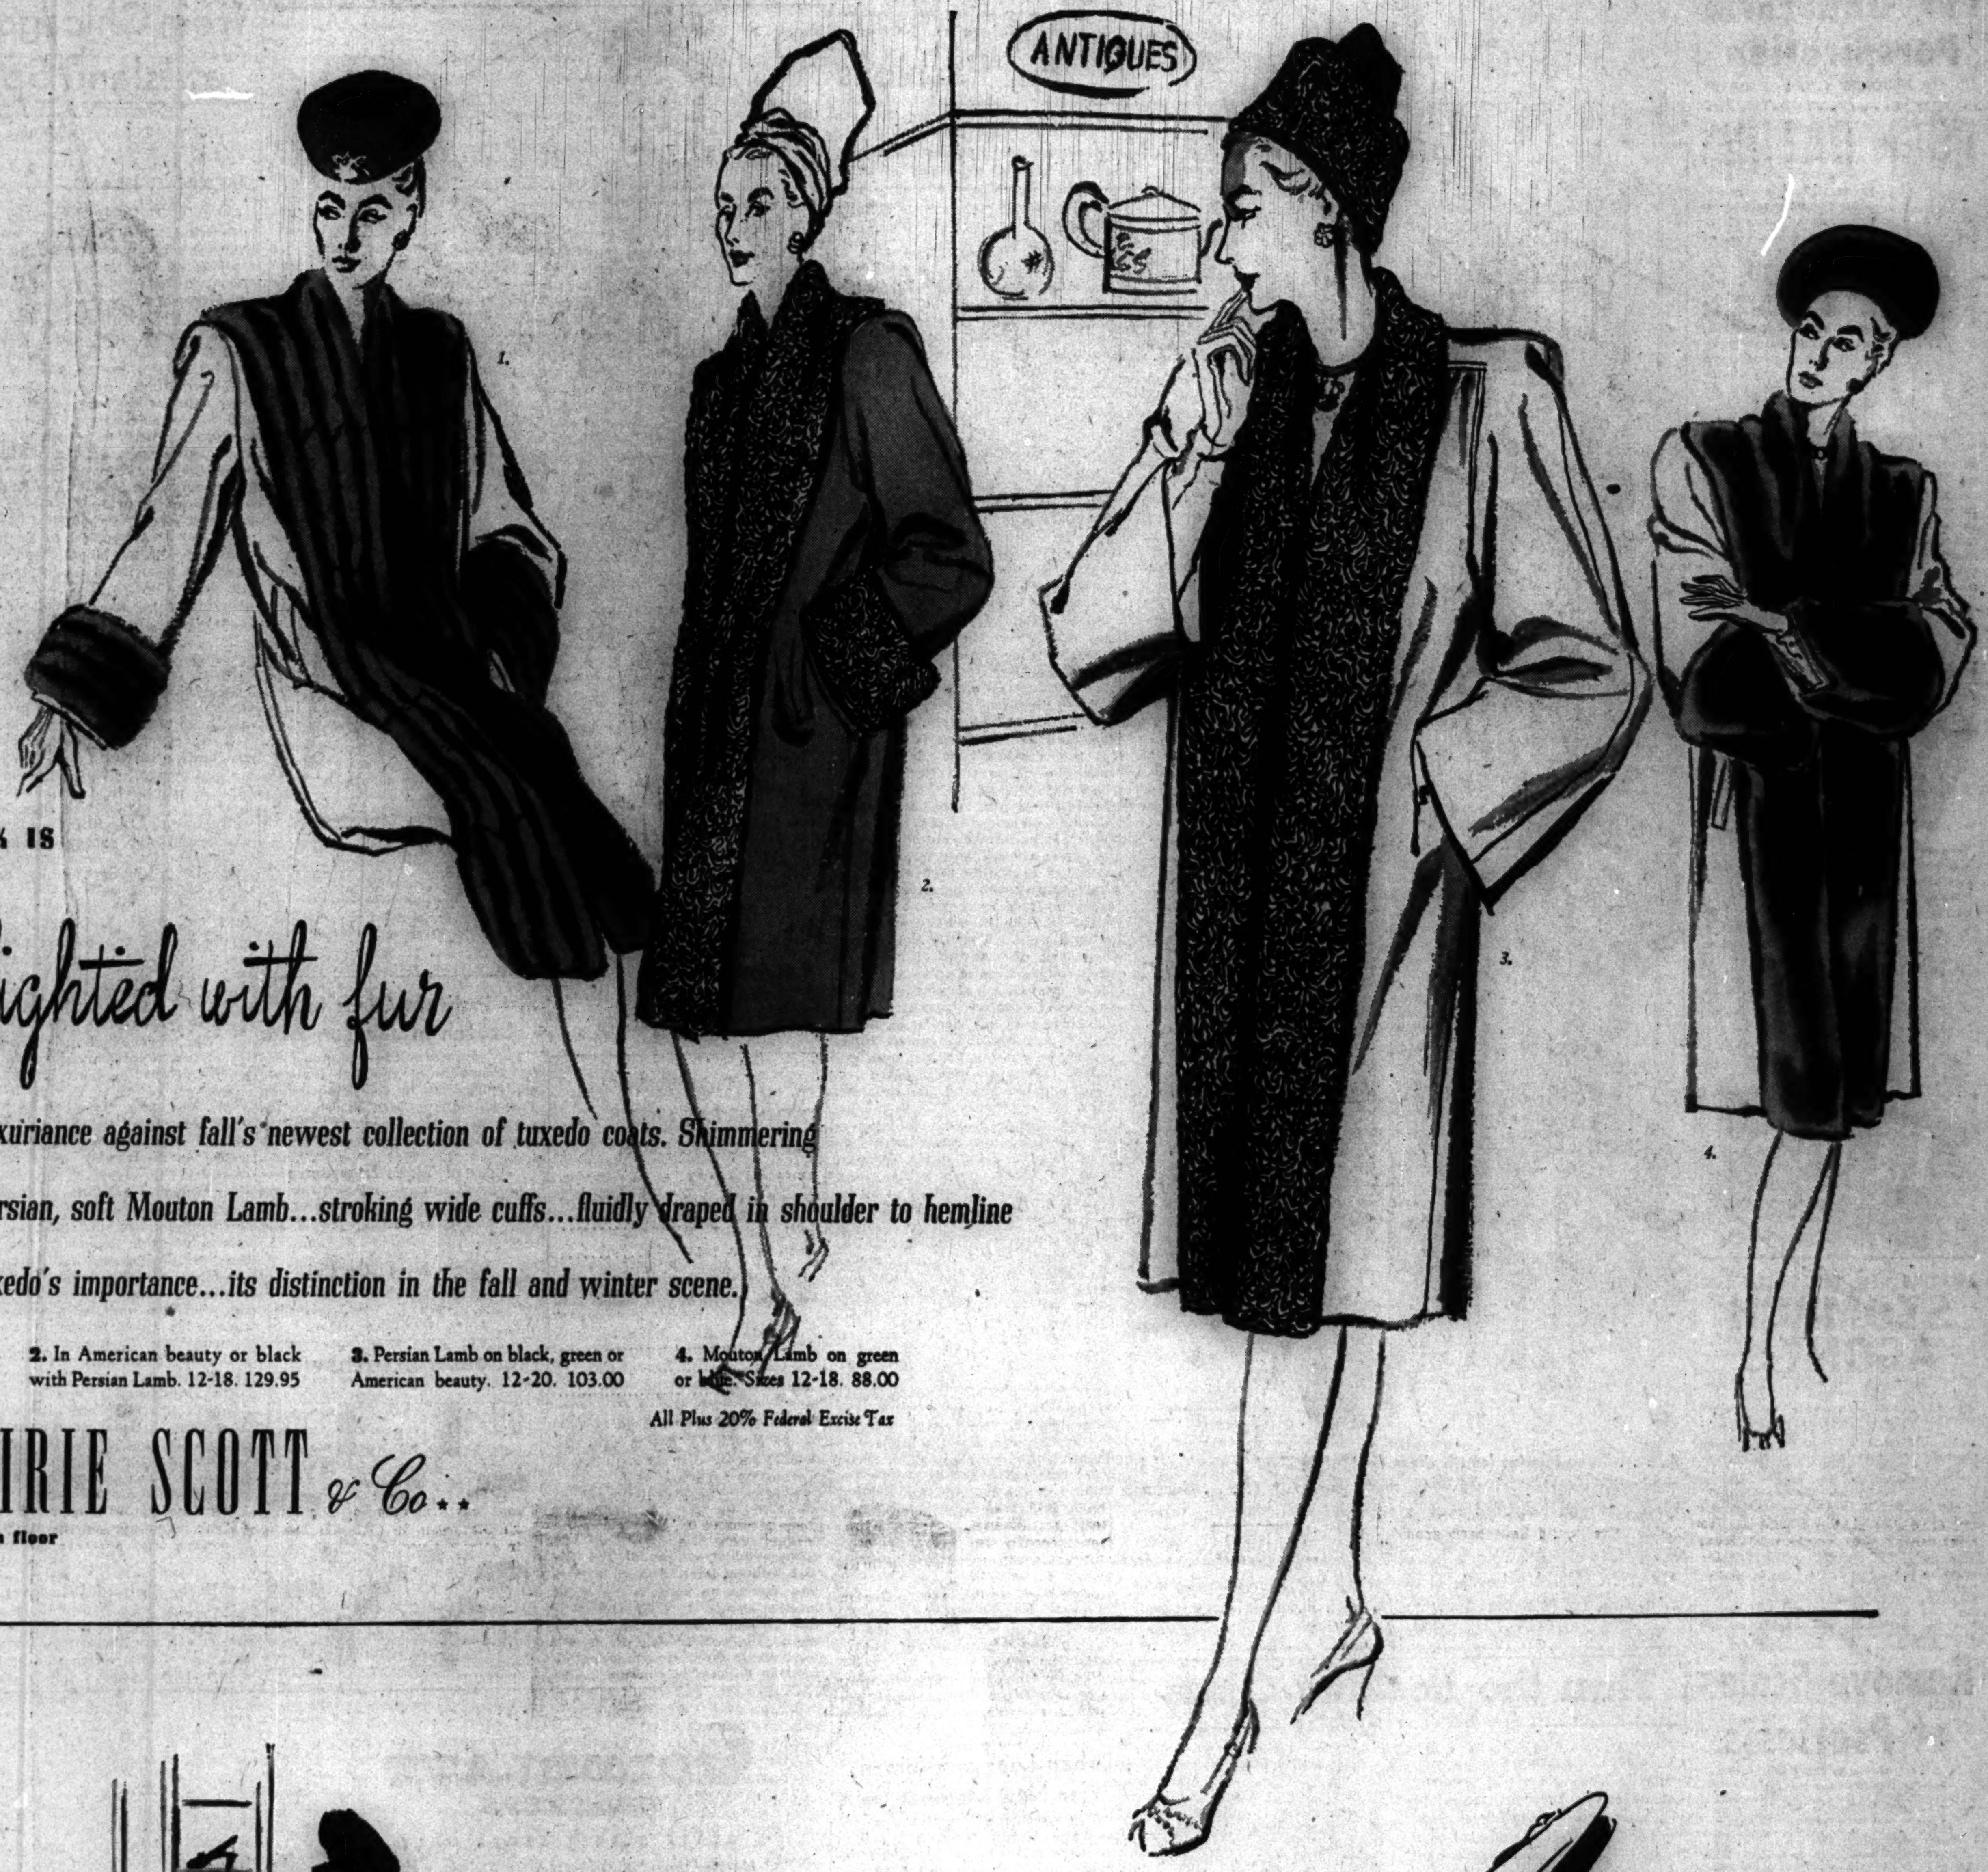
opens tomorrow, third floor, state street store

We, the college advisory board, are ready to discuss your college-bound wardrobe with you, ready to help you choose the clothes that are fun to have, as well as the essentials. We'll show you the brightest congregation of college fashions ever and give you our best assistance whether you're interested in a single frock or a whole tip-to-toe wardrobe.

Meet us tomorrow at Campus Fashion Center, Third Floor

special feature: The first 40 coeds visiting our Campus Fashion Center will be invited, as guests of our counselors, to a preview showing of the 20th Century Fox film "Junior Miss," Tuesday evening, August 21st

Store Hours Monday,
12 Noon to 9 P. M.



THE TUXEDO LOOK IS

Highlighted with fur

Rich furs play their luxuriance against fall's newest collection of tuxedo coats. Shimmering Silver Muskrat and Persian, soft Mouton Lamb...stroking wide cuffs...fluidly draped in shoulder to hemline panels. Insuring the tuxedo's importance...its distinction in the fall and winter scene.

1. Silver Muskrat on black, green or teal wool. 12-20. 107.00

2. In American beauty or black with Persian Lamb. 12-18. 129.95

3. Persian Lamb on black, green or American beauty. 12-20. 103.00

4. Mouton Lamb on green or blue. Sizes 12-18. 88.00

SETS YOUR FALL FASHION PACE

Black Suede

...with new silhouettes that put your pretty feet in the high fashion league. Baring them to the spice and oo-la-la of the "Naked Genius" sandal, or swathing them with the sweater-cling of the surplice pump. But what's really fun, if you're really young, is the little dancing school pump with the low wedge.
